THE INTERNATIONAL CLUB AND SEA

Christmas Around The World 1982

Remember Christmas Around the World last December? Remember the delicious appetizers and dinners served in gaily decorated homes, rows of luminaria lighting the walks to homes where international desserts were served, the fun of caroling down Faculty Row and into McCrarray Hall even though the night air was very cold?

Christmas Around the World 1982 promises to equal that of last year, though the format has been slightly altered. At 5:00 p.m. on Sunday, December 5, participants will meet at the Chapel of All Faiths for transport to homes of faculty and staff for meals. After dinner everyone will return to the campus for desserts at Cantrell Hall. Carol singing, led by Michael Donathan, will follow desserts.

Tickets will be sold each weekday from November 22 through November 30 in the lobbies of Cantrell Hall and the Zehmer Building. Prices are $5 for adults and $3 for students, and participants may choose from dinner menus of Australia, Brazil, China, England, Germany, Hungary, Italy, Mexico, Switzerland, or Yugoslavia. Desserts will represent the continents of Asia, Africa, Europe, North America, South America, and Australia, and will be in quantities that will allow sampling from several sweet trays.

Dinner tickets will be sold only through November 30 from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Choices of meals will be made on a first-come, first-served basis, so early ticket purchases are important.

Honor Court Takes Action

By Frank Lotito
In an often difficult 5-hour marathon session, the CVC Honor Court suspended two students and cleared another.

The 12-member Honor Court conducted three separate hearings last Monday. All three students were charged with stealing under Article I, Part C of the Honor Court Constitution.

In the first case, the student was found guilty of the violation. The Court ruled that the student be suspended for the remainder of the 1982-83 academic year, including the 1983 summer session. The student is eligible to reapply after that time.

In the second case, the student was also found guilty. The Court suspended the student for the remainder of the present semester. The student is eligible to re-enroll for the 1983 Spring Semester. The Dean of Students and the Honor Court encouraged the student to return.

In the third case, the student was found innocent by the Court and there were, of course, no sanctions.

The hearings were conducted behind closed doors, and members of the Court are prohibited from discussing them. Spectators are allowed at an Honor Court hearing only with the consent of the accused student.

Generally, the three students felt that the hearings were conducted in a fair manner and that the sanctions handed down by the Court were just.

New Fields Open For College Graduates

By Debbie Stanley
Most working college students hope to find gainful employment in one field or another after their anticipated graduation. With our presently high rate of unemployment (10.4%), however, the prospects of obtaining a job are not so bright. More than 1 million Americans are currently searching for jobs and many others have become despondent and no longer attempt to look for work.

There are many reasons for the exceptionally high current unemployment rate we are experiencing. Some of those reasons are recession, excessive wages, lack of competition in world markets, and, finally, our transition from an industrial to a post-industrial society. In essence, we are seeing the smokestack industries disappear while high technology gains a firm grip on the economy.

This transition to a post-industrial economy will have various effects, one being job displacement. Many factory workers and those who have occupations in the manufacturing sector will find that their jobs have become obsolete; Machines are able to perform the job more efficiently and at a reduced cost. As a result, jobs in the smoke-stack industries will continue a downhill descent.

Don't despair; the future does hold opportunity in two fields that will largely make up the post industrial economy. Information is one area of growing opportunity and this includes computers, robotics and other types of advanced technology. The other area of large anticipated job growth will be in the service sector.

The U.S. Labor Department recently compiled a list of the fastest growing job titles which illustrates the information-service economy. Occupations in data processing are expected to increase by 157%; Paralegal personnel and Computer-system analysts are expected to increase by more than 100%. By 1990, there will be an estimated 800,000 positions available in industrial-robot production and a similarly high number of positions in Geriatric social work, and industrial-laser processing.

Optimists believe the post-industrial economy will produce more jobs done to increased productivity and they also expect a more highly skilled employment force. As Wharton economist Michael Wachten put it, "The economy will become more highly skilled, not so much because there are computers, but because we will finally have a generation that can use them."

