The Voltage Brothers

The Voltage Brothers, A Shock For CVC

By Valeri Jones

The Voltage Brothers from Rochester, New York will be the entertainment at this year's Spring Formal. Ray Russ contracted the Voltage Brothers through East Coast Entertainment, Inc. The band provides a sample from a wide spectrum of music ranging from DEVO to Kool and the Gang. The band also does selections from Christopher Cross, Gary Newman, Stevie Wonder, Mothers Finest, Shalamar, Lipps, Inc., and many others. The Band also has a collection of original material that is used in addition to copy material. The group records under CBS records label on Lifesong Records. The band has cut 2 albums (one not yet released). The first was Throwdown, which attained the number 68 spot on the record charts in only three weeks. But full scale promotion of the album is not planned as of yet. The group will begin their concert tour in March and will be at Clinch Valley on May 2, 1981 for the Spring Formal. Tickets, when they go on sale, will be $5.00 per couple, $3.00, single.

New Service At CVC

Special Services has initiated a peer-contact program at CVC. Often a student may become frustrated, disappointed, angry, or hurt. When this happens the person may need someone to talk with about his personal concerns, but does not know to whom he can go. Special Services sincerely believes a peer-contact could be just that someone.

person? A peer-contact is someone who cares about others and who talks with them about their thoughts and feelings. Rather than being an "advice-giver" or "problem-sover," a peer-contact is a sensitive listener who uses communication skills to encourage self-exploration and decision making.

students assigned as peer-contacts for the Spring Semester. Greg Cole and Keith Phillips are both residents of McCrary Dorm, while Tim Swiney commutes from Appalachia. Tim can be contacted through the campus mail. Roberta Phillips, Rosemary Davis and Cathy Hill are all residents of McCrary Dorm and can also be contacted through the campus mail.

Fred McClellan Speaks To Merit Society About Job Transition

By Janice Hankle

Mr. Fred McClellan, comptroller of the area Self-Serv food stores and president of SCORE/ACE, spoke to members of the Merit Society and the active chapter of the Society of Retired Executives. McClellan gave members of the club advice on making the transition from school to the work force. A reception followed in the chancellor's conference room.

McClellan stated that each student should set goals for what he wants to achieve in the next 3 to 5 years. These goals should not be set so high that they cannot be attained. He also stressed the importance of realizing that the education process does not end with college but continues throughout one's career.

McClellan emphasized that there are many jobs available, but it is necessary to continue to search for them. Being happy with one's job is the most important thing. So one should keep searching until he finds a job he enjoys. When looking for a job, it is necessary to have confidence in yourself and project this confidence to others.

Athlete Of The Year.. Not Quite

The long marathon is over and Clinch Valley has finished their season. What began so long ago in November has now closed out in February. The Cavaliers, long the whipping boys of the Mountain Empire, finally turned things around in Coach Dave Bentley's maiden college coaching season. The 15 wins were far more than any previous CVC team had won and included among the list of victims were some of the best small college teams in the area. So it is only fitting that we honor the members and staff of the team.

Here goes:

Player of the Year -- Barry Hamler, whose scoring and rebounding were among the tops of the year.

Newcomer of the Year -- Tony Kolb and Terry Edwards both made vital contributions.

Comeback of the Year -- Johnny Carnette, who was finally released from the dungeon of Frank Harrel's bench to prove he could do it on both ends of the court.

Survivor of the Year -- Jeff Leftwich, who was the only redshirt remaining when the buzzer finally sounded.

Game of the Year -- The fabulous double overtime victory at Williamsburg, Ky. over Cumberland.

Disappointment of the Year -- Two point loss to Pikeville at home in which Clinch Valley led the whole time until Danny Thomas' shot at the buzzer.

Road trip of the Year -- Mufreesboro TN. and back in one day.

Debate of the Year -- 6 hours to Cambellsville, 18 point loss, 4 1/2 hours back.

Battle of the Year -- Barry

Hamler's one punch knockout of a Middle Tennessee State player.

