Video Games Arrive

Have you been to the game room recently? If not, you may be in for a surprise. The game room, once an empty room except for a lone ping-pong table, is now full of video games, pool tables, and devoted players.

According to Assistant Business Manager, Dick Prior, CVC has signed a contract with Ball's TV in Big Stone Gap, who will supply the games. Mr. Prior, in explaining the contract stated, "The contract calls for eight games, but he has agreed to put in twelve. His contract also covers the pool tables and the jukebox. Records (in the jukebox) will be changed weekly to keep up a Top 40 format."

A common complaint about the game room last year was that the games were not some of the most popular ones available. That problem will be corrected this year, according to Mr. Prior. He stated, "At all times, we will assure that at least four games are in Play Meter's Top Ten." As for the juke, Mr. Prior said that initially the format will be

Top 40, but that could change according to student desires. According to Mr. Prior, the students "could even have Beethoven, if that's what they want."

Adding a word of caution, Mr. Prior said that if any damage occurs to the machines, pool tables, or jukebox, Mr. Ball has the right to cancel the contract and take the machines out.

If a student has any suggestions about the game room or the jukebox, see Mr. Prior.

The Look Of Fall

By Melissa Stidham
As the seasons change, so do fashions. The brisk breezes we're already feeling hold promise of changes soon to come. So it's not too early to think about our fall and winter wardrobes.

"The most outstanding feature of this season's look is a sophisticated but sporty look," notes Robin Williams, owner of Dreamweaver Boutique. And this, she informed me, is due to several strong influences ranging from lifestyles to movies and rock groups. The movie "Flashdance" for example, helped set the trend for the sport, but very sexy off-the-shoulder look. Rock groups such as Dexy's Midnight Runners inspired the "poor look" featuring very baggy and layered clothes. And since fitness is in, people tend to dress more casually and sporty to suit that lifestyle.

But what does this season

call for specifically? According to Robin, lot of layers, bold and chunky jewelry, shawls and scarves, hats, and beaded clothes. You can create an universal appeal wrapped imaginatively in layers. The idea is to purposely create a state of disarray, which presents an aura of mystery. Typical work clothes have taken a break this season. They're soft and sweater-y; not quite as polished and proper as in the past. Basically, clothes are loose-fitting and free-falling. Colors are gray, brown, the classic black and white combination, and earth tones. Most fabrics are lighter due to the layered look. Light wools and knits and softer leather will dominate the fall season.

And, as everyone knows, no outfit is complete without the perfect accessories. A classic sweater can be up-dated with a scarf or belt. A straight-lined sweater dress can be dressed up for evening with a wide belt and flashy jewelry. Out-of-date can be turned up-to-date with just the right touch. A hat such as a boater, fidora, or perhaps a берет adds the finishing touch to any outfit. Accessories are a must since they complete as well as compliment an outfit.

But with all this in mind, every woman is different. And as Robin always says, the best part of fashion is creating your own individual style with a look all your own.

Boucher To Speak

Congressman Rick Boucher will give a public talk about El Salvador and other current topics of political interest in the Chapel of All Faiths at Clinch Valley College at 10:30 a.m. on Thursday, September 8. Congressman Boucher has recently returned from a visit to war-torn El Salvador and gained some interesting insights about the situation in that country. There will be time for questions after the talk. The public is invited to attend.

SGA Makes Plans

On Monday, August 22, the Student Government Association held its first meeting for the 1983-84 school year.

Due to the lack of participation in last semester's SGA election, two sophomores and three junior representatives were appointed. Lisa Williams and Kim Pounders were the only nominees for sophomore representatives, thus they were elected unanimously. Nominees for the junior representatives were: Chris Bogg, Alice Miller, Becki O'Quinn, John Pope, and Kim Raymer. Alice Miller, Becki O'Quinn, and John Pope were chosen.

