

Hagarty stresses giving CVC improved identity

Jennifer James
HC Staff Writer

"Clinch Valley should have its own identity," according to Thomas J. Hagarty, the fourth Chancellor candidate to visit CVC. Hagarty spoke to a group of interested faculty and students Thursday, October 15, in the Chapel of All Faiths.

Hagarty, a native of Boston, received his Bachelors, Masters, and Doctorate degrees in Philosophy from Harvard University. He has taught and/or held administrative positions at Brandeis University, Boston University, Boston State College, State University of New York-Potsdam, and is presently Vice-President of Academic Affairs at Butler University.

Hagarty thinks very highly of the Liberal Arts combined with pre-professional studies. He feels this will lead to greater job openings and produce better educated people.

As Chancellor, Hagarty would review and possibly revise the teaching load in order to make time for independent projects. Also, he feels this would help to end "teacher burnout."

While teaching in New York, Hagarty had experience with being the State legislator. He feels this is a must for a Chancellor. He would also like to teach while holding the position of Chancellor.

When questioned about enlarging CVC, Hagarty stated he would like to see CVC become larger, but not so large that it "affects the nature of the institution."

Hagarty feels that students should be involved in issues concerning food and parking. These are issues that "... students shouldn't have to fight over," according to Hagarty. Another thing he feels should be shared is the budget. Hagarty stated the budget should be open for viewing to anyone who is interested in the college.

Hagarty also stated he would strive to build quality in people, programs, and standards. He feels

See HAGARTY, page 4

Gilliland says he's suited for Chancellor

Peter Van Winkle
lie Staff Writer

"Enhancing and advancing community at Clinch Valley College would be one goal," says Dr. Gerald Gilliland, the fourth candidate for the office of Chancellor at Clinch Valley College.

Dr. Gilliland was on campus Tuesday, October 13th after being invited by the Chancellor Search Committee.

In an open meeting held in the Chapel of All Faiths Dr. Gilliland presented his views on a liberal arts education and why he is well suited to be the next chancellor at Clinch Valley College.

Gilliland is presently the Vice President of Academic Affairs at Lake Superior State College at Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan. Lake Superior State College has about 3,000 students approximately 20% of which are Canadian. "The college is set in a small rural community similar to Wise" says Gilliland. He has also served as Academic Dean at St Joseph's College.

Gilliland received his undergraduate degree at Norma Montana college. His post-graduate studies were completed at the University of Montana in Modern Drama; Literature and his doctoral studies at the University of Utah in Restoration and 18th Century Dramatic Literature.

Gilliland based his talk with his involvement on a campus softball team composed of professors, librarians, maintenance people and students. "The most important of my administrative philosophy, involvement I enjoy working with

See GILLIARD, page 4

Horner states "Four C's" of leadership

Pamela Norman
HC Photographer/Writer

"My job as chancellor would be to further the best interest of this institution." These were the words of the sixth chancellor candidate Dr. Sally Horner. Horner spoke in the Chapel of All Faiths on Thursday, October 22.

Horner spoke of the many problems today in higher education. She feels that despite the problem of decreased enrollment in colleges that a major problem lies in the decline of quality in the preparation of college students today; "The problem not only exists in skill preparation for students, but there is a terrible lack in traditional liberal arts and sciences training that students come to college for," said Horner.

Horner stated that one of the major things that attracted her to CVC was the "dual mission" of the college of providing access to students who might otherwise not have a chance for higher education coupled with the obvious commitment of the faculty and college to a traditional liberal arts education. "I am very impressed with the commitment of the faculty and students to this being a quality institution"

Leadership, Horner expressed, was composed of the "Four C's", communication, coordination, compromise, and creativity. Horner believes good leadership "rests on being able to communicate". She feels that being open, and giving faculty a chance to voice their concerns is a very successful component to leadership. Coordination in a leadership position is essential. Horner stressed the need to understand the constituents in an institution. To know what they are the strongest at and what issues they represent clearly. Compromise deals mainly with "establishing priorities between choices"

See HORNER, page 4

Course evaluation forms to be handed out by the SGA

Kathryn Kelley
HC Assistant Editor

Course evaluation forms will be handed out to students in the next few weeks as part of a plan agreed on by the SGA on October 11 in the Honors House B103. The results from these will be compiled into a booklet for incoming CVC students next year.

The Academic Committee,

chaired by SGA Vice-President John Banon met to discuss the course evaluation booklet and to write letters asking for the administration's full cooperation. The booklet will be given to the incoming students to fill in their decisions as to what classes to take.

An evaluation form will be handed to students in the classes this semester, but only through the professor's complete consent. The forms cover the different classes and the different instructors teaching them.

The forms will let the students judge the ability and fairness of the professors. Those with high ratings will be listed in the booklet as "outstanding." Also included will be how much time is spent on the course compared to all others taken

Please See SGA, page 4

On the Inside

Student expresses dissatisfaction

... see page 2

CVC rates well

... see page 3

Balloon fights investigated

... see page 8

inions

Student voices protest over meal plan

To the Editor
 First came the chicken
 Next, some demented soul created rooster burgers, so "chicken steaks" as they are more affectionately known. Not to be out-done, Clinch Valley College's meal plan contractor American Food Management has bestowed to us a product which surely must have resulted from questionable research and development: simulated barbecued ribs.

The question, of course, is just what exactly are these simulated barbecued ribs? It is widely known that rooster burgers are made from compressed chicken "parts." But what are simulated ribs made from?

