INTRODUCING THE CAVALETTE

We hope you enjoy the first edition of the HIGHLAND CAVALETTE. The purpose of the Cavalette will be to supplement the news-gathering power of the Highland Cavalier. In addition, we will publish pictures, humor, and feature articles which we hope will prove to be of interest to our readers.

SEAOfficers Attend Convention

On Thursday afternoon, October 18, the representatives from C.V.C.'s chapter of the Student Education Association left for the annual Student Virginia Education Association Convention. This year the convention was held at Madison College in Harrisonburg. The delegates: President, Suzanne Layton; Vice President, JoAnn Bolling; Secretary-treasurer, Eleanor Morris; and freshman representative, Dorothy Fowler were accompanied by their advisor, Mr. Ernest. Another student, Mike Clemmer, helped represent Clinch Valley at the convention.

West Wins Flag Football

The athletic program at Clinch Valley College is divided into the varsity and intramural activities. There was only one varsity game in October. The Clinch Valley wrestling team went to Milligan on October 20. They lost 27-19.

In the intramural activities, the annual Freshman vs. Sophomore game in pushball was held first. The Sophomores won 3-2. The next event was volleyball for both the girls and boys. The East team won the volleyball championship for the boys while the Gray won the championship for the girls. The West and South lack one game in order to determine who is in second place. The intramural department tried to set up pushball for the girls. The game was not played since there were not enough girls present to play. Basketball, which was originally scheduled for October 10, was put off til next February. A five-game pushball and a three-game badminton was put in its place. Flag football began on October 18. The West won the first game 26-14. The West won the football championship with the East and South lacking one game to determine second place. The checker tournament begins on October 31.

GROUP TOURS CVC

Several Virginia businessmen and civic leaders recently toured Clinch Valley College. The group is considering the establishment of a similar college in Eastern Virginia. Bardie Wolfe is pictured here with a portion of the group.

Needed: A Sidewalk

The road between Clinch Valley College and the town of Wise has long been problematical to commuting students. An editorial in an earlier edition of the Highland Cavallet pointed out the danger present to students due to the curving, bumpy nature of the surface.

However, this road presents an even greater hazard — to Wise Elementary School students walking along the road in the mornings. The youngsters walk along the road at a time when the bulk of commuting students are enroute to Clinch Valley. Many of them walk in the line of traffic, completely disregarding the rules of safety and common sense.

This highly dangerous situation could be easily corrected. The Highland Cavallet urges that when long overdue repairs on the road are made, a sidewalk be built. The addition of this sidewalk could very possibly save the life of a small child. This fact alone justifies its building.

IT'S A Mad, Mad World!

I have a brother who is so afraid of water that he won't take a bath without Ivory soap.

Did you hear about the chain smoker who smoked two packs of Camel a day? The doctor recommended he start smoking cigarettes right away.

The latest report from a labor magazine shows that the stunt car driving business has the largest turnover of employees than any other business.

Then there's the bubble gum manufacturer who committed suicide. He blew his brains out.

A Mississippi student recently dropped out of Clinch Valley because the school was teaching Integrated Algebra.

My definition of a sky-diver: A person who jumps to a hasty conclusion.

And speaking of sky-divers, two of them recently dropped-out of the club because of bad parachutes.

One of the chemistry students swallowed a thistle tube in the lab and now he can't breathe without this-tling.

I have a friend who is so stupid that when the Army gave him a choice of MP position, he applied for a court marshall.
