Knight visits CVC before taking up new position

Kimberly Lee
HC Editor

"... working for a better CVC," is just one of the goals Jimmy Knight will bring to Clinch Valley College when he assumes his post as Chancellor on July 1.

Knight, who was appointed by the University of Virginia's Board of Visitors, was on campus last week in the first of three planned visits that will allow him to get to know the area better before he officially becomes Chancellor.

In an open convocation with students, Knight expressed his concern that excellence be a goal for all members of the CVC community. Knight stated he felt this excellence should cover all facets of college life from excellence in the dining hall to the living conditions to the athletic program.

He also stated that he wants CVC students to let him know of any improvements that they feel should be made. Knight intends to operate an open door policy so that students will feel comfortable talking with their Chancellor.

Knight commented that it's im-

Newly elected Chancellor Jimmy Knight visited the college on Thursday, February 4, and after his opening speech, took time to meet individually and talk with some students.

portant colleges remember what their missions are. He said it's the mission of Clinch Valley College to provide a liberal arts education as well as provide a service to the surrounding community. He believes it's important that students take their general education classes seriously. He expressed that he wishes CVC to get involved with the communities whether it's supporting local festivals or helping with the local government.

The students in attendance questioned Knight on a wide range of issues he will face when he assumes his duties. These issues included CVC's service to the community, Greek housing, the proposed graduate programs, as well as CVC rate of growth.

Knight stated that he is very much in favor of the SEED proposal and feels confident that it will find funding somewhere in the future, if not this year then in later years. He also stated that he would be willing to look into the Greek housing situation. Knight stated, "... (he) wants to look for quality in all we do."

For the answers to some of the questions posed to him by the attending students, Knight stated that he would have to become more familiar with the individual situation. These questions included issues regarding the Meal Plan and the lack of weekend student activities.

Knight stated that he and his family are looking forward to coming to CVC and they really like to people they have met thus far. Knight said he was "... interested in the concerns expressed by the students here today. We are eager to begin work."

Knight is currently Dean and Vice-President of Academic Affairs at Erskine College in Due West, South Carolina.

SGA finalizes plans for upcoming Spring Formal

Kathryn Kelley
HC Assistant Editor

Spring Formal details are being finalized by the SGA with some new additions to the format of previous years.

In the SGA meeting January 28 in the Chapel, the members narrowed down their choice of themes for Spring Formal to "If Only for One Night" by Luther Vandross and "Wonderful Tonight" by Eric Clapton. No decision was reached on which one would be used.

For the colors, a selection of formal decorations in emerald green, cream, gold accents, and purple were decided on by the SGA members.

The type of glasses that received a unanimous vote was a 22-ounce brandy snifter with gold trim.

The Spring Formal will be held May 7 from 9p.m. to 1 a.m. The band playing for the Spring Formal is The Maxx.

American Food Management Manager Tom Morgan will give a bid on the catering of the Spring Formal and will be trying to find table skirts for the tables.

SGA President Jeff Brickett is also making arrangements with the Clapboard House in Wise for a backdrop for pictures as well as furniture for the lobby of the Fred B. Greear Gym.

The SGA also addressed an upcoming lecture. Carey McWilliams will be the first to speak at Clinch Valley College April 21 at 7 p.m. as part of the SGA's lecture

Knight holds conference

Christal Tackett
HC Staff Writer

Listening to the college community, increasing out-of-state scholarship funding, and expanding the fall sports program are just a few of the goals of newly-appointed Chancellor Jimmy Alson Knight.

Knight held a press conference at 9 a.m. Friday morning, February 5, in Cantrell Hall. He made a statement about CVC and answered questions from local newspaper and TV representatives.

His top priority, Knight said, will be to listen to concerns expressed by the college community first, rather than impose preconceived ideas.

Knight said he was very excited about being at CVC and seeks the support of faculty, students, and community in CVC programs. During the conference, he identified what he wants to work on when he gets here in July, 1988:

- Enlarge the role of alumni by enlisting their help in recruiting new students. In the long run, the college could benefit from wills and bequests. Also, CVC could continue in career help for alumni.

