CVC Business Department to increase requirements

Certain members of the faculties from both the University of Virginia and Clinch Valley College got together and discussed course descriptions, concentrations, course offerings, and more. The first time ever meeting between the two groups was requested by the faculty of Clinch Valley.

Bill Lee, CVC Chairman of the Department of Business Studies said, "We are in the process of streamlining our management concentrations."

Bernard Morin, Associate Provost for Public Service at the University of Virginia, has participated in upgrading the McIntire School since the mid-60's. Morin said, "Quality students, quality faculty and developing programs that would attract quality students and quality faculty" are the basics for developing a top quality program.

The faculties of both schools discussed the best ways to help prepare students for today's job market. Faculties from both schools expressed hope that the closer relationships between the two faculties will continue.

"Upgrading the CVC business program fits in with the overall development of CVC," said Acting Chancellor Jerry Cardwell. CVC has recently announced plans to seek graduate studies.

The other members of the faculty from UVA included: Bill Kehoe, Associate Dean McIntire School of Commerce; Randy Smith of the Management Information Systems program; Neil Snyder of the Management and Business Policy program; and Rich Demong of the Finance program.

SGA holds meeting

By Peter Van Winkle
HC Staff Writer

Although they have not yet taken office, next year's SGA has already met informally. In two meetings on April 21 and April 28 the newly elected SGA outlined a new approach to next year's SGA.

"If you are not going to fight for the students rights and give a 110 percent then walk out the door you just came in" was the opening statement made by president-elect Jeff Brickett.

Brickett stressed to the new members that he felt, "The SGA should be the most important student organization on this campus."

The first order of business conducted by the SGA was the approval of a motion to develop a brochure entitled, "You and Student Government at CVC." The brochure will contain information about the SGA as well as the elected representatives. The brochure will also contain information on committees established by the SGA dealing with student rights and concerns.

A second motion was passed establishing a Student Government Food Service Committee chaired by Greg Lawson. According to Brickett, this committee was established to, "Voice student concerns to the administration and to make positive suggestions to improve the meal plan."

The members of the committee are Greg Lawson, Matt Poteet, Wes Kittrell, Nancy Rasnake, Peter Van Winkle, Chris Burnette, Kevin Vernon, Pauline Rose, Travis Snyder, Jeff Brickett, Jana Debusk and Greg Baker. Brickett added, "Membership on this committee or any other committee is not closed and all one needs to do to be on a committee is attend an SGA meeting."

The third motion passed was a proposal to write a student response to the recent suggestion of a graduate program at CVC. This response would be presented to Acting Chancellor Cardwell to take to the state legislature. The floor was then opened to

Student feels meal plan needs re-evaluation

To the Editor:

As a commuter, and on behalf of the entire student body of Clinch Valley College, I disagree with the meal plan in its entirety at this stage of the cafeteria's operation for the following reasons:

1. The cheapest meal plan offered consists of 14 meals. The only exception to this is for those who live in the Honors apartments, which is 10 meals.
2. The meal plan cannot be used as an accumulative operation, i.e., if you miss a meal, tough cookies. You do not get credit for another meal at another time if you have unused meals left at the end of a week, and you do not get a refund at the end of the semester of unused meals.
3. In reference to the above-mentioned gripes, a commuter on the meal plan, on the average, uses 5 — count 'em, 5 — meals per week, leaving 9 meals unused.

4. Also, for the commuter who buys his/her meals per diem, the best way to get your money's worth is to eat at Papa Joe's, where you pay for your food by the item instead of by the meal. For instance, if they are serving hot dogs for lunch, one winds up paying $3.25 for only one measly little hot dog and a drink to accompany it, whereas one goes to Papa Joe's and can get one hamburger and a drink to accompany it for only $1.40.

I propose that the following changes be made to greatly improve the meal plan to make it economically feasible for the student and to greatly decrease the number of complaints made about the meal plan.

1. Offer a special meal plan for commuters who either want to be on the meal plan or who, due to special circumstances, are required to be on the meal plan. Let the special meal plan be for 5 meals per week for those who only eat lunch on campus, 10 meals per week for those who want to eat both breakfast and lunch in the cafeteria.
2. Allow the meal plan work as a cumulative operation. This would allow those on a meal plan of any sort to get their money's worth out of the meal plan.
3. Provide refunds for all unused portions of the meal plan.
4. Instead of charging the patrons of the cafeteria per meal, charge them per item of food. After four years in the military, I have seen this plan work in many a shore-based enlisted dining facility. Contrary to the belief of American Food Management, this plan is more economically feasible for both them and the patron, in the fact that they may very well attract more cash customers.