Outrageously Biked Award -- The pair of zebras who assisted in Clinch Valley's one point loss to Augusta College.

Doug Elosser Loquacious Personality Award -- Laura Hopkins and Roseanne Letson.

Best Accommodations -- Augusta Hilton, Worst Accommodations -- Gaia Motor Inn, Clinton, S.C.

Driver of the Year -- Jack Gibbs, the only one who drove on every trip.

Rumors, Innuendos, and Gossip Award -- Tony Kolb. Rabblerouser of the Year -- Wayne Stewart.

All kidding aside, this was the most successful year in CVC history and thanks go out to everyone who made it possible. Dave Bentley is now hitting the recruiting trail hard in an effort to build on his successful foundations and one can only hope this is the first in a long string of good basketball teams.

Power, Power

Dear Editor:
Power, Power, who's got the power? At most institutions of higher education the power belongs to the faculty and students. But at CVC the power belongs to the administration. I have always felt that the administration should be as the government, take care of the mechanics of running the school, not control of all aspects of college life. How this occurred is beyond me. I know that I am not the only one who realizes this. The fact that the administration has the power is evidenced by a former student leader stating that, "Ms. Flosser is the ultimate authority." I have heard many rumors, rumors mind you that various members of the faculty become involved in certain causes in this area, but abruptly ended their support.
Supposedly, we are a part of the University of Virginia. I should hope that a university with such long standing tradition would not condone this type of set-up. Most campus leaders since the infamous Roy Baker have led the students to believe that the administration was "for" the students and the faculty was "against" the student body. It really doesn't make a lot of sense but this is the situation we find ourselves in. There's no easy answer to this problem. Yes, it is a problem. College life should not only be book learning but should prepare the students to go out in the world and be independent, and stand for what one believes in. Here, we are prepared for this by being told to be quiet, don't make waves. What type of preparation is this to even be remotely associated with such a fine institution as UVA?

Does CVC deserve this affiliation with UVA? On the letterhead it says a University of Virginia education in a small college setting. Well, maybe academically in some areas this could be true, but with the values held here and the lack of UVA tradition that is a necessity to gain a full UVA education, no it doesn't.
Of course this is only my opinion, but I'm tired of those who agree just hiding and talking about it behind closed doors. It's time the students are heard and become the major force here at CVC instead of an incidental item of this place of business.
Sincerely, Randy G. Edwards

Thanks!

Dear Editor,
I would like to thank the CVC student government and student body for their contribution to Pro-Art Association.
Pro-Art not only presents a concert series for the area, but also provides workshops, programs, and exhibits for the primary and secondary schools. As a local student, I have benefited greatly from these programs. Thank you!
Sincerely,
Caroline Howard

You Know Who You Are

This is addressed to those pathetic souls who feel the need to rip off equipment from the CVC Baseball Team. Recently two incidents have personified the attitude of one or more individuals. First, a bag of old baseballs was taken from the equipment storage room of the gym for someone's sick idea of a

Secondly, some brand-new T-shirts that were boxed and stored in the athletic offices of the gym were ripped off. All of you should realize that the baseball team worked their butts off trying to raise the money for those T-shirts, and it's pigs like the thieves who have such sick, egocentric attitudes that eventually discourage all decent people. Whoever these thieving rodents are, I feel sorry for you. It must be terrible to be driven to the point of stealing from fellow athletes to fulfill your own misguided desires!

McCraray Pop Machine

Dear Editor,
There's something fantastic about a pop machine as it colorfully stands without speaking, all you can hear is the humming of its motor. It contains a wide variety of sodas which are Americans' favorite drinks. Is it not your friend, allowing you to quench your thirst at anytime?

Several times, people can be found abusing it by kicking, punching, or shaking it. Really the pop machine is a highly advanced piece of machinery and extremely smart. It can even take a human's money and not give them a soda, leaving those frustrated humans with nothing but madness and thirst.

