"Ten Nights In A Barroom": A Musical Comedy

By Valeri Jones
Clinch Valley College will present the second musical in the history of CVC theater on March 6-10 at the CVC theater. "Ten Nights In A Barroom" is a musical comedy which is termed as "pure entertainment" by Bonnie Elosser, Stage Director.

Three major areas in the performing arts are combined in the musical. The departments of music, dance and drama are all integrated to produce a display of Clinch Valley talent. Eighteen students hold roles in the production. One of the leading roles is held by Clinch Valley graduate Patty Roberts who is returning to the stage. Also, involved in the musical are two J.J. Kelly High School students. Bonnie Mullins is cast in a leading role and Maria Eleana Portuondo is also performing.

"The play is about a small New England town in which a man opens a saloon. From then on the male residents begin to go downhill fast—they become drunkards," explained Mrs. Elosser. In the play there is the saloon keeper, his wife and son. Also the musical has a heroine and a villain, who tries to murder the heroine, and country bumpkin and his sweetheart.

The highlights of the musical are the musical numbers. There will be lots of singing and dancing, with most of the major characters having songs. The songs are from the 1890's, such as the opening number, "There Is A Tavern In The Town". Two other numbers which are featured are, "I'm A Ding Dong Daddy From Dumas" and "Ta-Ra-Ra-Boom-Dee-A".

"The Clinch Valley students show exceptional talent," commented Mrs. Elosser. "I think you'll have a very pleasant surprise in some of the exceptional voices." Tickets for the performance are $2.50. So, on March 6-10 sit back and relax during an evening of fun and entertainment.

No Smoking Referendum

We, the undersigned students of Clinch Valley College, sign this petition to call for a referendum vote that will ban the smoking of cigars, pipes, and cigarettes by both faculty and students in classrooms during the course of regular class periods.

Winners Announced

In the Honor Court election held on Wednesday, February 18, Billy Marshall won the position of junior representative, receiving 17 votes. However, Tim Austin and Audie Kennedy each received 15 votes, thus tying for the other position. Austin then forfeited the junior position on the court to Kennedy and Austin was proclaimed the junior alternate.

CVC's Dr. Duak, Johnny Carsetta, stuffs one in the closing seconds of the game.

Mohammed Khan: A Foreign Student From Bangladesh

By Marti Libby
Mohammed Khan, a foreign student from Dacca (capital), Bangladesh, is working towards a B.S. in math here at CVC. Before attending CVC, he earned in 2 years, a High Secondary Certificate Examination (HSC) degree at Notre Dame College in Dacca, which is a pre-university level of studies there; equivalent, however, to community colleges here. Khan, who has been attending CVC now for one and a half years, heard about CVC from a friend.

When not studying, Mohammed participates in the International Club of which he is a member and does India ink drawings as a hobby. Another hobby of his is traveling, coinciding with his favorite pastime—sightseeing. He has traveled to Pakistan, England, U.S., Dubai and Abu Dhabi (Mid-East), and part of India. After graduation, Khan plans to tour the world beginning with U.S. and to maybe get a M.S. in computer science at VPI.

"Colleges in Bangladesh are different from colleges in U.S. in that a student only has to take courses related to his major," he said. "Everything else is basically the same."

Letters Policy

The Highland Cavalier encourages all persons who wish to express themselves to write a letter to the editor. All letters must be signed to be printed. Names will be withheld by request and at the editor's discretion, however the original letter must be signed. In addition, the editor has the right to edit and/or reject letters that violate the guidelines as set up by the publications committee. Send all letters to Box 1127 by Thursday, 3:00 p.m. each week.

By Our Standards

It Isn't Created, It Happens!

Many have commented that the past issue of the Highland Cavalier lacked articles. However, being editor does not make one "all knowing" concerning everything that occurs on campus. Yes, I usually find out about everything but the sad situation is that by the next edition of the paper the story will be too old. To solve the problem of not having enough articles, I extend each student an opportunity to suggest stories that he or she feels is of interest to many of CVC's students. This invitation is especially open to club presidents and faculty members that are aware of events weeks in advance and would like to achieve publicity for the event.

Also, if publicity is desired on the event simply drop a note in CVC Mail, Box 1127 or contact me personally. A member of the staff will be assigned coverage.

All organizations, etc. are welcome to publish news concerning their organization's activities or plans. Simply have your reporter write up the article and bring it by the paper office by Thursday at 3:00 p.m. Remember, the Highland Cavalier is a student publication, not just a staff publication. The news isn't created—it happens!

