Outpost staff members selected

By Betty Farmer

The Outpost leaders for the coming year were selected by the Publications Committee, Wednesday, after the members spent nearly two hours screening and interviewing a number of applicants.

Nancy Rasnick, a rising sophomore from Lebanon, Va., was named editor. "I really think I can do a good job, but I understand it's going to be tough," Rasnick has some ideas in mind for next year's book. "I would like to get more candid shots, more informative copy, and more captions with the pictures." Rasnick said she wants input. "I want more people working on it with different ideas. I am open to suggestions from anyone on campus," she concluded.

Christine Boyd, a rising junior, will serve as Assistant Editor for the second year in a row. Boyd said, "I think I am well qualified for the position. They need people with experience and I have that experience." Boyd feels the Outpost needs a larger staff. "I want to get more people working on the annual." Boyd said she would like to have a meeting sometime soon to hear from people who are interested in working on the publication.

Mike Darnell, a rising junior, said he was "pleased who is interested in selling advertisements on a commission basis to contact him as soon as possible. The positions of photographer for both the Outpost and the Highland Cavalier have not been filled.

SGA officers to be chosen Wednesday

Brickey, Necessary and Stoss vie for executive spots

By Rick Widener

The race is underway for the offices of SGA President, Vice President, Secretary, and Treasurer.

John H. Brickley III, Rusty Necessary, and Robb Stoss are campaigning for the Presidency, while Maria E. Portuondo, Greg Marshall, and Stephanie Stemp are seeking the Vice Presidency. Lynn Gilbert, Kim Pouders, and Tina White are contenders for the office of Treasurer.

Robb kicks off safety program

More than 100 small mine operators attended the mine safety program in Greear Gymnasium at Clinch Valley College on April 12, 1985. Virginia's governor, Charles Robb, began Friday's meeting, which was part of a new state project in mine safety.

The project was designed for operators who own underground mines which employ less than 50 workers. The campaign's goal is to reduce Virginia's
Letters to the editor
Kilgore hopes students realize Yearbook's value
To the Editor:
My compliments to Betty Farmer and associates for the fine article in last week's Highland Cavalier concerning the International Arts Festival. Apachley has plagued the yearbook for the last several years and has been recognized. Hopefully you have found a way to make a more active role in its publication. For too long, it has been assumed that the yearbook would always be there, but too few students volunteered to do the work. Then, too, for the excellent coverage and your fingers crossed that a miracle will happen and we'll see the 1982 Outpost in May!

Thank you, T. Outpost, Editor, 1982 Outpost

Helse feels education goes beyond the classroom
To the Editor:
We all provide educational opportunities to each of our students, however, not all the excitement at CVC takes place in the classroom or with the professors. In fact, we have many opportunities throughout the week that provide educational experiences.

On Tuesday, April 27, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. CVC students have a once-a-year opportunity to learn about the culture of people around the world — in true liberal arts fashion — by attending the International Arts Festival.

This year's event, April 27, will be a great way to spend the last week of school. Not only will you get to see what all the excitement is about, but you will also have the chance to meet some interesting people from the community and other countries.

The festival will feature art, music, dance, and food from Argentina, China, Ireland, and other countries. There will also be a variety of other activities, including a raffle, a silent auction, and a bake sale.

I hope that all of us will be able to participate in this wonderful event. The festival is a great opportunity to learn about the different cultures and traditions of the world.

Sincerely, betty
Peer counselors ready to help fellow students

Prominent journalist to present speech at CVC

Fashion Lane

Third annual Law Day

Attend festival, have fun

Student government officers to be chosen Wednesday

International Arts Festival April 27, 1985

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Prominent journalist to present speech at CVC

California journalist and short story writer William Rintoul will speak at Valley College April 23. Rintoul, who has written numerous magazine articles about the west coast and the nation's legal system, is sponsored by the CVC Chapel of All Faiths. The public is invited to attend.

Rintoul has written short stories, and has contributed general interest articles to Sports Illustrated, Outside, Pacific Outpost and Westways.

In addition to his fiction, newspaper and oil industry trade journal columns have appeared in the San Joaquin Valley Enterprise, which took place in Richland County in June 1983. In this accident, seven miners were killed and three others were injured.

The program is being funded by a $300.000 grant from the Mine Safety and Health Administration. The Virginia's grant is the largest ever made for mine safety education.

The special mine safety program, designed to provide practical information to miners, is a continuing safety education effort of the Mine Safety and Health Administration. The grant will support the program for one year.

Outpost staff selected

The program will be conducted by the Virginia-based Coal Mine Safety Education Program, which is being directed by the Kentucky Coal Education Institute.

Rintoul also writes for various trade journals in the industry, including the Oil and Gas Journal and the Journal of the American Petroleum Institute.

Rintoul, who is a graduate of the University of California, Berkeley and an M.A. degree in journalism from Stanford University. He is a member of the Western Society of Newspapers and the California Oil and Gas Association.

He writes a daily column on oil production for The Bakersfield Californian, regular articles for the oil industry publication: Oil and Gas OutPost.

Rintoul's April 23 address will be at 11:30 a.m. in the Chapel of All Faiths at Valley College.

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1
What's ahead? Is it good?

