Scolnick Attends Seminar

Professor Joseph M. Scolnick, Jr., of Clinch Valley College, attended the Twenty-first Annual Convention of the International Studies Association held during March 19-22, 1980, at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles.

Scolnick attended panels on which scholarly papers were delivered on the study of war, international conflict, and peace. Before his employment at Clinch

Valley College in 1978, Scolnick was active in the ISA. He assisted in the creation of panels at the 1978 ISA Convention in New York City and delivered papers at conventions in Dallas and New York City. The 1980 convention is the first he has attended since completing requirements for a doctorate in political science at the University of Kentucky. Scolnick, whose major field is international relations, will formally receive his Ph.D. degree at May commencement exercises at UK.

Scolnick also holds the B.A. degree in Foreign Affairs and the M.A. in Foreign Affairs from the University of Virginia. Previous to his employment at CVC he was Assistant Professor of Political Science at Longwood College and Graduate Instructor of World Politics at the University of Kentucky.

Study Abroad

A new opportunity for study in Denmark will be offered this fall when Scandinavian Seminar begins its one-semester program for college students and other adults. The program will start at the end of July and extend over the fall months till mid-December.

It will be run along the same lines as Scandinavian Seminar's regular academic year program in Denmark, Finland, Norway, or Sweden. After a short introductory course, the students will participate in an intensive two-week language course and then spend some time with a Danish family practicing the language.

From early September the students will live and study among Scandinavians at Danish folk schools (small residential liberal arts schools), where they will further improve their language skills and immerse themselves in the Danish life and culture.

On the basis of a detailed written evaluation, recommendation for credit will be sent to each student's home college or university. The fee, covering tuition, room, board and course-connected travel in Denmark, is $3,600 for this five-month program. Interest-free loans are granted on the basis of need, as are a few small scholarships. Applications for the program will be accepted until May 15th.

SLC Committe Seeks Dorm Improvements

By Sanny Chapman
On March 27, a meeting was held in the study lounge of McCrary Hall by the Student Life Committee. Wade Turner opened the meeting by explaining the function of the Student Life Committee to those present and then opened the floor for suggestions.

The previously suggested project of painting the study room was again brought up. Plans are now in the making for acquiring supplies to carry out the project. When the paints and other necessary equipment can be procured, a date will be set for the painting.

There were several other concerns voiced by the students at the meeting. One of the first was the problems with the laundry room. The students complain that there aren't enough machines and that they are frequently in a state of disrepair. The machines are leased through a company and repairs are few and far between.

Another topic of discussion was rearranging some of the rooms in the dorm. It was suggested that the present study room could be fixed up to be a lounge. The students want a place where they can go to socialize during non-open dorm hours. It was suggested that the study rooms on the floors could be used instead of the study lounge in the lobby. Removal of the black rubber covering on the steps was another suggestion. It was thought they would be more attractive and visible if they were also painted.

The topic of vending machines was also discussed. Some of the students suggested that the cigarette machine in the Zehmer building be moved to the dorm. Cigarettes are already sold in the bookstore in the Zehmer building.

The last and perhaps most adamant discussion was delivered by residents of the third floors. New "all quiet" restrictions have been placed on the floors. The students seem to feel that the study environment was adequate and had heard no complaints about the noise. The suggested that the committee push for a meeting with Roy Baker to find out why these new restrictions had been placed.

The next scheduled meeting will be April 9. The topic will be student activities. There will be a meeting at 3:00 at the Zehmer building and at 9:30 in McCrary Hall.

Noratel's Membership Clarified

By Randy Edwards

Recently questions have been raised as to the membership of Donna Noratel in the Student Life Committee. Ms. Noratel was removed by the President of the SGA, Richard Frye. At the meeting, Mr. Frye stated that Nancy Kinsey, Chairperson of the Student Life Committee, has asked him to remove Ms. Noratel and appoint new members.

When questioned about the incident Ms. Kinsey stated, "at no time did I single out any one member to be removed. I asked Richard to contact the students on the committee at that time to see if they wished to remain on the committee." Ms. Kinsey went on to say that she had requested more students on the committee and that Chancellor Smiddy had approved her request. Ms. Kinsey also stated, "I continued to send SLC memorandums to Donna and the other members, because I still considered them members of the committee."

