

Highland Players Present "Street Car Named Desire"

"Streetcar" cast prepares for opening night October 5.

At 8:00 p.m. on October 5, the curtain will go up at the Clinch Valley College Theatre on "A Streetcar Named Desire" - Tennessee Williams' powerful and poignant story of Blanche Dubois, the would-be southern belle who flees the decadent embrace of a bankrupt Mississippi plantation - only to become ensnared in the sordid refuge of a working class quarter of New Orleans.

Frankie Zickafoose, a fourth year theatre major and multi-talented leading lady of numerous Highland Player productions, will portray Blanche. Playing opposite her will be Chester Wampler, as Stanley Kowalski, the wholesomely brutish brother-in-law, and Mary Banner, as Stella - Kowalski, Blanche's practical take-it-as-you-find-it younger sister.

Harold Mitchell, the naive young man who becomes involved in a fleetingly desperate love affair with Blanche, will be played by Charles Engle, a very talented newcomer to theatre at CVC.

Rounding out the cast will be Vicki Milliken and Rick Hutzell as the lovingly quarrelsome couple who live upstairs. John Taylor as one of the poker players, William Price as the young newspaper boy, Kathy Andersen as the Mexican flower vendor, and two members of the CVC faculty - William Hooper and Rosemary Mercure as the doctor and nurse.

The production - staged and directed by C.W. Lewis - will open on Tuesday, October 5, and run through Sunday, October 10. The price of admission is $2.00; curtain: 8:00 p.m. Although tickets may be picked up at the door, because of the popularity of "Streetcar" and the limited seating capacity of the CVC theatre, it is recommended that reservations be made by those planning to attend the weekend performances. These may be secured by calling 328-8159.

Saturday Last Day To Register To Vote

Saturday, October 2, 1976 is the last day to register to vote in the 1976 Presidential, Senatorial and congress - race. Any student living in Wise County or on the campus of Clinch Valley College can register to vote by going to the Court House on Main Street Wise and register to vote. It will take only 10 minutes of your time. Any students who has registered to vote in any other state or county in Virginia may transfer their vote here. October 2 is the last day to register or transfer.

Above all, voting means that you are a free citizen with the same rights as other citizens. After you have registered and cast your vote for the persons you want elected to office, you know you are an American doing what other free Americans do. You can be proud of yourself and your nation. It is not only your right vote, but your duty as a citizen.

Your votes gives you a voice in determining:

--the kind of treatment you receive at the hands of police

--the kind of justice you get in the courts

--the kind of hospital treatment you get when you are sick

--the kind of job you get in your city, county, state or nation

--how much taxes you have to pay and how much of your tax money spent and for what.

4:30 P.M. Saturday is the last day to register at the Court House.

Brenda Ely

CVC Student Wins State Award

Miss Brenda Ely, a senior at Clinch Valley College, Wise, Virginia, has been notified that she is the 1976-77 winner for the State of Virginia of an annual scholarship awarded each year by the Southern Business Education Association. The scholarship is based upon academic achievement, leadership, and potential success in the business education field.

Miss Ely is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Ely, Route 2, Pennington Gap, Virginia. She was a 1974 graduate of Dryden High School, Dryden, Virginia.

The names of the scholarship winners will be announced at the Southern Business Education Association Convention in Miami during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Rutland Opens Eisenberg Lecture Series

Dr. Robert A. Rutland, Professor of Humanistic Sources at the University of Virginia, will deliver the first Ralph Eisenberg Lecture of the 1976-77 series at Clinch Valley College.

He received the B.A. degree at the University of Oklahoma, the M.A. at Cornell University, and the Ph.D. at Vanderbilt University. He has served as a reporter for the United Press; as research associate for the State Historical Society of Iowa; as a member of the faculty of the UCLA Journalism Department; as Fulbright professor at the University of Innsbruck, Austria in 1960-61; and as Coordinator of Bicentennial Programs for the Library of Congress. He has been professor and editor of the James Madison papers at the University of Virginia since 1971 and has written several books on the Bill of Rights, the Constitution, George Mason, and on James Madison.