I believe that this sad state of affairs with the meal plan is as much to blame on the administration of Clinch Valley College as it is on American Food Management because they allowed it to happen. I also firmly believe that if the administration, American Food Management, and the students sat down and discussed the meal plan in good faith, taking to heart all of the above-mentioned suggestions, all three would emerge from the conference satisfied.

Sincerely,
K. Darrell Wallace, Jr.

Campus meals squeeze commuters' budgets

To the Editor:

It is a general assumption that most students are opposed to the present meal plan. When first proposed this magical cure-all was created to unify our campus community, end our hunger on lean days, and improve the quality of food served on campus.

Residents are enraged about poor quality and unjust rules. There is no system of refunds for missed meals that students have already paid for. Now, AFM has said they can't eat a second meal at Papa Joe's if they have already selected a cafeteria meal. If a student buys 10 meals a week, he should receive 10 meals a week.

The meal plan is a sore spot for most commuters. Most of us don't participate in it, but we've suffered sharp increases in the price of food on campus. Meals rose from approximately $2.50 to over $3 on campus. Some commuters don't eat on campus at all because price hikes have squeezed our shoestring budgets. Without a meal ticket students are barred from the cafeteria unless they pay for a full meal. This has resulted in sharp social divisions between resident and commuter students. Why not offer a 5 meal plan for commuters and part-time students?

Everyone on this campus should be working to change this plan, so that all students are treated equally. The present meal plan is equal in abusing every student on this campus!

Wattenburger urges students to find a mission in life

By Warren Wattenburger
Campus Minister

Another school year is almost complete. Someone has said that it is all over except for the exams and the crying.

It seems only a short time ago that we embarked upon the school year of 1986-87, now we come to another point of no return, we must go on to face that which is ahead. We now face the concluding days of this year and we must make our plans for the future, for some it means that we will be joining the ranks of the employed; for others it is waiting for another term to begin. Either way we are faced with great decisions. We are the only ones that can really make those decisions. Whatever we do, we need to remember that life should be dominated with a great purpose, an idea, or a cause in which you can lose yourself. "Jesus," said Dr. E. Stanley Jones, "was obsessed with the idea of the Kingdom of God." You must be obsessed with some worthwhile purpose and lose yourself in that cause. The meaningful life is a life loyal to some great cause. He who sides with some profound issue is bound to find life full of meaning. Put your heart and soul into a mission that is so big that, come what may, the mission will mean more than anything else to you. Get behind a purpose that is so vast that you can lose yourself in it.

This cause of making life meaningful must be one that gives purpose and coloring to life and demands your best and finest. When you find a course that offers new lands to discover, greater contributions to be made, new ideas to be translated into action, you find life brimfull of meaning.

Find some good in the world in which you live. Cultivate the habit of finding good people and beauty in the world around you. Beauty and value are found in everything about you if you but train yourself to detect them.

CONGRATULATIONS GRADUATES

Chancellor's Hosts

New hosts chosen

By Roy Russell
HC Staff Writer

Five students have been chosen as new Chancellor's Campus Hosts for the 1987-88 academic year.

They are George Burgan, Diane Cornett, Jana DeBusk, Kathy Kelley, and Danita Kiser. The returning hosts consist of: John Barton, Rich Davidson, Toni Foster, Sean Johnson, Greg Lawson, Kim Lee, Sheila Marshall, and Scott Robinson.

The Chancellor's hosts were formed during the Moomaw administration, and have proven to be an effective addition to the college. The hosts perform various duties around the campus and are always on alert.

According to Scott

Robinson, an original member of the hosts, the function of a host is, "to serve as student hosts and representatives of the college for prospective students and to show visitors around."

Robinson feels that being a host is a very important job because as a host you are able to relay your experience to would-be students and give them an impression that might help them decide to choose Clinch Valley College to further their education.

Jana DeBusk, a graduating senior returning to pursue further studies, stated, "It means that I'm given the prestigious honor of representing the administration, students, and faculty of the college."

SGA offers prizes for film festival costume contest

By Kathy Kelley
HC Co-Assistant Editor

The SGA meeting April 26 in SH100 brought about the final actions of the year for the presiding officers.

The SGA members agreed to have a Freddy Look-Alike contest during their Nightmare on Elm Street Film Festival. The movies will begin Tuesday night, May 5, at 12 a.m.

The SGA voted to give a $75 prize for first place and a $25 prize for second place.