And The Beat Fades Away

Dear Editor,
I am very happy with the new stereo in the lounge for we now can listen to a wide variety of music and hear news each hour. This is a welcome and refreshing change from the Juke Box which had constantly speeded out obnoxious Disco. There is however, one problem. The music can't be heard over the noise of students. When I requested a bit more volume, I was told that this would bother students in class. Since there are no classes above the lounge and the walls are made of stone, I know this statement to be merely an excuse. Without an increase in volume the stereo will stand as another example of waste of money. Perhaps as Editor you might help me in my quest to gain this added volume. Furthermore if any other students agree with me, I ask that they speak out to obtain what we desire.

Sincerely
Steven Duffy

By Our Standards

Let's Put A Little Volume In It

CVC has finally received the stereo for the lounge and it is most definitely a wise purchase. The SGA funds were spent wisely, for it does provide a service to a majority of the student body throughout the day. But there is one drawback to the new setup. No one can hear the music. Above the din produced around lunchtime by people talking and such, all that is audible is a low pitched rumble which vaguely resembles music. This is totally ridiculous. After spending a large sum of money on this, the student body has no control over the volume of the music. This is like a regression to grade school where the teacher and principal trot over the heads of a naughty pupil. Come on! We are adults and I believe the students could keep the volume at a practical level. And as for it disturbing classes, if the noise of laughter doesn't now, nothing will. I have never heard a sound coming from the lounge in any of my classes.

I don't believe the students are asking for the music to be turned so loud as to shatter the windows. But as it is now, the music is nothing but a beat, beat every now and then. Plus, the news is inaudible also. Early in the morning and late in the afternoon, there are less students in the lounge. Therefore, the volume can be reduced. But around noon, I think we could stand a little increase. After all, the Jefferson Lounge is a student building, not privately owned, and therefore, should be to accommodate students. The placement of the receiver is questionable also. It could not be placed in the bookstore because of its 4:30 p.m. closing time. But under the serving line in the kitchen isn't the answer. Something should be done about a new set-up for it. Perhaps a place could be set aside for it in the lounge, but of course it would have to be safeguarded.

So, let's "try" to hear it for the purchase of the SGA stereo, but let's respond to the problems surrounding it.

Sincerely,
Valeri Jones, Assistant Editor

Remember to attend the musical March 6-11. Tickets for students are $2.50. Reservations can be made by contacting the Humanities Department.

Is It For All?

At the past SGA meeting, the council voted by a 8-7 margin to provide refreshments for a senior "party." Voting for the measure included Mark Cronin, Mark King, Frank Hodges, Rick Davidson, Steve Lovell, Lori Carr, and Rick Cole. Voting against the measure were Allen Chadwell, Judy Cole, Marsha Adams, Terry Kilgore, Vernon Williams, Laughlin Lee, and Bruce Gibson. Ray Russ then voted for the measure to break the tie.

The measure required allocating money for the refreshments. This may not seem that bad, but no one in SGA seems to know exactly how much money remains in their account. Also, the SGA hasn't allocated money for decorations for the Spring Formal. Shouldn't the SGA make sure it has money for the Spring Formal before it spends its money on a "party"? You must admit the Spring Formal is for all students while the "party" is for seniors up to a specified time when it becomes open to all students.

Another question that needs to be raised concerns representation. Is this "party" what the majority of seniors want? Wouldn't it be more representative if the SGA planned something for the weekend of graduation?

In closing, the seniors comprise approximately 1/4 of the entire student body. Most SGA sponsored events don't benefit that many. However, almost all seniors attend graduation ceremonies. So why not be more representative.

As Chairman

Hooper Speaks Of "New" System

Recently, Dr. William Hooper, professor of physics at CVC, was appointed Chairman of the Metric Committee of the American Association of Physics Teachers (AAPT). Commenting on the new post, Hooper said, "I was very surprised to be appointed Chairman. The best I was hoping for was a seat on the committee."

