CVC Presentation On Communications Satellites

"...the eventual impact of the communications satellite upon the whole human race will be at least as great as that of the telephone upon the so-called developed societies." Dr. Roy Ball will elaborate on this statement by author Arthur C. Clark on Monday, May 14, when he will offer the last program of the year in the Clinch Valley College lecture series. Dr. Ball's presentation is entitled "Communications Satellites: Their Educational Impact in Southwest Virginia," and will take place at 4:30 in room A100.

Dr. Ball's presentation will utilize a three-part format. The first part consists of a recent NASA film which addresses the need for worldwide use of communication technology for learning and illustrates how radio, television, and communications satellites systems are used throughout the world for educational purposes. The second part traces the development of communications satellites in the United States from 1962 to the present and discusses the five-year operation of Appalachian Education Satellite Program.

The third part of the program reviews Clinch Valley College's recent experience as an AESP participant and focuses on the dramatic increase in the educational potential of the AESP program when RCA's SATCOM I is launched in a few months to replace NASA's ATS-6 satellite. The launching of SATCOM I will permit AESP to develop Community Service Network.

The Satellite presentation is intended for a general audience. Students, faculty, and the public are cordially invited.

Chemistry Lectures Monday

Dr. James S. Falcone, Jr., of the PQ Corporation Research and Development Center in Pennsylvania will present two lectures here on May 7. He will speak on "The General Properties of Soluble Silicates" at 10:30 a.m. in room S100, and at 2:30 p.m. in room S201 he will speak on "Technical Applications of Polymeric Silicates in the Mining and Detergent Industries."

Dr. Falcone received the B.S. in Chemistry from the University of Pennsylvania in 1968 and a Ph.D. in Physical-Inorganic Chemistry from the University of Delaware in 1972. He has been with the PQ Corporation since 1976 where he is Technical Manager for the Industrial Chemicals division. His current research deals with the nature of complexions in solution and their role in industrial processes. He is a member of the American Chemical Society, Sigma Xi, TAPPI, and the Research Management Group of Philadelphia.

Dr. Falcone's visit is sponsored by the PQ Corporation through their membership in the Industrial Research Institute. Through the Institute's Education Committee, it is hoped that cooperation and understanding can be generated between the academic and industrial research communities.

Students, faculty, staff, and the general public are welcome to attend either or both lectures on Monday.

CVC Professor Attends Renaissance Meeting

Clinch Valley College professor Richard Peake attended the annual meeting of the South Central Renaissance Conference March 29-April 1 in Austin, Texas.

Peake heard a wide variety of papers on Renaissance topics ranging from Shakespeare's As You Like It to Italian music in the 16th century. For the conference the University of Texas Chamber Singers presented an excellent rendition of a Renaissance Spanish Vespers Service.

The featured speaker of the Conference was O.B. Hardison, Director of the Folger Shakespeare Library in Washington, D.C. He discussed a medieval renaissance mystery play, "The Mystery of Elche," that is still performed annually in Spain.

Ol Club Rush Next Week

I would like to direct this editorial at the author of the letter to the editor entitled "Student Questions Close's Intelligence," appearing in the May 7th edition of the Highland Cavalier...

You suggest a dictionary to help Mr. Close define the word "alleged." May I suggest a crash course in grammar and punctuation for you? You might pay particular attention to the definition of a "run-on sentence."

Sincerely, Jean Majer (Member of the .01 Club)

I like Senator Goniff. Heck, I think he's one great guy. Right now, as I write this story, feeling great warmth and affection for the senator...

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to the letter titled "Dis-Honor System" published in last week's paper. I would like "The Gulag 17" to please read the following carefully.

If indeed you have observed violations of the Honor System for the last nine months, then why aren't YOU doing anything about it? The Honor System can only work if the student body

Dear Editor,

I would like to know who Gary Close is trying to impress with his letter concerning Fred Cohl's article in the last issue of the H.C. Perhaps, if Gary Close does not know what "ALLEGED" is...

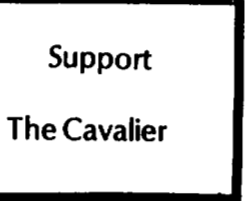

Perhaps a dictionary will help with Mr. Close's difficulty of trying to define "ALLEGED", but I makes it work. The Court has been chosen by the student body, and there are only twelve members. The twelve members need the student body's help.