Sincerely yours,
Jerry Kilgore, Editor

CVC Cited

The following paragraph is from an article by a Virginia microbiologist published in the American Society for Microbiology News (Vol. 47, No. 1, 1981). I thought your readers might be interested in what fellow Virginians from "up east" have to say about Clinch Valley College in a national magazine.

Science fair judging can be both rewarding and a hassle, you can BET on that! However, even more of a hassle is finding science fair judges. One of the major difficulties in finding science fair judges relates to both the locations of the fairs and the distribution of microbiologists within Virginia. The fairs themselves have a unique distribution. Locations range from major urban areas such as Manassas in northern Virginia and Hampton in the Tidewater region to delightfully rural settings such as Clinch Valley and Warsaw. For those not familiar with the geography of Virginia, Clinch Valley is in the southeast corner of the state between Big Stone Gap and Pound, and Warsaw is up in the Northern Neck, a peninsula formed by the Rappahannock and Potomac Rivers. Access by road to either area is limited. Thus, finding a willing microbiologist is a problem!

Sincerely,
William Hooper

Fraternities Serve Purpose

Editor:
I am disturbed by the frequent implications by administration, faculty, and student body, that fraternities on this campus, are havens for those who love to party and get smashed. Corrections are in order, and I feel they need to be made.

The fraternity with which I am affiliated has successfully completed many worthwhile service projects. Senior Citizens and underprivileged children have greatly benefited from the hours we have volunteered to their care.

The purpose of this letter was not to list all of our accomplishments, but simply to let many of you know that you are wrong in believing we only receive satisfaction out of a keg of beer and a loud stereo.

There are many of you who would like to see fraternities nonexistent on this campus, in fact you appear very interested, but the real thing about it all, is that you are not interested enough to inquire about our projects, but just to think the worst of us. If you were truly interested you would know that our main interests and goals are focused on the needs and support of others, we need yours.

Thank you,
Martha Hawkins

To Whom It May Concern

I would like to direct this letter to the cowardly SOB who continues to deface the walls of this campus with the slogan (Phi Sigma Suck). In the years I've been a student here, I've heard many stories of drunken orgies, rapes, and rumbles which were supposed to have happened at our chapter house. Many people who have taken the time to meet my brothers and me have come to know these stories are false.

Phi Sigma Kappa continually tries to upgrade the quality of social life at CVC. We have no need of a sick little fool like you writing this trash. If you can't come out of the closet and conjure up enough guts to prove you're a man and tell me these things to my face, then you aren't worth the effort your father put forth in conceiving you.

Very truly yours,
Steven Duffy
President, Phi Sigma Kappa

Harris Speaks Out

Sirs,
After reading the last issue of H.C., I felt prompted once again to jot down a few thoughts. After reading Tom Baty's article on "Sulticase Anarchy", I felt for once someone had hit the nail on the head. In last week's issue, naturally took an interest in Miss Jones' letter and its relationship with Mr. Baty's article. I was also enlightened once again by Mr. Kilgore's editorial. First of all, Mr. Baty's article was an accurate definition of the division that is present at this school. Of course, we are for the most part friends on this campus, regardless of the mass exodus that occurs every Friday around 3 p.m.

Mr. Baty's letter evidently possessed some typographical errors, thus causing a rift which resulted in Miss Jones' letter. This rift, I feel sheds light on a problem more glaring than those inherent with every S.G.A. in the history of this campus, including the last one. The problem seems to be that we as students fail to make use of our most potent voice, this paper. Mr. Baty's letter addresses a real problem that for some students approaches a malaise during these grey February days.

This school is small thus negating a real social life. (Why can't we enjoy ourselves down at the picnic grounds should remain a source of income for those of us that do stay here).

books on the shelves of the Wylie Library. While Miss Jones' statement about input is meant to be general in scope, if we narrow this question of input to our own paper, maybe we as students can use this medium as a forum for some of the ideas we are being instilled with here at this campus.

I won't attack this paper directly for I believe the editor is doing as good a job as any. The H.C. always asks, pleads for letters. The editor has a schedule too, and the paper can only be as interesting as we the study body makes it. It's easy to be like a Fred Cohl, a previous writer for the H.C., and spout hate. The trick is caring. I believe that I've learned to care more. I also believe the editor cares. I believe the question of rats in the trailers or the question of whether or not to smoke in the classroom, are of importance. But they lack urgency. Mr. Editor, (And I for one don't care about the smoke and will vote No). The question of smoking in class probably approaches the significance of the Swine Flu shots both in popularity and in discussion value. As for the rats, it was three months ago, or better, when I voiced a complaint to the Housing Director, and it was roughly about that same amount of time that I first grabbed a club, along with others, and went crawling around the dumpsters pounding hell out of rodents as big as small cats. Does gossip move that slow on this campus? I think not.

