Highland Players To Present "Separate Tables"

The Highland Players of Clinch Valley College and C. W. Lewis will present Terence Rattigan's "Separate Tables" at 8 p.m. April 28 through 30 at the CVC Theatre.

"Separate Tables" was the biggest hit of the 1954-55 London season and later enjoyed considerable success in New York. David Niven, Deborah Kerr, Burt Lancaster and Rita Hayworth starred in the 1958 movie version of the play.

Each of the two plays included in the story is set in the private Hotel Beauregard on the southern coast of England. The manageress, Miss Cooper, played by Terry Colley, involves herself in the lives of all her patrons.

In the first act, entitled "Table by the Window", an eccentric left-wing writer (Rod Kennedy) encounters his lonely ex-wife (Leslie Cunniffe), a model dreading the advance of old age.

"Table Number Seven" focuses on the conflicts between Major Pollock (Mark White), the snobbish old Mrs. Railton-Bell (Kathy Andersen), and her shy, mousy daughter Sybil (Vicki Milliken).

Not to be ignored are the various other residents, each with his own eccentricity. Familiar faces in the cast include Rosemary Mercure, David Mullins, Darrel Turner, Johnnie Shupe, Nancy Slomp, and Cathleen Schwartz. Newcomers Judy Gilieaple, Janey Hensley, and Patty Paine round out this well-seasoned cast.

The script is literate, witty, and at times poignantly comic. Both its contents and its language make it suitable for theatre-goers of all ages. Reservations are encouraged; seats at $2 each may be reserved by calling, 328-2431, ext. 232 during regular business hours.

Newspaper Sabotage Investigation Closes In

By Rick Hutzell

Dean of Students Bonnie Elosser commented to the HIGHLAND CAVALIER that within the next few days the culprits of the newspaper sabotage last week will be identified. Although no names are to be released, details will be made public.

She also said that the investigation is a group effort. Dean Elosser had few other comments for fear of damaging the investigation, or any possible law suit which might result. Sources inside the investigation, who wish to remain anonymous, have commented that provable accusations have led the investigators to suspect a certain group of four students.

The entire group of students is theorized to have planned the sabotage, while only portions of the group may have executed it. Dean Elosser agrees that the action was at least planned by a group of students.

In regard to the source mentioned above the Dean commented that "nobody has the right perspective on this, the newspaper doesn't have the right perspective." She continued "Only two, maybe three people know what's going on."

The sabotage is estimated to have been executed between the hours of 7:00 a.m. and 8:00 a.m. on Thursday. This deduction was made by Security Chief Frank Colyer. The post office doors were locked after Editor David Messer and Assistant Editor Gary Close finished laying out the paper. Both Close and Messer are positive about locking the door. As usual the doors were unlocked at 7:00 a.m. and the newspaper was tampered with before it was picked up for printing at 8:00. In the future, as a precaution, the newspaper will be locked up in the security office until it is picked up.

When the newspaper arrived from the printer Friday, it was handed out by Business Manager Roger Dallman before the illegal second page was noticed. After seeing the remarkable popularity of the paper the sabotage was noticed and a conference was called to determine whether or not to distribute the paper. The inserted second page became common knowledge by 3:00

Friday afternoon.

Thirty employees of Clinch Valley College were included in "La Coup de Grace": along with three other people including one student. Of these only one has threatened suit to Messer: Ms. Peggy Webb. Many of those slanders consider the article more humorous than professionally damaging.