- Increase scholarship funding, especially for out-of-state students, with the money possibly coming from endowments, local Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee companies, foundations and individuals who are interested in CVC.

- Expand fall sports program with either football or soccer.

- Introduce a new lecture series to

Mizpah charm should not be on Valentine's list

Jim Colle
Campus Minister

It is the season of Valentines. As your thoughts turn toward the selection of a gift for your true love, allow me to suggest one gift to avoid. You have seen them. They are the Mizpah coins. Whether in gold or silver, the jagged edged half coin shared by two in love is supposed to express their deepest feelings for each other. You probably even know the words, "May the Lord keep watch between you and me when we are away from each other." (Genesis 31:49.) Is that not sweet?

Check out "the rest of the story" in Genesis 29-31. Those sweet words in context express mutual distrust between two rascals who have lied to and stolen from one another for years. The Mizpah statement is about the only thing these two could agree on. God could be trusted; they could not.

The best of Valentines is a relationship built on trust between two people of character. Bring to each relationship your best self. Be a person of integrity. Jacob and Leban of old knew that God could be trusted. Each of us is created in the image of god. Our reflection of that image should certainly include that most important element of trustworthiness.

So, if you really must, exchange halves of the Mizpah but share the rest of the story together from the Bible. Have a good laugh over it. Then live in this and every relationship so that the Mizpah is not necessary.

Happy Valentines!

Faculty members granted promotions

Five members of the faculty at Clinch Valley College received promotions in rank this fall, and another was awarded tenure.

Joseph M. Scolnick, Jr. was promoted to Professor of Political Science, Neva Y. Gibson and Rosemary P. Mercure each were promoted to Associate Professor of Library Science, Ronald H. Heise was promoted to Associate Professor of English and Betty Humphreys was promoted to Associate Professor of Business. Bill J. Lee received an award of tenure.

Scolnick earned B.A. and M.A. degrees in foreign affairs from the University of Virginia and the Ph.D. in political science (international relations) from the University of Kentucky. He has been a member of the CVC faculty since 1973. Scolnick also taught at Longwood College and was a graduate instructor at the University of Kentucky.

He has been active in scholarly research, presenting papers at professional meetings, reviewing political science books and writing journal articles. He is reviewer and consultant for CHOICE, editor of Foreign Policy Analysis Notes and founded the Southwest Virginia Council for the Social Studies.

Neva Y. Gibson, coordinator of technical services at John Cook Wylie Library, has been a member of the faculty since 1968. She holds a B.S. from East Tennessee State University, the master of Library Science from George Peabody College, and has completed further work at Peabody in data processing of library operations and audiovisual library media, and at Columbia University in serials librarianship.

Gibson wrote the cataloging profile to gain SOLINET membership for Wylie Library and introduced the SOLINET system on campus. In cooperation with the computer services department she analyzed technical services operations in preparation for computerizing acquisitions and fund accounting, and in 1981 gained first-time state approval of the College's library science program. She is currently refileing and correcting the card catalog.

Rosemary P. Mercure is public services librarian at Wylie Library where she prepares bibliographies and library guides, supervises interlibrary loans, circulation and reference sections, supervises the archival collection, and teaches references courses. She has a B.A. in French from Lincoln Memorial University, with minors in Spanish, English and biology. She pursued graduate studies in library science at East Tennessee State University

Mullins shares Brazil adventure at BSU

Nadine Boggs
HC Staff Writer

The Dream Takes Wings—so says the NSM Newsletter and so it did.

In December, the National-Student-Ministry and the Foreign-Mission-Board sponsored a mission project in which one hundred forty American students and directors had the opportunity to go to Brazil for two weeks of shared ministry. One of these fortunate students was CVC's own Joe Mullins.

At a Baptist Student Union Seminar Wednesday, January 27, Mullins spoke of his recent trip to Brazil.

