Now what's that? Don't you think we've caught him?

Crimes Reported In McCraray

In the past week two unrelated crimes occurred at CVC. The first crime occurred early Sunday morning in McCraray Hall. The student was using a pass key (which was stolen from a Resident Assistant last year) to enter rooms with criminal intent. The student, as stated in a voluntary statement, was hungry and decided to use the key to find food. The student first went to the girl's side but when he began to enter a room an occupant said, "Come in." The student then went to the boy's side to continue looking. He proceeded to Terry Kilgore's room (on third floor) where several items were taken. He then went down to first floor and entered Mark Hutchinson's room where other items were taken. Continuing, he then went back up to third floor where he was eventually caught by Richard Frye.

The Wise Police were then summoned to CVC. They took the student to the station where he made a volunteer statement. He was detained for several hours and then released. One of the pending charges was a felony.

However in stating the reason that the college did not prosecute, Bonnie Elosser, Dean of Students said, "Officials of the administration talked with the Wise Police, the student's parents and the student. It was mutually decided that the student should not remain in school and he should seek help to correct behavioral problems. In making this decision, the administration felt that it was acting in the best interest of the College and the student."

In an unrelated incident, several students decided that it would be nice to remove some plants from the cafeteria. The plants were discovered during a fire inspection in McCraray Hall. Since the students involved were willing to return the plants and hadn't been in any serious trouble before, no charges were made.

This was not the first time plants had been taken from the cafeteria. Elosser said, "Lots of times students get away with it, but they should remember that one time they will be caught."

Students Voice Opinions

By: Valeri Jones

The SGA has acted recently on two projects for the student body. They have purchased a stereo system for the lounge and money has been allocated to provide kegs for a senior party in the spring. The Highland Cavalier asked 2 students from each class what their opinion was on these moves.

Freshman Jim Green: "I think the buying of the stereo was a good idea but the speakers are in a bad place. And the brackets put into the speakers have ruined the cabinets. I also think they could put the receiver in a better place, and the volume is too low."

"I don't think that the SGA should spend the money on liquor for the seniors. They should make the party BYOB and spend the money on food or music for the party."

Freshman Libby Poteet: "The

purchasing of the stereo was a good idea but they aren't putting it to proper use. It's more or less a waste of money because you can't even hear it."

"The party for the seniors is a good idea if they can afford it." Sophomore Keith Denson: "I think the buying of the stereo was a good idea and they meant well, but it was a waste of money because you can't hear the damn thing."

"It's ok to me for a senior party but they should check on their funds first. And they should be divided equally."

Sophomore Susan Jarmolowski: "I think it's a good idea that we have a stereo but it should be louder." "I don't think they should have the party. They should concentrate on the Spring Formal."

Junior Greg Edwards: "It's good buying it, but you can't hear it. It needs to be louder."

"The party is fine as long as all students get involved. It's probably the only honor the seniors will get."

Junior Gustavo Muorgina: "The stereo is a great idea. But it's a bad idea putting the receiver in the kitchen." "The party is quite a bit prejudiced to the underclassmen."

Senior Rosanne Letson: "It's a good idea and it's about time. But Mrs. Bass shouldn't control it. Sometimes you can't even hear it when you're sitting under the speakers." "As I'm a senior, I think the party is a good idea."

Senior John Bauer: "It's about time they got something like the stereo here, but who let Helen Bass control the volume? And who voted on the station to listen to? About the party, the seniors haven't received recognition all year, it will be good."

Squaring Off

Two of the top intramural teams squared off in action last week. Here Jeff Roberts of the Bruins throws the ball in: while Tom Gilliland of the G.M. SOTS tries to steal the ball. The G.M. SOTS eventually won.

S. O. L. — What?

By Marti Libby

Student Orientation Leaders (S.O.L.) are needed for the upcoming summer sessions and the fall semester of 1981. Applications may be picked up in room 236, Administration building.

What is an S.O.L. is a college student interested in welcoming new students and making them feel at home at CVC. There are several requirements applicants must meet: (1) have at least a 2.0 cumulative grade point average; (2) be responsible and dependable; (3) have an easy-going personality; (4) set examples as a model student both academically and socially; (5) have a general understanding of the feelings and concerns of the incoming student.

Some of the duties of an S.O.L. are to show the new student around campus and helping them register in the dormitory, make friends, and develop good habits.

Classes will be given during this semester after S.O.L.'s are picked, to explain and help the S.O. Leader know how to orient the new student. Ms. Sandy Chapman, Associate Director of Admissions, is in charge of this program and will conduct the classes.