Dr. Rutland's lecture will be at 11:30 a.m. on Tuesday, October 5, in the Administration Building Lecture Hall at CVC. His topic will be "The Virginian Contribution to the American Revolution -- A Look at the Galaxy." The public is welcome to attend.

Josten's School Rings: 5% Discount To CVC Students

On Wednesday, October 6, CVC will hold its fall Ring Day. A representative from Josten's will be here from 11:00 am until 3:00 p.m. to show you a variety of ring styles and to take your order for your class ring.

This fall Josten's is offering CVC students a special bonus. If you order your ring now, Josten's will lower the price by a full five percent. CVC students are urged to order their rings now because Josten's has stated that the price will rise in the spring due to an expected increase in the price of gold.

So, remember order your school ring Wednesday, October 6, from 11-3 in front of the Highland Cavalier office and take advantage of the special discount being offered to CVC students.

Editorial

What About the Debates?

The experts are rushing around now with their polls and news analysis deciding who won the debates of last Thursday. Some are giving Ford the edge; if 34 percent of anything can be called an edge. In a telephone poll 34 percent gave the debate to Ford, 31.8 percent gave Carter the edge and 33.8 percent called it a draw. The Republicans are giving the debate to Ford and Democrats give it to Carter, all as expected. Most people I know tend to call it a draw.

When there is no contest how can a winner be chosen? There was no real contest last Thursday. Each play made by the candidates was nothing more than a polished rerun of what they had been saying for weeks. The only difference between Thursday night and the many campaign speeches made was their presence side by side on the same stage. In essence last Thursday's debate was nothing more than a glorified press conference. To correct this air of sterility two alterations could be made. The candidates should be allowed to question each other and have more direct interchange. That should bring out a little fire. Secondly, an opening statement would allow the candidate to set down his views on the subject and what points he would like to touch on during the night.

The debate itself with its blizzard of statistics left me more than a little stunned. Many of the statistics used by Ford and Carter seemed contradictory. However the statistics used by both were basically right, it was the wording used that seemed to change the meaning. Something to watch for on Oct. 6.

Carter started out weak, looking nervous and uneasy. However as the night wore on he warmed up making the closing statement Carter's most effective moment. He also scored well when he called Ford's administration a "government of stalemate." Noting that Nixon and Eisenhower passed 65-70 percent of the legislation coming from the Democrat controlled Congress. President Ford has passed only 26 percent of the legislation coming from the House.

On the other hand, President Ford seemed to be poised and in control of the situation from the start. He scored points when he noted that the tax law Carter had called a "disgrace to the human race," had been originated and passed by a Congress controlled by the Democrats for the past 22 years. He also noted that when Jimmy Carter reorganized the Georgia state government, state expenditures rose 50 percent and the number of state employees rose 15 percent. Carter has pledged to reorganize the Federal government if elected.

Most commentators, political scientists and the like have noted that this campaign is not issue oriented. Debates of this sort depend more on style than issues in any case, not making matters any better. Which brings a question to mind. Are the debates beneficial, or are they leading us to a dangerous tendency to choose our leaders on the basis of personality? It is a well known fact that the 1960 debates helped Kennedy enormously in the election. He won them mainly with his style and delivery. Howard K. Smith, ABC news anchorman, had listened to the 1960 debates and had given Nixon the edge. After seeing a video playback he reversed his decision. Will we begin to choose our leaders on the basis of personality and style, leaving the issues as a background. Is that now how the Mussolinis and Hitlers gain and retain power; through the use of magnetic personalities?

Cross-Country Cyclist Visits CVC . . . Leaves Message

On July 10, John Ludway, a 21 year old student left Astoria, Oregon with a Bikecentennial group of 8. Their destination was Williamsburg, Va. This week John passed by C.V.C. on his way across Virginia. The following are his impressions of C.V.C. and of us.

"After being on the road for more than two months, and during that time camping out most evenings, one looks forward to a roof over one's head and a warm place to stay. That's how I felt when I saw the sign off Rt. 23 pointing toward Clinch Valley College. I had never heard of your college before, and was only heading toward Wise because it appeared to be a broader spot in the road than most of the other towns within my cycling range, that rainy afternoon.