Concerning the duties of the Committee, Hooper said that the main objective currently is to settle a dispute between the AAPT and the National Bureau of Standards (NBS). The NBS continues to interchange words "weight" and "mass" in its publications. Technically, "weight" means the force of gravity on an object and "mass" describes how much matter is in an object. Eventually this disagreement led to the ceasure of the NBS. Hooper said, "It is the National Bureau of Standards' duty to present information to the public. They should use the metric words for mass and weight instead of further confusing the public."

Continuing, Hooper said, "I hope this conflict can be settled quickly because I believe there are other things the Committee can accomplish."
One task is to change the meaning of the word "Metre". Hooper stressed that the technological meaning of the word would be changed so that it would be defined in terms of beam of light.

Another task Hooper would like to see the Committee become involved with is text books. The federal government adopted modernized SI (Système International) version of the metric system. Hooper said, "A lot of textbooks claim the use of the SI version but when you begin reading them you find they do not. I would like for the committee to begin issuing seals of approval to textbooks."

Hooper feels that one day the United States will go full-time metric. Already the Common Market fines its member countries for not using the metric system. An example of the U.S. going metric is the law passed in California that requires that only metric is to be taught in metric. The English system is taught as an advanced course in high school.

In closing, Hooper said, "The longer we wait to go full-time metric, the more confusing it is going to be."

Career Corner

By Ann Morris
Social Workers help individuals adjust to society. Employed in agencies, medical centers, hospitals, and private organizations, they work with the aging, with troubled families, with deprived children, with foster children, and welfare agencies. Social workers should be mature and should have a basic concern for the welfare of others.

Education and Licensing Requirements
To become licensed as a social worker in Virginia, and applicant must provide five letters of recommendation, hold a master's degree in social work from an accredited school of social work, must have three years of experience in social work, and must pass an examination, both oral and written.

Training Programs in Virginia
Clinch Valley College offers the Bachelor of Science degree in Social Work, along with Emory & Henry College, George Mason University, Radford College, and Virginia Intermont College. Both Norfolk State College and Virginia Commonwealth University offer the Master of Science degree in Social Work.

Career Opportunities
A Bachelor's degree in Social Work enables students to take beginning positions in the field of social welfare at the county, state, or federal levels. However, these positions usually do not carry the salary nor the responsibility comparable to Master's degree-level jobs. A Master's degree in Social Work allows a person to seek employment as a case worker, group worker, or community organization worker. The case worker usually handles problems of individuals or families. The group worker is usually involved with groups who have similar handicaps, or economic and cultural problems. The community organization worker attempts to analyze the problems of the whole community and to discover ways in which to meet them. The community organization worker tries to mobilize the efforts of all agencies to work on solving the problem.

Employment Outlook and Earnings
On the "Wage" level, opportunities for social workers are expected to be good through the middle 1990's. In Virginia, there are about 240 job openings per year for social workers. In Virginia, the 1979 salary scale for social workers employed in Civil Service ranged from $11,200 to $18,000 depending upon education and experience.

Pi Kappa Phi's "P.U.S.H."

Handicapped children across the country will have a much better life thanks to the Pi Kappa Phi National Service Project, P.U.S.H. (Play Units for the Severely Handicapped). These units utilize space, lighting, and the child's own resources to occupy their previously unappreciated creativity. Many of the children will benefit from these units both physically and mentally as they are often "locked away and forgotten" by society and even more tragically by their family. As with most worthwhile endeavors, these Play Units are quite expensive. $10,000 probably seems expensive until you realize the difference in the child's behavior and overall attitude.

At present, 93% of the Pi Kapp Chapters nationwide have stated their projected contribution, ranging from $200 to the full $10,000. Epsilon Epsilon, one of the youngest Pi Kapp Chapters has pledged a minimum of $500. If all goes well, the actual amount will be much higher. Contributions are welcome.

As most of you know, the Brothers of Epsilon Epsilon, alumni, visiting Brothers and guests celebrated this past weekend, The Epsilon Epsilon's Birthday. The festivities began Friday following class and continued through our birthday dances which provided all an exceptional evening benefitting the occasion. Saturday's closed party at the Chapter House found all well recuperated and midnight served as the high point of the weekend, the official birthday had arrived although Sunday found the Brothers far from tapering off from celebrating.