On August 29, the SGA discussed many activities for the 1983-84 year. Tentative plans include a Road Rally, a talent show, and several concerts, among other things.

The Faculty Standing Committees were appointed. Copies of these committees may be obtained by contacting any member of the SGA.

The SGA unanimously approved the Constitution for the Body Shop, a new weightlifting club on campus. The possibility of building a small parking lot behind Crockett Hall to improve the parking problem there was also discussed. This idea will certainly be looked into.

The SGA would like to encourage all students to bring any ideas they might have to us. The SGA meets every Monday at 5:00 p.m. in A100b.

The Baseball Team, shown here working out, will play a full schedule of fall games. For more sports, see page eight.

Letters

Highland Cavalier's Letters Policy

The Highland Cavalier encourages all persons who wish to express themselves to write a letter to the editor. All letters must be signed to be printed. The editor has the right to edit and/or reject letters that violate the guidelines as set up by the publications committee. Send all letters to Box 1127 by Wednesday, 12 noon, each week. All letters must be typewritten, unless they are neatly printed.

Cavern Conquered

Dear Editor,
We would like to thank the organizers of the very successful and entertaining Fly-S.W.A.T. Debate that was held in "The Cavern" last week. For those of you who were unable to attend this unprecedented Debate, we would like to recap some of the better points discussed at this awesome event.

Fly-S.W.A.T. Debate

Fly: "We really don't understand why you hate us. We feel we have the right to live in the land we have inhabited (The Cavern) since the beginning of the semester. We don't occupy much space. For example, we once got 100 of us on one table that was simultaneously being occupied by one freshman, one sophomore, a commuter of undetermined status, three Bass Burgers, and three Biology books. What More Do You Want? Speaking of Bass Burgers, have you ever seen a more adequate dish for insects with such a delicate digestive system. We don't want to be the pests you people think we are, so we'll compromise. Here's the deal: For your convenience on Tuesday and Thursday we'll occupy the kitchen, which, as you know, is hazardous to our health as well as yours. Remember, if we don't eat the food... you'll have to!"

S.W.A.T. (Students with a Torment): "Putting the food aside, sickening as it may be, we would like to take the opportunity to inform you insects, you mother of maggots, of the psychological damage you have inflicted upon the students at CVC. For example, student X was consuming a Bass Burger, when he heard the infernal buzzing of your cohorts. He began frantically flapping filthy furious flies and was still flapping when they came to take him to the Funny Farm. Oh Hell! We Surrender. We have formed a new organization for victimized students such as student X. It's called S.I.T. (Students In TrACTION).

If you qualify, we have an organizational meeting scheduled at 7:30 in the chapel. Please Attend. P.S. We did plan on meeting in The Cavern—but the flies have it reserved for the rest of the semester.

EDITORIALS

Think Republican, Vote Democrat?

Wise County and its surrounding area has some of the most conservative people in the United States. People in this area generally tend to be hard working, thrifty people. From what I gather, most people believe in the old saying, "You pull your weight, and I'll pull mine." In my opinion, Wise County has some very fine people.

Politically, as I see it, the local people want their government, be it local, state, or federal, to personally these ideas of fiscal restraint they have established for themselves. You would believe Wise County would be a stronghold of the Republican Party which has for years backed the idea of fiscal restraint. Instead the opposite is true. Wise County is a Democratic stronghold. Wise County supported liberal Democrat Rick Boucher overwhelmingly in the last election.

Now, I believe everyone should vote the way they believe is right, but I wish you would ask yourself the following questions before you vote: Do I believe in giveaway programs that encourage laziness, create big deficits, and strangle the taxpayers to death? Do I want a weak defense? Do I want the Federal government to dominate every aspect of my life? Do I want to pay outrageous taxes? If you answered "yes" to the above questions, then I urge you to vote Democratic in all-elections to come. I have heard students at CVC say, "I wish they would do something about all those giveaway programs. They're taxing people to death." A few minutes later, they will then say, "I wouldn't vote for one of those—Republicans if they were the last people on earth!" Think about you're voting for. Don't vote for a party just because that's how your family has always voted. Vote for what you believe in. Think about it. A lot of you Wise county Democrats may find yourselves to be Republicans.