Neither Richard Frye nor Nancy Kinsey could come up with an explanation for the misunderstanding.

Mr. Frye stated that he felt that if the petition had not circulated and the referendum had not occurred, Ms. Noratel would not have wanted to remain on the committee. Mr. Frye also stated that since she did not receive any official notification of her removal, that she had continued to be a member of the SLC. When asked whether she had to be reappointed he said no, that since the committee doesn't vote on removal and that Ms. Noratel was not notified, there was no need to bring it before the council. Throughout the discussion Mr. Frye seemed to be insinuating that Ms. Noratel only wished to remain on the SLC because it would look bad if she backed the referendum but was removed from the SLC.

Donna Noratel stated only that she wished Mr. Frye would send her a notification one way or the other since she found out that she was removed through a student who just happened to be at the meeting. So as it now stands Ms. Noratel is a member of the SLC, removed in a council meeting, but not really removed.

Bi-Monthly SGA

In another astounding display of stupidity, the SGA voted on Wednesday, April 2, 1980 to hold meetings bi-monthly instead of the present weekly meetings. The vote was 8-2. President Frye cited several reasons for this change. First and foremost was the inconvenience to the computer council members having to attend weekly meetings. Because they are council members they are forced to "hang around" school until 8:30 p.m. each week. Sometimes, the meetings are only 10 minutes long. Evidently they resent having to stay for only 10 minutes. Other times, failure to get a quorum results in the meeting being cancelled or postponed. The computers resent hanging around for a meeting that is cancelled. To this argument I say, if being a student representative is inconvenient, maybe you should re-evaluate your priorities. The computers are always complaining that they're not represented. Here is the perfect opportunity for representation and these people resent staying for an extra few hours one day a week. Isn't it true that the SGA changed the meeting time from Sunday to Wednesday so computer students wouldn't have to make an extra trip to the college? What more do you want?

One of the council members brought up the fact that the forum showed the council how disinterested and apathetic the students were. To this President Frye said, "I think we can waive that." Although later after some discussion he said that he wasn't calling the forum invalid. The point is that by having bi-monthly meetings the SGA is promoting apathy. The inaction of the SGA may be the cause of nothing to do at meetings. Should teachers only come to class when students have a question? Should the dorms only be open at night when people need to sleep? Should the Highland Cavalier publish the paper only when we have letters to the editor? Where does it stop?

How can the SGA hope to in all clear conscience say that it is working to eliminate apathy at CVC when by its acts and deeds it promotes apathy? This seems to be a contradictory position that the SGA has placed itself in which we the students suffer.

Wise Up, Clean Up

Dear Editor:

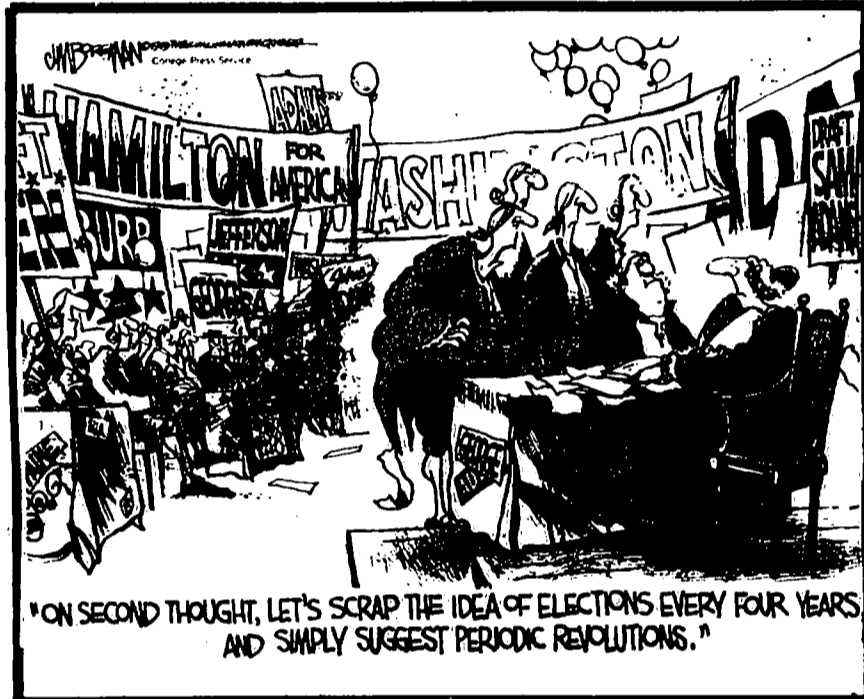

With the advent of the recent installation of the new trash cans about the campus, we embark upon a new era. Enough interest in the litter problem on campus was taken so that the cans were bought and installed in various places about the campus. That they were needed can be seen by anyone who happens to take a walk on one of these beautiful spring days. Instead of the various native and naturalized flowers one hopes to encounter, mountains of beer cans and other trash are seen. Temporary relief to this problem comes once each spring when the college clean-up is held.

In the long run however, the solution lies with us to put our trash in its proper place.

That's where our major problem lies—teaching people to use trash cans instead of roadsides.

Smith Sends Out Thanks!

Dear Editor

I would like to thank everyone at CVC for the friendship and concern during my stay at Wise A.R. Hospital. The gifts and companionship that I have received have made an otherwise uncomfortable situation not only tolerable, but at times even enjoyable. Thanks for being my family when I needed one. Hope to see you all in the fall.

FOCUS

By: Valeri Jones

Bonnie Elosser is the subject of this week's Focus. Mrs. Elosser is the Dean of Student Affairs at CVC. Along with this job comes other tasks which she is very involved in.

Over the past several years, she has given the high school commencement address at Coeburn High School, J.J. Kelly High School and Hays High School. She works closely with the high school guidance activities. The public relations committee will publish on a regular basis a newsletter containing concise articles about the college. It will be suitable for mailing to faculty, alumni, and other friends of the college.

We desperately need a name. It has been suggested that we resurrect The Rattler, a CVC newsletter of the mid-sixties with terrible serpentine puns which made your blood run cold, as it were. Then there was a SPAD, an acronym for "special programs and diversions." Someone has suggested The Civic Intelligencer (CVC with eyes). Another boosts SFEVC. It is painfully obvious that we need your help.

Therefore, a contest. Deadline at noon on Wednesday, April 9. Entries to Sharon Daniels. Prize for accepted name: Dinner for two at Cricket's, two tickets to "Cavalier's Daughter," and a plaque.

RNL Looking For College Journalists

The Richmond News Leader is again accepting applications from students interested in writing as college correspondents for the Young Virginians section, a weekly feature in The News Leader.

Correspondents generally concentrate on reporting events, personalities and trends of schools they attend, but the Young Virginians staff considers its correspondents reporters, not public relations representatives for their schools.

Correspondents are expected to come up with their own story ideas, and work alone on their projects. However, sometimes they are asked to be part of a team that is researching or exploring a trend at several schools.

Correspondents also may ask a talented school photographer to supply photos for their stories. The photographer will be paid separately for his/her work.

Correspondents are paid according to the length of their stories, including the space used by accompanying photographs. Interested college students may send a letter of application to "Young Virginians," The Richmond News Leader, 333 E. Grace St., Richmond, VA 23219.

Deadline for applications is April 25, 1980.

In the letter of application, applicants should explain why they want to be a correspondent, and how they think the Young Virginians section can be improved.

Applicants may send copies of news or feature stories they have written for other publications. Letters should include the applicant's name, address, age, class, school and telephone number.

Those applicants chosen as correspondents for the 1980-81 school year will be contacted near the end of May. If you will not be at school at this time, please list the address or phone number at which you may be reached.

Those chosen will begin work this summer.

She has the overall responsibility for several areas at Clinch Valley. They include the admissions, orientation, student activities, and alumni affairs, as well as, the S.A.R. O.R.S. LAST testing programs, housing, and Financial Aid. All of these tasks prove Mrs. Elosser to be a very busy woman.

In addition to these functions, Mrs. Elosser teaches a speech class on the CVC campus each semester. Mrs. Elosser said, "One of the things I like about my job is that it allows me to teach on occasions. This year she has taught courses for the Wise County Bank for employees in supervisory positions. In the fall semester, the course for bank employees was a class in Supervisor Development. This semester the class is a basic communications course.