Hegji Presents Paper

Charles E. Hegji, Assistant Professor of Economics at Clinch Valley College, attended the 1982 Conference of Southern Economic Association in Atlanta, November 10-12.

Hegji presented a paper entitled "Consistent Parameter Estimates in a Sample Rational Expectations Model". He also served as Discussant in a session concerning Monetary Policy Proposals: The Gold Standard, 100% Reserves, and the Austrian View.

He joined the Clinch Valley College faculty in September, 1982.

Gillenwater Crowned Miss Lonesome Pine

Two lovely and talented Clinch Valley students brought pride to the college last week when they walked away with top honors in the Miss Lonesome Pine Beauty Pageant. Kim Raymer was named first runner up and Minnie Lynne Gillenwater was the winner of the coveted title.

Minnie won the title partly on the strength of her talent, a stirring rendition of "Battle Hymn of the Republic".

Kim won the hearts of the judges and the audience alike with her Broadway medley consisting of "Down Town", "Give My Regards to Broadway", and "Cabaret". She is a sophomore from Nickelsville. She was crowned Miss CVC last week.

Minnie Lynne hails from Coeburn and is a junior accounting major. In addition to the Miss Lonesome Pine title, she has held numerous others.

With the honor of being Miss Lonesome Pine for a year, Minnie will be a contestant in the Miss Virginia Pageant next July in Roanoke. If successful there, she would go on to the Miss American Pageant in Atlantic City in September.

Letters

Highland Cavalier's Letters Policy

The Highland Cavalier encourages all persons who wish to express themselves to write a letter to the editor. All letters must be signed to be printed. Names will be withheld by request and at the editor's discretion, however the original letter must be signed. In addition, the editor has the right to edit and/or reject letters that violate the guidelines as set up by the publications committee. Send all letters to Box 1127 by Thursday, 3:00 p.m. each week. All letters must be typewritten, unless they are neatly printed.

Thank Ya, Thank Ya, Thank Ya

It's the time of year for thanking. I would like to give my thanks to all of you here at CVC. Students, faculty and staff, all of you, in your own way, have added to my finding a home here. I've come hundreds of miles for a new beginning and "Y'all" have helped me get over the rough spots. My special thanks to "yous guys" at the Wesley foundation—my "home away from home". Most of my closest friendships, ones I'll cherish for life, have started there. Mr. Wattenbarger, thanks for being there. Mrs. W. what can I say except I Love you Mom? Each of the members of the foundation are my brothers and sisters. Thanks Laura, Justine, Penny, Vicky, Tammy, Dale, Mindy, Kathy, Bruce, Greg, Ken, Mike, Danny, Travis, Jerry, Tom, Joe, Paul, Tim and everyone else I neglected to mention. You are all the dearest and best of your kind. I love each and everyone of you. Thank you. Thank you all. You have made the biggest and most important step in my life easier. Thank you so very much.

Counting Which Blessings?

By Jim Collie, Baptist Campus Minister
It's Thanksgiving time again. Is there any magic left in that traditional fourth Thursday in November celebration? Best not read the newspapers or watch the eleven o'clock report for awhile. Is the only good news to be found in the fact that price per pound of turkey is the lowest in years. And what about our hectic schedule as students. The Thanksgiving weekend marks that last big push to the end of the semester and one more chance to catch up.

In the midst of our today, our Mondays before Thanksgiving Thursdays, are we thankful? And what are we thankful for? There was once a time when we were asked to count our blessings in a relative sense. How are we blessed in comparison to others? What do we as a nation or a college or an individual have in a bigger or better way than someone else. I'm glad we don't do that anymore. Or do we? For true blessings are not relative. The Old Testament Palmist knew this and wrote:
God, be merciful to us and bless us; look on us with kindness, so that the whole world may know your will; so that all nations may know your salvation (Psalm 67, 1-2, Good News for Modern Man). Blessings are for everybody. Someone once wrote, "Anyone who would happiness win; must share it, for happiness was born a twin." God has blessed us; may all people everywhere honor him." (Psalm 67, 7, Good News for Modern Man.) Happy Thanksgiving, CVC!

