

Elections

Students to choose representatives

By Susan Mullins.

The student body of Clinch Valley College will have their opportunity to speak out with the power of the vote on Wednesday, April the 18th. The Student Government Association will hold their annual elections to fill the offices of President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, and three Class Representatives chosen from each class. Honor Court elections will also be held on the same day with five representatives elected to represent each class.

Up for re-election for the office of President is John Kilgore, an upcoming senior from Gate City, Virginia who is majoring in Business and Public Administration. Also running for president is Lynn Gilbert, also an upcoming senior from Patterson, Virginia majoring in pre-law.

The President will serve as the chief executive of the SGA, presiding over all meetings and events held by the Council. It is the SGA

President's responsibility to see that all provisions of the Student Government's Constitution are carried out.

For the office of Vice-President, candidates are Steve Blankenbecker from Wise, a rising junior with a major in Business and Bo Stuart from Appalachia, a rising senior also majoring in Business.

The Vice-President will take over the duties and powers of the President in his absence and will serve

Gilbert, Kilgore vying for SGA President

With elections being held this week, the Highland Cavalier conducted interviews with the two candidates for SGA President, Lynn Gilbert and Johnny Kilgore. Below are their responses to our questions:

1. Why do you seek the office of SGA President?

Gilbert: I wish to be SGA President because I feel that I could do a good job. One of the major problems at CVC is the lack of weekend activities. Because I'm here every weekend, I feel that I understand this situation well, and I could solve this problem. I feel that as SGA President, I could serve as a mediator between students, faculty, and the SGA - something we desperately need here at CVC. I also feel as though CVC commuters are virtually left out of CVC activities, and I feel that, because I have many friends who are commuters, I could really improve their

Author to discuss 1984 elections

Professor James W. Ceaser, Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of Virginia, will give a talk on "The 1984 Presidential Elections" in the Chapel at Clinch Valley College at 7:00 p.m. on Thursday, April 19, 1984. A reception will follow. Both the talk and reception are open to the public. Everyone is invited to attend.

Professor Ceaser is well qualified to discuss his timely and important topic. He is the author or co-author of four books and numerous articles in scholarly journals on the subjects of American political parties and presidential election. Among his books are Presidential Selection: Theory and Development; Proportional Representation in Presidential Nomination Politics (co-authored with Paul David); and Reforming the Reforms. He is also a co-author of a major textbook on American Government published by McGraw-Hill.

Our guest's education includes a B.A. from Weynon College in Political Science, Summa Cum Laude, Highest Honors in Political Science, graduate work at Cornell University, and a Ph.D. from the Department of Government at Harvard University. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Radford official to address Alliance for Black Culture

The public is invited to attend the meeting of the Alliance for Black Culture on Wednesday, April 18, in Cantrell 206. The meeting will begin at 6:00 p.m. with a covered-dish dinner.

The guest speaker for the meeting will be Ray Williams, Associate Director of Admissions at Radford University. A native of Hampton, Williams received his Bachelor's degree in psychology from Radford and will receive a Master's degree in Industrial Psychology this spring.

Currently Williams is responsible for admission of transfer students to Radford and for minority recruitment. Under his leadership and direction, Radford's minority population increased over 22 percent in 1983.

The topic of Williams' address to the Alliance for Black Culture will center around the need for black interest groups on college campuses. The purpose of the Alliance for Black Culture is to promote black culture and history on the Clinch Valley College campus. Officers of the new group are Harry "Bo" Stuart, president; George Walton, vice-president; Marnita Zander, secretary-treasurer, and Lesha Price, parliamentarian. Membership in the A.B.C. is open to any interested person.

Lee explains purpose of CVC Honor Court

By Laughlin Lee

Living on CVC's campus lends itself to many opportunities and experiences, as many of you well know. What many people do not realize is that along with those opportunities comes a certain number of responsibilities too. One cannot attend a college, whether living on campus or off campus, and not be involved in some way. And as part of that involvement incur certain responsibilities. We, as students of Clinch Valley College cannot simply go through four years believing that we do not owe anything to anyone, or feel that we are void of any other responsibilities other than completing requirements for a degree. A college is much more than this. Certainly one of the college functions is to provide an education through various experiences, but part of its purpose transcends even the books and microscopes. When one goes to college one is expected not only to gain knowledge, but to grow and mature too. It is an on-going process that involves not only administration and faculty, but friends, clubs and organizations. It means becoming involved.