In addition, the members voted to give Alpha Delta Chi Fraternity $243.18 to paint the wall at the intersection of Hurricane Road and Main Street. The wall, with Clinch Valley's name on it, was defaced with yellow paint after its last painting.

The fraternity asked for money to purchase the following: seven gallons of paint for $21; five brushes for $3.75; five rollers, $7; five scrapers, $4.50; and five pans, $4. The fraternity started work on the wall last week.

Dr. Ball interprets Browning's poem in colloquium

By Rod Mullins
HC Staff Writer

In a faculty colloquium held Tuesday in the Chapel of All Faiths, Dr. Roy Ball, chairman of the Language and Literature Department discussed Browning's "Soliloquy of the Spanish Cloister" and in research, found that multiple personalities play an important part in understanding the poem.

Ball discussed the different names the work was printed under, until Browning himself revised the title in 1849. Ball added that his goal was to interpret the work and assert what the critics have said about the soliloquy.

Although critics have disputed the poem as being a soliloquy, some have said the poem is a dramatic dialogue. However, Ball says that the poem is a soliloquy but the action conveyed in the poem is mental and not physical.

Ball went on to discuss the character Brother Laurence, who is the "subject and object" of the poem and the character of which much of the action centers around. The exchange of comments between the two characters in the soliloquy proves that there is a dialogue between characters. Ball focused on three tracks, as he put it, to learn more about the poem. He stated his first goal was to discover what the words mean, what the relationship is between the italicized words and why the topic of double personalities does not come out until 1910. Ball gave examples of his search for information that even resulted in finding a report dated in 1822, discussing double personalities that gave Ball

"insight" on what he was looking for.

Ball noted a constant shift between the words "You" and "I" in the work and also came to the conclusion that Browning did not understand prayers. Ball did explain that the statements in the poem might look like dramatic monologues but again cited that the work was a soliloquy. Another helpful form of information was the Bible. Ball explained that he looked there several times for information and found what he was looking for pertinent to the work.

The poem does fit the term schizophrenia which was not coined until 1910, but does point out that there is an association between the double, or what is now called multiple personalities. The poem does drift back and forth and if certain parts are taken he out it lacks meaning. But in all,

Ball said that the schizophrenia term was the understanding he had gained from his research.

Test prepared to determine if seniors should graduate

By Scott Lammers
HC Staff Writer

Well, as we all know, the end of the year is at hand and most of the seniors here at CVC are graduating. Some of these seniors will go to graduate school, others will return for more undergraduate studies, and the rest will use their newfound knowledge to obtain jobs.

Since graduation is such an enormous step in a college student's life, it is only fitting to determine if these students are ready to graduate from Clinch Valley College.

Thus, a test has been prepared. This test includes various trivial facts and problems such as any college graduate should know almost offhand.

Are you ready seniors? Alright then, let's begin!

Instructions: Read each question carefully. Answer all questions. Time limit - 4 hours. Begin immediately.

History: Describe the history of the Papacy from its origins to the present day, concentrating especially but not exclusively, on its social, political, economic, religious, and philosophical impact on Europe, Asia, America, and Africa. Be brief, concise, and specific.

Medicine: You have been provided with a razor blade, a piece of gauze, and a bottle of Scotch. Remove your appendix. Do not suture until your work has been inspected. You have fifteen minutes.

Public Speaking: 2,500 riot-crazed aborigines are storming the classroom. Calm them. You may use any language but Latin or Greek.

Biology: Create life. Estimate the differences in subsequent human culture if this form of life had developed 500 million years earlier, with special attention to its probable effect on the English Parliamentary System. Prove your thesis.

Music: Write a piano concerto. Orchestrate and perform it with flute and drum. You will find a piano under your seat.

Psychology: Based on your knowledge of their work, evaluate the emotional stability, degree of adjustment, and repressed frustrations of the following: Alexander of Aphrodisias, Ramses II, Gregory of Nicea, and Hammurabi. Support your evaluation with quotations from each man's work, making appropriate references. It is not necessary to translate.

Sociology: Estimate the sociological problems which might accompany the end of the world. Construct an experiment to test your theory.

Management Science: Define management. Define science. How do they relate? Why? Create a generalized algorithm to optimize all managerial decisions.

Engineering: The disassembled parts of a high-powered rifle have been placed in a box on your desk. You will also find an instruction manual, printed in Swahili. In ten minutes a hungry Bengal Tiger will be admitted to the room. Take whatever action you feel appropriate. Be prepared to justify your decision.