What It Means To Give Thanks

Warren H. Wattenbarger
Campus Minister
Wesley Foundation
Within a few days most of us will gather with family and friends to enjoy a Thanksgiving feast. We shall join with our loved ones and friends to partake of turkey and all the trimmings and after the meal settle in for a visit renewing acquaintances or watching a football game.
Yet in this time of enjoying the festive occasion let us not forget to give thanks.
As we remember to give thanks, we open the way to larger service. We can be sure that it was not that Jesus hoped for the return of the cleansed lepers. Rather he had something more in view. He had healed their bodies, but this was not all he had hoped to do for them. He wanted to heal their spirits also, to get them into touch with God. Their thankful hearts would offer him an opportunity to unite them with himself in the love of God.

Thankfulness builds a bridge of friendship. This is its true function.
A gift may be given without any real friendship behind it, as we might toss a coin to a beggar, but that is a barren gift. It carries little or nothing of ourselves. A true gift depends for its value on how much the spirit of love and friendship goes with it. But that is only one end of the bridge. The other is in the response of the receiver and this depends on the quality and depth of his thankfulness.

Thankfulness unto God is our response of love to his love for us. The harvest is a miracle of love and nothing else can explain it.
The sacrifice of Christ for us is the crowning gift which ought to stir in us continual music of Thanksgiving. It is a debt that we can never repay except in some degree through the service we do for others.
Happy Thanksgiving!!!

Are We Really To Blame

by Susan Mullins
The family, it is said, is dying a slow, painful death, and "America the beautiful" is going right down the tubes with it. Supposedly, this death is the cause of the growing number of teenage pregnancies and thousands of illegitimate children just struggling to survive. It is the cause of overcrowded prisons and juvenile detention homes, increased drug abuse with its multibillion dollar drug traffic, murders, rapes, and even the very bums on the street.

Do you know who's getting the blame for all this misery and despair? We are the younger generation. We're told that we have lost sight of our American values of hard work, honesty, and individual achievement, and especially the value that a marriage is "for better or for worse, until death do we part."

Of course, with the soaring divorce rate and the spread of sexual permissiveness, there is evidence to support this view. However, I do not think that we are to blame for what our society has brought on itself.

Did we ask for such a high inflation rate, a rate so high that more than half the families today require two paychecks to barely accomplish what one used to? And did we ask for the sadness of not being able to afford having a house full of kids to bring laughter and joy into our homes? What about the children that will be brought into the world anyway? What are their chances for happiness and prosperity?

Marriages aren't working because of the tremendous amount of pressure society has placed on them. New types of families are emerging to combat and overcome these pressures, but many circles do not accept these as a legitimate form of the family. Rather, they are looked on as the problems that are destroying the real family. There are people living in groups or communes, forming "open" marriages, living together without legal bond, and many more who are starting to live alone, rejecting any kind of family. Are these alternatives wrong? Or are they simply the inevitable results of a confused, scared, and passionate generation that sees its security and peace falling down around it?

Maybe these are not the right answers, but we're trying. I think we are searching for a new lifestyle that will suit our changing economic and social world—one in which we can find peace of mind, security, companionship, and above all, love. Sure, we're going to make mistakes, but we're not going to give up until we've got it right. We may be doubted and accused of failing, but although we may have lost some of the battles, the war is far from over. The main thing is that we never lose faith in ourselves or each other.

How About Our Atmosphere?

by Linda Potter
Just exactly what constitutes a successful college? One of the most important factors is atmosphere. What is atmosphere? Webster states that it is "environment; predominant aspect or mood". Apply these concepts to the college life and you possibly have the general "feeling surrounding the school."

When the structure is no more than gloomy it is highly unlikely that an inspired spirit will thrive within its walls. The next time you check your mail or visit the nurse or stop by the Highland Cavalier office, notice the walls. The dingy, grime streaked walls are not very impressive for a structure of higher learning. This obvious sign of neglect could be mistaken for a direct result of apathy. I don't believe this is the case however, because there are signs of improvement. At least I hope that's what all the noise in the library means.