Sincerely,
Barry D. Bellamy, Editor

POINT BLANK

By: Chris Fields
Being a new student at any college can be a difficult experience. There are new people, places, freedoms, and situations which you must adjust to. Though no one can be expected to adjust to college life instantly, the adjustment to life here at CVC has been easier than I expected because of the help of the faculty, SOL's, and other upperclassmen.
My impressions of CVC so far are very good. The atmosphere of the college is one that makes you feel that everyone here is your friend.
Life in the dorm is much as I expected, loud noise, congregations in the lounge area, people doing homework, and an occasional room party. It seems like a good place to stay; at least there is more freedom here than at home.
The faculty seems to be an interesting group of people. They each have a distinct personality. This makes each class a new experience. You have to learn how to adapt to each professor's expectations. They all seem to be willing to help any student who has a specific problem, which I think is very important.

Point Blank is a weekly guest column written by those chosen to represent a view of interest to Clinch Valley College.
Overall, my view of CVC is very good. The college has thus far lived up to or exceeded most of the expectations. I expect that in the future the college will be able to offer more to me, and I will be able to offer more to CVC.

FEATURES

Distinguished Alumni

The law firm of Wolfe and Farmer, 470 Park Avenue, Norton, Virginia bears the name of two CVC graduates.

Joe Wolfe, age 34, and John Farmer, age 33, graduated from CVC in 1972. They have been practicing law together since 1977, and are engaged in general law practice.

Wolfe, a Norton native, and Farmer, of Clintwood, became acquainted at CVC when they enrolled in 1968, and have been good friends ever since.

At CVC, both Wolfe and Farmer were selected to Who's Who Among Students, members of the Darden Society, and served on the Honor Committee. Wolfe edited the Yearbook and Farmer edited the newspaper.

Wolfe was an honor history major, while Farmer took a degree in Business and Public Administration.

Upon graduation, Wolfe entered the University of Virginia Law School, where he graduated in 1975. Upon graduation, he lived in Jonesville, and practiced law in Lee County under the employment of Glenn Williams. He practiced with Williams until Williams was appointed U.S. Judge for the Western District of Virginia.

Upon graduation, Farmer worked in Clintwood for two and one-half years as the first administrative assistant to the Dickinson County Board of Supervisors. From there, he attended the Marshall-Wythe School of Law at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, where he took a J.D. degree in 1977.

In 1977, Wolfe and Farmer began practicing law in Norton, and are still working there.

Wolfe recently married Jamie Rinks of Mid-lesboro, Ky. Farmer, who is single, served his partner as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe reside in Norton, and Farmer lives near Clintwood.

In reflecting upon CVC, Wolfe and Farmers have fond memories. They believe that CVC offers an excellent preparatory education. They believe that CVC students have no trouble competing with students from larger, older institutions. They strongly recommend a 4-year CVC education to anyone who inquires about where to go to school.

Wolfe and Farmers are especially proud of the fact they had 1983 CVC graduates, Terry Kilgore, Jerry Kilgore, and Bruce Gibson working for them this summer. These three young men are all attending William and Mary Law School this fall.

Commenting on the legal profession, Wolfe and Farmer believe that being lawyers offers them an opportunity to be of service to their community. They are proud that they have been able to assist many disabled and elderly citizens in getting their Social Security benefits. Also, they are proud to be able to acquaint citizens with their legal rights and to be able to go to court with them to defend those rights.

Wolfe and Farmer say they will be happy to discuss potential legal cases with any CVC student who desires to contact them.