By Warren H. Wattenbarger

Have you ever wished you could see what a thing or event would be like? Would you not be interested in that? It is not always easy to imagine yourself living in a way different from the one you now lead. But you can imagine what it would be like to live in a different place, or to be born with a different set of abilities. And if you do, think of those differences as your greatest expectations. You desire to know what the future holds, isn't it?

If these are your feelings then you are in excellent company. One of the greatest souls who wanted to be sure that we are not "going blind" in our existence is the Quaker poet, John Greenleaf Whittier. He asked, "When? and "How?" and "Where do we go from here?"

Exhibit to be at CVC's

The exhibit contains a variety of artifacts that illustrate the life and death. Miss Rice, a resident of Virginia, has been spotlighted in the world. Miss Rice, a resident of Washington, D.C., has held a B.A. in history from Sophie Newcomb College of Tulane University and an M.A. in public administration from the University of New Orleans. She has served as guest curator for exhibits at the Fraunces Tavern Museum in New York City and the Library of Congress.

Costume and Craft Demonstrations representing nations around the world. Miss Rice, a resident of Washington, D.C., holds a B.A. in history from Sophie Newcomb College of Tulane University and an M.A. in public administration from the University of New Orleans. She has served as guest curator for exhibits at the Fraunces Tavern Museum in New York City and the Library of Congress.

We cannot be sure of what lies ahead, or the future holds of man or sparrow. We cannot be sure that today, to those around us, to those that we love, to those that we know, to those that we respect, to those that we dream of, to those that we hold of marvel or surprise. We can be assured that there is One who holds the future, and that God's nature is such that we can trust him to bring the best out of the worst. Today, practical faith. Test this assurance. "We know that in everything God works together for the good with the good things of life.... Romans 8:28 RSV"
Men's tennis team improves overall season record to 3-4

By Betty Farmer

The Men's Tennis Team upped their overall record to 3-4 with two match victories over Berea and Union April 12 and 13.

CVC's number one seed, Tom Baker, led the team to a 6-3 match win over Berea by defeating Darrin Thomas 6-1, 6-3. Rusty Necessary, in the second position, beat Mark Jennings 6-0, 6-4, 6-0. Number three player, D.A. Combs defeated Joe Smith 6-1, 6-1. Greg Lawson won a three set battle over Berea's fourth seed, Kevin Martin 3-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Chris Stidham was defeated by Helkki Niskala 4-6, 0-6 and it was Berea's Mark Beard over Todd Breeding 6-4, 7-5. Daniels said Transylvania was "one of the strongest teams we've played."

The Cavs captured two doubles matches. It was Baker and Necessary over Smith and Niskala 6-3, 6-2; and Combs and Lawson over Jennings and Bagnoll 6-4, 7-6, 6-1.

Commenting on the win, Daniels said the team as a whole played well that day.

Baseball team wins 8-7 in 10 innings

By Allen K. Lovelace

A long awaited victory was earned the hard way by the Clinch Valley College Cavalier baseball team at home on Sunday, April 14, in the second game of a doubleheader against Alice Lloyd.

The Cavs' victory resulted from a "suicide squeeze" play. With the score tied 7-7 in extra innings, Andy Jones put down a bunt that allowed Tim Owens to steal home from third base. The run secured the victory for winning pitcher Tim Owens, with the final score 8-7. The Cavs lost the first game of the doubleheader, with Les Farrar on the mound.

In a doubleheader against Thomas More played at home April 13, the Cavs walked away empty-handed. Jace Cuje pitched a fine game until the pitcher for Thomas More stepped up to the plate: he hit two home runs that accounted for five runs for Thomas More. The first came in the fifth inning, a solo home run that pushed the Cavs behind 2-1. The second was a grand slam home run in the eighth inning with the bases loaded, burying the Cavs 7-3.

Bruce Lowe confers with Tim Owens and Chris Russell in last weekend's doubleheader.

One more run was picked up by Thomas More in the eighth off of an RBI single to center field, for a final score of 8-3.

"Jace (Cuje) was pitching well, then he just tried to overthrow the ball," said Cavs' coach Bruce Lowe.

The Cavs lost the second game of the doubleheader against Thomas More Saturday, April 13. Marty Adkins was the pitcher for the Cavaliers in the 11-3 loss against a strong hitting and throwing team.

The Cavs played Emory and Henry April 18, Cumberland April 20, and Bluefield State April 21. Their next home game is against Emory and Henry on Saturday, April 27. Chris Russell was listed as doubtful in the games last week due to an injured back.

Sports Spotlight

Davis: 'You've got to believe...'

Coach Davis appears to have done it again. The Cavaliers are on the way to a second consecutive conference title. What Davis did accomplish is a feat only a few others have been able to do.

Davis is only the second coach in the history of the Cavs to win a conference championship. The first and only other coach to win a conference championship was Bill Hart, the skipper of the Cavaliers' baseball team.

Davis had his team primed for action in the 1989 season. The Cavs finished second in the conference last year and are poised to win the conference this year.

Davis is a man of few words, and he is not one to make extravagant promises. He is a man of action, and he knows exactly what it takes to win a conference championship.

Davis is a man of few words, and he is not one to make extravagant promises. He is a man of action, and he knows exactly what it takes to win a conference championship.

After being honored in the locker room, Davis went on to say he was "very proud of the team." He went on to say he was "very proud of the team." He went on to say he was "very proud of the team."