A Freshman And Afraid

This young man (or woman) is very much like you. You've just arrived here, and you're probably a little bit worried. You're not alone. I was also a Freshman. You've probably heard that Freshmen are afraid.

That's true. We're afraid of getting lost in the new environment, of meeting strangers, of doing things that will embarrass us, of being made fun of, of getting sick, of the unknown.

But let's face it, we're all a little afraid. And that's okay. It's part of life. We're all afraid of something.

So don't worry too much. Just take it one day at a time. And remember, you're not alone. We're all here for the same reason, to learn, to grow, to have fun.

How Are You Feeling?

How are you feeling? It's a simple question, but it's one that we often neglect to ask ourselves. We spend so much time thinking about other people and what they're feeling, that we forget to ask ourselves.

But it's important. How we feel affects everything we do. It affects our relationships, our work, our study, our hobbies, our interests.

And then try to figure out why. Is there something specific that's making me feel that way? Or is it a general feeling of unease?

Once you've identified the source of your feelings, you can start to work on changing them. Maybe you need to talk to someone, or take a break, or do something you enjoy.

Remember, it's okay to feel. It's a part of life. And it's a part of being human.
New Science and Engineering Building Planned for Clinch Valley College

This recent aerial view of the expanding campus of the University of Virginia's Clinic Valley College, at Wise, shows (white outline) the design and location of the new $650,000 science and engineering building for which money has been appropriated by the General Assembly. Construction bids will be invited this fall, and the building is expected to be finished in 1965.

Major grading of the 16-acre campus is now complete, and landscaping is continuing.

From left to right are the $500,000 gymnasium-auditorium, opened in 1963, the girls' dormitory; and the $600,000 main academic building, first occupied in 1959. At right is the first college building (converted from a home for indigents in 1959), and now a boys' dormitory and scientific laboratory.

Clinch Valley College enrollment has already exceeded 350 this year, and almost 300 additional students will use the same facilities for evening courses offered by the College and by the University's extension service, the School of General Studies.

Sophomores Defeat Freshmen

The sophomore boys scored a 4 to 2 come-from-behind victory over the freshmen boys in the annual Pushball Game. The first quarter of the game was scoreless. However, the freshmen came on strong in the second quarter and scored two goals while holding the sophomores 2 to 0 at halftime. In the second half, the sophomores came back strong. They scored three goals on the freshmen in the third quarter. One of the sophomores' goals took just 30 seconds. The sophomore's goals took just 30 seconds.

Twenty-three Students Visit Barter Theatre

Twenty-three students from Clinch Valley College attended the Barter Theatre on Thursday night, September 19. One of Tennessee Williams plays "The Milk Train Doesn't Stop Here Anymore" was enjoyed by everyone. Mr. John MacKenne, an English professor, accompanied the group. After a two hour drive, the bus load of students arrived at the theatre. This was a memorable occasion for those students attending the Barter for the first time. The final curtain of the three-act play fell at eleven o'clock to a thunderous roar of applause from the audience. The C.V.C. students then boarded the bus for the trip home. After stopping for refreshments at Winner's, the weary group finally arrived back at school at two o'clock.