Lynn Gilbert has the qualities to be a fine SGA President also. Serving as vice-president this year has undoubtedly given Lynn the experience need for the job. Lynn undoubtedly was a most valuable asset to Johnny and the SGA as a whole. Regardless of who you favor for SGA President, make sure your voice is heard.

I have lived on this campus for almost eight semesters now and have been involved in various activities ranging from student orientation leader to the prosecutor of the Honor Court. Many of those who know me know that I place a great deal of emphasis on clubs and organizations on this campus, but there is one that is of special interest to me, which in past times has not received the vote of confidence and recognition that it should receive from the administration, faculty and students. This organization is the Honor Court.

In any collegiate setting where hundreds of students come from many different backgrounds or life styles there will obviously be those present in the student body who will not possess the integrity that others do. This coupled with the recognizable fact that there must be codes and ethics by which to grow leads us to the belief that there must be a governing body for the purpose of not only enforcing those codes and ethics, which everyone agrees to abide by when he or she accepts the invitation to come to a college, but should also serve as an educational instrument. Clinch Valley College is fortunate on that the student body has the right to choose representatives from each class to serve on the Honor Court.

As I have stated before, one cannot be involved and not have responsibilities. The people who serve on the Honor Court have the responsibility of listening to a case, going through and understanding all the evidence that is presented, rendering an unbiased decision by majority vote of its members, and handing down an appropriate sanction. The prosecutor has the responsibility, as the representative of the student body, of investigating all the facts of an alleged violation, decide if there is enough evidence to positively indicate that there was such a violation, and present it to the Court. Conversely, the student body has the responsibility of abiding by the Honor Code, which includes not only lying, cheating, stealing, plagiarism, etc, but reporting those who do. I am not saying go out and police the campus for violators, but if one does see something happen, it should be reported to prosecutor, a member of the Honor Court, the Dean of Students or a professor. I am of the belief that even the faculty should support the Honor Code, and not just take an Honor Code violation into their own hands. In the past two semesters, the Honor Court has been supported more by the professors, and I hope they will continue to do so.

During my three years of association with the Honor Court I have seen several recurring violations, or excuses for the violation. The excuse "I don't know" is not a valid one. If you have not before, grab your copy of the code and look at the Honor Court Constitution. It spells out your right as well as what you can't do. It is all common sense. If I were to choose the most commonly occurring violation, I would say that it is plagiarism. If you aren't sure what constitutes plagiarism, ask the English Department or look it up in the Harbrace Handbook. Too many people get into trouble because of carelessness, or they think the professor can't catch them plagiarizing on a paper.

Everyone knows the difference between right and wrong. Those elected to the Honor Court are there to ensure that the rules are followed. I challenge the newly elected Honor Court to try to create and maintain, along with the faculty and administration, an atmosphere of academic excellence. As a closing, I would like to leave everyone with a thought. If you are tempted to cheat, or steal, or plagiarize, as I am sure that everyone is at one time or another, stop and think. Is it really worth it? Is the goal justified by the means? If you are caught you not only placing yourself in an embarrassing situation, to say the least, but you also put those friends who you elected to the Honor Court in a position that cannot and must not be compromised. It isn't fair to place your friends in that position. I realize the Honor System at Clinch Valley College has "wrinkles that need to be ironed out," but it can be accomplished only by the full cooperation of all concerned. It is everyone's responsibility.

Congratulations to the incumbent Honor Court on a job well done, and good luck to the newly elected Honor Court!

Karen Greene awarded Student Chemistry Award

Karen L. Greene, a senior chemistry major at Clinch Valley College, was presented an Outstanding

Karen Greene

Chemistry Student Award by the Northeast Tennessee Section of the American Chemical Society. Ms. Greene and four other students from the Northeast Tennessee Section received awards at the Section's annual awards banquet held Tuesday, April 3 at the Merrimac Inn in Abingdon, Virginia. The awards are presented annually to graduating seniors who have demonstrated exceptional competence in chemistry and who are likely to excel in some chemistry related career. Ms. Greene received a Merck Index and a certificate recognizing her achievement.

