Native Virginian to be CVC leader

By Betty Farmer

Dr. W. Edmund Moomaw, CVC's next chancellor, says his immediate plan for this institution is to listen. A lot.

Moomaw, who calls the move to Wise, Va. like "coming home," says he has no firmly established agenda for the direction of the college. "You wouldn't want someone from out of the area coming in with a set plan of action," says Moomaw. "I want to come and listen. I want to meet with lots of people and talk with them," he added.

The new chancellor emphasized that he was very "anxious" to meet with students and called himself "a student oriented person." Moomaw recalled that while visiting the campus during the search process, he met with the Student Government Association. He reported being "impressed" with the students who voiced concerns. Saying he was "a supporter of student social affairs," Moomaw stated that there was more to education than the classroom. "Education," says Moomaw, is learning how to get along with others.

"An education that prepares people to live in a changing world," is Moomaw's brief definition of a liberal arts education. He feels a general education is better than a narrow or technically oriented education because it encourages people to think critically and to solve problems. The liberal arts education is the very best preparation for coping with today's world, according to Moomaw.

Moomaw perceives CVC as a "democratic college" and sees his role as "a leader within a participatory setting." Repeatedly emphasizing the importance of working with people, Moomaw said he plans to become a part of the community and desires the integration of college and community activities. He feels the college is "a citizen of the community." The college, he says, provides services and support for the community. "The more it (CVC) does that, the more support and loyalty the community will give to the college."

Moomaw said that if he is successful in helping raise finances for the college he will "form a consensus" on where the money should be spent. "One of the things a

Temperature plummets to record low at CVC

An all-time record low temperature of -27 degrees F was recorded by the CVC weather station early last Monday morning, according to Dr. Roy Walls. The wind chill factor factor lowered the temperature to a bone-chilling -47 degrees.

Dr. Walls, Associate Professor of Chemistry at Clinch Valley College, said that CVC began recording weather conditions in 1955 and the previous record low temperature of -24 degrees F was recorded here in January

Like these slowly melting patches, CVC will need time to thaw out from record low temps.

Don't forget about graduation requirements

As they plan their courses of study, students should keep in mind the requirements for graduation that have been established by the faculty of the College. These include the following:

- The final responsibility for meeting graduation requirements rests with the individual student.
- The graduation requirements for graduating with a degree from Clinch Valley College include the following:
 - A minimum of 122 semester hours (At most, two hours earned in physical education activities courses may be counted as part of the 122-hour requirement.)
 - An overall grade-point average of at least 2.0 for all college-level work (including work transferred to CVC) and at least 2.0 on all work attempted at CVC.
 - A grade-point average of at least 2.0 in the major area.
 - Completion of course requirements for one of the major program areas, including the appropriate general education requirements.
 - Enrollment at Clinch Valley College for the semester in which degree requirements are completed.
 - Completion of the last thirty semester hours at Clinch Valley.
 - Completion of at least twelve semester hours on the main campus of the College in courses that meet on a regular basis and involve regular classroom participation. This requirement will not be satisfied by courses such as independent studies, cooperative education, student teaching, internships, and field instructions.
 - Completion of at least fifteen semester hours of upper-level courses in the major area at Clinch Valley College.
 - Completion of the last fifty-six semester hours in a four-year college or university.
 - The filing of an application for graduation with the Registrar at least one full semester prior to the graduation date.

In reference to item 6, when a student is enrolled in a degree program at Clinch Valley College and has earned 92 semester hours (including any transfer hours), the student must take the remaining hours at Clinch Valley College and will not be permitted to take courses elsewhere for credit towards a degree. If a student transfers into the College with more than 92 semester hours of appropriate coursework, those hours will be accepted, but the student will be required to complete at least 30 additional hours for the degree at Clinch Valley College and may not take any courses at another college that can be applied to their degree requirements.

In reference to item 9, when a student is enrolled in a degree program at the College and has earned 66 hours (including any transfer hours) the student must take the remaining hours at a four-year college or university. If a student transfers to the College with more than 66 semester hours of appropriate coursework from a two-year college those hours will be accepted, but the student will not be permitted to take additional courses at a two-year college and will have to meet the requirements that the last 66 hours be taken at a four-year college or university.

To graduate with honors plan now

Students who will be seniors this year and may be interested in graduating with honors should be aware of the policy on graduation with honors which follows:

In order to graduate with honors a student must be in the top quarter of his/her class and must complete an honors project which demonstrates an unusually high level of academic achievement. The types of honors projects which will be eligible for consideration will be defined by the academic departments and/or disciplines subject to the approval of the Honors Committee.

The Honors Committee will have final authority to select those students who will graduate with honors. The Committee will be composed of the Dean serving as chairman and one representative from each academic division, to be appointed by the appropriate division chairman.

