Bus system planned to service CVC

By Rod Mullins
HC Staff Writer

Although still in the preliminary stages, Clinch Valley College will soon be served by a bus shuttle system provided by the town of Wise in an effort to strengthen ties with the college and the community.

The bus system, as outlined by Wise Town Manager Sim Ewing, will serve Clinch Valley College on a regular basis providing transportation to students that have no other form of transportation on campus. It will allow them to travel in and around the town of Wise.

The system was first expressed by the college to the town as a form of strengthening relations. Ewing added that the town and the college are "working together" in this effort that will be 95 percent funded by the state of Virginia. The remaining 5 percent will come from the Town of Wise to cover employee pay and benefits as well as other responsibilities. The undertaking will be the first effort locally by a town or city to provide a bus service for students at a local college. The only other college or university in this region that receives a service like this is East Tennessee State University. The Johnson City Transit System provides this service for the residents of Johnson City and the students of East Tennessee State University.

There are three proposed routings for the system. The system will begin its run at Clinch Valley College and proceed to Gilliam Courts through the Gladeville Housing area around J.J. Kelly High School, then to the downtown Wise Shopping Center and on to the First Commonwealth Bank. The bank will be a transfer point for individuals wanting to get on or off the system. The bus will go back to CVC every one half hour. The second loop will meet at the transfer point at the First Commonwealth Bank. The system will go to Video Hut near Kennedy Auto Sales then to the Wise County Health Department, back to the Wise post office then on to the Lonesome Pine Regional Library, the Wise County Plaza, back to the Wise Clinic and then to the transfer point at First Commonwealth. This loop will also run every half-hour and there will be a short wait at the transfer point for

Fair to be held at CVC

By Scott Lammers
HC Staff Writer

On Saturday, April 11, Clinch Valley College will sponsor and host the eighteenth annual Southwest Virginia Regional Science Fair. Students from several various counties and cities will be competing for the prizes awarded at the fair. These students will be in the grades nine through twelve and will be competing in the following categories:

Behavioral and Social Sciences, Biochemistry, Botany, Chemistry, Computer Science, Earth and Space Sciences, Engineering, Environmental Science, Mathematics, Medicine and Health, Microbiology, Physics, Zoology, and the Junior category which is open to all competitors under ninth grade.

Students from the counties of Buchanan, Dickenson, Lee, Russell, Scott, Smythe, Washington, and Wise as well as students from Bristol and Norton, Virginia, will be competing for three major prizes and several lesser but still prestigious prizes. There will be given two Grand Awards, given to the two best projects in the fair. The winners will be given an all-expense-paid trip to the International Science and Engineering Fair where they will exhibit their projects in competition with the best projects in the world. The third major prize is a Smiddy Scholarship Award to be given to the high school senior whose

Graduate studies program not far from reality at Clinch Valley

By Roy Russell
HC Staff Writer

A sweet smell is in the air at Clinch Valley College. The smell is that of the possibility that in the near future students will be able to participate in graduate studies here at CVC or at Virginia Highlands Community College in Abingdon.

Delegate Ford Quillen is promoting the proposal and feels that the graduate programs would make southwest Virginia more alluring to big businesses and industry. Quillen also feels that this change will provide more jobs.

Though it is still in its "dream stage" all parties, including Virginia Tech, University of Virginia, and Virginia Highlands are in favor of the proposal and hope to get the bill legislature as quickly as possible.

Since Clinch Valley is the only state funded college west

Television evangelism is becoming a huge industry

By Bob Sloan
HC Staff Writer

Anyone turning on the television on Sunday mornings has heard the fire and brimstone sermons of television evangelists such as Oral Roberts, Jimmy Swaggart and Jim Bakker. A new wave of video gospel is surrounding our airwaves.

Television evangelism is fast becoming a huge industry, an industry which accounted for nearly $2 billion in receipts last year. Their celluloid offering plates garnish donations from millions of people all over the world.

Things are not exactly heavenly in television's evangelistic holy land these days, however.

There's really no need to go over the scandalous details that have adorned the covers of newspapers and magazines over the past weeks. I'm sure you've heard enough of it.

The question which seems the most pertinent when discussing these accusations and uncoverings in the world of religious programming is "what does all of this mean?" It is seemingly becoming obvious that there is more behind television evangelism than a camera, a preacher and a pulpit.