In his introduction, Van Daniel said, "Karen has been at Clinch Valley College for four years. Her work has been consistently excellent. She will graduate in May with honors in chemistry and with a 3.9 GPA. She was the recipient of our Freshman Chemistry Award in 1978. Her honors project is one of the best that I have supervised. I expect her to continue her excellent work."

Dr. Water Crouse, Lesa Clark, Phoebe Badia, David Driscoll, and John Reinhardt of Clinch Valley also attended the banquet. After the awards ceremony, Dr. James P. Lodge of Denver, Colorado, a consultant in Atmospheric Chemistry presented a lecture on Fire and Brimstone in which he discussed air pollution from a historical perspective and current problems surrounding the regulation of airborne particulates.

On Wednesday, the student body of Clinch Valley College will have the opportunity to elect SGA officers, representatives, and Honor Court members. Few events of the school year are of such importance.

As stated in last week's editorial, the SGA is responsible for the allocation of funds as well as the planning of many social events. It is impossible to underestimate the importance of SGA officers and representatives.

The office of SGA President is between incumbent Johnny Kilgore and current vice-president Lynn Gilbert. Few would dispute that Kilgore and Gilbert have been a superior combination as the SGA has never run smoother. Indeed, it is a shame that the team will be broken up. We can, however, be rest assured that whoever is elects SGA President will be very qualified and prove to be a good leader. Consider the facts.

Johnny Kilgore has proven to be a first-rate President. Under Kilgore's leadership, the SGA has promoted a fall concert, two road rallies, a Homecoming parade (a CVC first), two talent shows, and SGA regular events such as Homecoming and the Spring Formal. All of these events went very smoothly and were most enjoyable.

Lynn Gilbert has the qualities to be a fine SGA President also. Serving as vice-president this year has undoubtedly given Lynn the experience need for the job. Lynn undoubtedly was a most valuable asset to Johnny and the SGA as a whole.

Regardless of who you favor for SGA President, make sure your voice is heard.

Students to choose their representatives

as chairman of the Inter-Club Council.

Running for Treasurer is Allen Wallace who will be a senior next school year majoring in Business with a concentration in Accounting. Allen is from Manassas, Virginia.

The treasurer will be in charge of all funds of the SGA and is responsible for all financial records.

For the office of Secretary will be Shari Farmer, an upcoming senior, from Gate City, Virginia.

The Secretary will be primarily responsible for preserving the minutes of the Council meetings and for conducting the correspondence of the Council.

Running for Senior

Representatives are: Tim Bates, and Francis Pyano. Up for Junior Representatives is: Kim Pounders.

Running for Sophomore Representatives are: Donita Calhoun, Tracy Jones, Michelle Pendleton, Becky Wells, and William Franks.

All Representatives will act as voting delegates for their class and approve and charter all student organizations and clubs on the campus.

Honor Court Representatives for the senior class will be chosen from: Tammy Kilgore, Francis Pyano, Beverly Paulette Boyd, Melissa Collins, Teresa La Force, Lesah Price, and Amy Gregory.

Up for Junior

Representatives will be: Greg Marshall, Kimberly Austin, Amy Potest, and Tracy Jones.

For Sophomore Representatives are: Diana Cooper, Rusty Necessary, Rhonda Oakes, and Stephanie Slomp.

Honor Court Representatives will serve as members of the Court trying cases brought to it by the student body or administration concerning violations of the Honor Code of CVC.

Voting tables will be set up from 8:30 to 4:00 in both Cantrell and the Zehmer Buildings. Campus residents are to vote in Cantrell Hall, and off campus commuters will cast their votes in the Zehmer Building.

Kilgore: I feel I can serve the student body better because of my past experience in dealing with the administration and carrying out student activities.

2. What do you feel are some of your qualifications that make you suitable for this job?

Gilbert: I feel that I am qualified for the Presidency of the SGA because I have served on the SGA since I was a freshman here at CVC which gives me the experience I need. Presently, I am serving as Vice-President of the SGA, a position that has put me in close touch with faculty and members of the administration - people I need to know to carry out the duties the President of the SGA would be responsible for.

Kilgore: I have served the Student Government Association a representative and as President this past year. During high school, I served on the Student Council each year including holding the offices of President and Vice-President.