CVC Club Information

CVC offers a variety of active organizations that provide many of the extracurricular functions and services that are available on campus. New and returning students should be aware of what is available to fulfill their interests. The Highland Cavalier encourages every student to pursue his or her interests by exploring the many possibilities for extracurricular activities at the college. Only through a cumulation of individual talents and ideas can these organizations continue to provide a stimulating and challenging atmosphere for CVC's students.

The beginning of the semester is the ideal time to set academic goals. There are several honorary societies at CVC that recognize academic excellence. The Darden Society, founded in 1968, is the oldest honor society on campus. Named after the late Colgate Darden, the former president of UVA under whom CVC was founded, the Darden Society recognizes "high scholastic attainments, service to CVC, and promise of future advancement in the intellectual field."

CVC's Merit Society exists "to promote a spirit of academic excellence and to further the interests of the students of the Professional and Social Sciences Division. Students with a 3.0 or better grade point average who have completed at least fifteen hours in division courses are eligible for application. The Merit Society entertains several speakers per semester, takes field trips, and has a lecture-dinner for its members. Sheila Robinette is the Merit Society President and Joe Scobnick is the Faculty Advisor.

Students pursuing a Math or Science curriculum degree are potential candidates for membership in Sigma Zeta. Eligibility for invitation requires a 3.0 grade point average and a minimum of fifteen hours of Math and Science courses. Van Danial and Wayne Edwards are the faculty advisors.

Students who want to take an active part in student legislative and judicial processes should be aware of the purposes and procedures of the Student Government Association (SGA) and the Honor Court. It is the purpose of the SGA to organize, articulate, and implement the views of the Student Body. General elections are held in the spring semester to elect officers and members for the following year. Freshman representatives are elected in the fall semester prior to the second week in October.

Interested freshmen should see SGA president John Kilgore or stop by the Admissions Office for information.

The Honor Court, chaired by Travis Kennedy, is a student administered organization that is concerned with those violations considered dishonorable by the Student Body. Members of the Honor Court are also elected in the spring for the following year.

The Outpost is the CVC yearbook which is published in early May of each year. It presents a record of the academic, athletic, and social activities of the past school year. To take part in its publication, attend the organizational meeting on Tuesday, September 6 at 3:00 p.m. in A225. Tammy Kilgore is the Editor and Cathy Mahony is the faculty advisor.

The Highland Cavalier is the school newspaper. It seeks to present news of interest to CVC students and serve as a forum for discussion of relevant topics. Students with unique ideas and/or writing ability who would like to contribute to the school newspaper should come by the Highland Cavalier office on the first floor of Cantrell Hall. Barry Bellamy is the Editor and Ron Heise is the Faculty Advisor.

Academic organizations enhance the learning experience by reinforcing classroom concepts in a variety of ways. The Computer Science Club, CVC's chapter of the Association of Computer Machinery, gives students who are interested in computers and opportunity to expand their knowledge. This organization sent members to the Conference of Student Chapters at Blacksburg, Virginia last year. Elizabeth Bledsoe is the President and George Culbertson is the Faculty Advisor.

Junior and Senior Education Majors can become members of the Student Virginia Education Association. The purpose of SVEA is to better prepare aspiring teachers of the challenges of their career. Betty Jo Stewart is the President and Lana Lowe is the Faculty Advisor.

The Allied Health Club is for students interested in health professions such as medical technology, nursing, and physical therapy. An organizational meeting will be announced next week for interested students. Cengiz Volkan is President of the Allied Health Club.

Garrett Sheldon is the Faculty Advisor for the Juris Society, CVC's organization for those with an interest in the study of law and legal philosophy. The organizational meeting will be Thursday, September 8, at 7:00 p.m. in A128 when officers will be elected and plans made for the upcoming year.

For the politically inclined student, College Republicans and Young Democrats seek to interest young men and women in the issues of national, state, and local government and to encourage active interest in politics and public affairs. These clubs also give the member and opportunity to affiliate with party members and discuss views. Organizational meetings will be announced.