The Clinch Valley College-American Food Management meal plan contract specifies that "Poultry Cutlets"—which is an unappetizing pair (two words describing processed products which are supposed to simulate chicken meat products—are "fried, breaded; (and) fabricated." What this means is that rooster burgers are made from compressed scraps of meat that have fallen away during mass-production processing, rolled in nutritionally-poor bleached flour, and deep-fried in lard or vegetable shortening. Moreover.....And you thought soup was good food!

There is no mention of fatoid ribs in the contract. I thought that God was the only one who could fabricate something from a rib. The meal plan contract does, however, make some mention about "non-solid meat entrees" which are described as "extended meat entree such as Salisbury steak, breaded cutlets, meat loaf." Extended meats are bread and soy products mixed in with meat to form a new product. But with these simulated ribs, either there is no meat or the meat content is so low that they are no better than extended filler products with a little meat tossed in.

In order to be truthful in AFM's advertising, simulated barbecued ribs should therefore be called "extended filler products with little or no meat content."

In my daring attempt to see firsthand whether these simulated barbecued ribs have any meat content, I undertook the labor of closely examining one. Slicing through one of the fake ribs, I could feel an absence of the texture usually associated with meat products. After placing one under a strong light, I could not recognize anything resembling meat, in fact the inside of the patty appeared as yellow as banana peelings. The "ribs" certainly didn't smell like anything recognizable, though. I didn't have the guts to possibly endanger my life in the pursuit of "science"—I didn't taste it. Perhaps someone could tell me whether these fake ribs that don't feel, look or smell like real ribs actually taste like ribs. I have to admit, though, and in all seriousness now, that these fake ribs do at first glance have an appearance of being real ribs. At predetermined intervals, gaps have been mashed in the patties to make it appear that there are the usual bones one normally associates with rib. But, making no bones about it, there are no bones in these ribs!

I have a suggestion which may draw immediate protests from the administration. However, be certain to bring a willendio this practice of culinary hari-cari. Why not, as an amendment to the current meal plan contract between the college and our beloved food contractor, require that all top level CVC administrative seats minimum of ten meals per week in the cafeteria? None of these mandatory meals could include Sunday buffet or any other special meals. Only the regular meals which make up the bulk of meals saved could be counted in this great equalizer of men-plan. In less than one week the food would substantially improve in quality and taste.

After all, the students come first at CVC—don't they?
 Sincerely,
 Allen K. Lovelace
 Mandatory meal plan student under protest

Outpost asks groups for cooperation

Dear Editor:

The Outpost staff has received many complaints about copy mistakes in past issues. In an effort to correct this problem we have mailed a request to all organizations on campus.

The Outpost is requesting that each organization provide us with an updated list of members and officers.

We have requested a brief paragraph from each organization outlining its goals, purposes, and activities for the year.

We hope this step will help us correct any misspellings, inadequate listings, and other mistakes.

The Outpost requests that all organizations take a little time to help us make this one of the best annuals CVC has produced.

Yours truly,
 Elizabeth Stanley
 Oufwif, Copy Editor
 P.S. Organizations: If you want to be in the yearbook and you do not receive a letter from the Outpost, please contact the office as soon as possible.

Spiritually speaking

Problems don't have to be solved alone

Jim Collie
 Campus Minister

Confess! I only remember attending one class where the "Normal Person" was discussed. Of course, that was in a galaxy long ago and far away. I do, however, remember most of that lecture. My class notes are still where I can get hold of them in a hurry.

What did I learn about the normal person? The normal person approaches life with a problem-solving attitude. Problems come to all of us. The late Orady Nuuw was food of saying that the beauty of die wemy-third Psalm was that it speaks of going "through the valley of the shadow" and not around.

The other thing I have learned is that I have a responsibility. Hospital Chaplain Raymond Petkin puts it this way, "You cannot change the behavior and attitudes of others, but you can change your own."

Observatory opened to enthused crowd

The evening of October 8 was cold and clear, so visitors to the observatory at Clinch Valley College got good views of Saturn, Jupiter and the moon. About 30 people braved the cold to look at the heavens through CVC's 25-cm telescope.

The night was the last of a three-night series of open houses held October 6 through 8. Although the previous two nights were quite cloudy, some visitors got a chance to see the moon during occasional breaks in the clouds.

On the evening of October 6, a pre-nuptial eclipse of the moon occurred but was not well seen because of the clouds. About 15 people were on hand that night and 30 visited on the 7th. When clouds obscured the sky, they were able to see slides and hear a talk by Dr. William Hooper, professor of physics and astronomy at CVC. Hooper's presentations included slide pictures of Uranus and its moons returned from the Voyager 2 spacecraft in January 1986.

The next series of open houses is planned for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 27, 28 and 29. Each is from 9 to 10 p.m. and an alternate indoor program will be

Please See OPEN, page 7

Variety of problems caused in gym by break-down

Rusty Mullins
 HC Staff Writer

October 12, 1987 will surely stand out as a dark day in the history of Fred B. Greear Gymnasium.

On that day, the light fixtures do shine on the red-and-white-striped wooden floor in the Greear Gym.

The reason for the power failure was the water tank that holds the water to be heated for the gym developed a leak. This leak flowed into the electrical system of the gym and shorted all of its circuits.

The leak and loss of lights caused the basketball and baseball coaches to move their practices to J.J. Kelly High School in Wise. The school allowed the use of its gym to the college teams at night. This procedure continued for a week, from October 13 until October 20 when the teams were able to resume practice in the gym.