Even though being an S.O.L. is volunteer work, there are rewards directed for one's services. Some of these are: (1) recognition as a campus leader; (2) opportunity to get to know the incoming students and other students as well as fellow S.O.L.'s; (3) improvement of leadership skills; (4) a few free meals.

Letters Policy

The Highland Cavalier encourages all persons who wish to express themselves to write a letter to the editor. All letters must be signed to be printed. Names will be withheld by request and at the editor's discretion, however the original letter must be signed. In addition, the editor has the right to edit and/or reject letters that violate the guidelines as set up by the publications committee. Send all letters to Box 1127 by Thursday, 3:00 p.m. each week.

Prevent Thefts

Dear Editor,

In the past few weeks, there have been a number of thefts in McCrayer Hall as well as a trailer. There were many items taken ranging from cash and jewelry to girl's underwear and even food. Quite obviously the person or persons responsible for these thefts have a somewhat twisted mind.

Nobody had any ideas about who was responsible for these thefts, until last Saturday night (February 28). Rick Rakes was caught at 2:00 a.m. in one of the dorm rooms on the third floor of McCrayer. The night security and the Wise town police questioned Mr. Rakes as to the reasons for his being in the room, and it was discovered that he had a master key. Mr. Rakes admitted to have stolen the master key last semester. He was taken down to the police station and a voluntary search was then made of his room at Crockett Hall. Nothing was found to prove his guilt in other thefts. Even after Mr. Rakes admitted his guilt in stealing a master key from a resident assistant last semester and using that key to enter rooms and steal, no charges were pressed. The only punishment Mr. Rakes received was his voluntary withdrawal from Clinch Valley College, and none of this goes on his records. I think it is pretty bad when the administration of Clinch Valley College lets an admitted thief get away with things like this. Was this done solely for the purpose of saving Clinch Valley College from any embarrassment and trying to protect it's name?

This is not the first time this has happened. In past years, master keys were stolen, and when the people were caught, they withdrew from school voluntarily and then it was covered up. A notice was sent out last year, dated February 28, 1980, which informed residents of the illegal use of keys. In this notice it stated, "It should be noted by all residents that the use of any unauthorized keys is a serious violation of housing policy and will be dealt with most severely." Allowing someone to walk away free without going to jail for a crime such as this is as far from severe as one can get.

I question the reason for Clinch Valley College having night security if the administration will not back up the security. Thus far all the administration has done is protect the thieves involved from prosecution in order to keep from attracting bad publicity. I hope that something will be done this time to avoid any more thefts and possibly someone seriously getting hurt. It has been suggested that all the locks be changed in the dorms. Hopefully the administration will do the right thing and think of the students' interests and not their wallets or expenses.

There is one more question which must be asked. Does this honor among thieves?"

Respect Demanded

Dear Editor:

I am taking this opportunity to express my views on what has happened recently with the play production, "Ten Nights in a Barroom."

It is totally unexcusable for any director to walk out on a show no matter how bad the circumstances. Ms. Bonnie Elosser has done just that with this show.

In being fair to Bonnie, the talented cast for "Ten Nights..." under her direction was rambunctious and undisciplined. It seems that the persons involved with theater here C.V.C. must learn to show proper respect to, and cooperate with all directors, not just C.W. Lewis.

By Our Standards The Innocent

On February 25, 1981, all Campus housing residents received a memorandum from the Director of Housing on room inspections.

Although I agree with the fact that the use of prohibited possessions should be controlled, I disagree with the periodical unannounced room inspections. I personally have nothing to hide but still I appreciate my privacy. I, along with many other residents, wouldn't like for my personal possessions to be inspected without my presence.

There is an increasing problem concerning prohibited possessions and their use on this campus, but let's not make all residents responsible for the action of a few select ones. Students exhibiting "extremely irresponsible behavior" should be dealt with accordingly. Violators of the guidelines should be the ones to bear the brunt of the action.

Sincerely,
Valeri Jones

Going Home

By April Douglas

Going home this coming Friday is all that's on the minds of many CVC students. By the end of Thursday, loud and exciting noise will be occupying the halls of the dorms as everyone is packing and thumbing through things to carry home.

As Friday morning rolls around, students can be seen skipping class, loading up in cars and pulling away from the parking lots ready to start their vacation.

The rides home for many will be long and very tiresome. But with a car full of your favorite friends, the ride home itself can be quite an adventure. Most of the ride is probably spent sleeping or gulping down several six packs. Then there are those many rest stops where everybody hauls out of the car to use the restrooms and get a quick bite to eat.

But nevertheless, whether you're traveling near or far, everyone is excited about going home this coming Friday.