While each club provides a unique service through its projects and functions, certain clubs are solely dedicated to service. The Circle K Club, sponsored by Kiwanis International, invites all CVC students to become members. Each year, the Circle K Club sponsors a blood drive and a vision screening and this year it hopes to send representatives to district and international conventions. In the past several honors have been awarded to the Circle K Club for outstanding accomplishments. Interested students should contact Vernon Williams, President, Dean Lowe, Faculty Advisor, or Jim Collie, Kiwanis Advisor.

Another campus organization devoted to service is Phi Beta Lambda. Its areas of concern are (1) the Business Department of CVC (2) the Student Body of CVC (3) the surrounding community. The Phi Beta Lambda will hold an organizational meeting on Thursday, September 8 at 8:00 p.m. in the Chancellor's Conference Room. Glinnie Grove is the President of Phi Beta Lambda and Betty Humphreys and Nancy Dickenson are Faculty Advisors.

Student Orientation Leaders provide invaluable services to the Admissions Office during June and August orientations. There are no regular meetings of the SOL's but members are organized at the end of the spring semester to work orientation. Applications for a position are available in the Admissions Office.

Cultural enrichment has been a common goal of Clinch Valley and the surrounding community for many years. In pursuit of this goal, there are several clubs at CVC that provide enlightening and entertaining cultural experiences for students and faculty.

The International Club, sponsored by Augusto and Daisy Portuondo, encourages participation of language and foreign study students but is open to all students. The International Club sponsors Christmas Around the World, a yearly celebration that allows participants to experience the

A genuine Schwinn Twin tandem will be at your beck and call for the nominal fee of fifty cents a half hour, or one dollar for a hour. All proceeds from the bike rental go toward BSU Student Summer Missions. This summer CVC students, Eddie Garrett and Tim Bates, gave tens weeks to mission projects in Virginia. Eddis traveled across the state as part of a four student Dramatic Arts Team. Tim assisted at a large trailer park in Newport News. Other Virginia college students went to Israel and Germany. In all twenty-five Virginia students spent their summer involved in BSU Summer Missions. To rent the tandem and charm your "Daisy" contact Tim Bates, or drop a note in Campus Mail to BSU Summer Missions, Box 1083. By the way, you will find the bicycle built for two, easy and fun to ride (Once you decide who is going to steer.)

Christmas traditions of many countries. Among its other activities are participation in the International Arts Festival on the CVC Campus at the end of April and dinner parties for members every semester. The organizational meeting and pot-luck dinner will be Friday, September 9, at 6:30 p.m. in the Chapel.

Students with musical talent or who simply enjoy singing are welcome to join the College Community Choir under the direction of Michael Donathan. No auditions are necessary. Students can get one hour of college credit for participation in the choral group up to 6 semester hours. The choir assembles for practice on Monday evenings from 7-9:30 in the gymnasium with practice beginning in mid-September. This season's project is a Christmas Musical program scheduled for December 11. A Broadway musical is tentatively planned for the spring semester.

As new students have probably deduced, Wise offers very little social stimulation. But on CVC's campus, social events abound thanks to the many organizations concerned with filling the student's idle hours with good fellowship and fun.

The Outbounders are an organization for any student interested in backpacking and camping adventures. The organizational meeting will be on Wednesday, September 7, at 4:30 p.m. in the grill. Michael O'Donnell is the Faculty Advisor of the Outbounders.

The Baptist Student Union promotes personal growth and ministry to others. This organization meets every Wednesday at 5:00. Students who missed the organizational meeting are encouraged to come by this Wednesday. Jim Collie is the Campus Minister and Joann Perkins is the President of the B.S.U.

The other church affiliated organization on campus is the Wesley Foundation, sponsored by the Methodist Church. All students are invited to join. Meetings will be on Tuesdays at 5:00 and will consist of fellowship and meaningful programs.