According to Womens' Athletic Coordinator Debbie Kaminske, the only setback encountered because of the accident was missing one Monday practice and not getting the floor redone over Fall Break. Kaminske said she did not think that the incident set her team back.

not only provided for a change of scenery.

As far as financial problems do to the leak, CVC Business Manager Clayton Willis said the damage to the gym was estimated at roughly $12,000. Clinch Valley College's insurance will cover the damage.

Series covers courts and religion in Constitution

Peter Van Winkle
 HC Staff Writer

"A courtroom news more than the people in it" commented Garrett Sheldon. Professor of Political Theory at Clinch Valley, at the third debate of the Constitutional Bicentennial Celebration.

The debate was held on Thursday, October 15th at the Courthouse in Wise. Russell 'Marty' Large spoke with Sheldon on 'The Rights of the Accused'.

Sheldon opened the discussion with a history of the Bill of Rights. He said, "The Bill of Rights originate in John Locke's philosophy of natural rights consisting of 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness'." Sheldon continued with a synopsis of the cases involving the rights of the accused including Gideon vs. Wainwright, Miranda vs. Arizona and Brewer vs. Williams.

Russell 'Marty' Large, commonwealth attorney in Wise, continued the discussion with a modern look at the justice system.

Spraying on the rights of the accused to be provided a lawyer if they cannot afford one, Large says, "It is the younger, more inexperienced lawyers who usually take the cases of public defendants. So there is a question of fair representation." It is mainly a case of economic large stresses, "For a felony charge with the accused facing twenty years or more the most the PUMK defendant can make is $400 plus expenses. When your average lawyer receives $100 to $130 an hour, there is not much incentive to be a public defender."

Speaking on the 5th amendment sometimes called the Miranda Rule, Large said, "It is a good thing for law enforcement as soon as the Miranda waiver is entered, there is no check into the confession to see if it was voluntary or not. It is assumed to be valid and the case Please see SERIES, page 6

Clinch Valley rates well among colleges across state

Mark Salycr
 HC Staff Writer

CVC may be a small school in the mountains of Southwest Virginia but, according to The Oimman Programs, the overall academic rating of Clinch Valley is the highest with an A grade. The Oimman CVC created a Gnomon radar of 3,06 out of a possible 5,00 points.

while several other four-year colleges in the area such as Emory and Henry college, King College, and Virginia Intermont received ratings less than 10 points. East Tennessee State University's rating was 3:02.

In addition to ranking CVC higher than other area schools, the report also rated Clinch Valley higher than many other Virginia schools including Longwood College, Randolph-Macon, George Mason, and Washington and Lee.

The report also describes itself as a popularity contest or an opinion poll, but an objective evaluation which synthesizes data from all sources into what may appear to be a deceivingly convincing numerical rating.

The report says it uses the following criteria to calculate its numerical rating:

1. Control and organization of the institution;
2. Programs offered and degrees conferred;
3. Age of the institution;
4. Faculty;
5. Student life;
6. Accreditation;
7. Number of students;

8. Curriculum of individual programs;

9. Standards and quality of instruction;

10. Quality of other areas such as counseling and career placement;

11. Quality of other areas such as counseling and career placement;

12. Quality of other areas such as counseling and career placement;

13. Quality of other areas such as counseling and career placement.

The report claims to draw attention to the following areas:

IRATINC.

CVC's Sweetwater Canal performance enjoyed by many

Yaml Wiley
 HC Staff Writer

Seldom are we allowed to see the view from the other side of the mountain. We are only permitted to see the society of the mountains. That is what was so intriguing about seeing the Highland Players performing at the Sweetwater Canal on October 10th. The view from the other side of the mountain is a dream-anthology of hits and lives and personalities of a bunch of "pkaresqueroques, wasters, and assorted other bizarre types."

Sweetwater Canal was written by CVC's own Dr. Charles Lewis and was received with anticipation. The show was presented in the spring, those who did not get a chance to attend. Held on three consecutive nights, the production was enjoyed by large crowds of students, faculty, and parents.

Chiles Bngle, CVC's housing director and former Highland Player, said that the show was a great experience for those who did not get a chance to attend. Held on three consecutive nights, the production was enjoyed by large crowds of students, faculty, and parents.

script into the hearts of the audience. Chris Heus, a dwam at CVC made the audience appreciate the trials and tribulations of the Grande Dame, one of the most famous women in the world.

Please see REVIEWS, page 6

PARTY TIME
 WISE SHOPPING CENTER
 328-4534

YOUR ONE STOP PARTY SHOP

WE HAVE PRRTV SUPPLIES FOR EVERY OCCASION
 BIRTHDAYS SHOWER PARTIES RND REUNIONS

WE HAVE A VARIETY OF PARTY FAVORITES INCLUDING

PINATAS GAKES BALLOONS AND COSTUMES

Library undergoes changes

Sandi Greear
 HC Staff Writer

As time for item papers, research papers, and projects drew dangerously near, Clinch Valley's library offers some relief to students.

According to Clarence Chishofan, Director of CVC library, the library is in the process of coming to grips with modern technology. He also said he would like to keep the students aware of the changes, so that they can benefit from these changes.

He said Information Tract II has been in use in the library since the beginning of the year. He feels that it is a easy to use computer that works just like the Reader's Guide Index. It will conveniently give students a computer print-out of all the sources on a particular topic. According to Chishofan, information is available to the student for a trial basis for fifty days. He says its success depends upon the student's success.