The one common denominator in all of the stormy weather surrounding that have adorned the covers of newspapers and magazines over the past weeks. I'm sure you've heard enough of it.

politically active minister, they all have one common goal - to get your money!

What do they do with this money? Some build educational facilities, such as Oral Roberts University or Liberty College. Others are more extravagant and build glittery theme parks. This is all fine and well, but is that all the money?

Hey, these folks aren't exactly living on a middle-class income. Many of these evangelists have annual incomes that would double that of the President of the United States. One has to really feel sorry for Jim and Tammy Bakker when they have to go into seclusion in Palm Springs, one of the countries most posh and expensive communities.

Anyway, the point I'm trying to make is that where megabucks are involved, so is corruption. Maybe the scandals have reached their peak, but then again, maybe they haven't. Just don't be surprised if things start to snowball. All we can do is wait and see.

By the way, what was it they used to say was the root of all evil?

Student voices concern over cracks in CVC buildings

To the Editor:

It's apparent that everybody, administrators, faculty members, and students alike, are aware and concerned about the mysterious vibrations which seem to be destroying our buildings.

According to college officials, it was during "Ned" Moomaw's administration when Strouth Coal Company was granted permission to mine an extra twenty acres on CVC property.

Since that time, noticeable cracks have begun to appear throughout all buildings on campus, with the Honors House and the Science Building sustaining most of the damage.

On Thursday, March 26, I had the opportunity of meeting Strouth Official Carroll Dale. His presence at the Honors House was to feel the vibration of a blast to be set off at 5 p.m. that day. The blast vibration was minor. He informed me that this blast was the strongest his company was responsible for.

Nobody wants a panic to occur as a result of the blasting operations and buildings cracking up. But to idly wait by and do nothing until the possibility of someone getting seriously injured would be even worse.

So far, Strouth Coal Co., Charlie Engle, and Jim Lipps have appeared to be interested in the cause of the campus buildings cracking up. But appearance is not enough - substance is needed. The college should make sure an expert inspector conducts a thorough inspection of every building on campus as soon as possible. Anything less could prove later to be negligence in a court of law, and money in the pockets of local morticians.

BSU president addresses center's abuse last week

To the Editor:

As president of the Baptist Student Union, I feel the need to address a growing problem. The student center was built to be used; we are glad so many students find that it is a quiet place to study.

Recently, however, it has been abused. On Tuesday,

March 31, upon arrival to the building for our weekly meeting, we found a mess in the kitchen as well as in other rooms. Please remember that the Baptist Student Center is there for all to use. Let's be considerate of others.

Applications are available for the Coors veterans' memorial scholarship

GOLDEN, Colo. - Adolph Coors Company today announced that applications are now available for the 1987 Coors Veterans' Memorial Scholarship Fund which provides more than $500,000 to the sons and daughters of American veterans.

For the third consecutive year, Coors and its distributors will award a minimum of 100 scholarships, with a maximum value of $5,000 each, to eligible students who successfully have completed their freshman year of college. The scholarships will assist students in completing the final years of their undergraduate studies.

Since the scholarship program began in 1985, Coors has contributed a total of $1,007,000 to 238 scholarship recipients from all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and Taiwan. Coors distributorships also raised more than $784,000 to award scholarships in their local communities. Another 15 scholarships were funded through proceeds totalling $57,000 raised from the 1986 "Coors Presents Lee Greenwood" concert tour where a percentage of each ticket sold was donated to the scholarship fund.

"Thanks to the efforts of our distributors, a talented performer like Lee Greenwood and our customers, the Coors Veterans' Memorial Scholarship Fund continues to honor those American veterans who have served our country so courageously," said Peter Coors, Brewing Division president.

To be eligible for consideration, applicants must:

- be 22 years old or younger as of the July 1, 1987, application deadline date;
- have a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or better on a 4.0 scale;

- have completed a minimum full freshman year program of credit hours, but not yet acquired senior credit hours;
- be enrolled full-time in a four-year institution of higher education in the United States or an accredited two-year program leading to a four-year undergraduate degree;
- fall into one of the following categories: dependent of Honorably Discharged American service personnel; dependant of Active Duty, Guard or Reserve military

SGA reviews school color poll and Road Rally plans

By Kathy Kelley
HC Co-Assistant Editor

The SGA voted to allow students to choose the school colors on the day of the SGA elections on April 15. The results of the vote, however, must be a clean majority.