Pi Sigma Kappa, founded in 1978, has chapters in most of the fifty states. The oldest fraternity on campus seeks to promote brotherhood and scholarship and develop character. The activities of the Phi Sigs are many. Oktoberfest, a German celebration of good food, good beer and fun, is a yearly project. Plans to broaden the appeal of Oktoberfest to include alumni and their families are in the making. CVC's formal dance in December, the Hollyball, is also an event sponsored by the fraternity as is the yearly Springfest celebration. Among this year's goals are a blood drive and participation in the International Arts Festival. President Brian Hunt emphasizes that the Phi Sigs' main interest is to help the students of CVC. Jack Mahoney is the Chapter Advisor.

The national project of the Phi Kappa Phi. Other projects included co-sponsoring the Special Olympics and contributing to the Mountain Empire Older Citizens. The main concern for the upcoming year is to provide more weekend activities for students including road rallies, camping and rafting excursions and possibly a student retreat. The Brothers encourage young men who want to become a part of this fraternity to come by the Pi Kapp house beside Jim's Minute Mart.

The Little Sisters of the Pi Kappa Phi support the growth and development of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity. Membership is open to all female students at CVC. The only national sorority on CVC's campus is Phi Upsilon Omega. Its purpose is to promote sisterhood and to provide social and service activities for the college community. Rush week is September 5-9 with membership information in Cantrell Hall.

Clinch Valley College has something for all students who are interested in pursuing extracurricular interests through club memberships. But the success of these organizations depends upon the degree of cooperation and effort on the part of the students that comprise them. Enthusiasm and dedication in all endeavors make college life rewarding and memorable.

Christmas Around The World sponsored by International Club.

CAMPUS NEWS

Steel-Belted People

By Jim Collie, Baptist Campus Minister
 Superman is known as the "man of steel." His adventures have entertained us through thousands of comic books, cartoons, a TV show, and now three movies. Running throughout each Superman plot is the thread of people needing other people. Even Superman with his amazing strength needs people. Superman, or Clark Kent, has his friends in Jimmy Olsen, Lois Lane, Perry White and Lana Lang. Even the villains have a role in shaping Superman as he reacts to the challenge of their evil deeds and green Kryptonite plotting.

Ever tried to be Superman or Superwoman? You're kidding! Of course not! Ever tried to go it alone? Ever tried to be so independent as to shut others out. "Please mother, I can do it by myself," is a line from an old pain reliever commercial. The selling point was that not only mom, but "double strength" — were there ready to help.

Steel strengthens buildings, ships and radial tires. It's up for grabs about whether there are any real men or women of steel. And should there be? Perhaps one of the most valuable lessons to be learned at college is how to get along with others. Clinch Valley College is a classroom for human relations. Education is a co-operative effort: with Profs, administrators, roommates, classmates, friends.

I like Roy Z. Kemp's little poem about a "man of steel: Vulnerability
 A man may wind about his heart
 A cord of steel to fence it in,
 To keep it dark, alone, apart
 From stranger and from kith and kin.
 But love and friendship have a way,
 Of breaking through a barricade,
 To let the golden light of day
 Shine in and strengthen one afraid.

To be a friend, a co-learner is to make oneself vulnerable. It is to take risks. Is it worth it? The legend goes that the Apostle John was confronted in his old age by some students (who else?) who wanted to know, "John, why are you always repeating this 'love one another' stuff?" Sometimes those lectures do sound like ones you have heard before. John replied, "Because, if you do that one thing, it is enough. It is enough."

Graduate With Honors? Begin Now.

Upperclassmen who are interested in graduating with honors should be aware of the policies on graduation with honors which are listed below.

In order to graduate with honors a student must be in the top quarter of his/her class and must complete an honors project which demonstrates an unusually high level of academic achievement. The types of honors projects which will be eligible for consideration will be defined by the academic departments and/or disciplines subject to the approval of the Honors Committee.