Chishofan said a new microfilm copier has been added to help the growing number of students with their research needs. He stated the card catalogs will disappear when the library switches to a microfilm automated system where the student can look on a viewer, like the microfilm viewers, to find needed information.

Chishofan also stated another new addition to the library is the Minolta microfilm reader. It works about the same as a microfilm viewer and will be a permanent part of the library.

He said that every month students can take advantage of the new book rack that features the best of the latest books. He also stated that a new magic wand will make checking out books a snap.

Remember the hammering that went on in the library a couple of weeks ago? While students endured the noise, the library was renovating the typing room downstairs. Shelves and chain were added to accommodate the student's computer needs. According to Chishofan, 10 new Macintoshes and two IBM compatible terminals are being added to the library in the future.

nr H*WJIKI CavtHr
 Newpprr, priiHtd by thr Norlon l>n'u. Inc., In Nrnton. Va., it-puMMwd by Utettudentiaaich Vally Coltefr, ia WUr. Va. The opinkmi expmwd henin art* not nrmMrly (host of TVr IligUnd
 Cavalier Newspaper or Cllnn Valley CoMege.

Tk*/MFWntfOiwMereflaouraM
 IMIM* to th« Ed Iter fiwn alu who wMi to wpr m* lh«mt«lv«. All Mtere miwb* signed, togfbto«and dMwl to bttrnttttd. Wih pfr inBSlon troiN ths EdHoF Ifittora nisy, b6 ftnofyfitout, EiovdMr.ftnltters FNIM de tigned for our private Mt. Letters may be *IAI-IM«B «4 III • illshnmil * * *>... suuuNMU  mo myjfmna cwwivv oMoa by th« Wadnmdy S00 p.m.

The Illihiand Cavaller/Page 4

SGA

roniined Inm pa^ I

by students, how much reading is involved, and the length of a term paper required by the professor will be asked, among other criteria on the form.

In other matters:

•SGA President Jeff Brickett had thank you notes sent to all of the organizations who showed up for Preview/Parents' Day. "We made an excellnt showing," Bricketa said. Alloftheoiganizationswho

HORNER

continuedfrompage 1

Homer, who feels that like in her past experiences with problems and plans that compromise is essential to everyone getting their needs fulfilled. Creativity involves ideas for the college, as far as growth, expan-

GILLIARD

cmUnuedfrompage 1

people who are involved and committed to the school. I gain inpuu idea's and problems from them."

HAGARTY

continued from page 1

lie Chancellor should be willing to make dedsiohs and take a stand.

When adced'about the fuUro of the graduate school at CVC, Hagarty sated be felt it was a good decision for the school, but the undergraduate program diould always come fusL He also expressed concern about the size of the library when the graduate program be^ns. He feels the size is signed the contract participated. George Buigan, SGA treasurer, has asked CVC Business Manager Clayton Willisto send the money to the organizations for attending Preview Day and working the dances the SGA sponsors. Others panicipaiing in Preview Day were the CVC Performing Arts, CVC Alumni Association, and Young Republicans.

*The luiTtout for Sweetwater C ^ was successful, with the most of the seats reserved the sion and ideas for events on campus.

Since CVC has seen recent growth and expansion just in the past few years, md Homer feels the most important aspect of growth is "quality conuol". Learning not to grow too qukkly without sufficient

"We, in higher education, are about instruction. So, wtat is an important course of instruction fm sudents to follow? I believe a foundation rooted in the liberal ait disciplines. This allows sudentsU)

SGA used by the students. Speech and Drama Professor Charles Lewis reduced the price the SGA had to pay for the tickets from $3.30 to $2 because of the large turnout of students who showed up on Thursday and Friday nights.

Legislative Committee drafted a letter for the Governor and to Virginia legislators about the need for the Southwest Economic and Educational Devek^mient Initiative (SEED) (HOgram at Clinch Valley Cdlege.

planning. "There is a need to exercise conuol over future programs and fuinUing sudent's educational needs," suited Homer.

Homer, who is currently serving as Vice-Chmcelkir for Administration and Finance at the University of South Carolina Coastal be well versed in communication based in the liberal, aits suidy of philostqihy, hiatoiy, Bnglishi etc." I believe in the quality of education" say8 GillianL PK$entlyhe is invdved with theCoU^Outcoroe

Scholarship Committee was asked by Bricketu to draw up an application foim for the SGA scholarships covering the majors the colkige offers.

*Burgan noted that Melanie Keene, president of Phi Beta Lambda, asked about working concession stands for the basketball games. The SGA controls the concessions, but Bricketu said if oqjanizaitons are interested in doing concessions for any of the ball games, they could contact the campus in Myrtle Beach, earned both her Bachelor and DocUirate degrees at the University of North Candina at Chapel HiU. She has had experience ranging from a Professor of chemistry and Assistant U) the President at Meredith College to Dew of Arts and Sciences. Provost, and Vice President of the Administration at the University of Charleswo in SiG., Homer feels confident of her abiliUes due to ha vast experience in different environments. "I have had experience being involved with all demensions of college education"

"I believe in the effort to move in the direction of 'new liberal aits' starting in die 'old liberal aitt' . litis 'new liberal arts' should prepare sudents technically for the fuuue that awaUs them."

ALWAYS WORKING

^•iiiB , sigiiltfiiiSilt

ELECT

lll i i i « «ii^is miVm> jbk, 'i^, |i ?|> 3i; 't ft" \'

CVC students take step toward future

Tammy Fultz
lie Staff Writer

Next month several CVC students are taking a step to a more successful future.