Economics: Develop a realistic plan for refinancing the National Debt. Trace the possible effects of your plan in the following areas: Cubism, the Denatist Controversy, and the Wave Theory of Light. Outline a method for preventing these effects. Criticize this method from all possible points of view as demonstrated in your answer to the last question.

Political Science: There is a red telephone on the desk beside you. Start World War III. Report at length on its socio-political effects, if any.

Epistemology: Take a position for or against truth. Prove the validity of your position.

Physics: Explain the nature of matter. Include in your answer an evaluation of the impact of the development of Mathematics on Science.

Philosophy: Sketch the development of human thought; estimate its significance. Compare with the development of any other kind of thought.

General knowledge: Describe in detail. Be objective and specific. Extra credit: Define the Universe. Give three examples.

To add a serious note, graduation IS an important part of the college student's life. To the graduating seniors of Clinch Valley College, CONGRATULATIONS on a job well done.

discussion on the wording of this response.

The fourth motion passed was for the establishment of a committee to plan and publish

CONCERN FOR HIGHER EDUCATION.

Since being elected to the Virginia House of Delegates in 1982, Jim Robinson has fought long and hard for Clinch Valley College. Through the powerful House Finance Committee, on which Jim ranks number 8 in seniority, and with the support of his fellow Southwest Va. legislators, Jim has been responsible this past session for the following budget amendments:

- $360,000 to purchase additional dormitory space through the acquisition of CVC Townhouse Apts.
- $35,000 for the purchase of a fine arts center.
- $75,000 for the branch of the Institute of Government and two new full-time positions.
- $98,000 for a computer to aid in administrative and academic needs.
- $220,000 to purchase property adjoining the college.
- $25,950 to fund new full-time positions due to a growth in enrollment.
- 7.5% faculty salary increases

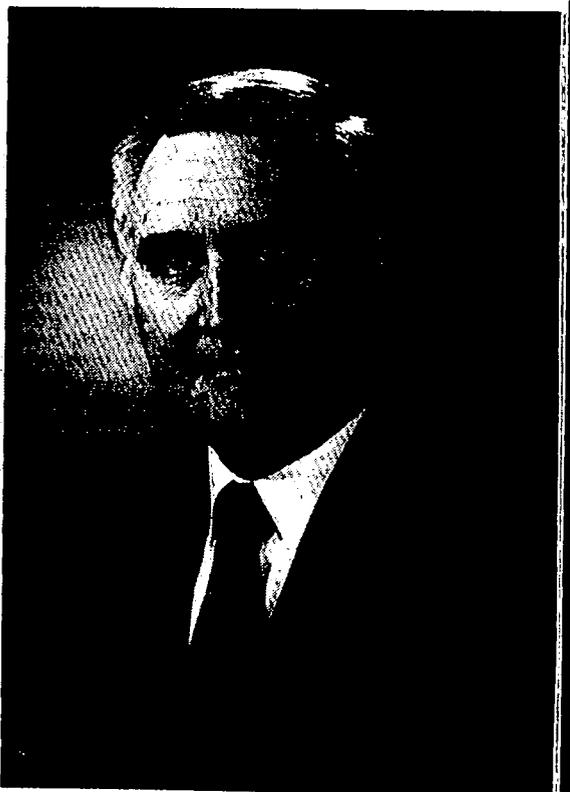

This amounts to a total of over 800,000.00 dollars this past session alone. Jim Robinson feels that this amount is necessary in order for CVC to remain a hallmark in higher education in Southwest Va.

On June 9, 1987, Jim is going to call on YOU for support in the Democratic primary. Please don't toss aside over five years of service, loyalty, and dedication. On June 9th, vote to re-elect Jim Robinson to the Va. House of Delegates.

Thank You.

ROBINSON.

CVC whips Pikeville

By Bob Sloan
HC Sports Editor

The Clinch Valley Cavaliers moved their winning streak up to three in a big way on Tuesday, April 28, as they mowed over Pikeville College 16-0 in both games of a double header.

Both games were called in the fifth inning on the collegiate ten-run rule. The Cavaliers plainly dominated the Bears in every aspect of the game.