Mullins, a senior Elementary Education major, spoke very fondly of the people of Brazil. He said that in the beginning of their journey, he was a little wary of the people—a little scared, but then added that after having been there awhile he became attached to the people and became very close to one person in particular.

While it is true that it was an exciting experience, it was also one that will not be easily forgotten. Brazil is not one of the wealthiest countries in the world, nor the cleanest. The average salary for teachers in the country is approximately $30 a week. Many of the people lived on the streets, including the children and the mentally ill. They are not only homeless but hopeless as well. "I just can't give you the words to express the poverty that is there," stated Mullins.

The opportunity also arose to visit schools, orphanages, and hospitals. Mullins said that after experiencing some of these things it was really good to have friends there with him. "People think of the hospital as a place you go to die, not to be cured. You meet a lot of problems, a lot of things that upset you...you just need someone...someone to cry on their shoulder...some of the things you see..." said Mullins.

Mullins went on to say that although at times there were difficult things to experience, it was well worth the trip. Virginia, while being the smallest team there, experienced the majority of results as opposed to the bigger teams. It had the top number of conversions. Many friends were made. Many experiences were shared. And the Dream was one step closer to reality.

Europe travel offered at low price

Tradewind Travellers Club is launching a European travel program this summer for as little as $29.50 to $33 a day.

While other comparably priced student travel programs feature el-ther transportation or lodging, TTC's packages offer both motorcoach travel and tent accommodations throughout Europe, giving young people a true bargain for their travel dollar.

Students traveling on the two-, three- and four-week packages will visit five or seven countries. They will stay overnight in security-patrolled campgrounds located on or near major cities such as Amsterdam, Paris and Zurich, and in such scenic areas as Lermos in the Tyrolean Alps, Rudesheim on the Rhine River, and the Lido di Jesolo in Venice.

Snow policy spurns debate at regular faculty meeting

Kimberly Lee
HC Editor

The effectiveness of Clinch Valley College's present snow schedule policy was one of the main topics of the faculty meeting held last Wednesday, February 3, in the Chapel of All Faiths. Many diverse opinions were expressed with only a small resolution.

Rex Baird, Professor of Biology, opened the discussion by stating he felt CVC should have a policy of making its own specific announcement over the radio or television stations in the event of snow. The current snow schedule policy states that if, in the event of snow, the Wise County School System has closed their schools, then CVC is put on an automatic snow schedule. Baird felt that the current policy is confusing to the students and that CVC should no longer rely on the Wise County School System to make an announcement.

Bill Hooper, Professor of Physics, agreed and also added to the policy should be further expanded to allow a member of the CVC administration to make an individual judgment as to what status the school should be placed on in the event of snow.

This was strongly objected to by Glenn Blackburn, Professor of History. He felt that the Wise schools have a better system of checking roads and that one person would not be able to equal their system. Professor of Chemistry Van Daniel immediately suggested that the CVC official seek the advice from the Wise County School Board before making his decision.

Although a motion was stated and passed, there was some confusion as to what was actually meant in the motion. It was therefore decided that the current snow schedule policy remain in effect and that it be remanded to the Student Life Committee for further discussion and clarification so that a better policy can be developed.

Also on the agenda for discussion was the upcoming Preview Day. Although it started out as just an announcement by Dr. Peake, Dean of the Faculty, the subject of Preview Day raised many questions about its worthiness.

Stan Willis, Professor of History, commented he was not sure that Preview Day was worth the effort; he was not sure it was a positive institution. English Professor Roy Ball commented he felt the sessions of professor/parent and child should be shorter. He stated that he never used all of the Jubilee. What does that word mean to you?

That is the question that CVC's Greg Lawson and Sean Johnson were asked when they were chosen to sponsor the Wesley Foundation in St. Louis December 28 to January 1.

They arrived in St. Louis to find approximately 800 students, 100 campus ministers and 100 guest speakers in attendance.

It was a week filled with much fun and excitement. Groups of students from not only the United States but all over the world gathered together to fellowship and learn things not only about others and their problems but themselves as well.