Proposals for honors projects should be submitted by students by April 15 in their junior year, but not later than September 15 in their senior year. (The spring date was chosen so that a student could begin an honors project in the summer, if appropriate.)

Each student submitting a proposal must have a faculty member who is willing to supervise the project. The proposal must be recommended by the faculty member and the department chairman. If the proposal is accepted by the Committee, then it must have the recommendation of the supervising faculty member and the department chairman when submitted in final form. The completed honors project must be received by the Honors Committee by March 30 of the student's senior year.

Each student completing an honors project will make an oral presentation open to the public on his/her project. No student need necessarily be awarded honors and normally no more than 5% of the graduating class should qualify for honors.

Students interested in applying for graduation with honors may check with Mrs. Barbara Short in the Office of the Registrar to determine if they are in the top quarter of their class. Then they are encouraged to discuss their interest with the chairman of the department or division in which they are majoring and receive advice on the development of a proposal. Proposals should be submitted through the Office of the Dean.

Independent study provides opportunity

The faculty of the College have established the following conditions on the offering of independent study courses:

- The primary purpose of independent study courses is to provide better than average students with an opportunity to take a course or course in subject matter appropriate for their education program that would not otherwise be available at the College.
- Independent study courses cannot be used to satisfy general education

English 101, 102 courses required

Students who have not completed English 101-102 are required to enroll in the appropriate course in that sequence unless they are not prepared to enroll in English 101. Students who are not ready for English 101 must requirements.

3. To be eligible to take an independent study course a student must have at least a 3.0 GPA.

4. A course cannot be taken on an independent study basis in a semester in which it is being offered on a regular basis.

5. Part-time faculty do not offer independent study courses.

6. A full-time faculty member should offer no more than two independent study courses a semester if he or she is teaching a regular load and none if he or she has an overload such as an extra class.

A request to add an independent study course must be accompanied by a course outline and a schedule of the activities for the semester.

Degree applications available

Students, expecting to complete degree requirements during the 1984-85 academic year (December 1984, May 1985, or August 1985) must complete a degree application form and deposit twenty dollars with the Registrar's Office. Degree application forms are available in the Registrar's Office.

Moomaw chosen to be chancellor

leader does", he stated, "is to identify what the community feels are the problems." Once the problems are identified, the solution can be derived through group input. Here the leader depends even more on talking and listening. He would not identify specific areas which need attention or areas which may receive future funding. That is something "all of us at the college should be involved in," he said. The chancellor-elect responded "Yes, very much..." to the comment that he sounded like a team player.

"To maintain the excellence of the college," is Moomaw's first goal. He said he was "most impressed" with CVC's first and only chancellor, Joe Smiddy, and Smiddy's achievements. "It is amazing the praise I've heard about him," he said.

Three things encouraged Moomaw to apply for this position. He said he likes the size of the college, the setting, and the ideals to which CVC is committed. A Virginian by birth, mind and heart, Moomaw says "the state holds a very special place in my heart." Having graduated from the University of Virginia, Moomaw feels "CVC represents those ideals I believe in." He said that he was looking forward to working in a small community and living in Virginia's beautiful countryside.

Moomaw says he would like to live on campus which would help establish a friendly rapport with students and staff.

He said he enjoyed playing tennis and warned that his backhand and forehand would be in top condition by the time he settles at CVC.

Moomaw officially becomes Chancellor July 1. He plans to visit the campus in the near future.

AROUND CAMPUS

Shorts HC gearing up

The Highland Cavalier will be gearing up for the coming semester. All staff members and those interested in writing, please attend the organizational meeting Monday, January 28 at 2:00 p.m. in Cantrell 111.

Outbounders to meet

The Outbounders will meet Wednesday at 8:00 p.m. in the grill to discuss a ski trip. Please attend.

Reward offered for pen

Reward — Professor Augusto Portuondo has lost a gold ball point pen worth $50. He will give $50 to whoever returns it. Contact Mr. Portuondo, Box 125.

Transfer forms available

A student who is regularly enrolled in a degree program at the College who wishes to take a course at another college and transfer it to Clinch Valley College for credit must have the recommendation of his or her advisor and the approval in writing from the Dean of the College before enrolling in the course at the other college. Without prior approval the transfer credit will not be accepted. Forms for this purpose may be obtained from the Office of the Registrar.

Information private

Federal legislation (Buckley Amendment) concerning the privacy of information, states that students may elect to have their names, addresses and other "directory" information not listed in such a publication. Colleges may publish directory information concerning an individual student if the student does not request that his/her information be withheld.