Next week a full report on the Beta Pledge Class.

Phi Sigma Kappa News

Greetings from the brothers of Phi Sigma Kappa. It has been a while since our article has graced the pages of the Highland Cavalier, thus we have some catching up to do.

Firstly, we are proud to announce that Tom Moore, James Bowen, Dennis Tateen, Audie Kennedy, Reggie Bryant, Johnny Carrette, and Randy Edwards have associated with the Phi Sigma Kappa. We welcome these men into our brotherhood, and wish them the best of luck. The Little Sisters of the Triple T's have associated six young women into their organization. We welcome Karen Burkett, Jennifer Gorman, Susan Harris, Marti Libby, Robin Shaller, and Jane Upp. We wish all of them the best of luck.

The brothers appreciate the patronage of everone who attended our last dance. However, this had to have been the umpteenth dance of this type held this year. Therefore, the chapter would like to know what the students of CVC want. A questionnaire will be distributed in the near future. So how about something new? If you want it, we can do it.

Phi Upsilon Omega News

The Sisters of Phi Upsilon Omega recently attended the Old West Dinner Theatre to celebrate birthdays during the period of December, January, and February. The Sisters having birthdays during this period received gifts and a cake after the delicious buffet dinner. This was followed by the play "Murder at Howard Johnson's", a risqué comedy with a cast of zany characters. The entire evening was enjoyed by all the Sisters.

Upcoming activities the Sisters have planned include a dance this Friday, March 6. The Sisters will be holding a raffle to be given away at the dance. Tickets can be purchased from any Phi Upsilon Omega member this week.

Inexpensive Program In Greece Offered

This summer, students may enroll in the Aegean Institute in Poros, Greece, and receive up to six hours of credit for courses being offered through the auspices of Clinch Valley College in Wise. The program dates are June 22 through August 3, 1981.

The Aegean Institute, incorporated in Massachusetts in 1987 as a non-profit organization for summer study in Greece, attracts people of all ages who have an interest in Greece and its culture. The program provides the student with a basic understanding and appreciation of both ancient and modern Greek culture.

Organized trips to various important sites and museums supplement the formal coursework.

Poros is an island south of Athens, located only a few minutes by boat from Galatas on the mainland. Students reside in the Galatella Hotel and meet their classes at the Villa Askedra Annex, a ten-minute walk along the shoreline. The surrounding country and seaside provide recreational opportunities for hiking, swimming, and boating. There also is an informal program of music and folk-dancing.

Clinch Valley College courses which may be taken for credit include Art 495 (Ancient Art); Anthropology 495 (Anthropology); Theatre 495 (Ancient Drama); Humanities 395 (Culture and Society of Classical Athens); Humanities 195 (Beginning Modern Greek); and Humanities 395 (Intermediate Modern Greek). These courses would be especially attractive to students and teachers of history, social studies, art, theatre, philosophy, and languages. They may be taken under the Credit-No Credit grading system, but credit-no credit courses may not be applied toward general education requirements.

Participants pay a $50 initial fee plus a comprehensive fee of $1,100 which is due May 15. The comprehensive fee includes tuition, room for the six-week stay, board (breakfast and dinner), and several excursions including a four-day trip to Crete, trips to Aegina, Argolid, and the Epidaurus Drama Festival performance, a four-day trip to Olympia and Delphi; and a class trip to Athens.

Students are responsible for incidentals and travel arrangements between their homes and Greece. Student fares and group rates are available through travel agents or the institute agent, Michael Vasilakis, who may be contacted at Greek Islands International, 803 Rockland Avenue, Staten Island, New York, 10314.

Persons who are interested in participating in the Aegean Institute may contact Judd Lewis, Professor of Philosophy, Clinch Valley College, Wise, Virginia, 24293, or the CVC Office of Continuing Education. Full-time Clinch Valley College students may apply for additional travel funds through the CVC Study and Travel Abroad Program, by contacting Judd Lewis or Michael O'Donnell at Clinch Valley College.