Classes were attended and conferences held. Topics covered ranged from the very serious, such as Apartheid and AIDS, to everyday practical problems of students such as time management and campus problems. They learned how students from other parts of the world perceive things differently.

The two CVC students spoke of the opportunity it gave them to not only broaden their perspective, but open their minds to a clearer view of what things are like for other individuals. "It was really enjoyable and Sean and I felt fortunate to represent Clinch Valley College. More people know about CVC now," stated Lawson.

Lawson also pointed out that more people on campus should become involved in an organization like the Wesley Foundation. "More people need to find out about what the Wesley Foundation is all about...that it holds these kind of opportunities," said Lawson, opportunities that he and Johnson were afforded.

Jubilee. Still don't know? Lawson says that after the trip to St. Louis it carried many more meanings than it did when he left. In fact, it carries different meanings for each individual. Well, check out the Wesley Foundation and maybe you'll find out.

University sponsors program

The University of New Orleans will sponsor its 13th annual European Summer School Program in Innsbruck, Austria during the summer of 1988. This educational/travel/learning experience, entitled UNO-INNSBRUCK-1988, will involve over 250 college and university students as well as some 30 faculty/staff members.

"Spending the summer in Innsbruck, Austria was one of the most broadening experience experiences of my life, not only educationally, but socially and culturally as well," said Meg Hanks, a 1987 UNO-INNSBRUCK participant. "If I ever have the chance to go again, I'll have my bags packed and ready in no time flat."

Stephanie Rondenell, a student participant on the 1986 UNO-INNSBRUCK program, had this to say about her European experience. "If someone were to ask me to name the most memorable experience of my life, all I would have to say is 'UNO-INNSBRUCK'. "When I think of my summer in Austria, I think of the mountains that were outside my dorm window and how wonderful it was to wake up to them every morning."

Applicants are already signing up for the 1988 summer session. Part of the reason why over the last 12 years some 3,000 students from all across the United States representing over 150 different colleges and universities have participated in this unique summer program is that over 60 courses in many different academic subject areas are offered in this magnificent Alpine setting in the "Heart of Central Europe."

While participants can earn up to ten semester hours of credit, their classrooms are surrounded by the towering Tyrolean Alps, whose peaks are always snowcapped.

Naturally, courses offered with UNO-INNSBRUCK focus on the cultural, historical, social and political issues of Europe. However, during the 1988 summer session courses in business and science will also be taught. All instruction is in English and faculty from the University of Innsbruck, as well as distinguished political figures from the U.S. and Austria will be teaching in Innsbruck this summer.

"Academically, the overall learning is just great," said Gunter Bischof, a professor from Innsbruck who has taught on the program for the last five years. "A student may read less, but see much more. It is a true living educational experience."

During the summer, students will be housed in the Studentenhaus at the 300-year-old University of Innsbruck. The school is just a ten-minute walk from the many inns, cafes, and beer gardens in the "Old Town" of Innsbruck.

And, three-day weekends offer

Escape the academic 'blahs'

Christal Tackett
HC Staff Writer

Mid-winter blahs, post-Christmas depression, academic burnout or plain old apathy—I'm not sure what term to pick that fits the emotion, but I'm having difficulty switching from "vacation fun" to "academic humdrum." And I'm not alone.

Several friends and acquaintances have been seen with that increasingly familiar, slightly dazed (or is that glazed) look in their eyes. Their memories are failing; room numbers, names and assignments have become nearly impossible to recall.

In fact, the only date we consider important is the one that signals the beginning of spring break (March 12th, in case anybody's wondering).

A case in point: I have FOUR TERM PAPERS, seven 300-word reports, a math class "fraught" with anxiety, a chemistry lab in which I know not what I do and countless other obligations that I haven't bothered to recognize yet.

"The kicker? I do not care. I know I should, but I can't. Believe me, I've tried. I go to class all day and, when I'm driving home, my mind is filled with good intentions.

But when I get home... I develop amnesia. Every intelligent thought disappears and I don't do anything but sit around, watch TV, and talk to my friends on the phone. Typical vacation activities, right?