The Honors Committee will have final authority to select those students who will graduate with honors. The Committee will be composed of the Dean serving as chairman and one representative from each academic division, to be appointed by the appropriate division chairman.

Proposals for honors projects should be submitted by students by April 15 in their junior year, but not later than September 15 in their senior year. (The spring date was chosen so that a student could begin an honors project in the summer, if appropriate.)

Each student submitting a proposal must have a faculty member who is willing to supervise the project. The proposal must be recommended by the faculty member and the department chairman. If the proposal is accepted by the Committee, and it must have the recommendation of the supervising faculty member and the department chairman when submitted in final form. The completed honors project must be received by the Honors Committee by March 30 of the student's senior year.

Each student completing an honors project will make an oral presentation open to the public on his/her project.

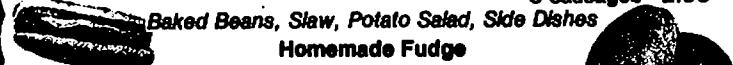

No student need necessarily be awarded honors and normally no more than 5% of the graduating class should qualify for such honors.

Students interested in applying for graduation with honors may check with Mrs. Barbara Short in the Office of the Registrar to determine if they are in the top quarter of their class. Then they are encouraged to discuss their interest with the chairman of the department or division in which they are majoring and receive advice on the development of a proposal. Proposals should be submitted through the Office of the Dean.

Students Know Your Rights

The Registrar's Office at CVC would like to inform students of their rights concerning educational records. Due to the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, and the Buckley Amendments, effective January 6, 1976, students have the right to:

1. To be provided with a list of the types of education records, as defined in the Act, which are maintained by the College and which are directly related to students;
2. To inspect and review the content of those records;
3. To obtain copies of those records upon payment of expenses;
4. To receive a response from the College to reasonable requests for explanations of those records; and
5. To receive confidential treatment by the College of education records; neither such records, nor personally identifiable information contained therein, will be released without student permission to anyone other than those parties specifically authorized by the Act.

For more specific information on who has the right to see your educational records and where these records are kept, a student may obtain a complete copy of these regulations from any faculty secretary, the Dean of Students' Office, or any student services' offices such as the Financial Aid Office or the Registrar's Office.

Federal legislation (Buckley Amendment) concerning the privacy of information states that students may elect to have their names, addresses and other "directory" information not listed in such a publication. Colleges may publish directory information concerning an individual student if the student does not request his/her information be withheld. In compliance with this new legislation, Clinch Valley College requests that any student (full or part-time) who does not want to have certain information listed in the directory notify the Registrar's Office by Wednesday, September 7.

Special Services Survey

The Special Services Program provides tutoring, peer counseling, referrals, and other academic and cultural services for students of Clinch Valley College. As a federal program, Special Services must write and submit a proposal for program approval and funding every few years. This new proposal must include certain data never before required by the federal government. In order to comply with federal regulations, the Special Services Office will conduct a campus-wide survey of Upperclassmen September 19 through 22.

Survey tables will be set up for commuters and on-campus students as follows:

Welcome Coach Smith

by Dirk Rhodes
A new face around the CVC campus in the administration is Coach Wayne Smith, the new assistant Basketball Coach. Coach Smith recently earned his Masters from Radford University, after receiving his B.S. in 1975. He holds a B.S. and Masters in Physical Education/Health with a minor in Driver's Education.

Coach Smith is no stranger to basketball. In his few years out of college, he has coached in several high schools, including Blacksburg High and Auburn High, with some volunteer coaching at Radford. He has also taught Health, P.E. and aerobics in the school systems. He also taught part-time at Radford and New River Community College.

His outlook for the team this year is a non-committed one. He stated that the team is just in the conditioning stage. "We have a young, but talented team and it's too early to tell right now how well we will do."

Coach Smith seems to be a hardworking coach with the drive to make the team work towards a successful season. Also, he has already fallen into the CVC system; arriving on Tuesday, and being told on Wednesday that he was teaching a class Thursday.