"The Barber Of Seville": A Review

By Mark Poteet

The Touring division of the Virginia Opera Theater sponsored by the Wise County Pro Arts Association presented Rossini's classic comedy Opera, "The Barber Of Seville" at J. J. Kelly on March 2nd.

The sets and costumes were as beautiful and as imaginative as is usual for the company. The only thing different was the quality of the opera.

The stage direction was shoddy. One got the feeling that everyone on stage was wondering where he was supposed to be, maybe the dentist office, certainly not 18th century Spain.

Enrique Boguerizo, as Figaro, concentrated his attention more on the music Director than his singing. His voice was good, but marred by sloppy stage actions.

Valerio Scelbach, as Rosina, had some trouble. Her voice had a particular way of embracing the wrong key and holding on to it for dear life.

The "irony award" goes to the man who played Dr. Bartolo. He did a decent job but with his putty nose, I couldn't match his name to the mug shot picture in the program. Maybe he realized this. I know if I had been in this opera I would have searched for anonymity also.

Don Wiggins, as Count Almaviva, lacked the strength in his voice that a tenor needs. He also took Ms. Scelbach's lead and sang in various keys at the same time, not an easy trick.

It kind of made me wonder why some of the money spent on wigs couldn't have been used to purchase a pitch pipe.

Something was wrong. Rumor has it that this was the first time the company had performed the opera in front of an audience. Nevertheless, it is performances like this that make me wonder if federal money for the arts for tax purposes.

Phi Sigma Kappa News

By Tom Burton

As mid-semester break nears, students at the old C.V.C. have two things on their minds. The brothers of Xi Hexaton are no different. While some of our more studious brothers are concerned about surviving mid-terms, many are preparing for the annual spring assault on the beaches of Florida. Yes folks, in the middle of that long caravan of vehicles pouring out of the North in search of sun and fun will be a small but loyal contingent of Phi Sig from C.V.C. The brothers have worked long and hard in order to raise the funds for this venture so it is hoped that the Gods of sun and sand will look fairly upon them. Those of us at Xi Hexaton who are not going wish these intrepid explorers the best of luck. We would also like to extend our deepest sympathies to the police forces of Fort Lauderdale, Key West, or any other city in the land of sunshine.

As was stated in our last article, a questionnaire will be distributed in the near future. This questionnaire will be used in an attempt to bring new and better entertainment to the students of C.V.C. The brothers of Phi Sigma Kappa believe that the student body wants quality entertainment and we think that we can provide this. Your help is needed in this venture. The great success of events such as Oktoberfest, Holly Ball, and Beef and Beer, shows that the problem is not student apathy but a lack of quality functions.

Good luck with mid-terms, and we hope everyone has a good break.

"Shooting The Rapids" With The Pi Kapps

On March 11, 1981 the Brothers of Pi Kappa Phi, in conjunction with Dennis Nedelman of Cherokee Adventures, Erwin, TN will provide, free of charge, a slide show detailing their upcoming raft trip down the infamous Nolichucky River. The slide show is being provided as a service to the students of CVC, offering an outstanding alternative to anything thus far envisioned in the way of entertainment. If not convinced you deserve a total break from the "Valley", once you see the slides you will have no doubt. That is if you have any adventure left in your QUASIPARALYTIC composite.

The white water raft trips on the Nolichucky River take you 9.7 miles down river through a spectacular 2,000 gorge, but only 6 1/2 hours of rapid white water in a river proven raft, you will safely navigate Class 3 - Class 5 rapids. From an expert guide, you will learn white water safety procedures.

For those who might need reassurance about making the trip in a raft, the only requirement is you be physically capable and willing to paddle. Sorry, but drugs and alcohol are prohibited on the trip.

If you think an exciting Saturday with the rapids might be the refresher you need, come see the slides, talk to Pi Kapp or come by the house, and shoot the rapids on April 11. It will be the sporting event of the spring. Don't miss out!

In last week's Highland Cavalier, it was stated that there would be a full report on the Beta Pledge Class of Epsilon Chapter. As late as this writing, the number of those who will compose the second group of Associate Brothers to be initiated continues to grow. Therefore, the "Beta Report" will be released at a later date. This postponement is out of consideration for those who may wish to become a Pi Kapp following this article and would thereby be omitted.

ON CAMPUS VISITS

The Prep Scene for High School Seniors

Did you ever wonder where all of these new faces come from? They appear ever now and then on campus from area high schools. An innovative approach that takes the prospective college student out of the high school guidance office to a college campus; in this case "Clinch Valley College".