Ten students from CVC have been nominated to attend a conference at Norfolk State University November 5, 6, and 7, 1987. The program is designed to encourage undergraduates at Virginia's public colleges and universities to pursue graduate studies. This is the first year CVC has been asked to participate in this program.

"Professors were asked to nominate potential graduate students to participate in this conference. The nominations that were first considered were those of the Professors who were prompt in their responses. The students that were nominated were then ranked in order of GPA to determine which of them would be invited to attend the conference. The students with the highest GPA's were considered first" said, Richard Peake, Dean.

Peake said that he was very pleased that CVC students have the opportunity to attend this conference and that he hopes that ten students will attend. So far only eight students have accepted the invitation.

According to a letter from James A. McLean, Coordinator of Affirmative Action and Student Research, students attending the conference will have an opportunity to participate in sessions covering the following topics: financial aid for graduate education, the graduate school admissions process, the graduate school experience, preparation for professional careers, and other relevant topics.

Ron, Heise, CVC Professor of English; said; "I'm really glad that CVC has the opportunity to send students to this conference. We have some excellent students who may be candidates for graduate school but don't realize it. This will give those students a chance to discover how attending graduate school can help them reach their full potential."

Sponsored by the State Council of Higher Education, the conference will be funded as far as major expenses are concerned. The Council will pay for two nights' lodging and five meals, according to Richard Peake, Academic Dean.

Cora Salzberg from the Office of Higher Education says that five hundred and fifty students will participate in the program statewide and that she is looking forward to meeting the students from CVC.

McLean's letter indicates that the highlight of this year's conference will be the keynote address by the Honorable L. Douglas Wilder, Lieutenant Governor for Virginia. Other guest speakers will include: Dr. Gordon K. Davies, Director of the State Council of Higher Education; Dr. Carolyn Hines and Dr. Wesley Wilson of C & W Associates, Inc.; and Virginia's visiting professors. In addition, representatives of the graduate schools will discuss the graduate admissions process and their graduate programs with the students.

Other students and institutional personnel are welcome to attend the conference, but the institution or individual participant will have to pay for the meals and lodging. The estimated cost per additional student is $53.00 from lodging (two nights, double occupancy) and $43.00 for meals, according to the letter. If you are interested in attending the program and you have not been nominated, see Peake to determine how you can participate by paying your own way.

Local policy adopted

This is to inform students that Clinch Valley College intends to comply fully with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974. Clinch Valley College has adopted a local policy that explains in detail the procedures for compliance with the provisions of the Act. Copies of the policy can be obtained from the Registrar's Office.

In accordance with the Act, Clinch Valley College hereby designates the following as directory information:

Name, Home and School Address, Home and School Telephone Number, Date and Place of Birth, Age, Major Field of Study, Participation in Officially Recognized Activities and Sports, Dates of Attendance, Degrees, Honors, Scholarships and Awards Received, Most Recent Previous Educational Agency or Institution Attended, Name of Student's Parents or Guardian, Weight and Height if Member of Athletic Teams.

Happy Halloween!

REVTEW

continued from page 3
houseguesis. From blue jeans, lo a Made slinky dress, 10 asuh and lie. he dressed the cruising Blanche in a believiAle allire and personality.

Rosenwuy Mercure. "CVC'c character actress par excellence," ponrayed a hag lady, Mrs. Ziega), rescued from the dump and brought home by Famum. Criminally insane , Mrs. "Mildred" Ziegal, was

RATING

continued from page 3

this material from public records such as legislative funding records, from individuals in the business world, from unsolskiled appraisals,

SERIES

continued from page 3
progresses accordingly. One aspect of die Miranda rule I do not like is it must be read to all inospecdve witnesses. I have lost at ot of witness fiat were scared to testify after die officers read them their Miraiida rights.

"The Separation of Church and State" was debated Thursday, Oc-maid and murderess with equal hilarity.

Michael Abbot, "a member of the Wise business community," played Mr. Morgan, a would be actor with the abilities of "a tight-re^ walker afraid of heights." Abbot's performance, however, was anydiing but shaky and in the opinion of some of the audience he stole the show.

and from educators and administrators from die schools themselves.

Acting-Chancellor Jerry Cardwell said that he dHNight the Chris Campbell as Ernst Wildhagen, an atheist who's fiance is invisible, was so convincing that the audietice began to believe in his mydiical, toothless Wilbur.

The last two guests in the Famum home were Toni Foster and Craky Kaericher. Foster was delightful as Leisha Mulberry, a hooker. Kaericher's character was AmoM^ reportis"as validatoratingserviceas I've seen. I think colleges and universities pay attention to this type of report It's quite extensive."

Cardwell said he believes that a nudist who refused to "dress for any occasion."

Lisa Hamilton Davis, a CVC theater graduate, made the audience l^ve to hate her character of Madeline, Famum's interfering sister-in-law. Robert Eanes portrayed Merle Sidelinger, Famum's brother-in-law and a Reverend with his "glands in a siateof panic."

ratings like these can have a positive influence on CVC's low self-image. "I'm inclfaied to agree diat we don't give offselves enough credit I'm always telling people that CVC is one of the best-kept

Ronald McCurray as a constable of the law, Stephen Crouse as a rqxxtter, and Tracey Dixon as Dr. Meeker completed the competent cast

If you missed the production, maybe another revival performance couldbe arranged because in the words of iheGrande Dame herself, "What a performaKe!"

secrets in the slate.' The results of diis report show, adds Cardwell, that if you're looking for a quality education widiin a 100mileradius,CVCistheplaceto be.

tober 22 widi the Rev. Jim Collie, CVC's Baptist campus minister, and Richard Battistora of Baytor University.