3. What do you feel are some of the more pressing needs of the students that can be served by the SGA?

Gilbert: The commuter parking situation is definitely a serious problem. I feel that the SGA needs to work with the administration to solve this problem. Also, there needs to be more weekend activities for students staying at CVC on weekends. I feel that the SGA should increase the number of weekend activities, and, if elected, I will strive to see that it happens.

Kilgore: I feel that a lack of social activities is the most pressing need of the students. I feel the SGA has done a good job this past year in fulfilling this need and will continue to do so if I am re-elected.

4. Do you have any formal plans that you would like to carry out if elected?

Gilbert: Yes, to mention a few of these plans:

(1.) Improve the commuter parking situation. (2) Increase the number of weekend activities at CVC. (3) Improve relations between the SGA and campus clubs. (4) Work to ensure that CVC's gymnasium and tennis courts will be made available when CVC students want to use these facilities. (5) Make a movie schedule available to CVC students and strive to have student input so that CVC students can view what they wish to see.

Kilgore: I plan to continue the progress that the SGA

Parking violations will be issued

Campus Police Chief Frank Colyer has announced that effective immediately, parking violations will be issued to anyone who parks in the spaces on either side of the two handicapped ramps beside the Zehmer and Science Buildings.

Alumni Review

Steve Duffy valued friendship of many CVC professors

By: Kim Raymer
The alumni review focuses on Steven Duffy of Hillsday, New Jersey.

Steve is a 1982 graduate of Clinch Valley College where he majored in Business with a concentration in Marketing and Management. He is the 28 year old son of Leo and Jean Duffy.

Steve is now co-manager of Wendy's in Wise, but he says he would like to go into purchasing or insurance adjustment. "I'd like to live around here," he said, "but I think there's a lack of opportunity."

Steve is married to Teresa Duffy, a senior at Clinch Valley. "We were married three weeks after my graduation from CVC." Steve and Teresa left for New Jersey, where he managed a furniture store for a year, then they came back here.

Steve spent his first freshman semester at a community college in New Jersey. "I realized I had to get away. My uncle was from Richmond and he said 'Come to Virginia. The weather's beautiful. I came to CVC,' he said. "That was the winter of 1977 and it was one of the worst winters Virginia had seen in a while." He spent four years at Clinch Valley. "I enjoyed CVC a lot. Many of my professors were also my friends. One friend who was particularly helpful was Jack Mahony. He gave me advice and he was there when I needed someone to talk to."

Being a former president of Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity, Steve continues to be involved in student life. "I still play intramural basketball and football, and if I'm still around here, I'll be playing until I get too old."

While in college, Steve was on the student life committee, active in intramurals, and a member of Phi Beta Lambda. Steve's hobbies include scuba diving and landscaping.

Inter-frat Council to organize

By: Rick Widener
Three CVC students are organizing an inter-fraternity Council on campus. They have observed that other colleges have instituted IFC's to help meet the need for cooperation among their fraternal and sororital organizations. They believe that this need is also expressed here at CVC. However, they feel that our situation at CVC is somewhat unique. The advent of sororital Greek letter organizations with their respective "little brothers" at CVC has placed an additional stress on relations between our Greek letter organizations, they note. "Things are too loose right now," Lauchlin Lee says, "it (the IFC) would get rid of backbiting, backstabbing, and things like that." Organizing the inter-fraternity Council are Lauchlin Lee, Pam McClellan, and Al Wallace. Some of its goals are to organize one RUSH week each semester with rules governing the activities, to eliminate all hazing on campus, and to post calendars that keep a public record of the Greeks' activities. The IFC plans to have two representatives from each Greek organization; one faculty member and one student. The council is currently in the process of getting copies of other IFC constitutions from which it will make a "blend" that is suitable for CVC because, "Cooperation is needed here, not only among the fraternities, but also the Greek letter organizations," Al explains.

Pi Kapp sisters elect new officers

Little Sisters of Pi Kappa Phi recently elected new officers. An '84 graduate, Sheila Daugherty hands over her position as President to Julie Coynor. Another '84 graduate, Becky Seay, handed over her position as secretary to Sherry Pounders. Other new elects are as follows: Vice President, Tammy Kilgore; Treasurer, Becky Mullins; Parliamentarian and Photographer, Pam McClellan; Public Relations, Amy Hodges. Congratulations to these girls and goodluck. The Sisters held a raffle at Thursday night's dance with proceeds going to Wise Primary underprivileged children. For another fundraising project the Sisters held a car wash on Sunday, April 15. The Annual Special Olympics for the handicapped will be held on April 27. The Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity will be aiding these special young people. The National Arts Festival will be held on April 28. Be sure to stop by the Sisters booth. They will be painting clown faces on children's faces. To top the day off the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity will enjoy an evening of dining and dancing at the Annual Rose Ball.