So, how about constructing an environment more conducive to thinking and learning, plus one that shows pride in and enthusiasm for the school?

A Christmas Carol

A new stage musical adaptation of Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol will be presented at 7:30 p.m., December 6 at J.J. Kelly Auditorium. This is the 4th national tour of the show produced by Bill Fegan Attractions, Inc. The Pro-Art Association and Clinch Valley College are sponsoring the show for its appearance in Wise.

This new adaptation of Charles Dickens' classic tale is written by Charles Jones, Artistic Director of the Omaha Community Playhouse in Omaha, Nebraska. It features an ensemble of 35 actors, singers, and musicians presenting a full array of traditional Christmas carols. The carols are interwoven within the classic story of Ebenezer Scrooge and all of the beloved characters of Dickens' novella of the 1800's. "I think of this adaptation of A Christmas Carol as a masque", said adapter Jones. "The songs do not move the story forward. They stand apart from the text. Each carol in the show was chosen for the dramatic atmosphere it contributed to the total evening. The songs are traditional but the scoring by musical arranger, John Bennett, is contemporary and exquisitely beautiful."

This program is made possible by a grant from the Virginia Commission for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Arts. For more information call Bonnie Elosser at 328-2431, ext. 213.

Admission is $6.00 for adults and $2.00 for students. CVC students are admitted free if they present their CVC I.D.

Special Services Activities

Several Special Services program students traveled to the Bristol Mall Saturday, November 13. After lunching at The Filling Station, everyone did some early holiday shopping and then enjoyed the movies "The Creep Show" and "E.T." Activities planned for the rest of this semester include attending A Christmas Carol sponsored by Pro-Art and Clinch Valley College, participating in "Christmas Around the World" sponsored by Clinch Valley College, and attending The Messiah performed by The College-Community Choir. Special Services staff wishes everyone a Happy Thanksgiving!

"They're creeping up on You" starring E.G. Marshall and thousands of cockroaches is the best. Romero and King have gone back to the 50's for their style of horror. I have always been a fan of Romero ("Night of the Living Dead" and "Dawn of the Dead") and King's ("Carrie" and "The Shining"). Now with "Creep show" I like their work even better. Like the ad says "It's the most fun you'll ever have being scared" and it was. Rated R. A

Director Romero and writer Steven King have come up with one of the best horror pictures released in recent years. The film, based on a comic book by the same title, is composed of five different segments of terror interspersed every so often with comedy and animation. Of the five segments

To London To See The Queen

by Sharon Daniels
Other out-of-London trips were to seaside Brighton to see the exotic Royal Pavilion, home of the Prince Regent who became King George IV; to Wimbledon to watch tennis greats Connors, Austin, and McEnroe in the world championship games; and to Brussels and Amsterdam for rides along miles of canals. Others went to ancient Oxford whose oldest colleges at the University date to the mid-13th century; and to Edinburgh, capital city of Scotland, to see the Castle, Holyroodhouse Place, St. Giles' Cathedral where John Knox preached until 1572, the University of Edinburgh which numbers CVC Professor Glenn Blackburn among its scholars, and Deacon Brodie's Tavern, named for the man who as an upstanding Town Councillor by day and a burglar by night, and whose activities formed the character of Stevenson's Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.
To students who never had seen anything older than 200 years (since that is the age of our country), the ages of the artifacts we saw in England and Scotland were "mind-blowing". We saw several sections of the old Roman city walls, constructed in the first century AD; a Temple of Mithras built in the second century AD during the Roman occupation of London. At Oxford we peeped into buildings in which students have labored for nearly eight hundred years; where houses and stone walls and even trees seem to be ancient; where cobblestoned back streets are shaded by houses on either side with storeys that step out and lean toward each other.