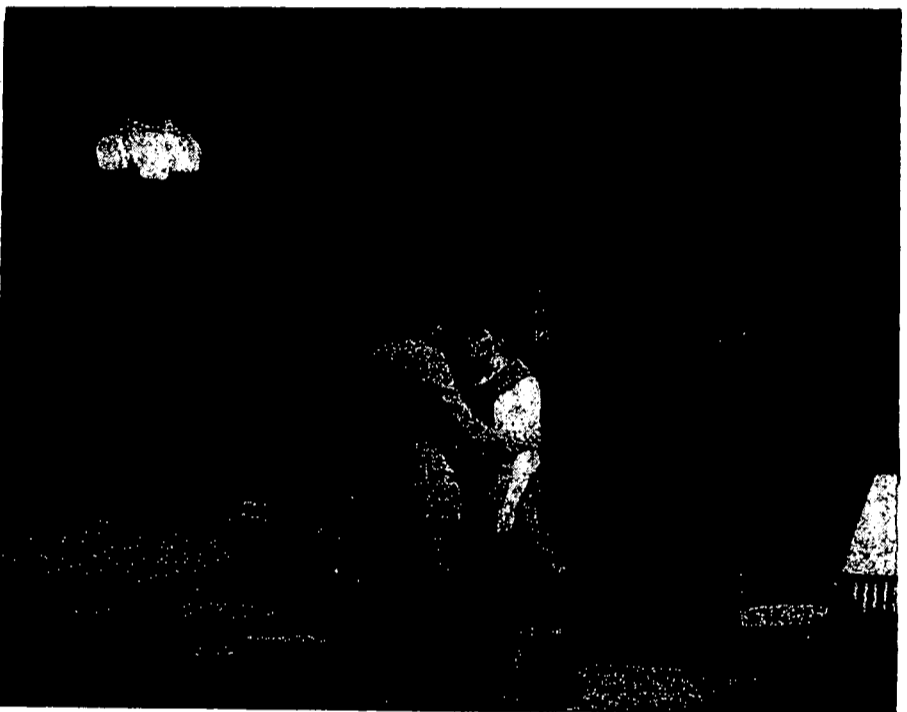

Action to be taken against the group that was behind this deed has not been decided on definitely yet. Dean Elosser said that any one of several options could be used depending on the events of the next few days; court action was one of the options. The State Police has been called in and is collecting evidence. Samples of a handwriting were found and though Dean Elosser would not comment on the value of the sample she did note that the "State Police do have handwriting experts" but would not confirm or deny whether the experts had been called in.

O'Donnell Receives "Outstanding" Award

"Michael Eugene O'Donnell has been selected as an Outstanding Young Man of America for 1978 in recognition of outstanding professional achievement, superior leadership ability, and exceptional service to the community.

The purpose of the Outstanding Young Man of America Awards Program is to honor young men throughout the nation, from all segments of our society, representing a multiplicity of businesses and professions, who efforts are dedicated to enriching the communities in which they live and the professions which they serve."

Pro-Art Sponsors Cloud Traipsin Tales

On Friday, May 5, 1978, at 8:00 p.m. in the Burton High School Auditorium, Pro-Art Association - a chapter of the Virginia Museum of the Fine Arts - will sponsor an Appalachian Folk Tale, "Cloud Traipsin Tales". It will be performed by a cast of four professional actors from Theatre in Education of Norfolk, Virginia. Admission for Pro Art members and all students will be $1.00. It will be $2.00 for non-members and nonstudents.

The Company founded in New York in 1961 has appeared on Broadway, Off-Broadway, made numerous national tours and has appeared on network television.

While the Company believes that children are the best critics, they have not escaped notice from national drama critics. The New York Times writes "Professionalism marks every aspect of their productions". The Ledger-Star of Norfolk, Va. says "It is hard to distinguish which is more remarkable: the show, which they wrote themselves (including the music) or their performance of it". The Virginia-Pilot reported "Charm and vivid spectacle combined to produce an entrancing performance".

Two tales will be dramatized in this production.

"Cloud Traipsin Tales" is a lively comedy drama in two segments the first "The Voice in the Jug", tells how one young lady outsmarts the Devil. The second "Tailor and the Weaver" is the story of two feuding couples who learn that greed does not pay.

Acting, music, dance and mime are an integral part of the performance.

After the show, the actors meet with the audience to answer questions and discuss the performance.

The members of the cast are John Hornaday, Lynn Klausli, Gale Hollinger and Graig Adams.

The production has been staged by John Hornaday and produced by Vera Stilling.