Alliance of Black Culture elects officers, makes plans for spring

Peake delivers Renaissance paper

Renaissance scholars from the southeastern United States met in Columbia, S.C., April 6-7. One of the papers presented at this meeting was "The Game at Hell's Gate - an Interpretation of Shakespeare's Sonnet 138," delivered by Clinch Valley Professor Richard Peake. Besides the scholarly papers, activities included a partial rendition of Shakespeare's Henry IV, by the University of South Carolina Players, who are preparing the play for production later this month. Peake's paper applied game theory as interpreted by Johan Huizinga to the double set of sexual values expressed in Shakespeare's sonnet 138.

Baseball team falls in doubleheader

By Denise Bates

After winning three out of four games over the past weekend, the Cavalier baseball team suffered a disappointment Wednesday when they fell to Kentucky State in a double-header.

In the first game, the Cavs trailed 4-0 until the bottom of the 4th, when Joe Stallard slammed the ball outfield for a double and Tom Gilliland knocked Joe home with a fence-hitting triple. Timmy Owens then followed with a single, bringing in Tom and making the score 4-2.

Rallying in the seventh, after Kentucky State's two-run homer, the Cavs brought

In three more runs, amid much shouting and applause from the CVC dugout and fans.

Unfortunately, however, when the game was finished, Kentucky State had won by the narrow margin of 8-5.

In the second game, both scores remained at zero until the top of the 6th, when Kentucky State scored the first run. The Cavs, in turn, brought in a run in the bottom of the 7th, sending the game into extra innings.

The Cavs were finally forced to accept defeat, however, when Kentucky State, after yet another home run, won 3-1.

Sports Spotlight features Bo Stuart

By Denise Bates

Highland Cavalier's sports spotlight this week is Bo Stuart, pitcher for the CVC baseball team, and according to Bo, when he's not pitching, he serves as the official "foul ball retriever."

Bo, a 20 year old junior, has played here at Clinch Valley for three years now, and this one has been a good one so far. In the fall season Bo pitched three winning games out of four. This spring, he has thrown the Cavs to victory once so far.

"During my freshman year, I tore some ligaments in my wrist. It seems to be completely healed now and the arm is in better shape than any season I've pitched," Bo said.

In order to improve his game, he said he plans to "throw some in the summer and winter, and do some extensive running."

Bo's outlook for this season is hopeful. "This is the most talented team we've had for the three years I've been here," he said.

According to Bo, his goal is "the team's goal — to qualify for the KIAC tournament." To accomplish this, Bo said, "the Cavs must win all the conference games and have a good showing for the outer conference games."

Teammates say that Bo "inspires the team, works hard, and keeps us laughing."

Bo has a high academic standing and likes to be involved in student activities. "Hopefully it will be elected SGA Vice-President."

Baseball pitcher Bo Stuart hopes year-round exercise will improve his game.

Despite 2-5 record

Tennis team hopeful

By Melissa Farmer

The men's tennis team has played seven matches this season. Their record is two wins and five losses, but according to Coach Van Daniel, "We have played the most difficult teams on our schedule." Coach Daniel also said, "The team is progressing with each match."

The Cavaliers were victorious over King College winning 5-4 and over Union College by a score of 7-2.

Coach Van Daniel said, "Even though our record is 2-5, I am optimistic it will improve as the season progresses."

Coach Daniel stated that Danny Rowland has been playing well at the #1 position and Cengiz Volkan the #5 player has improved rapidly.

Coach Daniel said the only disappointment has been that the doubles teams haven't come along as quickly as he had hoped.

The Cavaliers are looking forward to their first home matches to be played April 20th and 21st. The Cavs will be hosting Berea College, Georgetown, and Alice Lloyd.

Coach Daniel said that the main goal of the team is "to be ready for the KIAC tournament."

Coach Daniel has an optimistic outlook for the rest of the season, and he feels that all of the players are doing well.