In compliance with this legislation, Clinch Valley College requests that any student (full or part-time) who does not want to have certain information listed in the directory, notify the Registrar's Office by September 19, 1984.

Fee waiver forms available

Fee Waiver forms for the 1984-85 Graduate Record Exam are now available in the Office of the Dean of Students. Fees will be waived if the student is a United States citizen and a currently enrolled undergraduate college senior receiving financial aid with either a parental contribution of $200 or less during the senior year (dependent student) or a total family contribution of $200 or less during the senior year (self-supporting student).

Students should complete these forms early since the fee waiver form may not be used for late registration fees.

Mixed emotions

Randolph receives furniture

Residents of Martha Randolph Hall arrived on campus last Sunday to discover that new furniture had arrived for the rooms. New beds, dressers, desks and chairs were delivered the week prior to the end of break. Much of the older replaced furniture was moved to the new dormitory (behind Cantrell Hall) to be used there until bedroom furniture arrives for the new suites. The new furniture in Randolph replaces the worn and mismatched furniture used for the past several years.

The furniture was, for the most part, greeted favorably because the residents had anticipated its arrival since early last semester when Housing Director Charles Engle announced that he had ordered new furnishings for the rooms. Some occupants of the double rooms are now complaining, however, that the new freestanding closets are much too small and were intended to be used only as coat closets. Lisa Webb, a resident of Randolph who received one of the new closets commented that the furniture is "...nice and modern looking, but the closets are much too small." Most residents have also complained about the appearance of the new beds, which have high headboards and are compared by residents to hospital beds. Some residents have jokingly said that they are going to make medical charts to hang on the ends of their beds. All residents agree that the new furniture is a great improvement over that which they had last semester. Resident Assistant Becky Mullins summed up what appear to be the feelings of the residents of Randolph by stating with a chuckle, "...it's very nice — it's more stylish than the old furniture. We've gone from prison cots to hospital beds!"

Students know your rights

The Registrar's Office at Clinch Valley College would like to inform students of their rights concerning educational records. Due to the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, and the Buckley Amendments, effective January 8, 1978, students have the right

- To be provided with a list of the types of educational records (as defined in the Act) which are maintained by the College and which are directly related to students;
- To inspect and review the content of those records;
- To obtain copies of those records upon payment of expenses;
- To receive a response from the College to reasonable requests for explanations of those records; and
- To receive confidential treatment by the College of education records; neither such records, nor personally identifiable information contained therein, will be released without student permission to anyone other than those parties specifically authorized by the Act.

For more specific information on who has the right to see your educational records and where the records are kept, a student may obtain a complete copy of these regulations from any faculty secretary, the Dean of Students Office, or any student services office such as the Financial Aid Office or the Registrar's Office.

Bookstore Return Policy explained

When Purchasing:

- Carefully check book titles to avoid the necessity of returning a title.
- DO NOT purchase a book with the intent of finding a used copy. You cannot return books under this condition.

After Purchasing:

- Do not write in the textbook until you are sure you have the correct book for the term.
- Always open new books from the center to avoid spine breakage.

Returns:

- Books are only returnable for the first two weeks of the semester.
- In order to return a title you MUST have your receipt and a signed drop form from Registrars Office.

At the end of each semester a used book buy is conducted on campus by an independent agency. Prices given for these books will vary according to the condition of the book, publication date, and if the book has been chosen by the faculty to be used in another semester.

Sports Spotlight

Lynn Gilbert

By Allan K. Lovelace

If the bound from cheerleader to corporate lawyer might not seem plausible to some, students should learn more about Lynn Gilbert.

Lynn's many activities and broad education may prepare her to "someday become a corporate lawyer," she said. She plans to attend law school after graduating from CVC partly because "still the field (of law) is not overcrowded with women, and that's an advantage I'll have," she said. Lynn is a History / Business major, with a minor in English.

As Captain of the cheerleading squad, Lynn enjoys her role, but feels that "we've had a rough time this year, and we didn't have the guys show us as much interest this year (for tryouts), so now we only have two (men)," after the squad was reduced to a total of five cheerleaders. Lynn feels that the hours the cheerleaders put in at games and practice, involving at least two hours per day, seven days a week are well worth it: "I love it," she said.

Lynn's many college activities and honors include helping to make the constitution for her sorority, Chi Delta Rho, membership in the Honor Society, making the Dean's List, membership in the Honor Court, Student Orientation Leader, and selection in the Who's Who directory. When time is available, Lynn enjoys roller skating, reading, and bicycling.

Lynn chose CVC after visiting the University of South Carolina and discovering that "the students at South Carolina were treated like numbers." However at CVC Lynn found that "everyone was so much friendlier and the professors treat you like a person," she said. "A lot of people think that since this is a small school that you can't go out and make it, but I think if you set your goals and strive for them you'll succeed," Lynn said.