So instead of sitting back and watching, I urge all to make the Honor System work. It would be great if no one cheated and everyone had an equal chance at making the grades, so don't let someone cheat and make a better grade when they don't deserve it.

Sincerely, Carroll Dulke, Sophomore Representative of the Honor Court

The Highland Cavalier, Printed by Superior Printing and Publishing Company of Cromona, Ky., is published by the students of Clinch Valley College, Wise, Virginia.

Dear Editor: The newly revised Honor System Constitution instituted by the Honor Court of Clinch Valley College is felt to be a much needed binding agreement. Whereby; the students, faculty, and community can benefit from the time-honored traditions of mankind.

Article 3, Section 1 gives step-by-step procedures to follow in the event an alleged violation is reported, thus doing away with ignorance and guess work which could easily be misconstrued, and I might add, was misconstrued, in the present Constitution.

Revision of the Honor Constitution has taken hours of hard work. The consensus of opinion was that something was desperately needed so that a student could be brought before a council, heard, and have every right to recuse.

I feel this new constitution is relevant today, giving each student an equal opportunity and a voice in the democratic way of life.

I would like to take this opportunity to urge the students of CVC to read the proposed constitution, compare it to the present constitution, and vote to accept the proposed constitution.

Editors Note: The following document is the revised Honor Constitution for Clinch Valley College. Please take time and read it, so you the students will vote on it May 9, 1979

We, the students of Clinch Valley College, in order to insure a position of trust among ourselves, faculty, staff and community-at-large, do hereby institute this Honor System at Clinch Valley College. It is to be understood that this system is completely student administered and involved only with those offenses considered dishonorable by the student body.

Article 1 The Honor System of Clinch Valley College requires that a student shall act honorably in all phases and relations of student life. Violations of the Honor System shall include, but are not necessarily limited to:

A. Lying: Lying shall include, but is not necessarily limited to, the intentional statement of an untruth made with deliberate intent to mislead another about other than trivial matters. Forgery and willful false testimony shall be considered acts of lying.

B. Cheating: Cheating shall include, but not necessarily be limited to, giving aid to any student or receiving aid without the consent of the instructor on tests, quizzes, assignments or examinations; the act of plagiarism is also a violation of the Honor System.

Ignorance of the above statements shall not constitute a defense for a violation of the Honor System.

Article II Section 1 The judicial power of the Honor Court is vested in the Clinch Valley Honor Court (hereinafter referred to as the Court) by the Board of Visitors of the University of Virginia.

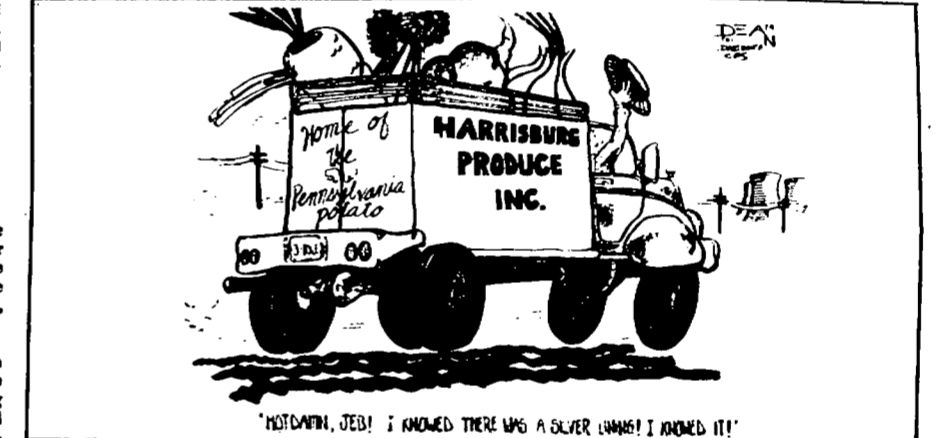

The Honor Court shall consist of three (3) members from each of the four academic classes (freshman class, sophomore class, junior class, senior class). These members and alternates shall be elected in the following manner: During the month of April, elections for four (4) representatives to the Court (three (3) members and one (1) alternate) from each of the sophomore, junior and senior classes for the following year shall be held.