Each Campus Visit includes a look at the campus, talks with the offices of Admissions or Financial Aid, Lunch, and then students get to talk with faculty members in their particular area of academic interest.

Schools that have been on campus thus far include: Twin Springs High School, Whitewood High School, Hosaker High School, Haysi High School, Grundy High School, Gate City, Dryden High School, Pennington, Jonesville, Flatwoods, John S. Battle, Abingdon High, Rye Cove High School, Ervington High School, Patrick Henry High School, and Clintwood High School. The students are picked up at their high school around 9:00 a.m. and they are returned by 3:00 p.m. It is a full day for each student. If you notice that Jefferson Lounge seems a little more crowded or if you see a group of students being lead around campus on a tour - then you'll know what's up. Try to make them feel welcome; who knows maybe they'll become a part of Clinch Valley College's Prep Scene.

Little Sisters Of Pi Kappa Phi

The Little Sisters of Pi Kappa Phi once again have been making a busy semester of it with spring rush, dances, and other activities. They are as follows: Realya Jackson, Patsy Sowards, Sheila Daugherty, Marty Libby, Ellen Roberts, Lynn Roberts. Good Luck girls.

And last but not least, news from within the Little Sisters organization. Our congratulations goes out to our new treasurer, Beverly Bradbury.

Loving Care Scholarship Program

By Valeri Jones
 This scholarship program was established in 1974 by Clairol to help support the educational pursuits of women 30 or older. It funds both full-time and part-time study and this makes it important to working mothers who are enrolled in classes part-time.
 The scholarship program is administered by the Business and Professional Women's Foundation which is designed to create greater career opportunities for women.
 Scholarships up to $1,000 are awarded for studies on undergraduate and master's levels. Applications are available for the fall semester (with a May 1 deadline) only between February 15-April 15. The scholarship application can be obtained from:
Scholarship Director
 BPW Foundation
 2012 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
 Washington, D.C. 20036

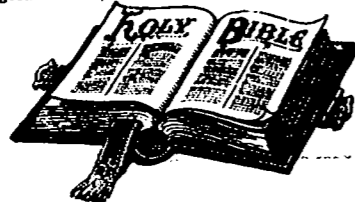

The applicant must be a U.S. citizen, female and at least 30 years of age. The need for financial assistance must be present and the training must be completed within 24 months. She has to plan on using the training in a way to improve her chances for advancement. Information must be furnished by the applicant on specific course of study and she must be officially accepted into the program of course of study.
 Since 1974 over 900 women have been awarded $350,000 in aid under the Clairol Loving Care Scholarship.
 Clairol publishes a free pamphlet "Educational Financial Aid Sources for Women" as a service to women. It can be obtained by sending a stamped self-addressed business size envelope to:

How Was Your Courage?

By: REV. Warren Wattenbarger
 Courage is necessary for the living of these days. There are a variety of courage that each of us need every day. We need physical courage. Wherever you point in the records of the struggles which have made possible the civilization of our time, you will find the name of men and women who have had the physical courage to risk their all.
 There is a need for emotional courage. To become courageous demands that we develop the quality of character known as fortitude. This like courage in that it means the strength of mind to endure unflinchingly any form of anguish, adversity, or pain.
 Social courage is expected of every person. The Old Testament prophets were men who believed themselves to be commissioned of God, to speak out when it would have been easier and safer to have remained silent. Standing up against the multitudes with the conviction that one with God makes a majority is true social courage. Each person finds those moments that there is a constant need for spiritual courage. The person of courage knows that in order to handle this great powerhouse of physical energy in a courageous manner, to find stamina for facing up to the many demands for emotional courage and most of all in order to channel our social courage into creative purposes, we must keep close contact with the greatest source of all life and courage - to the very life of God. By reading the Bible, worshipping, praying, having companionship with people of like mind, one gains these convictions which produce courage - read Acts 27:23-24.