Dean Elosser is constantly involved in public relations ac-counselors and various community and business leaders.

Currently, she is serving on the editorial board of a national journal - The Journal of Student Financial Aid. Also, she is serving as a representative on the Postsecondary Education Advisory Committee for the State Council of Higher Education in Virginia.

"One of the things I like about my job is the constant contact and interaction with the students, faculty, and staff at CVC," admitted Elosser. But what she likes least about her job is the disciplinary aspect of the position of Dean of Students. Many students tend to think that the disciplinary action is enforced by an individual that is just mean. But Dean Elosser admitted, "Actually, taking serious disciplinary measures causes me many sleepless nights."

Part Two Of ### T.L.T.W.A.T.W.

Part II of the C.S. Lewis classic The Lion, The Witch and The Wardrobe will be shown Thursday night, April 10, 1980, at 7:30 in the Science Lecture Hall. Admission is free.

The Lion, The Witch and The Wardrobe begins the excursion into Narnia and embodies a wealth of Christian symbolism and imagery. The death and resurrection of Aslan, the lion, are pivotal events of The Lion, The Witch and The Wardrobe and invite comparison with the biblical account. This is the most symbolic portion of her film and one which strikes at the very heart of the Christian faith.

On Wednesday evening, April 16 at 5:00 Ron Heise will be speaking on the life and works of C.S. Lewis at the Baptist Student Union meeting. Everyone is welcome to attend. The meeting will be held at the United Student Center across Coeburn Road from campus.

A Man Not Easily Forgotten

Like another man from Independence, Tom Hamilton had a prodigious zest for life. He had been a chemistry major in college, and told marvelous stories about his experiences as a chemical warfare officer in the Second World War. Once at a faculty dinner, Tom suggested that we all relate how it was that came to enter our particular fields. When it came his turn, Tom said that he had switched to history in order to fulfill a lifetime ambition. He wanted to find out if Herbert Hoover was really as bad a president as people said he was. (According to Tom, he was worse.)

Tom received his Ph.D. from Duke after the war. He taught at the Citadel, the University of Georgia, and the University of Wichita. He made strong and enduring friendships at each of these institutions.

Tom came to Clinch Valley in the fall of 1961 as our dean, a job which he attacked with a maximum of zest and a minimum of orthodoxy. He believed that the primary job of an academic dean was to provide intellectual leadership, and this he did with unflagging enthusiasm. Where ever he was—in the classroom, at meetings, in the halls at the college, at the marvelous parties which he and his charming wife gave at their house—he was always an intellectual leader, asking penetrating questions, waging his eternal battle against Gnosticism, deflating pomposity, and interpreting man's condition in ways that were always interesting, often breathtaking, and sometimes disturbing.

Because he was transparently honest and radiantly enthusiastic, he was a favorite of students. He was especially adept at motivating the brilliant ones who, for one reason or another, were not fulfilling their promise. He was a staunch champion of the underdog and a friend of those who ran afoul of the dean of students and his regulations. Those who were at Clinch Valley in the early sixties will remember the legendary basketball team which he coached. Tom always had time for civic activities, especially those involving his beloved Ky-wanis, as he always called it. He founded the Key Club at Clinch Valley and was the prime mover behind the famous air show in the early sixties. He was instrumental in the establishment of educational television in our area and led in the introduction of both Lead Start and Upward Bound. It is said that he and another night of Wise wrote an all-night session, the successful proposal for the first Wise County community action program. The new Wise Middle School is in part a monument to his persistent outrage at the conditions found in the old school. There are some who will remember the night at the PTA when the president announced that the topics for discussion would be overcrowding in schools and the unsafe condition of the school buses. Tom rose, declared that he believed the problem would solve itself if it were continually ignored, and walked out.

There are those who will remember the great water shortage when the bearings went out on the town pump. Tom and I were neighbors on faculty row. One morning I saw him walking down to the creek (which Theo Gibson always called the River Shannon) with his World War II steel helmet on his arm. He filled it with water and sat on the creek bank shaying in full view of the whole world. He wore the steel helmet in his office for weeks after that.