Having stayed in other colleges on my trip (Oregon State - Corvallis, Oregon University of Kansas at Pittsburg, Kansas and Berea College, Berea, Kentucky) I knew they usually lent themselves to travelers with an open door. The trouble lay in finding the right door. After following college signs through town, I stopped at a Jim's Minute-Mart to ask directions. Before even entering the building, I was met by Charlie Brown and Bill Annan, who asked where I had been and where I was headed. When Bill discovered I was looking for a place to stay for the night, hopefully in the college, he volunteered space in his room in Crockett Hall, and directed me through the dark with his car onto campus. Once inside, I was met by other interested and friendly students, handed a bottle of beer, and given the use of a hotplate on which to cook my supper. The change from the uncertainty of that Monday evenings accommodations, to such security and friendliness, was surprising, but very appreciated. After staying on your campus for 2 1/2 days, I have met many people and seen many of the facilities you possess. Bill Annan and George Perish of Crockett Hall were especially cordial to me, Bill even taking me to his home for a superb lunch made by his mom. I also got a chance during my stay to see much of your campus, and was interested to the point of possibly becoming a student here myself. Your library, for a small college is very diversified in its literary matter and facilities. Although I couldn't find a copy of the Cleveland Plain Dealer to read, I saw much that interested me. I also visited your theater and cafeteria, and got a chance to walk around some of the classrooms. My whole summer since July 10th has been directed toward the east coast, the end of Bikecentennial's Trans-American trail, and Williamsburg, Va. in particular. I also hope to ride to Philadelphia and across Pennsylvania to Ohio, but my first main goal has been, and still is Williamsburg. Since I am so close to that destination after months of travel, I am hesitant to tarry here very long, and anxious to get back on the road toward home. I am indebted to the college and very grateful for the generosity and friendliness of the students I have met here and hope one day to return and renew these acquaintances.

Pow! Wham! Zap!

Remember when you used to watch Superman every day at 4:30 and afterwards you would wrap a blanket around your shoulders and leap off the front porch yelling "Up, up, and away!"? Remember paying 10c for a "Tarzan" comic book? Remember reading Rin Tin Tin and Rusty; or Casper and Nightmare; or The Golden-Haired Giant? Well, come take a walk down Memory Lane and view Carlene Rose's

Classic Comic Books now on display at the John Cook Wylie Library. Carlene Rose, a CVC student from Clintwood, began collecting comic books six years ago when a friend gave her several comics. Carlene believes comics are for everybody, not just for kids. She says she prefers the comics of yesteryear because they let her relax, laugh, and go back to her childhood when days were simpler. Her favorite comic book is the 1944 version of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. This early version follows the same general story line of later versions, but the dialogue is different. Another favorite of Carlene's is the Tinderbox. As you may have guessed, Carlene prefers the fantasy world of the fairytale to that of burlesque or adventure comics.

Success Story

On Friday, September 24, the John Cook Wylie Library received its first issue of the Virginian-Pilot, a local Virginia Beach newspaper. We subscribed to the Pilot after several students suggested it. We receive the paper two days after it's published; in other words, we get Wednesday's paper on Friday. But, Jerri says that it's better than waiting a week to call home to get the football scores. It pays to make suggestions!

An Old Way For A New High

Attention all beats, and others. In a month or two we are expecting to get in a couple pounds of Jimson Weed. Though not the same crop that awaited Capt. John (Oswley) Smith on the shores of the New World, our batch is guaranteed to get just as high, if not higher. It's only fifty cents a hit, so don't delay - order yours today! Write: Jimson Weed, Box 488, CVC. For one dollar you can get both the fall and spring harvests. Or, you can plant your own seeds by sending poetry, short stories, drawings, or black and white photographs to the same address. Do some Jimson Weed this year, it's organic!