My point is that this problem should have been checked a lot more thoroughly than your editorial and Doug Elosser's ear for gossip. There is no reason to have this swept under the rug! This is a real problem and deserves a follow up. Your job as editor should include a curious nose and a perceptive eye. Possibly, with a willing ear, all those students who can write out there will provide the input that the H.C. so sorely needed.

I'm sure Mr. Kilgore, that you are capable of taking occasional stands on subjects that get us fired up. C'mon Jerry! I mean times aren't the best but they are exciting and our paper should not remain a stagnant source pool of trivial news and advertisements. As Editor of a paper you can share the most potent voice on campus. So don't be content with a Who's Who listing and a "Job well done"

Thank you
Steve Harris

The Saying On The Wall

By Jim Collie
Baptist Campus Minister

It hangs on the wall above my desk. I don't know who put it there or when. It was there when I came and I really hope it will stay for a long while. It is a wall hanging or small banner with the words, "People are lonely because they build walls instead of bridges."

Many of those walls that we build are in our minds. The psychologists have a name for it. They call it building a logic-tight compartment. We do it like this:

I am right! If you agree with me, that proves that I am right. Otherwise you would not agree with me. If you do not agree with me, that also proves that I am right. If I were not right, you would not disagree.

Adopting the logic-tight compartment approach to reasoning saves us from having to really listen to anyone who might think or believe differently. It takes all of the burden of understanding and change off our shoulders and puts it on theirs. It is then a simple matter of us and them.

Perhaps it is to us logic-tight compartment folk and we wall builders that Paul wrote the twelfth chapter of Romans: "Do not be conformed to this world but be transformed by the renewal of your mind..." (Romans 12:2 - The Revised Standard Version) Tear down the walls... build some bridges today.

Lessons From The Horizon

Warren H. Wattenbarger
Campus Minister,
Wesley Foundation

The Horizon points beyond itself. The limit of our vision does not enclose the circumference of human experience. We scale one peak only to find a grander vista in the distance. Life is not self-contained. Its dimensions include longitudes and latitudes we cannot chart from our partial perspective. The more that we know, the more there is to know. To proceed from what we can see to what we cannot see takes faith "a leap of faith" and the soul's invincible surmise. I believe in God because I make the leap from what I know to what I presume. On the horizon I link up the finite with the infinite, believing that the one point beyond itself (relates) to the other.

Although the horizon is far away, it also, paradoxically, lies close at hand. The mountain peaks at the end of my vision connect to closer ranges and these to the mountain I am standing on, and that to the ground under my feet. The horizon is here as well as there. Is it not even so with God? He is not just Creator but also Sustainer and Redeemer, a very present help in time of trouble—Jeremiah 23. God is "The beyond in the midst of life... the transcendent is not infinitely remote but close at hand. God is present with us. That is what Jesus Christ showed us. God is involved in life. God has become flesh.

As I watch the horizon, it changes. Those clouds never stand still. This being true, is anything permanent? Is any thing constant amidst the vicissitudes of life? Could it be that when all else has faded away, one person, God, and one thing love, will remain? The ever-changing horizon reminds me that God is eternal and love is eternal. Insofar as I now experience or practice love, I know God and begin to participate in eternal life. "Life is eternal and love is eternal and death is only a horizon and a horizon is nothing save the limit of our sight."—Rosalind W. Raymond. The horizon teaches us that if tomorrow we would be out there where God is and where love still stands, then today we must live under God and lead the life of love.

Certified Public Accountants

Those students interested in majoring in Business with a concentration in Accounting may find a career as a CPA to their liking.

Accountants prepare and examine financial statements and reports. They work for accounting firms, government, and business. Individuals entering this field should like to work with numbers and technical data. Accountants may specialize in taxation, auditing, budgeting, and other areas.

Education and License Requirements

To become recognized as a certified public accountant in Virginia, the applicant must: be a resident of the state for at least six months; or be domiciled in Virginia; or have a place of business in Virginia; be eighteen years old and of good character; have a college degree (or its equivalent) approved by the State Board of Accountancy; have from 2 to 4 years of work experience and pass an examination. The examination may be waived by the Board for those licensed in other states with similar procedures.

Employment Outlook

On the national level, employment for certified public accountants is expected to increase as fast as the average employment in other occupations through the middle 1980's. The number of CPA's in Virginia is projected to be about 15,600 in 1982. There are about 800 job openings for professional accounting workers each year in Virginia. Many of these jobs do not require a CPA certificate, but employers often prefer to hire CPA's.