The proposal for this motion was submitted by Greg Lawson, chairman of the color committee, in the March 30 meeting. It contained a poll he conducted in which 100 students and faculty took part.

In the poll, 98.2 percent of polled students did not realize what the school colors are. The most popular choices for the colors were 1) royal blue, orange, and white, 2) cardinal red and silver, and 3) maroon, gray, and white.

The SGA set the date for the Road Rally as April 9 at 4 p.m.

The price will be one dollar a person per automobile. The prizes will be $50 for first place, $25 for second, and $15 for third place. The rally will start at the upper parking lot.

The SGA also received a memo from Chancellor Search Committee Chairman Van Daniel, who asked the SGA for suggestions on what attributes a good Chancellor should have.

Some of the good characteristics the SGA members voiced were someone who lived up to their promises, who understands the area, and who does not get wrapped up in his position.

SGA Secretary Becky Wells said an important value in a Chancellor is one who does not make decisions by himself. She said students and administration should have some input. In organization actions, the SGA also voted to give the Phi Upsilon Omega $250 for the Miss CVC pageant they will host May 2.

SGA President Rusty Necessary also announced the winner of the proposals to clean up the gym. Pi Kappa Phi, who was awarded the bid, offered $149.53 to clean up the gym.

Joint degree program offered

By Nadine Boggs
HC Staff Writer

In an agreement signed on March 20 between Clinch Valley College and Virginia Highlands Community College at Abingdon, a joint degree program was set up by the two institutions.

The agreement provides for students in two programs, Accounting and Business Management, to transfer up to two years of credit from the community college to CVC.

The degree program is also open to students who have completed some college work at other institutions and now want to complete a B.S. or B.A. degree. Coursework for

Alumni's to hold Dinner/Dance

By Pamela Norman
HC Co-Assistant Editor

Does the thought of eating delicious food, dancing all night long and having a chance to win 1987 Chevrolet Cavalier for the mere price of fifty dollars appeal to you? The Alumni Association thought it would. This year, during Commencement weekend the Alumni Association will be presenting the Alumni Dinner/Dance.

This Dinner/Dance, being held at the Lonesome Pine Country Club, will be many interesting things rolled into one. Besides the food and musical entertainment, there will be a very special speaker present: Chancellor Emeritus Joseph Smiddy. "Having Mr. Smiddy will be an added plus," commented Steve Mullins, Director of Alumni Affairs, "I know there are lots of people who would come just to see him (Smiddy)."

The Dinner/Dance will benefit alumni, faculty, and students. The money that is raised by this event will be used towards the Association's two essay scholarships. The money will also be used for upcoming alumni events, therefore benefiting them.

The Alumni Association would like to stress that the Dinner/Dance is not strictly for CVC alumni, faculty and students. Interested

Library Security System installed for Clinch Valley

By Kathy Kelley
HC Co-Assistant Editor

Students who were turned away Tuesday at the doors of the Clinch Valley library probably discovered a strange-looking apparatus — a book detective system.

The security system was installed to keep library books from being taken from the library before they are checked out.

"It emits a loud alarm just to alert and let them know that they haven't checked the book out," said Director of Library Services Clarence Chisolm.

If a person does not check out a book and trips the alarm, Chisolm said, "Basically, if they return it and check out the material, it's fine." If someone tries to walk out repeatedly with unchecked materials they will be reported to the Honor Court. If they are found guilty, they will be prohibited to return to the library, as it is a federal offense to take library books.

The system was installed to secure and maintain the collection that the library has. "We end up rebuying the books that have been stolen," said Chisolm.

Appalachian writers to show work in local magazine

By Scott Lammers
HC Staff Writer

Jeff Daniel Marion, Richard Hogue, Lee Howard, Bob Snyder, and Jim Webb — what two things do these names and several others have in common? These people are all contemporary Appalachian writers, and they all have at least one example of their writing in the current issue of Pine Mountain Sand and Gravel magazine which will shortly be for sale at the CVC Bookstore.