Section 3. Before any student may become a candidate for a position on the Court, the student must sign a declaration of candidacy to the Dean of Students of Clinch Valley College.

three (3) public places at Clinch Valley College for not fewer than seven (7) days. Candidates shall then have five (5) school days to file their declaration of candidacy with the Dean of Students of Clinch Valley College.

Section 9. All proceedings conducted by the Court shall follow rules of applicable parliamentary procedure. Basic tenets of due process shall determine trial procedure.

Section 10. The prosecutor of the Court shall act as counsel for the student body in cases involving alleged violations of the Honor System. The prosecutor shall have the power to select assistant attorneys from the Clinch Valley College student body with the approval of the Chairman of the Court to aid in a confidential investigation of alleged violations.

A mistrial may be declared by the Chancellor of Clinch Valley College for procedural error only. If a mistrial is declared, the student defense counsel and the prosecutor shall go to the Registrar of Clinch Valley College, who will at random select twelve (12) students to hear the case.

Article VI At the beginning of each summer session, the Chairman of the Court shall go to the Registrar at Clinch Valley College, who will at random select twelve (12) students who will act as the Court for that summer session.

Article VII The Court may, by a three-fourths (3/4) majority, excluding an accused member, vote to remove any member of the Court for neglect of duties or for conduct unbecoming a Court member.

Article VIII Amendments to this constitution may be proposed by any student of Clinch Valley College. The Court must approve any amendments by a majority vote. Upon the approval of the Court, the amendments will be posted in the College newspaper for two (2) consecutive weeks or posted prominently, in writing, in not fewer than three (3) public places for not fewer than fourteen (14) days.

After the presentation of evidence and summations of the prosecution and defense have been heard, the Court shall recess the hearing and deliberate in private at which time the guilt or innocence of the accused student shall be decided.

Carter Relents-Independent Students Get Financial Aid

Students paying their own way through college will be eligible for financial aid next fall, after all.

The Middle Income Student Assistance Act (MISAA), passed last November, provided financial aid funds under Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOGs) for independent students. As the pool of 18-year-old potential freshmen shrinks, colleges, of course, are urging older people to enroll to take up the slack. These older people are typically living on their own, working, and independent of their parents. Opening a source of financial aid for them thus became a top priority for colleges and universities. However, the Carter administration's BEOG regulations proposed in March would have effectively delayed opening aid to independent students mandated by MISAA until fall, 1980.

The administration's BEOG guidelines asked independent students to pay a higher proportion of their college costs than dependent students.

The administration proposals ignited Rep. William Ford's wrath. Ford, chairman of the House Postsecondary Education Committee, complained of "grossly inequitable treatment" of the estimated 500,000 college students who are financially independent. At stake was about $130 million of the $2.6 billion BEOG program.

During committee hearings on April 4-5, even some Democrats who are normally friendly to the administration accused President Carter of illegally impounding funds appropriated by Congress, much as President Nixon had done.

Perhaps stung, Dept. of Health, Education and Secretary Joseph Califano sent Ford a letter last week withdrawing the regulations for handing out BEOG funds. The withdrawal will make the $130 million in aid available to independent students in September, 1979, instead of September, 1980.

On Friday, May 4, Phi Sigma Kappa initiated three new Brothers - Tom Burton, Dale Graves, and James Taylor. We congratulate these men and proudly welcome them to our ever-growing Brotherhood.

As the semester draws to a close, many people may be looking for ways to alleviate the tension of exams, etc. So here they are: Thursday, May 10, the Phi Sigs will sponsor a dance featuring Pax. It will be held in the Jefferson Lounge, from 9:00pm til 1:00am; admission is $2.00 per person.

Proceeds will go to the American Cancer Society, Friday, May 11, the Sisters of Phi Upsilon Omega and the Brothers of Phi Sigma Kappa will hold the beery olympics. Start training! Saturday, the 12th, Blue Grass comes to CVC with the Doc Boggs Festival. With the help and encouragement of Chancellor Smiddy, we've been able to arrange for a number of bands and individual performers. The Festival will be held at the picnic grounds from noon til..... and best of all, it's FREE!!!