Battistoni said, "One of the great principles of the Constitution is die right ot religious fireedrmi. But, there has formed two views on die inteipietation of the Trnst aroeiKi-menl. The Accomodationist view which stresses diat Uie founders saw die importance of religioa. They felt die govmiment should not sanction a particular religion but seedieimpofntanceofreligion to society; HieSeparationistview.on die oUier band, draws sustenance from Jefferson's argument that diere should be 'a high wall between the chiirch and stale.'" Battistoni continues, "There have been two types of Supreme Court cases on the establishment clause, (Hl dbect aid to parochial schools and on religion in die public schoob." To iHOve constitutionality The program must nddier hinder nor advance a puticular religion and die program cannot m-volve excessive intanglemen!"

Rev. Jim Collie conUnued die discussion wiUi his own personal experiences widi sgaration of church and state bodi in college and in Southwest Virginia.

'^Madame Butterflyenchants opera lovers at J J Kelly

Pamela Normaa
HC PhotographHeriWrUer

Astfiestage lights came up over die pdmed backdrop (rf Jainn's Naguaki habor la the early 1900's. B.P. Piokeiton. (rf the United SlaiesNavy strode onstage, looking handsome in his UeuteMM's uniform. He setting Us slghtt on a place to live, andaplaoe to give to his new bride. ChoCho^, a beautiful Japanese giri, a home. IUs open. Modlme Bimafly opened atJJ. Kdly High Scaod on Tuesday night.

BHtttofly. irfayed by Carolyn MaOny of tte Pittsbmsh Opoa Theatre, was very convincing as die innocent, fifteen year old Bntierly.When Pinkertoa leaves for the United States he has no iatentioa of coming back. Butterfly, blinded by her adouokm ^giiiliti iheend. CH>ChorSan, so wntfiped op ii her emodoo^ietntys herMBily by accqXingPinkeitan's religion mid Rfchard Bloclier, U only knUng for a temporary life in lap«, and fully intends tonany aa American ^giiiliti iheend.

CH>ChorSan, so wntfiped op ii her emodoo^ietntys herMBily by accqXingPinkeitan's religion mid ignores her own^ She especially shames her Uncle; a bonze, or a Japanese priest

The end of the open Onks Pinkerua letuning; not claim Ms

Please see OPERA, page 7

COUMFRYPAdMI^

STTic 1873

Sizes

Ittook-rat-m Xapels and collar are the design here. Added attractions are the pocket indicators on the alant/the one button closure placed dranatically. low, set-in sleeves, and center stitching down the . back.But the impact of this iwoolrand-nylon broad-cloth style is in the knock-out punch of the collar/lapels area. SATIM UMIR

^ itf6"'^a^^* sair« ^k^

"acx^tfs froin Wada'a Murket"

A 'SFECmL OCGASfIOINI AROUND THE CORNER ? »F

COSTUME

BALLOON ARRANGMENTS

AND DECORATIONS FOR ALL OCCASIONS

Attention

Roses holds interviews

Roses Stores Inc. will be recruiting management trainees on CVC's campus on Tuesday, Oct 27.1987 from 8:00 am to 4:30 pm in SH128.

Intersted seniors should contact Marie Crouser, 112 Canirell, to schedule an interview. You must bringaresume widi you to die interview.

Presentation set for Oct. 28

Robin Benke will give a sklke presenttfron of his trip Uiiis summer to die British Isles, b^jinning at 4:30 pm. Wednesday, October 28, in die Library. Student faculty and staff are cordially invited to attend.

Conference at NSU scheduled

There will be a conference at Norfolk Stale University on November 5,6 and 7,1987 for academically-gifted students. This conference is designed to encourage undergraduates at Virginia's public colleges and uiiiversities to pursuegraduate studies. Sponsored by die Stale Council of Higher EdiKittkm, die conference will be funded as far as major expenses are concerned. The council will pay for two nights'lodging.

Any student who will be a Junior in 1988 is eUgUbe to participate in die 1988 "Summer Program for Undergraduate Virginians." Please contact Michael E. O'Donnellin Student .Servfees., Canirell Hall, for AMber information.

Phi Ups Celebrate

On Monday, October 26, Phi Upsilon Om^a celebraies its tenti anniversary. Shiceitsinceptkm^94 girls have been inducted into the

Phi Ups Celebrate

WouI any student interested in working as a volunteer inton in die Oovemor's office during die 1988 session (beginning January 11, 1988) pkiase contact die office of Student Services as soon as possible.

OPERA

continued fkom page 6

Butterfly but to claim die chlM he gave her on dielr wedding night duee years before. Helssoshamed by his actkMis be cannot face Cho-Cho-San, and sends his new

Roses holds interviews

This social sorority is known for its community services such as food baskets to die needy and contributions to Hope House The members have enjoyed numerous activities together such as u^ps lo Florida during Spring Break and wedcnd sking trips to Sugar Mountain. A rush is planned for Uie Sring Semester, so all diose intersted will have an opportunity to join diis sistertiood.

Library to hold meeting

If you like to read, wouM like to meet audims, and want lo have a voKe in die colly's library's colledcon development, you are cordially invited to attend an oiganizational meeting of die Library Friends and become a member of die group. Students, faculty, staff, and community persons ate invited to attend die meeting, tt 10:00 am on Thursday, Oct 29, in die A-V viewingroomdownsuirsatWyllie Library.