Earnings

On the national level, the beginning salary in 1976 for accountants was approximately $11,500. Experienced accountants earned between $15,400 and $23,400. In Virginia the 1979 annual salary scale for accountants employed in Civil Service began at approximately $11,200. The highest job classification at the top pay scale was approximately $32,100. The salaries of accountants employed elsewhere vary from this salary scale. CPA's are usually paid more than other accountants.

Cavs Win Last Home Game, 74-53

Cavs get ready to rebound in their last home game with Emory and Henry.

The Clinch Valley College men's basketball team closed out their regular season schedule with a big win over the Emory and Henry Wasps, 74-53. The Cavaliers got a big contribution from everyone in drubbing the undermanned Wasps. But the win wasn't enough to offset a pair of losses the week before to district foes Pikeville and Campbellville. Pikeville clinched the conference championship with a 70-63 win in overtime while Campbellville got a measure of revenge by handing CVC a fearsome 82-64 pounding.

The losses snapped a 3 game KIAC winning streak for the Cavaliers and ended any hopes of a first round KIAC playoff game at home. But even so, it was by any stretch of the imagination a great season for Clinch Valley. Fifteen wins, seven wins in the KIAC, first time wins over five teams, and at last a little respect.

As this article goes to press the Cavaliers will be on their way to Cumberland to play in the conference tournament. Win or lose, CVC can hold it's head high. Coach Dave Beatley has to be coach of the year in the KIAC for the abrupt turnaround he has made in the program.

Next week we'll have the best and worst of the year plus a report on Clinch Valley's tournament action. We'll also find out what's happening in intramurals so don't miss it.

Lady Cavs Win Two, Lose One

By Cindy Saylor
With only make-up games left before the State Tournament, the Clinch Valley College Lady Cavaliers have proven the ability and the yearn for victory. The games that remain are conference; one with Emory & Henry and the other with Lynchburg.

Last week, the ladies in maroon traveled to Randolph Macon at Ashland losing 53-66. In the contest, senior point guard Trish Olinger scored 18 points and had 5 steals. Center Sharon Morris also pumped in 18 points for the cause, pulled down 10 rebounds, and shot 58% from the charity stripe. Morris also had 2 blocks in the game, while senior Delcina Wilkerson grabbed down 6 rebounds. Wilkerson-6; Olinger-18; Cox-6; Gonzalez-5.

Against Randolph Macon Women's College, the Lady Cavs hustled to a 73-55 win. Again Trish Olinger and Sharon Morris led in scoring with 20 points and 18 points respectively. Olinger had 7 steals and 5 assists, while Morris pulled down 17 rebounds and rejected 2 shots.

Freshman Angie Clark scored 13 points, had 5 rebounds and shot 58% from the field and 50% from the stripe. Senior Janie Cox pumped in 12 points while grabbing 13 rebounds off the boards. Cox shot 63% from the field and 50% from the free throw line. Wilkerson-7; Olinger-30; Morris-16; Cox-12; Gonzalez-5;

Clark-13.
In their last scheduled road trip, the Lady Cavaliers overcame Milligan College 87-43.

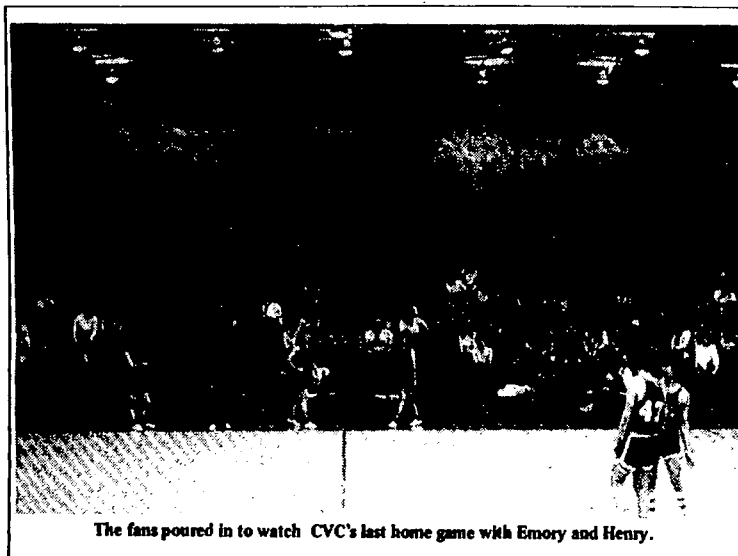

Junior center Sharon Morris had 27 points and 21 rebounds in the contest. Morris shot 55% from the field and 71% from the stripe. Angie Clark pumped in 10 points while Delcina Wilkerson had 8 points, 10 rebounds and rejected two shots.