Tuesday, May 15, is the last day of classes. For those who feel adequately prepared for exams, there will be a little party down at the house that evening. Those of you who don't feel prepared, come on down anyway, 'cause you sure can't learn 16 weeks worth of stuff in one night, right? Right! See you there.

CVC Poetry Reading A Success

By Jo Ann Wampler

The third poetry reading at Clinch Valley College this semester was held on April 26, in the Administration Building. There were readings from William Shakespeare to John Muir to Robert PennWarren. Some talented writers read their original poetry. After the poetry reading, the audience enjoyed a Mark Twain skit by Jeanne Powers and Gary Close.

Dr. Peake, department chairman of English, commented that the poetry reading was very successful even though there was not a large crowd due to a lack of publicity. Peake ended with saying that there was good quality in the poetry that was read.

News From TBX Little Sisters

Spring is finally here, and with it comes the opportunity to aid the community in beautifying itself. Two weeks ago, McDonald's in Norton sponsored a trash pick-up. Tau Beta Chi's Brothers and Little Sisters collected enough trash to win second prize in the contest.

On Friday, May 4, Tau Beta Chi's Brothers, Little Sisters, and Pledges gathered together at the Baptist Student Union for our induction dinner. Many thanks to Reverend Davis for the use of the building. Also, thanks to all the Little Sisters for their able culinary skills, and a special thanks to Medina and Fran Hunt, who helped to make the dinner a success.

Make a special note on your calendars - the last dance of the semester is coming up! Come to the TBX dance on Tuesday, May 15th and "Let's dance, let's shout, shake your body down to the ground!" and celebrate the last day of class!

Happy Spring!

Public Service Awards have been established by the Public Relations Committee for recognition of persons at the College who are involved in activities which contribute good will for CVC. Each year a faculty award and a student award will be given to those persons who contribute to CVC's public relations. The fact that there is one award in each category does not limit it to a single individual. These awards are to be presented on Awards Night prior to Commencement each year.

The Public Relations Committee is soliciting nominations for these Public Service Awards. If you would like to nominate individual faculty, an individual student, or a faculty or student group to receive an award, please send your written suggestions to Richard H. Equal Spending Regulations Under Attack Should Big Money Sports Be Exempted?

Both sides are preparing for the worst.

Ever since the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) announced last December that schools would have to spend about the same amount of money on women's athletics as on men's athletics, the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) and many of its 78 member schools have lobbied vigorously against the proposed regulations. The proposal is the latest addition to Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972, which prohibits schools from placing conditions on women's education that are not on men's.

Most recently, a Washington, D.C. public relations firm, de Harte Associates, has been hired by an informal coalition of 300-some schools to combat the equal spending proposal. The NCAA is also favoring a procedure that would force congressional review of the proposed rules, a move that opponents claim will result in its veto.

Meanwhile, the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW), and a coalition of 56 organizations involved with women's sports has launched a "red-alert" letter-writing campaign. Earlier last week, they sponsored a demonstration in front of the White House. They're all for the equal spending rules, but they're also concerned about another section of the regulation - that spending differences will be allowed if it's based on "non-discriminatory factors, such as cost of a particular sport, or the scope of competition."

This section is seen by most as opening a possibility that the two big-time college sports, football and men's basketball, would be exempt from equal spending requirements.

This possibility is what has the NCAA and many colleges lobbying so intensely. NCAA officials claim that if women's sports receive the same amounts of football and basketball get, schools would have to come up with an additional $60 million a year. And, the NCAA argues, that figure could escalate to a quarter billion a year as more females, attracted by improved programs, enter athletics. The NCAA thus wants equal spending exemptions for football and men's basketball.

But the Coalition for Women and Girls in Education is opposing any ideas about exemptions because it would end up defusing the regulations and could even work to the detriment of women's athletics.

In many men's athletic programs, the AIAW argues, most money is spent on football and basketball, and exemption of them could mean exempting 60-80 percent of the men's budget. Allocations for some women's programs could then exceed the remaining 20-40 percent of the men's budget, resulting in women's programs giving money back to the men's programs.

Exemptions, AIAW charges, would "prepetuate inequities brought about by decades of gross discrimination." It could result in the introduction of other amendments that would "slowly and entirely gut" Title IX, cautions Grace Mastalli of the Project on the Status and Education of Women.