Conference at NSU scheduled

There will be a conference at Norfolk Stale University on November 5,6 and 7,1987 for academically-gifted students. This conference is designed to encourage undergraduates at Virginia's public colleges and uiiiversities to pursuegraduate studies. Sponsored by die Stale Council of Higher EdiKittkm, die conference will be funded as far as major expenses are concerned. The council will pay for two nights'lodging.

Haunted house sponsored Alpha Delia Chi will sponsor a Haunted House. It will be open Tuesday, October 27 and will run until Friday, October 30.

The price will be $2;00 payable at die door. It will be heM at die Alpha Delia Chi House, lasting from 6:30 pm to1ft30 pm each evening.

Governor to need interns

WouI any student interested in working as a volunteer inton in die Oovemor's office during die 1988 session (beginning January 11, 1988) pkiase contact die office of Student Services as soon as possible.

Medical Insurance offered

WouM any senior who plans lo graduate in May 1988 and who wouM be interested in obtaining short torn medk>l insurance for graduating students, please contact Michael O'Donnell in dieofficeof Studem Services.

Library enforces policy

Itisastaled policy of JohnCooke Wyllie Library dial food, drink, smokingor use of tobacco products are not allowed in die building. Reminder signs are being posted and die policy will be strictly enforced.

Bookstore has new hours

The CVC Bookstore now has new business hours. The Bookstore will now be open from 8:30 am - 7:00 pm Mondays duuThursdays. On Fridays die Bookstore will be open from 8:30 am undl 4:30 pm.

Also, die Bookstore now stocks study aids, referencemaerials, best sellm.calandets.andanewiineof greetingcards. They also do special ordering • all you have to do is ask.

Candidates to give speeches

John M. Duggan, a candidate for the vacant chancellor posion, will make a public preseittationidils afletnoon at 1.00 pm in die Chapel of AllFaiUis.

Duggan, at present, holds die posidon of President at Independ^ent College Funds of America, a company based in Sianford. Coonecktkuit

On Thursday, October 29, Robert G. Gladden, another chancellor candidate, will makeapublic

Campus Calendar

-Monday-

: Tuesday

Chancellor Candidate Meeting/lp.myChapel
Roses Stores Inlerview/$/8ajn.-4:30pjnySH128
Wesley Dinnei/SpjnTWesley Fbundadon

Wednesday

Slide presentatioi\4:30p.myLibrary
BSUDinnei/SpjnyBSU

-Thursday-

Chancellor Candklate Meeting/lpjn/Chapel

Friday/Weekend

Science Lecture/lpjin. Friday/Science Lecture Hall

SGA Meeting/8p.m. Sunday/BI03

Road Rally results

The Road Rally course was nm byeight vehicles on October 13. The following dircce winners received $50, $23, and $15, respectively:
First place — Danny Mullins, Ricky Mullins, and Ricky Lee
Second place — Steve Quindry and Donna Rudierford Third place — Chris Mullins, Allen Mullins, and Danny Lee presentatkm in die Oiapel of All Faidis. It will also be at 100 pm.

Gladden now holds die positkms of Plovost and Vke President of Acaderak Affairsat dw University of Montevallo in Alabama.

Gi vens to present seminar

StevMi Gims will present a seminar Riday, October 30 at 100 pm in die Science Lecture Hall endUed "The Many Effects of Aspirin on die Boty." Aspirin's newroleas a wonder drug good for almost eveoIMngfom headaches to heart disease will be discussed.

OPEN

cominuedfrompage2

presented in case of bad weadier.

Theobservatoiy is in die science building on die CVC campus in Wise. Dr. Phillip Shekon and Dr. Van Daniel also assist at die open house.

total devodon, decides to commit sukdde radier dian to live widi her grief. As Pinkerton arrives, she falls on her dagger, ^ n g her Ufe andher suffering.

The opera, very beaudfUy vocalized and orchestrated rqmsenied die power diat love has over indivkhials in dieir dioughls and decisions. It shows die communication barrier between languages and how diat barrier am be used for selfishness and betrayal.

Madame Buiertfy was co-sponsored by Clinch Valley CoUege, and die C. Bascomb SlemP Poondadoo.

"A Woman Never l'oi<ct8 A Man Who

"SupporttraofCVC

. Wtoe, Va. 328^501

Sports

Water Balloon fights a standing tradition for CVC students

Bob Sloan • HC Sports Editor

While taking a walk around campus the other night, I got this strange feeling that there was something missing. Somehow, October evenings at CVC just don't seem the same.

Then it hit me. Or maybe 'It didn't hit me' would be a better way of putting it.

As I walked around, I discovered there was no one hiding behind a tree or building, waiting for just the right moment to hurl a liquid sphere in my direction. I didn't have to queue for the closest doorway to chase down a chuckling perpetrator.

No, I finally realized exactly what was missing from the campus this Fall. Water balloons!

According to Charlie Engle, Housing Director at CVC, no incidents involving water balloons have been reported so far this semester. Last Fall, water balloon fights on campus escalated to war-like proportions. McCrayer Hall residents and Crockett Hall residents caused $250.00 in assorted damages during a three-day battle.

Commentary

Following last year's tidal wave of 'rubber explosives', Engle distributed a memorandum stating that water balloon fights were a "tradition" at CVC. Engle stated that water balloon fights have been custom on campus for as long as ten years.

Also included in the memorandum was a list of rules which students were expected to adhere to during water balloon fights. Some of these regulations were:

- * Water balloons cannot be thrown in, from or to any building on campus, including dormitories.