One summer, he grew tomatoes in his back yard. He decided to make ketchup and let a batch on the stove. He ran into friends downtown and returned to find that his ketchup had burned to a mellow brown color. He enter it in the Wise County Fair that fall as "Chili sauce" and won second prize, fact which he recorded in Clinch Valley's official annual report under "Special Honors and Recognition". That same year, the son of one of our library assistants published a story in Archaeologist magazine. Tom duly recorded it under "Faculty Publications" and sent the report on to Charlottesville.

Tom's fantastic zest for life meant that he was not going to remain within the drab confines of a job description term which he would abhor. One day he was living up his classes by showing that he could take off his vest without removing his coat. Another day, he was recording the school song as the Chipmunks would sing it. At another time, he was putting his phenomenal memory to recalling the batting averages of those who played in the 1920 World Series or constructing a team whose names were also colors (e.g. JoJo White, Mortiecia Brown, Hank Greenburg, etc.) Somewhere at Station WNYA there is a tape sent there by mistake on which Tom is delivering a commercial for Clinch Valley as it would have been done by a country preacher. Somewhere there is a photograph of Tom celebrating the Fourth of July in Jefferson Lounge by singing the Declaration of Independence with a mop on his head.

Tom always maintained that a man could not teach properly without wearing a tie. He therefore kept a collection of horrendous clip-on ties in his desk drawer which he did not hesitate to attach to the unfortunate teacher who had forgotten his own.

Like most historians, Tom was impatient with bureaucratic impracticalities. He could never take elaborate reports quite seriously. He was incensed when the college suggested that its dean really ought to have a secretary. He rarely missed an opportunity to fold a spindle, mutter, or splash in hot water a punch card if he felt that by doing so he was impeding the wheels of bureaucracy.

Tom was an expert on South Asian history. I recall vividly the paper he read in Jefferson Lounge one night in which he warned against further involvement in Viet Nam because we could not possibly win there. He and becoming is an integral part of our being who we are. John gives us a good illustration of this point in his gospel account of the resurrection appearances of Jesus. It's after breakfast one morning as Jesus calls Simon Peter aside and asks the question, "Do you love me?" This is a pop oral exam! Peter responds much as we would and Jesus has to repeat the question again and again. Not only is this a pop exam, it is a comprehensive. It covers the whole course. To pass this exam Peter must do the same as he did when he first enrolled in the course. That is to respond to the command, "Follow me."

For each of us, as for Peter, real life is not going to be all that different from our student days. The difference will be one of degrees and not of kind. We need to find the importance of what we are doing here and now. And in so doing, we may find we know much more of what resurrection is all about. Happy Easter!

A Portrait Of The Student As A Young Man

By Jim Colie, Baptist Campus Minister.

If you want a quick ticket to a sophomore slump or just plain slump, read James Joyce's A Portrait of an Artist As A Young Man. In this somewhat autobiographical novel, but... as yet he has not art. And his is severely frustrated by the student process of becoming an artist. Identify with this feeling?

is "getting there really half the fun" as the airline posters used to tell us? Being a student, being a part of the process of becoming is hard work! It is important work, too. And it is productive work. Joyce's artist is frustrated because he feels he is not producing anything worthwhile. The future is very frightening for him because he doubts that he will ever be able to produce anything. Being a professional student is not a live option. He's already a student and not enjoying it in the least. The work of the student is learning. Learning isn't easy. But learning leads to becoming and becoming is an integral part of our being who we are. John gives us a good illustration of this point in his gospel account of the resurrection appearances of Jesus. It's after breakfast one morning as Jesus calls Simon Peter aside and asks the question, "Do you love me?" This is a pop oral exam! Peter responds much as we would and Jesus has to repeat the question again and again. Not only is this a pop exam, it is a comprehensive. It covers the whole course. To pass this exam Peter must do the same as he did when he first enrolled in the course. That is to respond to the command, "Follow me."

For each of us, as for Peter, real life is not going to be all that different from our student days. The difference will be one of degrees and not of kind. We need to find the importance of what we are doing here and now. And in so doing, we may find we know much more of what resurrection is all about. Happy Easter!

Circle K Club To Organize

There will be an organizational meeting for a Circle K club at Clinch Valley College Monday, April 7, 1980 at 2:40 in Room A100a. Circle K is the largest co-ed service organization in the world. There are Circle K Clubs now in 5 different countries.