NCAA, on the other hand, view big-time football and basketball as moneymakers and also as a tradition that shouldn't be sacrificed to women's sports. The two sports are the major expenditures of men's athletics budgets, they concede, but they also bring in revenues through gate receipts and alumni contributions.

Donald Parham, director of athletics at Southeastern Oklahoma State University outlined the importance of other aspects of football. "our football program operates at a great loss of revenue. It is extremely expensive. It is, however, as old as the university. It is a focal point, a source of pride and pleasure (to men and women alike), and a force for unifying the institution," he told Higher Education Daily.

But Coalition members counter that football is self-supporting at only 30 percent of schools. And they agree that Title IX regulations will indeed upset tradition. As AIAW spokeswoman Jane Habger puts it, "It may be that schools will have to look more realistically at spending 90 percent of the men's budget on a sport where only 11 people are involved."

HEW, meanwhile, is strad-dled squarely on the muddle of the fence. David Tatel, director of the Office for Civil Rights, which oversees compliance of Title IX, has given a flat not to questions of exemption, while acknowledging that sports budgets can allow for higher equipment costs and level of competition in intercollegiate football."

Both NCAA and AIAW have been frustrated with HEW's lack of concrete directives about the new regulations, especially in light of the fact that they are to take effect in fall of 1979. AIAW president Charlotte West complains that HEW "never hits a nail on the head. Whoever HEW is faced with a question, it says 'maybe'."

But while colleges wait for HEW to issue the final interpretation of the regulations, they may be receiving them from Congress. There's currently a controversy over whether the policy as it stands is subject to Congressional approval under provisions of the General Education Provisions Act (GEPA). GEPA gives Congress 45 days to approve or disapprove any final regulations or interpretations of an education statute.

NCAA lawyer Ritchie Thomas maintains that the regulations should be reviewed under GEPA and that it is "strictly a legal question," but the Coalition sees it otherwise.

AIAW lawyer Margot Polivy insists "there's no reason in the world for those things to go up (to the Hill) under GEPA." She thinks that the GEPA provisions refer only to regulations or "regulations by any other name" while the proposed Title IX policy is an interpretation of regulations "already baptized by Congress."

A former Coalition lobbyist suspects that the issue is "being couched in legal terms, but it is really a political issue." Sending the proposed regulations to Congress will "make it much easier for those not in sympathy with Title IX to limit it," she said.

Senate observers says that since "there's been a lot of calls, a lot of complaints from college presidents and athletic directors" against the equal spending proposal, it will "probably not survive."

The next step, however, depends on HEW. It is expected to issue a legal opinion on the GEPA controversy later this month.

Campus Housing Changes

To clear up any misconceptions regarding the new housing policies for the Fall and Spring 1979-80 semesters, I would like to take this opportunity to explain the new suggested policies that we plan to implement:

The Housing Office will offer five (5) different types of housing accommodations to its students during the Fall and Spring, 1979-80 academic sessions. The options will be as follows:

1. Single sex mobile homes. Each mobile home will house four (4) students. Rent for the mobile homes will be $281.25 per student plus electricity. Phone and television cable will be optional, however, the students must make these arrangements with the respective companies and will be responsible for all charges for installation.
2. Crockett Hall (men only). Students will be assigned to Crockett Hall according to the date of their application with all deposits paid. Also, the students' housing record will be taken into consideration before an assignment to Crockett Hall is made. Freshmen will not be assigned to Crockett Hall. Rent for Crockett Hall will be $232.00 per semester. Single rooms will be available in Crockett Hall on a very limited basis.
3. Emma McCraney Hall (Men and women on two separate housing wings)
- 3a First floor men's and women's wing; Rent: $232.00 per semester. No single rooms available.
- 3b Second floor men's and women's wing; Rent: $232.00 per semester. No single rooms available. Possibly two (2) Resident Assistants per floor.
- 3c Third floor men's and women's wing; Rent: $232.00 per semester. No single rooms available. Possibly two (2) Resident Assistants per floor.

As of this date, Crockett Hall will operate on a twenty-four (24) hour Open House policy.

Martha Randolph Hall (women only). Students will be assigned to Martha Randolph Hall on the same basis as Crockett Hall. Rent will be the same as Crockett Hall. A few single rooms will be available.

The Open House Policy will be twenty-four (24) hours.

