You wake up one morning, rush to the shower, turn on the water, and find that it is barely lukewarm. After getting to class, you notice this little gauge on the thermostat on the campus. Also, the rooms are chilly. What does this mean?

CVC, like other public buildings, falls in the recent federal law dealing with energy conservation. One of the conditions of the law is that the temperature inside any public building not exceed 75 degrees during the winter. All buildings on campus, excluding dorms, will be kept at this temperature. The dorm temperatures will be slightly higher.

According to Chancellor Joseph Snidy, several measures are being taken to conserve as much energy as possible on campus.

The proposed Student Union Building, the new dormitory, and any other buildings constructed during the next few years will be heated by coal. At the present time, only buildings on campus heated by gas are the Administration Building, McGarvey Hall, and the Drama Building. In all, this means the living heart of the building, which the programs are broadcast by.

You've got to be kidding, you say. What could possibly be wrong with that? You've got to be kidding.

The telecourses are interest­ing learning opportunities. It's not just a "talking head" giving a lecture. It's an interesting change-learning from television.

On Tuesday, October 23, 1979 a forum discussion was held in the blocks of the Cool Field and land reclamation was discussed at the Wine Court House in Wise.

Attending the meeting were two sides of Senator Warner. Dean of Students at CVC, and the moder­ator was Senator Warner. Senator Warner is planning to introduce a bill to the senate dealing with minimum provi­sion of the surface mining act. The present bill requires strip miners reclaim the entire area of land stripped. Turner waste to introduce a bill that would require strip miners to reclaim 75 percent of the land instead of continuing with the present law.

During this, Senator Warner claimed three things will happen:
1. A reduction in unem­ployment.
2. An increase in products.
3. A reduction in un­employment.

The schedule of classes for Monday Morning

Convocation Scheduled

A convocation has been scheduled for 10:00 a.m. on Monday, October 29, 1979 at the 300 Building to introduc­e the slide-illustrated lecture by Dr. Joseph F. Smiddy, Medical Director of Respiratory Services at Holston Valley Community Hospital in Kingsport.

This was done so that students and faculty may attend Dr. Smiddy's lecture. "Family That Smokes. Together Creates To­gether."

By Ray Rans

The next speaker was Mike Quillen, Vice-President of Farm­mount Mining Company. Mr. Quillen and prepared a formal statement which he read aloud. The statement listed the nine disadvantages of reclaiming land. "One of the major dis­advantages is the high cost of reclaiming the land. "The danger to the men working." Quillen said he would like to see that alternate sites are established.

He suggested valley filling and low­er area filling as two options. Quillen felt if this bill pass, it would create more jobs. This is an example of how strip miners would be able to go into more areas. They are restricted right now because of the high cost of reclaimation.

One young man stated that strip mining is bad and that the mining companies should be banned. He felt that money because of reclaimation costs are so high.

CVC Hiring Record

Number Of Students In Degree Courses

The Registrar’s Office at Clinch Valley College has announced that CVC is serving more students in degree courses this year than at any time in its history. A summary of enrollment data since CVC was made a four-year college is presented in the following table.

The on-campus enrollment includes 74 out-of-state students with persons enrolled from 13 states and 7 foreign countries.

Dr. Smiddy discusses the preven­tion of heart disease. Other programs are "Energy Forum," "Preaching With Kids," "Living With Personal Finance," and many more. Each course is taught in segments by the nation's leading people in that particular field.

Exams and homework are given just as in any regular class. There is a course manager here at the college that you meet with and he supervises your work.

The program is ideal because it provides people with a chance to take the courses they would otherwise be impossible for them. "It gives students cor­rectly more to add courses," stated Mr. Winston Ely, one of the directors of the program at CVC. John Hackett is the other director, while Mr. George Culbertson is the "clutter" director for this region.

The telecourses are interest­ing. Many techniques are used to provide reinforcement for the learner. It's not just a "talking face" giving a lecture. It's an interesting change-learning from television.

The senator received so much support from other senators in this matter that he decided to introduce a bill rather than an amendment.