The Pine Mountain Sand and Gravel is a magazine that publishes Contemporary Appalachian Writing. It is in its second year of publication and prints some of the best poetry and stories to come from this area.

The magazine is filled cover to cover with poems and short stories that deal with Appalachian society. These stories and poems are sometimes humorous and witty, and other times emotional and involved. They emphasize the best of the world and the worst, and anything in between, as the writer chooses to write it.

The Pine Mountain Sand and Gravel is well worth its price to read, and anyone who is interested in Appalachian Writing would be well advised to purchase and read this magazine. If anyone is interested in purchasing a copy of the Pine Mountain Sand and Gravel, it will shortly be on sale in the CVC Bookstore.

Anyone interested in subscribing to the magazine should send inquiries to: Pine Mountain Sand and Gravel, HC 84 Box 486, Whitesburg, Ky. 41858.

of Radford the proposal will give local residents the opportunity to further their undergraduate studies closer to home.

The proposal includes graduate degrees in the fields of business administration, education, and mining engineering. Randy Gilmer, Director of Public Relations, feels that if this proposal becomes reality the student body will be increased and the economic value of the area will benefit.

If the bill is passed new buildings will be needed to facilitate the increase in student body. Quillen stated that he would help in getting funds for new buildings on the campuses. Included in the proposal is a 25,000 square foot building to be constructed on the CVC campus, and a 40,000 square foot building on the Virginia Highlands campus. If everything goes as planned and the proper funds are received the dream could turn into reality in as little as two years.

passengers. These two loops will run during the regularly scheduled school year. During the school year, loops 1 and 2 will run from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The third loop, which is still in a planning stage, will run from 4 p.m. - 10 p.m. Thursday and Friday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

The Sunday route would be an abbreviated version of the first two routes. The buses that the town is looking at are of the 17 passenger line and will be 95 percent paid for by the state. The state would also pay for the maintenance costs.

With the proposed bypass through Wise and this new shuttle system, Ewing hopes that it will cut down on the traffic congestion caused by coal trucks, heavy maintenance machinery, and general traffic through Wise.

"I think between this and the bypass, it will help downtown Wise. The biggest thing I see it doing is that the college has expressed a concern. This is a need they have expressed for the students."

Ewing also cites the system as a case where the town and the college can work together. The proposed bypass will be driveable, according to Ewing and the Virginia Department of Highways, by December of 1989 with work scheduled to begin the first of next year.

New York comedians to perform for CVC students

Three of New York's hottest comedians will present their hilarious material at Clinch Valley College in the Comedy Laff Off held April 16.

Performing at Greear Gymnasium with the Comedy Laff Off will be Ron Darian, Friedhoffer, and Dave Kelly.

Darian is a Laff Off standard who also has done extensive work in film, on Broadway, and on television. He appeared on Broadway in Grease and in Regional Theatre productions of Play it again, Sam, Godspell and Two Gentlemen of Verona. He has appeared on two daytime soap operas, Ryan's Hope and One Life to Live, as well as on a Showtime special, "The Big New York Laff-Off," on HBO's "Laughs," and on the nationally-syndicated "Evening at the Improv." A two-time winner on Star Search, Darian is seen regularly in commercials for Diet Coke, Trump Casinos and Michelob Beer.

Friedhoffer is considered the madman of magic. He has been touring the college circuit for five years and has received rave reviews at all appearances. Words usually attached to his name include zany, crazy, and sick.

Friedhoffer is equally at home on the big stage, the cabaret floor, a TV studio, or the comfort room of a gas station. And he is a funny guy in every situation.

Dave Kelly also is considered a funny guy. He is a regular at several New York comedy clubs and is considered one of the funniest comedians on the club circuit.

The program is sponsored by the Clinch Valley College student activities department. It begins at 8 p.m. on April 16.

Ticket prices for the Comedy Laff Off are $5 per person. For further information, contact the Student Services Office, 703-328-2431, extension 288. Full-time students of Clinch Valley College are admitted free

Government Branch at CVC being discussed

University of Virginia's Director for their Institute of Government Department James A. "Dolph" Norton visited Clinch Valley College to discuss CVC's plans to start a branch of the Institute of Government.