Some praiseworthy memories are the efficient, inexpensive, and readily available public transportation system; the B & B scheme which allows living in someone's home instead of in an impersonal motel; spotlessly clean pubs, which have no equal in the United States, where people from 18 to 60 mix equally; free royal military band concerts in the park on Sundays; masses of flowers in the front garden of virtually every house in both city and country; seeing people shopping on a Saturday morning, dressed in suits and dresses—no jeans and no Nike!

IF we had not already been convinced of London's "crossroads" position in our three weeks of study and observation, we realized on the last day in London that it is "a small, small world". While we waited at Gatwick Airport for our flight to the United States, Gustavo spotted a girl from his high school graduating class in El Salvador. She was on her way to study in France, but she and her family had detoured through England!
A similar class will be offered in the 1983 Summer Session. George, Gustavo, Walter, Spruce and I agree that such a class is well worth the cost. Roger Iris will have further information soon on the next trip/class to London. If you enroll, look behind you: one of us may be lured back for a second look at London.

ACM Holds Workshop

By Mark Bledsoe
The Computer Science Club conducted a programming language workshop November 12 and 13. Systems Programming Language (SPL) was studied as an introduction to structured computer languages. Each student who attended the workshop logged twelve hours of concentrated study of SPL. Results indicate that adopting this technique to learning new programming languages is very effective. Participants are encouraged to continue their study of SPL. We extend special thanks to Dr. Ted Allen for his time and effort spent toward instructing the workshop. Anyone who might still wish to join the Computer Science Club may do so. Contact Mark Bledsoe CVC Box 728 or see anyone in the computer room.

Biology Seminar

Ricardo Gracia, a senior Biology major at Clinch Valley College, will present a Biology Seminar at 4:00 p.m., Monday, November 22, in the Science Lecture Hall. The topic is "Disease Along the Transamazon Highway". For each health challenge, the cultural and ecological factors involved in the transmission are explored. Attention is paid to man-made alterations of the landscape and to cultural habits that increase the incidence of disease. Settlers use an alternative way of medicine based upon the hot/cold opposition concept. The public is cordially invited.

M.E.C.C.I. Club Opens

By Jennifer Gorman
A new private club, Mountain Empire Citizens Club Inc., located at the Rock Bar, has opened to help fill the entertainment void which has long plagued Wise County.
The M.E.C.C.I. Club, open six days a week, Tuesday through Sunday, offers its members and their guests many modes of recreation: dances, musical entertainment, a bar and game area (billiards and video games), and family suppers (with the bar closed). Also, sandwiches and snacks are available in the bar area. Other special events may be developed at the requests and suggestions of the membership.
The club is now open for membership at special charter member rates. Now until January 2, 1983, the fee will be $100 per year. The $100 yearly dues can be paid in full or in monthly installments—$25 down and the balance in payments of $25 per month. A membership application must be filed along with payment for approval by the M.E.C.C.I. membership committee. For information, call 328-9882.

Spring 1983 Registration Plans Announced:
The Fall Semester is fast approaching its conclusion and it is time to prepare for a fresh new start next semester. The schedule of classes for the Spring 1983 semester will be available December 1. Copies will be available at the Registrar's Office, any faculty secretary's office, or the office of the College Receptionist. All courses are listed alphabetically and detailed information as to room assignments, prerequisites, instructors, etc., is included.

Early Registration Begins December 1:
Students should meet with their advisors and plan their spring schedules at their earliest convenience. Once the student has completed the necessary forms and submitted them to the Registrar's Office, the student's name is on the rolls of the requested classes and will remain there until a change card is submitted or the student fails to pay his fees on time. Those students completing schedules before the end of this semester will only need to pay fees to complete the registration process.

Snow Schedule
The following schedule will be observed whenever a snow schedule is announced. Announcements that the College is a snow schedule will be made on local radio and television stations. Office staff, however, will maintain regular working hours.