Circle K's main goal is service to others. Service may be provided in many different ways. Clubs have worked on bowloathons, danceathons, car washes and hot dog sales to raise money. They have worked with nursing homes, halfway houses, hospitals, and mental homes. They have adopted families, grandparents and little brothers and sisters. Almost anything can be a service project.

Circle K also believes that getting to know other clubs and club members is important, too. (You can be in Circle K and in other clubs, too!) They have socials after projects and intercubs, rallies, and conventions. All are fun as well as learning experiences.

Circle K is sponsored by Kiwanis. The Kiwanis Club of Wise would be the sponsor for Circle K at CVC. The Reverend Buddy Wright, Pastor of the Wise Baptist Church is president of the Wise Kiwanis Club. There are several Kiwanians on the CVC faculty.

Miss Shaum Higgins, President of the Circle K Club at VPI & SU will be at the organizational meeting on Monday to explain more about the purposes and activities of Circle K.

Circle K is a chance to care about others. It provides the opportunity for one to grow by giving. Thousands of students around the world have chosen to care. Won't you?

CVC Loses To LMU 7-5 In Eight

LMU squeaked by the Cavaliers 7-5 in extra innings on Thursday, April 3, LMU jumped out to a 3-0 lead after four and one-half innings but at the end of the fifth a new ballgame had started as the score read 3-3. Inning by inning the game highlights are as follows:

First Inning:
David Kirk walked the first three batters. The first batter stole second and third and eventually scored on a throw-away ball. The inning ended with two pick-offs on first and a fly out. The Cavaliers failed to get anyone on base as LMU went into the second inning with three up, three down.

Second Inning:
Both LMU and CVC failed to get anyone on base in the second inning as good pitching began to take its course.

Third Inning:
LMU flew out twice before a bad hop in the infield advanced a man to first. However, LMU couldn't take advantage of the situation as Kirk struck the batter out.

Fourth Inning:
CVC ended LMU's hopes of adding to the scoreboard as the first three batters were out—two on ground outs and one on a strike out. CVC finally got its offense rolling as Mark King hit a double with one out. The inning ended though with two men stranded on base.

Fifth Inning:
The fifth inning proved to be fruitful for both CVC and LMU. LMU scored two runs on a walk and two hits.

Just as it all looked bad for CVC, the offense started perking. With one out, Joe Bolton got a hit. However, it appeared a lost cause as LMU quickly got another out. Vince Marshall then hit a double to make the score 3-1. Billy Watson walked and the stage was set for Mark King who drove in the two runs and tied the score 3-3. The inning ended with King being thrown out at third.

Sixth Inning:
In the top of the sixth LMU got one man on base with two outs but left the man stranded as the next batter grounded out. CVC got two hits in the sixth inning but they also left two men stranded—one at first and the other at second.

Seventh Inning:
A double play by the CVC infield kept the Cavalier's hopes alive. However like LMU, CVC also failed to score.

Extra Inning:
LMU broke away from the Cavs as they scored four runs in the extra inning. CVC scored twice but left the tying runs stranded as they lost to LMU 7-5.

Dog red black
Boy curly blond glasses spotted
City Neon Jenkins W'burg Letcher
1 family only child 1 bro. 1 sis. 2 bros.
Name Baker Smith Conley Webb

Clues 1-4 were self explanatory. Clue 11 said that the Conley boy had a sister. (Clue 9 identified the boy from Letcher as brown-haired, but no red dog. Since the curly boy had no siblings, and the Letcher boy had two and the Whitesburg boy had 1 sister, that left the boy with the black dog having 1 brother, and from Jenkins. In turn, that made the curly haired boy from Neon. The boy from Jenkins was a brother-in-law and the boy from Whitesburg was a brother-in-law, we will (for practical reasons) assume their siblings married each other, that made the boy from Whitesburg have a black dog. From that premise, the boy from Neon was a Baker and had the red dog, leaving the boy from Letcher with the spotted dog. Since none of the Webb family had married, that meant they were the ones from Letcher, because the family from Jenkins had one in their family married. The Jenkins family, then, was the Smith family.
