CVC Announces China Day

On Wednesday, 3 December, Clinch Valley College will hold its first 'China Day'. For those who do not know what a China Day is, it is enough to say that China Day is an attempt by friends of China to promote an attitude of friendship and understanding towards the great People's Republic of China. The program starts at 1:30 p.m. with a slide lecture presented by Ms. Bingham Graves who has made several Felix Greene films on China in general as well as the subject of acupuncture and life on a people's commune. On the previous evening (Tuesday, 2 Dec. at 7:00 p.m.), Ms. Graves will present a lecture to the gerontology class on the subject of ageing in modern China. In addition, students from the history department will be around to answer questions concerning the People's Republic. And even though the plans for a massive rally of 300,000 oppressed workers in the lower parking lot have fallen through it is still hoped that many students will participate in China Day.

Examination Schedule

Note: For an instructor to change the time of an examination in an individual class, it is required that he secure the recommendation of the chairman of the department in which the course is located, and the approval of the Dean. Similarly, for a student, to change the time of an examination from that which is scheduled, he must have the recommendations of the instructor in the course and the chairman of the department of the course, and the approval of the Dean.

All requests must be made in writing with reason given for the request.

Unofficial Minutes Of SGA November 25

S.G.A. members present: Jasper Reynolds, Andy Kersey, Eddie Lindsay, Mike Shupe, Edward Merritt, Howie Boggs, Gwen Roeger, Tony Pyanos, Lennie Goldman, Fred McClellan (Business Manager).

Non-members present: Darlena Sproles, Ed Ruppe, Ben Rasic, Sandra Cannaday, Lee Lanningham, Paul Grinstead, Jim Stillner.

The meeting was never officially opened due to the fact that a quorum was not present (two thirds of the membership, which is sixteen, must be present before business can be conducted.) Lee Lanningham and Paul Grinstead, officers of Phi Beta Lambda, were present to discuss the pooling of their funds with the S.G.A. in order to put on the Homecoming Dance. It was decided that committees from the S.G.A. and Phi Beta Lambda would meet to coordinate the effort. Ed Merritt's proposal, buying a stereo for the cafeteria with SGA funds, was brought up and it was decided to have the information furnished at the next meeting regarding the price.

Spring 1976 Registration Plans Announced

The Fall Semester is fast approaching its conclusion and it is time to prepare for a fresh new start next semester. The schedule of classes for the Spring Semester is being printed and will be available to all students from the Registrar's Office, any faculty secretary's office, or the office of the College Receptionist on or about Monday, December 1. All courses will be listed alphabetically and detailed information as to room assignments, prerequisites, instructors, etc., will be included.

We will again prepare individual student schedules before the end of the current semester. Students should meet with their advisors and plan their Spring schedules according to the following times:

Friday, December 5 (students having earned over 54 semester hours)

Monday, December 8

Wednesday, December 10

Once the student has completed the necessary forms and submitted them to the Registrar's Office, the student's name is on the rolls of the requested classes and will remain there until a change card is submitted or the student falls to pay his fees on time. Those students completing schedules before the end of this semester will only need to pay fees to complete the registration process. An appointment schedule for the payment of fees has been prepared based on the student's last name. All students are urged to follow the schedule as this should reduce the time in the pay line to a maximum of 15 minutes. The scheduled times are as follows:

LAST NAME	TIME
A-Bel	9:00-9:30
Bel-Bro	9:30-10:00

Concert Sunday At Norton Methodist Church

Sunday, December 7, 1975, the Bristol Concert Choir, a 50-voice "semi-professional" chorus, will present "Messiah" at 4 p.m. in the Norton Methodist Church.

"Messiah" is an oratorio by George Frederick Handel, with words selected from Holy Scriptures by Charles Jennings. Composition began August 22, 1741, and ended with the filling in of the instrumentation on September 14. This great inspirational work was ready in 24 days.

The Bristol Concert Choir is made up of people from the Bristol area and surrounding communities, who enjoy performing serious choral works as well as occasional "pops".

Charles R. Davis, the conductor, is chairman of the Music Department at Emory and Henry College, and will be remembered for his appearance with the Emory and Henry Concert Choir last year.

Stephen Hamilton, organist-accompanist, is Professor of Organ at Virginia Intermont College. Diederé Davis, harpist-accompanist, formerly of the music faculty at Clinch Valley College, is Dr. Davis' wife.

Soloists will be: Sopranos-Evelyn Thomas, Dodie Russell, Jewel Parke, Mezzo-Soprano-Pat Lawton. Contralto-Daphne McCord. Tenor-Mike Austin. Baritone-Ed Damer. Bass-Warren Fuson.

This concert is sponsored by the Gladeville Council of the Performing Arts. Season tickets are still available, and are a bargain. A family season ticket will admit a family of four to the remaining 5 concerts and costs $12.00. The cost at the door would total $15.00 for 2 adults and 2 students. Tickets will be sold at the door, or may be purchased from Council members and at the CVC library.

Society . . .

Recently the rumor has been circulating among polite circles that Mr. Creig Claiborne, New York Times gourmet specialist, dined at Southwest Virginia's only four star Michelin restaurant, The Jefferson Lounge. One observer who thought she recognized him saw Mr. Claiborne pursue the cardboard sign decer and finally step into the noisy line. After standing in the same line for hours he was heard muttering "Boy, this sure isn't Paris."