Cavs 0-6 over holiday break

The 1985 portion of the Clinch Valley basketball schedule has been hard on the Cavaliers. Coach Dave Bentley's KIAC squad has played six games since returning to the court, losing each time out.

Clinch Valley's last win came on Dec. 8, 1984, when the Cavaliers knocked off Milligan College 75-63. The Cavaliers stand 2-7 in Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference play and 4-12 overall. Five of their most recent six losses came in KIAC action.

The Cavaliers opened the second half of their season, Jan. 9, against Thomas More College. Thomas More emerged with a 61-57 win. The loss was the first of three straight on-the-road disappointments.

The next night, Jan. 10, Georgetown College notched a 75-47 win. Eddie Whitaker scored 13 points in the losing effort. Guard Curtis Clayborne, ranked among the top KIAC scorers, was limited to just seven points.

On Jan. 12, Union College registered a 78-72 victory over the Cavaliers. Four players scored in double figures in the game, but that still wasn't enough. Clayborne led Clinch Valley with 25 points. Whitaker added 18, Robb Stoss contributed 14 and Hobby Stuart chipped in 12.

The Cavaliers returned to Fred B. Greear Gymn Jan. 14 in hopes of halting their three-game losing streak. However, visiting Berea College had other ideas. Berea's Tommy Owsley led the fast-break oriented Mountaineers to a 77-69 win.

Whitaker kept the Cavaliers close in the second half with an 18-point performance. Nate Martin added 12 and Stoss fired in 11 in the losing effort.

The Cavaliers hit the road again Jan. 18 when they traveled to meet Eastern Kentucky University in a non-conference matchup. EKU sent CVC home with a 77-67 loss behind a 19-point scoring performance by Kenny Wilson.

Returning home Jan. 19 with five losses behind them, the Cavaliers threw a scare into KIAC foe Cumberland College. Cumberland, ranked 18th among NAIA schools in the nation, had to weather several CVC rallies before grabbing a 64-54 win. Whitaker fired in 16 points and Stoss finished with 11. Stuart added 10, all of which came in the second half when the Cavaliers made a run for the lead.

The Cavaliers visited Campbellsville College Friday and Berea College Saturday in two more KIAC affairs. Results of the contests were unavailable at press time.

Lady Cavs post 1-3 record in January

By Dirk Davis

Student Coach

The Lady Cavaliers posted a record of 1-3 during the first three weeks of January. The Ladies have played well in all 4 games, and most of the games have been close. Part of the reason for the improved play of the team can be attributed to the addition of Amy Goff to the team.

Amy, who transferred from Lubbock Christian College, played her first game for CVC against Union College on January 15. Since joining the team, Amy has averaged 11.4 points per game, and has given a great deal of help to Beth Hamilton. With Amy in the game, Beth has less pressure on her to score.

Also joining, or rather rejoining the team is Elaine Mitchell. Elaine has been sidelined with a back injury since the first of the season and since returning she too has helped the Lady Cavs a great deal inside.

Clinch Valley lost to Union College by a score of 47-40. CVC led most of the way, but Union made a late run at the end and made their foul shots down the end for the final margin.

At King College, Clinch Valley once again played well and jumped out to a 32-30 halftime lead. In the end, it was the physical inside game of King that made the difference. After Beth Hamilton fouled out, Elaine Mitchell played well, but it was evident that the Cavs' stalwart center was badly missed.

Last Saturday night, January 19, the Lady Cavs hosted Cumberland College. CVC played a good defensive game, allowing only 55 points for the entire game, but the Cavs suffered the worst offensive half of the year, scoring only 7 points in the first half, and shooting a terrible 2 for 19 from the field. The final score was 55-40. The Cavs picked up their second win of the season by expending Bluefield College by a score of 73-60. It was a balanced attack for the Cavs, being led by Beth Hamilton with 24 points, Amy Goff with 18, Elaine Mitchell with 11, Susan Hamilton with 10 and Caroline Harlow with 8. The Cavs play Tuesday night the 29th against Alice Floyd College here at Green Gymnasium, lets all support the Cavs.

Pizza Hut

halfcourt shootout

For the remaining men's basketball home games, the Wise Pizza Hut will sponsor the $100 halfcourt shootout. Lucky number roster sheets can be purchased at the door for only 25 cents. The roster sheets have information concerning the game and rosters for both teams. In the top right corner of the sheet is a lucky number. At halftime, two lucky numbers will be called for an opportunity to shoot from halfcourt. If the halfcourt shot is made successfully, the shooter will receive $100 in cash, courtesy of the Wise Pizza Hut.