The suggestion blanks are kept on a small table beside the Author Catalog along with a pencil and our Suggestion Box. Every day we check the box, note any suggestions made, and decide what action need to be taken. Because suggestions have made us aware of student needs and interests, we have subscribed to Quest, a feminist quarterly; subscribed to Mother Earth News; updated our telephone directories; enlarged our library map; and adjusted the thermostat so it won't get too cold in the library to study.

Do you have a suggestion? Then fill out the blank and put it in our Suggestion Box. It won't hurt and it might help -- YOU!

Mahony To Speak At Darden Lecture

The second lecturer in the Clinch Valley College Darden Lecture Series will be Jack Mahony of the CVC faculty. Mr. Mahony will speak on Tuesday, October 5, 1976 at 7:30 p.m. in the Administration Building - Room A 100. The college community and the public are cordially invited to attend this lecture.

Phi Sigma Kappa's Formal Rush Is Happening NOW, Why Not Come And Join Us?

One might ask of one's self -- why should I join Phi Sig? Here are a number of good reasons why. Phi Sigma Kappa is Clinch Valley's one and only national social fraternity. Phi Sig offers a vast number of the social functions on campus such as the Fall Beer Blast, the Halloween Masquerade Dance, Disco Dances, Holly Ball, Spring Formal, etc. In addition to campus functions, there are also various activities at the fraternity house.

Phi Sigma Kappa offers to all of its brothers nationally the Cardinal Principles by which all Phi Sig's abide: Brotherhood, Scholarship, and Character. With Brotherhood, a person has the chance of making lifelong friends. The independent will make friends while at school and then it ends right there. As a brother of a common bond, Phi Sigma Kappa, friendship is lifelong. Friends are made at school and last after graduation through contacts of the Phi Sig Alumni Association. Also, a Phi Sig brother receives for life the Signet, the fraternity's national magazine.

In the Cardinal Principle of Scholarship, the brothers are given an incentive to keep their grades up as the Phi Sigma Kappa Foundation awards $12,000 annually in undergraduate and graduate scholarships. On the local level there is a Scholarship Chairman to help the brothers with grade deficiencies.

The last, but not least Cardinal Principle, Character helps a person who joins Phi Sig be a better person. We take the good and make it better. Out of all taken we strive to make all categories of people into best. When a person pledges to Phi Sigma Kappa, he pledges himself to the sacred honor as is stated throughout the Phi Sig Creed which involves respect for the rights and feelings of others, self-discipline, loyalty, fair play, personal integrity. On campus the fraternity man is expected to set examples for others. This includes good grooming, courtesy to elders, correct manners, and other marks of a gentleman.

Now one may ask -- is it expensive? No! Joining a fraternity is the biggest bargain in the cost of an education, representing less than 2 percent of an average college man's expenses. Here is an analysis of the cost of joining Phi Sig.

Pledgeship --- $20.00 - National Pledge Fee plus $5.00 - Pledge materials equals $25.00 - total cost to pledge. Initiation into membership --- $100.00 plus the cost of fraternity pin ($9.00 up to $41.00)

As a pledge you will be involved in a series of money (cont'd to page 4)

CVC Women's Volleyball Season Opens

The C.V.C. Women's Variety Volleyball team started their fall season Tuesday, Sept. 28 at 7:30 when they scrimmaged Emory. The game was the first of eight regular season games scheduled to be played. The team started off with a win as the trounced Emory.

Coach Doris Kilgore, and all of the girls on the team are looking forward to a good season, with the team composed to twelve members (incidentally the same number as last year, though five of these are freshmen.) That's a good start anyway, since new blood usually livens up the thrill of competition. Team members are as follows:

Seniors: Jill Adams*, Cathy Barnett

Juniors: Donna Carter* Julie Reader

Sophomores: Lennie Goldman, Donna Morgan, Jennifer Yates

Freshmen: Janet Catron, Sue Cox, Lynn Johnson, Linda Walker, Cynthia Young

* designates returning players.

The Volleyball team is as much as part of our athletic department and activities as any other sport, and we should treat it as such. Their wins are our wins, their losses are our losses. Whenever possible, we should be there to share the