Special of the day on The Lounge menu was Mystery Meat a la C.V.C., smothered until smashed peas, Salt Peter Potatoes, and Oatmeal Cake with Flytrack Icing. When ordering his cup of hot tea with lemon, Mr. Claiborne was informed that the slice would be one cent extra. Just then however, a young frenchman walked off with lemon and lemon without paying the extra one cent.

"How come he didn't pay?" Claiborne inquired.
"Part of the cost," the waitress replied.
"What about cream in coffee-is that extra?" Claiborne asked.
"Nope-just lemon in hot tea."
"I'd like to speak to the head manager please," demanded Claiborne.

"Sorry, she left a week early for Thanksgiving vacation."
"I'm going to report this place to the Bureau of Equal Opportunity for discrimination against hot tea drinkers," Claiborne muttered as he walked away.

"I can't imagine how this place got a Michelin rating anyway," Claiborne said at the table. "Someone must have been eating a cheese steak and said 'This is pure Michelin rubber!'"
The Michelin rating is gone to say the least, but I hear the Jefferson Lounge is still on the Purina List anyway.

There are exactly 14 studying days left in the semester. Time to catch up!

Education Students Urged To Consider Metric Course

This spring a course in the Metric System is being offered specifically for the benefit of prospective teachers.

"All teachers are going to have to learn about metrics in the near future," said Dr. William Hooper recently. The State Board of Education adopted a resolution in 1974 stating that the objective of the State Department of Education is that by 1980 all students be able to demonstrate the proper use of the units of measure in the metric system. Referring to this solution, Hooper noted:

"The State Board's committee on the Metric System recommended that all prospective teachers training in Virginia's colleges be provided in college with background needed to teach the metric system. Furthermore, they recommended that approval of education programs and perhaps teacher certification should be contingent upon evidence that the metric system has been taught at the college level." The State Board has not made these recommendations into formal requirements, yet, Hooper said, but that may be expected in the near future.

The Metric System course will be offered at 9:40 a.m. Wednesdays and Fridays (Block 11) for the first eight weeks of the semester. It carries one credit and is listed as Physical Science 200. It will concentrate on "hands-on" measurement with common measuring devices. "One of my goals in the course, Hooper said, is to get the prospective teachers in the class to be comfortable enough with metrics that they can teach it easily, concentrating on their teaching instead of worrying about the content."

The course is not just for teachers but for anyone who wishes to prepare themselves for the pending conversion to the metric system in the U.S. "Many people", especially teachers, will probably be required to have some training in metrics in the near future," Hooper concluded, "they'll have to pay for it later, but now they have a chance to get it free as part of their regular full-time course load."

Faculty Takes Lead In Intramural Volleyball

Two undefeated teams faced each other last Tuesday night as the faculty squared off against the Bullets. The faculty came away with the winning title by beating the Bullets 15-1 in the first game and then barely squeezing by with a 17-15 score in the second game.

A game saving shot by Dr. Van Daniel enabled the faculty to win the second game after being down 14-15. Then three straight points behind Mike O'Donnells serves ended the contest in the faculty's favor. The Bullets slipped to a 3-1 score and are now in a second place tie with the Pussy Cats.

Play resumes tonight (Monday) at 9:00 p.m. Everyone come and watch!

RED CLAY RAMBLERS TO GIVE CLINCH VALLEY COLLEGE CONCERT

On Monday December 8, Clinch Valley's campus will resound with some of the finest folk music in the land. That's the old time, mainlinin' traditional music-of-the-people type folk music, you should recall, not the flashy ladder-of-success-climbing music of Greenwich Village origins.

The repertoire of the Red Clay Ramblers spans a range of ballads, hymns, 1920s Southern band music, early bluegrass, highland string band style, blues, and ragtime. Although the group's music is unabashedly historical, their presentation is fresh and appealing to contemporary audiences. They are authentic without being academic. When the continuity of a tradition is felt in the soul, the result can hardly be mistaken for imitation of the past.

The Ramblers have appeared at various places and events all over the Eastern United States, including the Cumberland Gap Jubilee. They started playing music as a group back in 1972 around the Durham-Chapel Hill area of North Carolina, which, while outside of the Appalachians, seems to maintain a sharp and accurate focus on mountain music.

The Red Clay Ramblers include: Mike Craver, piano and guitar; Bill Hicks, playing fiddle (formerly with Fuzzy Mountain String Band); Tommy Thompson, banjo (an original Hollow Rock String Band member); and Jim Watson, who plays mandolin, autoharp and guitar.

For most of 1975, the Red Clay Ramblers have been singing, acting, and playing music in an off-Broadway show called "Diamond Studs", a saloon musical about Jesse-James. Critical accolades have been piling up. The New York Times offered, "Authentic almost to the point of musicology the music is super." While Newsweek cited the play's music as "a country score of splendid classics."

As for the Ramblers themselves, they are a "group - or better, a group of groups - that combines an interest in Appalachian fiddle tunes with a more informal good timey inquisitiveness" (Old Time Music magazine). Sing Out magazine claims that "the young Durham-based musicians might be the New South's contribution to revitalizing its own traditions".

Why don't you see, and listen, for yourself. on December 8 ? Watch for posters concerning particulars, or go and meet John McCutcheon, if you haven't already, and ask him about tickets for the Red Clay Ramblers.