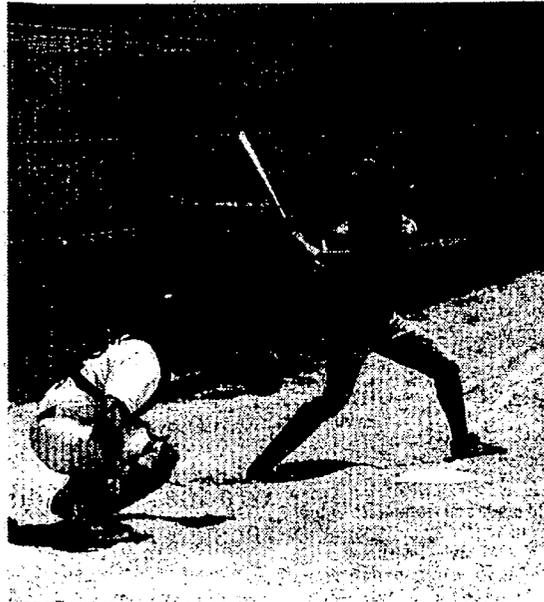

"I can identify with where they are," stated Cavalier coach Ray Spenilla. "We've been there before."

The record for wins in a season by a CVC baseball team was set by last year's team who collected 13 victories.

CVC overpowered Pikeville not only with hitting, but the Cavalier pitchers did the job as well. Jaco Cuje and Mark Angles combined to hold the bears to just two hits in the first match-up. In the nightcap, Keith Wallace went the distance, allowing only one hit.

"Right now, we're moving towards respectability," stated Spenilla. "When teams come in here to play us they can't jump off the vans, throw their gloves on the field, and count two Ws."

The Cavaliers now stand at 10-16. They hosted three doubleheaders this weekend to close out the season. If they can sweep all six games, it will be a .500 season for the Cavaliers.

CVC splits with Emory and Henry

The CVC Cavaliers ended a string of losses Monday, April 27, by splitting a pair of games with the Wasps of Emory and Henry College.

In the opener, the Cavaliers broke out the bats and assaulted Wasp pitching for fifteen hits on their way to an 11-1 blowout.

Jerry Tarr lead the CVC offensive attack by going 3 for 4, including a pair of home runs. Mike White collected a double and a homer, and Roger Austin and Jeff Gregory contributed four hits each.

Aut Mullins picked up the win for the Cavaliers by tossing a three-hitter.

In the nightcap, CVC was unable to hold onto a 3-2 fourth inning lead and dropped the game by a margin of 4-3.

Mike Sturgill hit a home run for the Cavaliers in a losing effort. Miller Castle took the loss on the mound for CVC.

The split moved CVC's record to 8-16 on the season. The Cavaliers hosted Pikeville College on Wednesday.

Sports has up and down year at Clinch Valley College

By Bob Sloan
HC Sports Editor

Well, another sports year has passed us by. As usual, it was filled with monumental achievements, last second victories, and devastating losses.

In looking over the year, the most memorable achievement had to go to Hobby Stuart. The 6-0 senior guard placed himself in CVC sports history on Jan. 12 by becoming the college's all-time leading basketball scorer.

Stuart broke the record of 1,432 points set by David Ray (75-79).

The overall Cavalier basketball squad, however, did not fair as well as many had expected. After jumping out to a good 7-3 start, including a co-championship rein with Alice Lloyd as the winners of the Coca-Cola Classic held at Greear Gym, the Cavaliers bottomed out.

They finished the season with a 2-14, 9-21 record and went into the conference tournament on an eight-game losing streak.

As for the women's basketball squad, it returned, and once again with a new coach at the helm. Debby Kaminske new she had her work cut out for her when she accepted the position of women's basketball coach, but she stuck it out. So did the Lady Cavaliers.

Kaminske and the Lady Cavaliers showed pride and determination by finishing their season against opponents which were far better than they. Although they only won two games, both of which were forfeits, they truly showed what it takes to be a winner - guts and determination.

Probably the biggest shocker of the year was the college's decision to cut all ties with the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (KIAC). CVC had been a member of the conference for ten years prior to the decision. CVC athletics will now be considered independent members of District 32.

The CVC men's tennis team didn't see to many bright spots this year either. They finished their season with a 2-11 record and played last week in the District 32 tournament.

The Cavalier baseball team is not doing as good as many had expected, but are still holding possibilities of a .500 season. Coach Ray Spenilla once again has showed improvement in the squad he has put out on the diamond. Barring a few injuries, the Cavaliers could have contended for the conference title.

As for the intramural season, it was once again filled with upsets and excitement. The ADX Wolverines ran over virtually every opponent and in the process walked away with their second consecutive flag football championship.

The Muffdivers knocked off the reigning champion Delta Flyers to take the intramural basketball crown.

The Cavalier dugout looks on as the team battles for another victory. The Cavaliers are hoping for a .500 season which would set a school record.