- * No balloon should be thrown at anyone who does not wish to participate in the fight.

- * Balloons should not be filled with anything other than water.

In other words, it seems as if water balloon fights are regulated as a campus activity. These battles are a way of letting off steam and having fun at the same time and, hopefully, without anyone getting hurt.

But where are they now? Why hasn't anyone taken the initiative to start a water balloon 'war'? It could be dealt with all the new regulations in McCrayer Hall, the new students are afraid of being reprimanded. Or maybe the fuse which ignites the 'watery wrath' of Crockett Hall has yet to be lit.

Whatever the case, something has to be done. We, as students, cannot stand by and let a king-standing irradion at CVC go to the wayside. Have some fun! It's part of what college life is all about.

When asked, Engle said he wasn't sure why there haven't been a water balloon fight on campus this year. He does, however, expect that a water balloon battle will take place sometime in the future. Let's not prove him wrong.

So next time you're sitting around the dorm with nothing to do, get a few guys and girls together and plan a water balloon assault on your neighbor. If they get mad, apologize and tell them it won't happen again. If they laugh or vow vengeance, well, the fun is just about to begin.

Cavaliers win one, lose two in pre-season baseball scrimmages

G.J. Carter
HC Sports Writer

After being idle several weeks due to poor weather, the Clinch Valley College baseball team finally had a chance to take the field and find out just how much their practicing would pay off.

The Cavaliers played host to two other college teams for a day of baseball action on Saturday, October 10. Participating in the event were Lee's Junior College and Cumberland College. Each team played twice during the day.

The first game of the day pitted the Cavaliers against Lee's College. CVC Coach Ray Spennilb was not particularly pleased after his team was beaten soundly. The Cavaliers did, however, have a few bright spots in the outing.

Steve Jesse of CVC had a multiple hit day and Charles Heath pitched an improved four innings, allowing only one hit Cavalier pitcher Eric Clark and Mark Angles also saw duty coming out of the bullpen.

According to CVC outfielder Keidi McComell. "We saw some promise, but not getting to the day in our previously scheduled games hurt."

Following the Lee's - Cumberland match-up, CVC took on Cumberland, last year's Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference champion. The Indians finished last season at 42-10 and were ranked in the top twenty in the final NAIA poll last season.

As they had in their earlier game against Lee's, the Cavaliers were once again plagued with an overpowering opposition.

Fortunately, CVC was able to redeem themselves in their next game against Emory and Henry College on Wednesday. The Cavaliers defeated Emory and Henry 22-7 in the lopsided contest.

CVC's R.K. Holland pitched four strong innings, giving up five hits, three walks and collecting two strikeouts.

Playboy magazine now accepting College Fiction Contest entries

The October issue of Playboy magazine features "In Love with Rachel," a short story by Steven Ploetz, winner of the 1987 Playboy College Fiction Contest. Ploetz, 27, is a student at Brown University in Providence, R.I. In addition to publication of his story, Ploetz receives a cash prize of $3,000.

Entries are now being accepted for Playboy's 1988 College Fiction Contest open to all registered undergraduate, graduate and part-time students. The writing competition is judged by the editors of Playboy magazine, and the deadline for entries is January 1, 1988.

Contest rules are follows:

1. No purchase necessary.
2. Contest is open to all college students—no age limit.
3. Employees of Playboy Enterprises, Inc., its agencies, affiliates and families are not eligible.
4. To enter, submit your name, age, college affiliation, permanent home address and phone number to Playboy College Fiction Contest, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60611. Only one entry per person. All entries must be original works

- of Action and must be postmarked by January 1, 1988; mutilated or illegible entries will be disqualified.
5. Prizes will be awarded to those entrants whose stories meet Playboy's standard for quality. Playboy reserves the right to withhold prizes if the submitted entries do not meet its usual standards for publication. All decisions of the judges are final.
6. Winning contestants will be notified by mail and may be obligated to sign and return an affidavit of eligibility within 30 days of notification. In the event of noncompliance within this time period, alternate winners may be selected. Any prize-notification letter or any prize returned to Playboy Enterprises, Inc., and undeliverable may be awarded to an alternate winner.
7. Playboy reserves the right to edit the prize-winning story for publication.
8. Entry authorizes use of any prize winner's name, photograph and biographical information by Playboy Enterprises, Inc., without further compensation to the winner.
9. Playboy reserves the right to publish the work, entries in the

10. All foreign editions of Playboy and to reprint the winning entries in any English language or foreign language andologies or compilations of Playboy material.
11. Contest is subject to all Federal, State and local laws and regulations. Taxes on prizes are the sole responsibility of winning contestants. Void where prohibited by law.
12. All manuscripts become the property of Playboy Enterprises, Inc., and will not be returned. For a list of winners send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Playboy Enterprises, Inc., College Fiction Contest, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Second prize of $500 in the 1987 contest was awarded to Amy Michael Homes, 25, a student at the University of Iowa, for her story, "Looking for Johnny." Marshall Boswell, 21, Washington & Lee University; Stephen Coyne, 36, University of Denver; and Robin D. Lewis, 25, University of Alaska, each received third-place awards of $250.

Highland Cavalier to publish basketball insert in upcoming issue

In the November 2 issue of The Highland Cavalier, a four-page insert entitled Cavalier previews of both the men's and women's basketball teams at Clinch Valley College.

Several of the players expected to be placed in the starting lineup this season will be placed in the starting lineup.