Obviously, I have to do something to get back into college life before my GPA begins to suffer, but what?

I asked a few CVC students what they did to break their vacation habits and get back into school and they said:

"I have to force myself to study and try to get enough sleep for classes, especially the ones at 8:30." Kathy Kelley, CVC junior.

"I start reading for pleasure and that helps me to begin concentrating on my studies." Jeffrey Mullins, CVC senior.

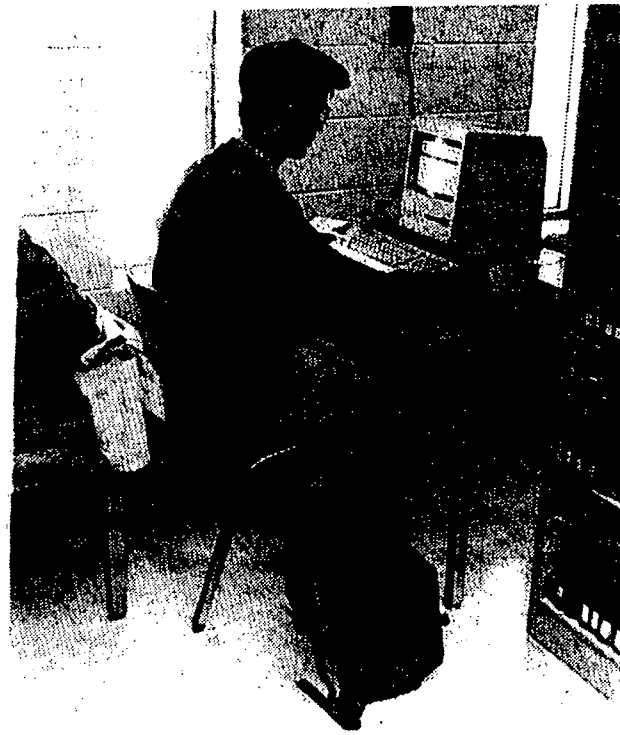

"Usually, I don't." Kevin Mullins, CVC freshman.

"I just dive right into it at the beginning, 'cause if I don't, I never will." Sandy Mullins, CVC freshman.

"I would suggest that you jump right into class by doing whatever reading's required and keeping it in your mind that you have to get into a routine. The Highland Cavalier does that for me—I have no choice." Kim Lee, CVC junior.

"I have to just jump right back in, because if I don't, I'll just drag on all semester and do nothing." Jennifer James, CVC freshman.

"I don't know. I'm a senior and I still haven't figured it out yet. Got any ideas?" Nadine Boggs, CVC "near-graduate."

After only two weeks of classes, JJ Cromer was found busily working on a MAC in the dark corners of the Library.

series. McWilliams is a political theorist from Rutgers who has spoken previous semesters at CVC.

At the request of Associate Professor Garrett Sheldon, the SGA asked McWilliams to return to campus for a $300 honorarium. Normally, it would have cost the SGA $2,000 for the lecture. This lecture is an addition to the College Satellite Network (CSN). In other matters:

* Brickett was told by Morgan that campus organizations are not cleaning up properly after the Thursday night dances. "It needs to be cleaned up," Brickett commented.

* Brickett reminded the organizations that Preview Day will be held February 20 from 10 a.m. until 12 p.m. and encouraged them to attend.

ample time for students to travel to many different destinations in Europe.

UNO-INNSBRUCK-1988 will convene with gala opening ceremonies on July 3 and end on August 13, 1988. Several optional pre-study tours are being organized for those students who and to spend an extra month living and learning in a different and stimulating European environment. Pre-study programs are offered in Belgium, Italy and a travel program through Western Europe.

"In the summer of 1987 UNO's popular Alpine summer school attracted students from 35 different American universities and colleges as well as several foreign countries," said Jeanne Boudreaux, Coordinator of the International Study Programs at the University of New Orleans. "As a result,

UNO-INNSBRUCK is a fantastic opportunity for students to travel, live, learn and earn semester credit hours in a rich and beautiful European setting."