Believe In Yourself

Jesus said: "If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth." Mark 9:23

One day Jesus said to a sinful person, "Neither do I condemn thee; go and sin no more." John 8:11. He was saying of that person, "No matter what your past has been, I still believe in you." Christ lifted persons to a new sense of self respect and to a new belief in themselves. Do you believe in yourself? If your answer is negative, you have a serious handicap to overcome. There are three essential steps you can take to help yourself.

See yourself as succeeding. All of us become the person we see ourselves to be. Your mind will seek to block your picture of success by building up obstacles, but if you will think of your assets, you will come to see that you have more for you than against you.

Be willing to be yourself. We deprecate ourselves when we become awestruck by other people whom we try to copy. Within each of us is a finer person waiting to be released. As you develop your finest self, you will develop marvelous self-confidence. Establish a right relationship with God. Every sort of energy and endurance, of courage and capacity for handling life's evils, is set free in those who have religious faith. When the warmth of God's love begins to surround us and when his power begins to flow, then the energy, endurance, courage and capacity which have remained dormant within us rises and takes hold of our lives.

A Winning Team

By Jim Collie
Baptist Campus Minister

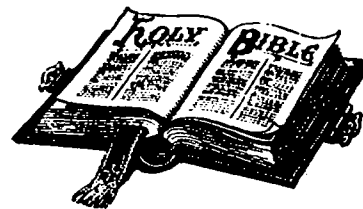

What makes a winning team? Is it more games in the win column at the season's end? Is it a winning streak? Or is it playing to the best of your ability week in and week out? Perhaps learning just as much about the game from your defeats as from the victories? And what about the dogged determination that it takes to stay in the game and know victory or defeat only as the final buzzer sounds?

Hear Coach Paul on winning in the game of life. "...for I have learned to be satisfied with what I have. I know what it is to be in need, and what it is to have more than enough. I have learned this secret, so that anywhere, at any time, I am content, whether I am full or hungry, whether I have too much or too little. I have strength to face all conditions by the power that Christ gives me." (Philippians 4:11-13. Today's English Version.)

Winning streaks are very rare in the game of life. A better example is the kind of season just completed by our own Clinch Valley College Cavaliers. Now, there's a winning team!

Friends Forever

I've done it this time, that's for sure
My happy fantasies will be no more.
It may be hard, but let's be friends,
friends forever; until the end.
And if your problem becomes hard to bear,
please remember me; I'll always be there.
This poem may seem silly, I guess that's true, but it says better than I, "I'll always love you."

Heated Race Of Four In Intramurals

We've reached the latter stages of this year's highly competitive intramural basketball season and it is time to see the results of two weeks of constant battle. The league has seemingly divided into an upper four and a bottom four but aside from the K.O.B., the Pi Kappas, the Phi Sigs and the Slimy Dogs have been very competitive, which is bad news to the rest of the league as everyone scrambles for the best seedings in the playoffs.

Bruins -- The convening No. 1 pick has been having difficulties and while being 2-0 against upper four teams they have dropped 2 games to the Pi Kappas. They play good defense and have plenty of offensive firepower but are inconsistent and seem to lack a real killer instinct. Their day of reckoning comes this week when they take on the rest of the league's powers.

E.O.C.G. This bunch has fine talent and a good sense of the team game. They may tend to relax when they get a good lead but aside from an opening loss they have cruised to first in their division.

G.M. SOTS -- Excellent talent, but rather unorganized on the floor. Their zone defense is pierced too frequently but they have all kinds of offense.

Superstars -- The best shooting frontline in the league, but their guard play hasn't been as good. Can they win it all

Only if they play defense and slow up their backcourt.

Phi Sigs -- A good frontline, but teams are killing them on offense with fast breaks. Can't be regarded as a serious contender to the title but they've played well against some good teams.