Delegates Quillen and Robinson, Acting CVC

Chancellor Jerry Cardwell, local county and city officials and other CVC Administrators met with Dolph Norton and discussed starting the branch. Due in part to the efforts of Senator John Buchanan, Delegates Quillen, Robinson, Green and others, the last session of the General Assembly approved money and two full time positions to start a branch of the Institute of Government.

Dolph Norton said "he is looking forward to meeting and working with local officials on a regular basis." The program starts in July and will provide leadership training for local government officials and serve as a resource center for governing bodies in Southwest Virginia.

Clinch Valley College of the University of Virginia is a coed, four-year, residential state supported liberal arts college, fully accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, a branch of the University of Virginia.

There will be a $25 first place and $15 second place. There will also be a separate contest for the Greek organizations which will be before the actual competition, there will be a $25 prize for that competition and anyone interested should contact their presidents for further information.

Poetry reading was a success

Thursday, March 28, Papa Joe's hosted a poetry reading by a local poet, Jim Webb. Webb, a man from Whitesburg, Ky., and having strong ties in West Virginia, is a living example of Appalachian literature.

Webb was friendly, humorous, and conversational. He often told humorous stories to introduce his poems, and more often than not read humorous poems to lighten the atmosphere. A poet with some 25 years of experience, he boasted that he had a poem for almost every topic, and went on to prove his boast to be a truthful one.

Little more remains to be said except that the poetry reading was, simply put, excellent. The poems were humorous and yet expressed ideals and statements in such a way that the audience could understand what they meant, if they wanted to.

Scholarships to be awarded

Each year the Clinch Valley College Alumni Association Awards scholarships to two outstanding Clinch Valley students in mathematics and the natural sciences. The scholarships, named for the late Theo Gibson, first professor of mathematics at CVC, are in the amount of $500 each. The money, of course, must be applied toward the recipient's tuition and fees at Clinch Valley College.

To be eligible to apply, the student must be a rising junior or senior with a declared major in mathematics or one of the natural sciences and must plan to be a full-time student at CVC in the fall of 1987. Recipients are selected on the basis of academic achievement and recommendations of instructors.

The deadline for applying for the 1987-88 academic year is April 17, 1987. Application forms may be picked up at Wayne Edwards' office (Z111).

Any outstanding students who have indicated plans to major in math or the natural sciences are encouraged to apply.

Art curator to speak in Wise

Virginia Asiatic art curator, Joseph M. Dye III will lecture in Wise on April 10 under the auspices of the Pro-Art Association, Clinch Valley College, and the Museum.

Dye's topic will be "Buildings of the Raj: Architecture of British India." He will speak at 7:30 p.m. at the Chapel of All Faiths on the campus of Clinch Valley College in Wise.

During their 300 year occupation, known as the Raj, the British in India built an incredible number of commercial, military, scholastic and residential structures adapted to India's climate and to the Empire's political and social aims. Dye will survey their rich variety, and conclude his lecture with discussion of one of the greatest imperial building projects ever attempted - the creation of New Delhi, the last capital of the British Raj.

Dye, who received his Ph.D. in the art of India and Southeast Asia from the Institute of Fine Arts, New York, is also a graduate of the College of William and Mary, where he majored in American history specializing in the American South. He is a native of North Platte, Nebraska.

He is a widely-published authority on the arts of India and was a consultant for the Philadelphia Museum's major traveling exhibit, "Manifestations of Shiva."

Lady Cavaliers sign two area basketball stars

Coach Debbie Kaminske has been hard at work over the past several weeks trying to find players to bolster next year's CVC women's basketball team.

Her hard work has paid it's dividends in the forms of Cindy Bise and Lesia Wolfe. Bise and Wolfe, both standouts at Ervington High School, signed letters last week of intent to play at CVC.

"We wanted to make sure we signed two kids from this area" stated Kaminske. "We are looking for kids to come in and help the program. We've got two good kids here."

Bise, a 5'8" forward, averaged 19 points-per-game for the Rebels in her Senior year. She also averaged around nine rebounds and five assists per game.

Honors collected by Bise in 1985 included being named the All-Cumberland District team as well as receiving an All-State Honorable Mention. In the classroom, Bise claimed All-Academic honors.

Wolfe, a 5'5" forward averaged 13 points-per-game and nine rebounds per contest.

She received the All-Cumberland District honorable mention in 1985 and was also the recipient of All-Academic honors.