Cavs Win Season Opener

BARRY BELLOWS

By Barry Bellamy
When the going gets tough, the tough get going. That old adage was certainly true last Tuesday night, as Coach David Bentley's Clinch Valley College Cavaliers defeated the Milligan College Buffaloes by a score of 50-43. CVC, riddled by injuries and the still uncertain status of forward Mike Hoekins, used a gutsy defensive effort by the whole team to post the victory. Terry Edwards, team captain, led the Cavalier effort offensively by scoring 14 points. He also pulled-down 11 rebounds.

After a lackluster first half performance, Coach Bentley inserted the injured Ernie Smith at the point guard position. "Our offense really picked up when Ernie came in," stated Bentley. Another key to the win was the play of Tony Kolb (also injured). Kolb came in and scored some quick points. In reference to Kolb and Smith, Bentley had this to say, "We hadn't really planned on playing either, yet they came in when needed and did their jobs well." In reference to the team effort Bentley said, "We played real well defensively. They executed their offense real well and shot well, but we did a good job."

As an interested fan, I would like to express my congratulations to all the players and coaches. I was very impressed by the intensity displayed by all the players, especially on defense. Coach Bentley feels that Campbellville, Pikeville, and Cumberland are the teams to beat in the KIAC. Should the injuries mend properly and Mike Hoekins be declared eligible, I believe CVC could be the cream of the crop this year. Let's all hope so.

Lady Cavs Fall To Alice Lloyd

By Debbie Shortridge
CVC's Lady Cavaliers played against Alice Lloyd College on Saturday, November 13, at Alice Lloyd. Coach Carol Almond stated that Alice Lloyd is a very experienced and well-disciplined team, and played a good defense.

Pam Horton was the high-scorer of the game, with a total of 17 points. Jennifer McGee and Stephanie Walton both played a good game, scoring 16 and 13 points, respectively.

Alice Lloyd won the game, although Coach Almond stated that the score really did not reflect the effort displayed by our Lady Cavaliers.

The starting line-up for CVC included freshmen Pam Horton, Faith Goodson, Stephanie Walton, Debbie Pruitt, and sophomore Susan Hamilton. Coach Almond felt that a general lack of experience and tenseness on the part of the players hindered the Lady Cav's game. They are now working on patience and confidence on the court, according to Almond.

On Tuesday, November 16, the Lady Cavaliers suffered a frustrating loss at home against Milligan. Faith Goodson, Susan Hamilton, Pam Horton, Debbie Pruitt, and Stephanie Walton started for Clinch Valley. Horton was the high-scorer for the Lady Cava, with 14 points.

Susan Hamilton was injured early in the first half of the game, and the team most assuredly missed her efforts. She was taken to the hospital for x-rays after the game, and it was determined that she had sprained her right ankle. Although she will not be playing in the upcoming scrimmage against Bluefield on Friday, November 19, she expects to be able to return for the Concord tournament over Thanksgiving recess.

In addition, the ladies are presently playing without the efforts of Terry Dotson, who also has a sprained ankle. Hopefully Dotson will be able to play against Bluefield on Friday.

Team captain Terry Edwards goes over the top for two. Edwards led the Cavs with 14 points and 11 rebounds.

Stephanie Walton has been playing well for the Lady Cavs.

Volleyball Is On!

The S.G.A. will be sponsoring an intramural Fall volleyball season. The season will begin the week after Thanksgiving break and will last approximately two weeks. As of now, the plans are to have a double-elimination type schedule, depending on the number of teams participating. The season is open to both men's and women's teams, with a minimum of three teams required for the season to be held. Team rosters may be picked up in the Director of Housing's office (McCraray Hall, Charlie Engle) and must be returned to Terry Kilgore, S.G.A. president, by Tuesday, Nov. 23, CVC Box 421. No unsportsmanlike conduct will be tolerated.

NOTICE: The women's tennis team is looking for a Manager. This is a work-study position. Anyone interested please contact Coach Carol Almond in her office in the gymnasium.

NOTICE: The women's basketball team is looking for an Official Score Keeper and people interested in working with concessions during games. Anyone interested please contact Coach Almond in the gym.