Cheek Upsets Miner

by Gary Ciese

Steve Miner, the only announced candidate for SGA President on election day, suffered a surprising defeat Wednesday by "write-in" candidate Phil Cheek. Of the 349 votes cast, Cheek totaled a clear majority of 202 votes to Miner's 98. Dennis Fritz won the Vice-President's post by a landslide vote of 265 votes to Neal Ward's 81 votes.

The unpredictable election began with a surprise write in campaign by Phil Cheek and the "unknown candidate." "Brewer", whose first name is not known, received one vote, as a write in candidate, and won a seat on the SGA because there were not enough candidates for the three vacant seats. Election surprises may not be over, for the Highland Cavalier has learned that the entire election may not be valid. The election committee, which runs the elections, did not have a quorum when planning the election. Said acting chairperson Carol Flinn, "...we had five at one meeting and two at the other." The election committee is composed of twelve members; seven are needed for a simple majority while eight would be required for a three quarter quorum. Said one member of the committee, "Anyone can call the election invalid..."

Next week the Highland Cavalier will interview both Phil Cheek and Carole Flinn, acting chairperson of the election committee, about the election and Cheek's plans for the coming year.

Elected to the SGA are: Phil Cheek, President; Dennis Fritz, Vice-President; Tim Brooker,

What Do YOU Discuss In YOUR Classes?

A continuing source of aggravation for many students at Clinch Valley is the lack of professionalism with which some teachers are conducting their classes.

Though the lack of professionalism has occurred several times in various ways, it is usually spewed forth in the form of "mini-lectures" in which the professor critiques everyone from fellow faculty members to individual students.

For most of us fortunate enough to be able to plug into the grapevine which sends us these juicy tidbits, these ramblings have been a good source of humor in an atmosphere where often there is not much to laugh about.

This does not mean, however, that I advocate censorship of opinion at Clinch Valley. I feel that all opinions have something to say; this is evident by the publication in the Highland Cavalier of virtually every legitimate letter to the editor.

Especially regrettable is the manner in which this professor chooses to evaluate those around who are thought to be disagreeable. One favorite subject is a former faculty member with whom this professor has frequent personality clashes.

This one faculty member is hardly typical of the faculty at large, for in my four years at Clinch Valley I have never had the misfortune to be subjected to this type of cheap propaganda.

The only source that those of us who are continually being roasted find is that given the repeated offensive nature of this instructors' critiques of us, most of her students do not take them seriously and they have made many of us renowned on campus.

Beater On Sabotage

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to comment on the misfortune that occurred to your paper last week. It is unfortunate and sad that someone would stoop to sabotaging a school newspaper to express his childish and slanderous views of our faculty. No one can deny that our faculty has its faults, no campus is without those on its rolls who do not have a problem of some kind.

To the persons responsible for this black mark on CVC I would like to ask, do you really feel that you accomplished anything worthwhile? were you aware that your actions are being spread over the entire state?

Editor:

Referencing last week's "page 2", I would like to state my opinion.

It's a low day for journalism when students resort to such slanderous material. No matter how bad an instructor or administrator seems to be, efforts for change should be channeled into something constructive.

What all the students here should realize is that this absurd display of ignorance hurts all of us; those of us who care about our personal character, fellow students, and Clinch Valley college.

I myself want to see this person caught and punished. I still have selfpride and pride in CVC.

An opinion respectfully submitted, Tommy Butler

The ASU Chamber Singers will present a concert in the Theatre of Clinch Valley College on May 1 at 8 p.m. This will be the last concert sponsored by the Gladeville Council of the Performing Arts this season.

Questionnaires To Be Circulated

The faculty and administration of Clinch Valley College are interested in and concerned about the opinions of students, particularly in the academic area. Consequently, each semester students are asked to complete a brief questionnaire in which they express their opinion on each of their courses and instructors. This semester the questionnaire will be distributed in classes in the next two weeks.

The responses to the questionnaire are tabulated and summarized in a manner that preserves the anonymity of the individual student but presents to the faculty member an overall view of the opinions of his or her students. Copies of the summaries for each course are given also to the division chairmen and the dean, and are used in decisions on salary increases, reappointments, and award of tenure. Faculty are particularly interested in constructive comments and suggestions that can lead to the improvement of their courses. Thus students can indeed have an influence through the expression of their opinions in this manner.

