Circle K Awarded Honor Medal
Circle K International, one of several service organizations on the CVC campus, received its annual Honor Medal for its college campus chapter this year. In the past, the Honor Medal has included a trip to Washington, D.C. to be presented with the medal. This year Circle K International has been honored by the Freedom Foundation. Circle K is working on service projects on the campus and is working on a project that is a speller bee or spelling bee.

Dear Editor:

Completion of this tremendous project is very near, and I am writing to the students of the University of Virginia about this matter. As you are aware, the construction of the new library is proceeding at a rapid pace, and it is expected to be completed within the next two months.

It is important that the students of the University of Virginia contribute to the completion of this project by making a small donation. The cost of the project is estimated to be $10 million, and the University is seeking support from the student body to meet this goal.

I believe that the students of the University of Virginia have a duty to contribute to the completion of this project. This library will be a valuable resource for future generations, and it will provide a place for students to study and learn.

I urge all students to consider making a donation to the library project. Any amount, no matter how small, will be greatly appreciated. Together, we can make a difference in the future of this University.

Sincerely,