The purpose of the forum was to determine whether strip miners, environmentalists, and various municipal authorities agreed or disagreed.

Tyler Cornell from the Hous­ton Authority was the first speaker. He believes the bill is in a position for im­provement and enhancement of the present housing problems in Southwest Virginia. Cornell stated there was a lack of develop­able land. He sees the bill as a solution and looked upon it as a "marriage of strip miners and the housing authority." When asked about the figures upon people who are being compensated as defined by the Housing Act of 1973, Cornell stated he didn't have the exact figures, but said it was a high per­centage.

The next speaker was Mike Quillen, Associate Professor of Farm­mount Mining Company. Mr.

As winter and the cold tem­peratures that come with it get here, one may expect more changes. So, THINK WARM.

The Skies Over Clinch Valley

By Dr. William Hooper

The newspapers in Highland County are like the stars in the sky. They are a vital part of the community, illuminating the issues and events that shape our lives. Yet, just as the stars can be obscured by clouds and rain, so too can the press be suppressed by governmental interference. The recent events surrounding the publication of a newspaper in Pennsylvania serve as a reminder of the importance of protecting free speech.

The Pennsylvania Senate had ordered a local newspaper to shut down, citing a lack of evidence. The newspapers in Highland County are not immune to such threats. The government's attempts to control the press are dangerous, as they undermine the democracy we hold dear. The freedom of the press is essential to a functioning democracy, as it ensures that the public is informed and can hold those in power accountable.

In the face of such challenges, it is crucial that we support our local newspapers. By doing so, we can ensure that the voices of our community continue to be heard, and that the press remains free and independent. We must stand together to protect the rights of the press, and to safeguard our democratic future.
Clinch Valley’s Scorer
Drafted By Women’s Pro Team

By Cindy Blevy

“IT hasn’t really hit me yet. Although I never expected to get drafted, it just doesn’t seem real to me.”

Kathy Kilgore, a four year for­ward for the Cavaliers Women’s Basketball team, responds to the fact that she is the first CVC women’s basketball player to be drafted by a women’s professional team.

Kathy was contacted and drafted by the New York Stars, also contacted by the Philadelphia Foxes and Chicago Hustlers.

“K.K.” left Tuesday, October 9 for Manhattan College in Purchase, New York.

Training with practice being held twice a day for seven days a week is scheduled for October 10 through November 6. During this training period, the Stars will play three or four exhibition games. The games, held at Madison Square Garden, are preliminaries to the New York Knicks’ basketball games.

“At the end of training, if I feel that I played to the best of my ability and I make the team, I’ll feel great. If I don’t make the team, I’ll know that I don’t belong playing basketball as a career.”

Leaving Clinch Valley with over 1,300 total career points, Kathy holds a large number of Clinch Valley records. The 6’9” draftee pulled down 32 rebounds in 1977 and scored 26 points in 1979 in single games. In 1978, “K.K.” possessed the highest rebound average, 18 rebounds per game. In 1979, Kathy had the highest scoring average, 18.5 points per game.

Kathy set the highest field goal percentage with 47% and the highest blocked shot average with 2.9 in 1977.

In her freshman year, “K.K.” averaged 18.8 points and in her sophomore year she averaged 16.6 points. As a junior she averaged 16.5 points, and as a senior, 18.3 points.

When “K.K.” attended J. J. Kelly High School, she was awarded Most Valuable Player and Best Offense three years in a row.

Kathy’s abilities are not only limited to basketball, she also plays tennis, possesses artistic ability, and is a talented musician. “K.K.” claims she would “love to be able to fly a helicopter.”

Mrs. Doris Hubbard, Cavaliers women’s basketball coach, coached “K.K.” her four years. “Kathy is a real athlete. Not all ball players are real athletes. Basketball doesn’t come easy and Kathy was and still is a very dedicated ball player and an extremely hard worker. The dedication and hard work paid off, opening doors for Kathy.”

Coach Hubbard has not only been my coach, but also my mom, my psychiatrist, and most of all, my friend.” comments “K.K.”

As of press time, “K.K.” made it through the first cut.