Food Faddists

Knowledge has increased rapidly in the field of nutrition in the past few years. A great publication of material has subsequently occurred. An awareness of the importance of nutrition in generating optimal health has become common place among most Americans. However, more people than ever are endangering their health and wellbeing by following the advice of often well intentioned but misinformed self-proclaimed nutritional experts. I am myself one of those self-proclaimed "experts." I generally adhere somewhat to the principles I have espoused here at various times but I am not in fact a living example of good health. And this is the greatest evidence of hypocrisy on the part of any individual. The failure to provide a living example of the worthiness of a way of life is the greatest possible indictment of that philosophy.

Now regarding nutrition for everyone it is important to understand the limitations of any dietary program. It will not "keep us young forever, shed weight without effort, avoid all fatigue, headaches and minor miseries of life." The fact that sound nutritional practices effect these conditions enable well-meaning and profit-seeking individuals alike to become merchants of hope promising miraculous cures above and beyond those available from your local physician. This is simply not possible at times. Therefore, when you and I as consumers of medical advice go shopping let us remember that old adage "let the buyer beware."

Dr. Jean Mayer, Harvard Nutritionist has made a list of ten general rules to help the consumer spot the misinformed dispenser of medical advice.
1. Beware of any magic substance that will solve all your problems, the implication is unmistakable; the faddist would have you believe the medical profession is ignoring or forbidding the use of a miracle cure

- that you can get only at a high price at the hands of a few courageous promoters.
- 2. A faddist will promise to prevent or cure diseases that doctors generally recognize as incurable.
- 3. Faddists will promise easy solutions to difficult problems.
- 4. Faddists recognize only one problem at a time. If you want to lose weight they'll help you and to heck with the consequences to your health.
- 5. Faddists operate on the principle that there's only one factor in the development of complex diseases.
- 6. Faddists stress blood-sugar level as the greatest indicator of health and sanity. While fatigue is one of the symptoms of hypoglycemia can be a result of diabetes, cancer, hepatitis, pernicious anemia or a host of other conditions.
- 7. Faddists teach that if one is good one hundred is better.
- 8. Faddists insist all supermarket foods are "devitalized" because they are deficient in trace minerals, among other things. The implication is that if you consume these you too shall become "devitalized." An atom is an atom and without the modern agricultural techniques millions would starve and would not have the opportunity to read a label and determine for ourselves whether to consume a given product.
- 9. Faddists could have you believe all additives are bad. The choice is not easy. But what must be realized is the benefit vs. comparison suggests that some additives they are indeed a beneficial addition to certain food products.
- 10. Faddists would have you believe that anything which is "natural" is good for you. The most powerful cancer producing agent yet discovered is aflatoxin a "natural" product of molds found in peanuts, carrots, even milk. "By all means let sound nutritional practices enhance your life and health but don't be misled by your friendly neighborhood quack, including yours truly. Find out for yourself "how we should then live."

Spring Clean-Up Successful

cases of Country Time donated for the cleanup.
Many improvements were made last weekend and you are the people who did it. Tau Beta Chi did an excellent job of cleaning and painting around Emma McCrary Hall. Phi Upsilon Omega should be commended for their labors in the Trailer Park. The newly organized Polar Bears made some vast improvements around Crockett Hall. The B.S.U. worked hard on the new clean picnic area and Faculty Row. Phi Sigma Kappa gets a thank you for doing an excellent job on the tennis courts and Martha Randolph Hall. And a special thanks goes out to all the students helping in these areas.
Many trees were planted with the supervision of the Grounds Committee consisting of Dr. Shelton, Dr. Wayne Edwards, and Dr. Van Daniels. Thank you for your help. Phil, Wayne, and Van, you really show interest when campus beautification is in order. Perhaps in the future we all can do more to improve our campus. Next year should be something really nice to look forward to. Hats off, CVC for cooperation.