"Come on coach, the Cavs can't be that bad!"

Intramural Update

Softball rosters due September 7! Get them in now! We need three girls' teams, or no girls' tournament. The tourney for both men and women will be double elimination. Practice! Practice! Practice!

Flag football will start in mid-October. It will probably be a short season with the expected early snow. Girls, are you scared to play flag football? We haven't had girls' flag football in years. Get those teams up and practice!

There will be ping-pong tournament for both men and women, possibly during football season. Stay tuned for more details!

A double elimination volleyball tournament is scheduled for sometime after football season (pending use of the gym). Keep up your weekly reading for details.

Spring intramurals should find us playing basketball, softball, and another ping-pong tournament. But that'll have to wait until after Christmas.

The Editor Expects...

by Barry Bellamy
With the college football season here, it's time to start making a few predictions. No, this will not be "Barry Bellows." I quit bellowing when I found a bigger headache, called editing! Seriously, I love sports, and I love to offend people with my "off the wall" predictions. So let's move on to Barry's Picks of 1988.

Heisman Trophy - Everybody says it will be Marcus Dupree of Oklahoma, and while I would love to dispute the issue, let's face reality. Running backs always win the Heisman. The last non-running back to win was Pat Sullivan of Auburn, way back in 1971. Dupree has the size, speed, and instinct. If he can control his weight, and Coach Barry Switzer runs the I formation as he has promised, Dupree will not only win the Heisman, but will make a lot of people forget a former Georgia tailback who won the award last year. Other possible contenders for the award include Duke QB Ben Bennett, Arizona QB Tom Tunnicliffe, Oklahoma State RB Earnest Anderson, and Nebraska's duo of QB Turner Gill and RB Mike Rozier.

Outland Trophy - With Dave Remington now with the Cincinnati Bengals, this award is up for grabs. My personal choice is Willbur Marshall of the University of Florida. Marshall was the only junior finalist last year. Marshall is one heck of a football player as anybody who saw Florida play USC last year can attest to. Other possible winners include William Fuller of North Carolina, Bill Fralic of Pittsburgh, and Dough Smith of Auburn.

Number One - Generally, people are picking Nebraska, Texas, Notre Dame, and Auburn. My choice is Alabama. Ray Perkins has super personnel to run the new multiple offenses. QB Walter Lewis was brilliant at times last year and should benefit by getting to throw ten to fifteen more times a game. Jesse Bendross and Joey Jones are perhaps the finest pair of receivers in the nation. Look for Linnie Patrick to excel this year as the number one tailback. Defensively, the Tide must rebuild, but 'Bama defensive coordinator, Ken Donahue is among the best and will have the Tide ready to go. A long shot? Maybe, but the Tide has too much talent and tradition not to win a lot of game, even without the Bear.

Sleeper Team - A lot of teams have a shot at this award. My choice goes to my personal as well as a local favorite, the Tennessee Volunteers. Tennessee's kicking combo of Faud Rivry and Jimmy Colquitt is the nation's best. Alan Cockrell at QB has Heisman potential. The line and backs are solid, while receivers are talented, though inexperienced. Defensively, the Vols should be much improved over last year's unit that allowed 415 yards per game. Tackle Reggie White could contend for the Outland Trophy while Joe Coter, Tommy Simms, and Xavier Cook are future all stars. The Vols could be a total flop, but I think they will be this year's sleeper team.

Mens Tennis Underway

The men's tennis team will begin fall practice on Tuesday, September 6, at 3:30 p.m. on the upper tennis courts (near the commuter parking lot). All students interested in trying out for the team should come to practice or see Van Daniel in S-206 as soon as possible.

"We lost three starting players due to graduation" comments Coach Daniel. "I am definitely looking for some new players to take their places. One fall scrimmage has been scheduled, and I am trying to set up at least two more practice matches."