Kaminske was in Dorton, KY. on Monday, March 30, in hopes of signing another player. Sue Vanover, a long range shooter, was expected to sign that afternoon.

With the three point shot being approved for next year's play, Vanover's perimeter shooting would be an excellent addition to the Lady Cavalier roster.

CVC closes pair to King College

By Bob Sloan
HC Sports Editor

The Clinch Valley Cavaliers took to the road on April 1 to visit King College for a double header. What they came back with was a heartbreaking loss and one they shouldn't have played.

King College, ranked 11 in the nation in the latest NAIA poll, mounted a 6-3 come-from-behind victory in the opener and the young Cavaliers 11-1 in the nightcap.

The Cavs held their own in the early game. With Miller Castle tossing the pill, CVC held the contest scoreless for the first four innings. The Cavaliers took a 3-0 lead in their half of the fifth on singles by Jeff Gregory and Mike White.

The roof caved in on CVC in the King sixth, however. King collected six runs, including two home runs — a two-run blast from short-stop Jeff Richardson and a solo shot from Bob James.

King reliever Darrell

Mullins shot down the Cavs in the final two innings, striking out seven of the eight batters he faced to seal the victory.

Castle took the loss for the Cavaliers.

In the late game, the Cavaliers were shellacked 11-1 in a game that was called in the fifth due to the NAIA's ten-run rule.

The loss dropped CVC's record to 3-7 on the season. Clinch Valley bus scheduled to host Asbury College on April 4.

Sedgewick to lecture at CVC

Alexander Sedgewick, Dean of the College of Arts and Science at the University of Virginia, will lecture on "The American and French Tradition" on April 9 at 1 p.m. in the Clinch Valley College Chapel of All Faiths.

Sedgewick obtained his B.A. degree from Harvard College in 1952 and his Ph.D in History from Harvard University in 1963.

Sedgewick has held teaching positions at Harvard University, Dartmouth College, and the University of Virginia. He has written three books and had numerous articles and reviews in various collections and journals published.

Sedgewick is a member of the American Historical Association, the American Association of University Professors, and the Society for French Historical Studies.

The lecture is sponsored by the College Lecture Series and is open to the public.

GMAC gives credit to seniors

DETROIT — Graduating college seniors and graduate students are eligible for the 1987 College Graduate Finance Plan from GMAC Financial Services which virtually guarantees financing on the purchase or lease of a new General Motors vehicle. Available through General Motors dealers across the country, the program offers qualified graduates a variety of program options, including a $400 rebate.

Under the plan, GMAC financing or leasing on new Chevrolet, Pontiac, Buick, Oldsmobile, Cadillac and GMC

Truck models is ensured to graduates who are employed or have a verifiable commitment for employment and have no derogatory credit record.

Additional requirements are a low down payment or, if leasing, a security deposit. In lieu of the $400 rebate, which can be applied to the purchase price of the vehicle or to the down payment, the graduate may elect to defer the first payment for 90 days while making a smooth adjustment to the new job.

"The lack of credit experience is often an obstacle to college graduates who wish to purchase a new car or truck. GMAC's 1987 College Graduate Finance Plan meets this problem head-on by offering a rebate of $400 and by guaranteeing credit approval for a new General Motors vehicle to qualified graduates," said John R. Edman, GMAC Chairman.

GMAC Financial Services, the largest financial services company in the United States, has extended over $405 billion in credit to help finance more than 106 million cars and trucks since its inception in 1919.

Good sign for grads

According to a recent article in the Newsletter of the American Council on Education, college graduates appear to have an overall competitive advantage in the labor market.

Data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics on adults between 25 and 64 years old offer the following comparisons for 1986:

Eighty-eight percent of college graduates are currently in the labor market compared to 76 percent of high school graduates.

High school graduates are more likely to be unemployed than college graduates.

Currently, the unemployment rate is 6.9 percent for high school graduates and 2.3 percent for college graduates.

Between 1970 and 1986, the unemployment rate for college graduates increased from 1.3 percent to 2.3 percent. High school graduates experienced a significantly greater increase in unemployment rates during this period, from 2.9 percent to 6.9 percent.

In 1986, 69 percent of college graduates in the labor market held positions in managerial and professional fields. In comparison, only 13 percent of high school graduates were employed in such occupations.