Pi Kappas -- If they could play the Bruins all the time they'd be in first place. They are the best of the bottom floor and could be a factor come tourney time.

Slimy Dogs -- This team is the best first half club in the league but always fall back when teams really apply the pressure. They play a good offensive game but lack defensive stoppers necessary to win it in the tournament.

K.O.B. -- Well, at least they show up each game. One has to admire their tenacity.

The standings are as follows:
Division I
1. Bruins 4-0 6-2
2. Superstars 3-1 6-2

3. Slimy Dogs 1-3 2-8
4. K.O.B. 0-4 0-8

Division II
1. T.M.E.O.C.G. 4-0 7-1
2. G.M. SOTS 3-1 7-1
3. Pi Kappas 1-3 3-5
4. Phi Sigs 0-4 0-8

Lady Cavs Drop Last Two

By Cindy Saylor

Ending their season last week, the Lady Cavaliers finished 11-10 overall and a 5-5 conference, losing to Emory and Henry and Lynchburg College.

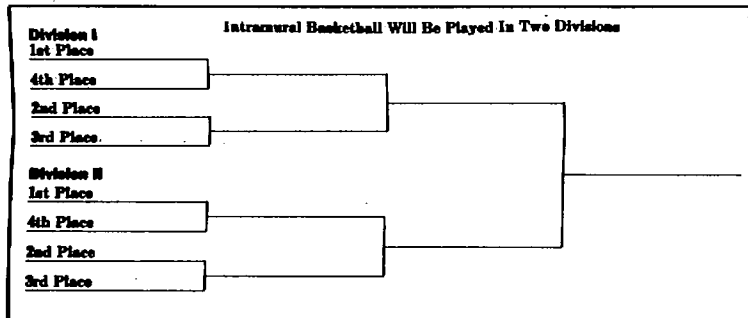

In the first contest against Emory and Henry, the Lady Wasps overcame the Lady Cavs 69-62. Junior center Sharon Morris scored 20 points, pulled down 20 rebounds, and rejected 4 lady Wasp shots.

Freshman Pat Scott pumped in 12 points for the ladies in red shooting 50% from the field and 100% from the charity stripe. Senior Dequina Wilkerson had 10 points and 5 steals, while point guard Trish Olinger had 4 assists, 3 steals, and 6 points. Junior Kelee Gonzalez scored 8 points.

Senior Trish Olinger and Junior Sharon Morris' 18 points each could not bring a win for the Lady Cavs as they hosted Lynchburg College. The ladies in red fell to their opponents with one second showing on the clock, 62-61.

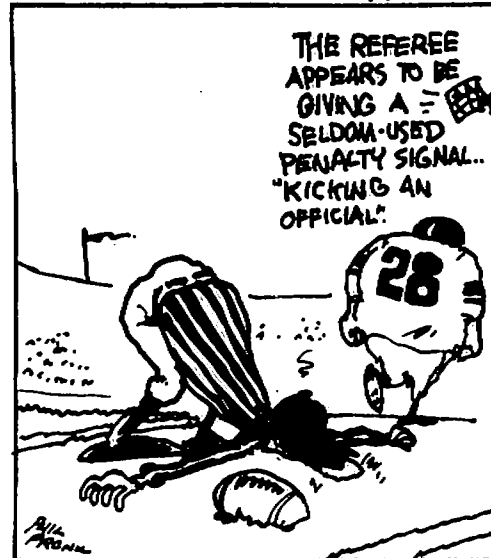

Morris finishing her junior season in her last game with 18 rebounds, and an overwhelming 6 blocked shots, in addition to the 18 points. She shot 41% from the field and 80% from the stripe. Morris was awarded with a trophy and a game ball for scoring her 1,000 points on the road at Randolph Macon last week.

Also in the game, Olinger had 5 assists, 5 rebounds, and went 50% and 100% from the field and line respectively. Freshman guard Angie Clark scored 11 points and had 4 steals. Senior Janie Cox had 8 points and 3 steals and 3 assists.

Don't forget to attend intramurals this week!