NOTE:

In both Crockett Hall and Martha Randolph Hall, there may be some restrictions placed on the twenty-four (24) hours open house policy regarding noise and over-night guests.

Also, in both Crockett Hall and Martha Randolph Hall, residents will be required to sign a separate agreement concerning their willingness to abide by the policies governing this floor. Violation will result in the student being reassigned to another floor or facility or expulsion from campus housing.

The residents of the floor will be permitted to make recommendations regarding the Open House policy they wish to live under. A final decision regarding the Open House policy will be made after this meeting.

Possibly two (2) Resident Assistants per floor.

Noise level will be kept to a minimum.

The Open House policy will be very liberal, however, seven (7) day, twenty-four (24) hour Open House will not be conducted. A definite Open House policy has not been decided on as of this date. It will be possible that Open House will be conducted on the first floor of each wing on a five (5) day basis. Hours will vary.

I should be understood that this floor will be expected to keep noise to a minimum and that a liberal Open House policy does not mean that excessive noise will be tolerated.

The Open House policy will be somewhat conservative on this floor. The policy will not be as liberal as first floor but there will be a satisfactory Open House policy in effect.

This floor will be an ACADEMIC FLOOR. The floor will consist of students who would like to live in a quiet atmosphere in order to maintain their grades. It will be understood that twenty-four (24) hour quiet will be observed seven (7) days each week. Residents will be expected to sign a separate agreement concerning their willingness to abide by the policies governing this floor. Violation will result in the student being reassigned to another floor or facility or expulsion from campus housing.

The residents of the floor will be permitted to make recommendations regarding the Open House policy they wish to live under. A final decision regarding the Open House policy will be made after this meeting.

SUMMARY:

This new policy will require strict enforcement by the Housing Office. We in Student Services feel that there is a definite need for various types of housing accommodations. This policy will offer each student some type of choice especially in the area of Open House. Hopefully, each student will be able to choose the conditions under which he/she lives, therefore, violation of the policy will be minimal. Each student will know what is to be expected from him/her from the beginning of the semester. We plan to publicize the new policy extensively so there will be no way someone can say they were unaware of the policy and its regulations.

If there are any questions about the policy, please see Roy Baker in the Housing Office.

Those of you who have already turned in your housing applications may make change requests by placing your name on a piece of paper along with your change request and turning it in at the Housing Office. This paper will be attached to your application and will be considered when assignments are made.

1979-80 Film Series Selection List

Moviegoers, check the following list and mark the films you would like to see in next year's film series. Mark as many as you wish. If the movies you want to see do not appear on the selection chart, make your own list by writing in the titles in the blank spaces which are provided. Within the limits of the purpose of the film series budget, those films receiving the most popular support will be selected for next year's program. So, tear out the form, put it in the campus mail for Mr. Heise, and help the Film and Lecture Committee build a series you want to support.

NOT SO FAST

Slowing down is more than just a safer way to drive. It's also a great way to save gas and money. You'll get about 29 more miles from every tank of gas if you slow down from 70 to 55 mph on the highway. And that's just one of the easy ways you can save gasoline.

Radial tires save you about 3¢ on every gallon. Keeping your tires properly inflated saves another 2¢ a gallon. And a well-tuned car can save you about 1¢ a gallon more.

Saving energy is easier than you think, and with the rising energy costs we're facing today, it's never been more important. For a free booklet with more easy energy saving tips, write "Energy," Box 62, Oak Ridge, TN 37830.

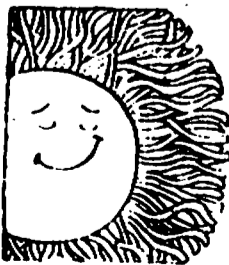

ENERGY.
We can't afford to waste it.

Inmate Escapes

Richard Wayne Hutzell, attending Clinch Valley College in Wise, Virginia, recently was appointed by the student body at large as the head of their white slavery ring. Hutzell was appointed because of his past record of brutality and shanghaiing experiences.

Hutzell was recently released from duty in his position as Harem Guard because of voyeur's disease.

Upon hearing of his appointment Hutzell shuffled off and commented, "Ol' man river, dat o' man river, He don't see nothin', he don't hear nothin', he jus' keep rollin' along."