By Ann Morris
Medical Technologist
 Medical Technologists perform medical duties in hospitals or laboratories by making laboratory tests of urine, blood, and infections. They also make blood counts and smears, give skin test, prepare vaccines, and type blood for transfusions. Because of the nature of the work, students interested in careers in medical technology should possess the following personal characteristics: accuracy, patients, dependability, and the ability to work under pressure.
Education Requirements
 A baccalaureate degree is required, consisting of at least three years of academic work followed by a twelve month period of specialized training in medical technology at a cooperative accredited school of Medical Technology.
Employment Outlook
 On the national level, employment for Medical Technologists is extremely favorable for the 1980's. In Virginia the outlook is very promising, especially in rural areas where there has been an increase in the construction of hospitals, clinics and laboratories.
Earnings
 Medical technologists employed by the federal or state governments usually receive higher salaries than those employed in private hospitals. In 1978 the median income for medical technologists was $8,600. Salaries do vary according to the area of employment.
Training Programs in Virginia
 Undergraduate degrees in Medical Technology are offered at Clinch Valley College, Emory and Henry College, George Mason University, Radford College, and Virginia Intermont College. For the twelve month training period, Clinch Valley College has affiliation agreements with the schools of Medical Technology at the Memorial Hospital in Danville, Virginia, UVA, Charlottesville, Virginia, Holston Valley Community Hospital, Kingsport, Tenn., and with Roanoke Memorial Hospital in Roanoke. Only one school, Virginia Commonwealth University, offers a masters degree in Medical Technology.

God Of The Breaks

By Jim Collier, Baptist Campus Minister
 One more week of classes to go and then... Spring Break! Can you stand it? Probably some of us cannot. We'll figure up a way to stretch a few extra days out of the break at one end or the other, or possibly both. Now, I'm not encouraging cutting classes to stretch the break. I wouldn't even mention it, if it didn't happen.
 The point is that breaks are helpful, yes even necessary. Read the Genesis accounts of creation. God rested. Regular periods of rest have been a part of our Judeo-Christian heritage ever since.
 My prayer is that you will appreciate for yourself the gift of rest over the Spring Break.

Morris, Olinger Named To All-State

Two ladies of the Ouncfa Valley CoUeKe Women's Has-kelbao team have been awarded members o{ be AU-State Basketball team of the VAlAW Divisloa n conference.

Senior Trish Olinger of Hazard, Kentucky was named All-State point guard while Junior Shaian Momo of Norfolk, VA was named AU-State center.

Olinger has several accomplishments other than being named AO-State. Prior to transferring to CVC, Olinger was on the team at Alice Uow). She was named Most Valuable Player in 1977-78 and in 1978-79 and also led in assists both these years. Also, she was a member of the 30 points club in 1978-79 and led in steals in 1977-78, '78-79.

Commenting on being selected to An-State, Olinger said, "Of course I'm happy but I wouldn't have gotten it. As far as I'm concerned the team is an AU-State team."

Morris also has numerous achievements at CVC. She made the Berea All-Tourney team in the 1978-79 season. Also, she was the first Junior to hit the 1,000 point mark at CVC. Concerning the 1,100 point achievement (which came in the Lady Cava game with HUUGan), Morris said, "I was really surprised. I didn't expect it that early... I knew I was close, but not that close."

On making the AU-State team Morris said, "I was happy. Who wouldn't be? I've tried not to think about it because I want to concentrate on the State Tournament."

Morris with a lump shot.

Olingers ready for rebound.

CVCs Answer To "Second Season"

By MaHt ScMjpln

Now that March is upon us and over the nation from Landover, MD to Irovou Utah college basketball is entering that "second" season, the season that pre-occupies the minds of every coach and every player from October onward. Basketball fans from all over the country will be making the trek to Philadelphia, Kansas City, and New York to look at this year's cream of the college crop.

Here in Wise most of us have neither the time nor the inclination to make a 1,000 mile trip to see teams play they don't know or don't care. But there is an alternative for the 98% of us who will be campus bound the first part of next week.

What I'm talking about of course is CVC's answer to the "second" season, the annual intramural tournament. This yearly chsic (if you want to call it that) has been a good showcase of basketball talent (though not basketball teamwork, as we've all given everybody something to do on a slow night).

In knkiag at the tourney this year, there is no team that is head and shoulders above the rest. We have our Oregon States, LSU's, Virginians, and DePauls teams that are evenly matched and can win against anyone on a hot night. Of course we all have our "highlights and Georgia Techs; teams that can lose on their best nights. To pick a winner from this bunch would be the best of our wishes so I'm not going to try. I have some strong feelings of who won't win the tournament but I've been burned before so I'll leave that to myself.

Going into the tourney there are a number of questions that are on everyone's mind. Can the Sots get everyone involved in the offense enough to give David Lunmklms a little rest? Can the Superstars huUD someromenUm from their upset win over M.E.O.C. Wednesday? Can the Bruhn win without Jack Gibbs, whose status is a game-by-game thing depending on Dave Bentley's requirements? Will the Pi Kappas continue their annoying habit of beating the league's better squads? Who knows?

So come out and see the tourney and send out the answers to these and other perplexing questions. The act promises to be rest and fun. "I'll be no tomorrow but the tournament and everybody should be at it's best."