Enrollment in UNO-INNSBRUCK-1988 is limited, so interested students should apply as soon as possible. For information and a full color brochure, write to: UNO-INNSBRUCK-1988, c/o International Study Programs, box 1315P - UNO, New Orleans, LA 70148. Or you can call the Office of International Study Programs and UNO: (504) 286-7116.

MEETING

time allotted for the sessions. Daniel also stated that, in general, the Fall Preview Day was well attended whereas the Spring Preview Day was not.

Julia Heise of Special Services, suggested that the Admissions Office give information of the actual success of Preview Day. This motion was passed.

Also discussed was the interpretation of the catalog concerning graduation requirements. The confusion concerned whether or not a student had to take classes on the Clinch Valley College campus in order to meet graduation requirements.

Willis pointed out that he often taught the same class on and off campus and he saw no need or "special magic" in physically being on the campus. Cathy Mahony, Professor of English, commented that some off campus classes were taught using adjunct faculty and that these classes were not the same as on campus classes.

It was decided that the faculty would further address this problem at a later faculty meeting.

In other business:

*The Faculty Development Committee reported changes in the Faculty Summer Grant program. The committee decided to change the date for summer grant proposals to be due on March 1 instead of September 1 with notification to be in April. Many problems with this were voiced and the committee was instructed to review the problem further.

*Betty Humphreys, Professor of Business, suggested that the faculty purchase a test scoring machine. Although it was noted that the faculty didn't have a budget, it was voted that the college be asked to buy the scoring machine. The meeting was then adjourned.

and received the M.S. in Library Science from the University of Kentucky. Mercure joined the Clinch Valley faculty in 1969.

In addition to participation in conferences, workshops and seminars, she has joined library study tours in several countries including England, Scotland, and Ireland.

Ronald Heise, who came to Clinch Valley College in 1969, holds an A.B. degree from Eastern Baptist College and an M.A. from Villanova University. He also has completed coursework for a doctoral degree in American Literature and doctoral level coursework in communications at the University of Tennessee.

He has served on the advisory board for Appalshop, Incorporated, as a reviewer for The Mountain Review, as an editorial consultant for films, books and magazine articles and as a panelist for the Virginia Commission for the Arts. Heise also coordinated Communications Days at which media experts presented annual programs in radio, television and newspapers.

He worked one summer as a general assignment reporter for the Kingsport Times-News, and has played a major role in the development of the College's communications program. He is advisor for the student newspaper, The Highland Cavalier.

Betty M. Humphreys has been a member of the CVC faculty since 1968. She has a B.A. degree from Milligan College and an M.S. from Radford University, and has completed additional studies at East Tennessee State University, James Madison University and VPI & SU in Blacksburg.

She is regional director of the Clinch Valley Region Future Business Leaders of America and has served on two visiting teams of the State Department of Education for program evaluations, at Bluefield College and Liberty University. Humphreys also worked Virginia Community College, developing CBE models in stenographic occupations for articulation between community colleges and high schools in Virginia.

Bill J. Lee, Associate Professor of Accounting, has been a member of the faculty since 1978. He received the Bachelor of Science and Master of Business Administration degrees from East Tennessee State University and has been a C.P.A. since 1970.

Lee's corporate experience spans work in systems and programming, accounting and auditing and serving as treasurer. He is consultant in tax and marketing and teaches accounting at Clinch Valley College. Lee is chairman of the Department of Business Studies.

TRAVEL

During two- to six-day stays in each locale, travelers will be on their own to pursue personal interests. At each camp, free maps will be available to assist individuals planning sightseeing, outdoor recreation and other activities.

Students, accompanied by an English-speaking guide, will travel by motorcoach from campground to campground. Group excursions will include a sightseeing trip to Brussels and a Rhine River cruise.

The program runs from June through August, with 58 scheduled itineraries that begin and end in Amsterdam.

Land-only prices per person are $498 for the 15-day package; $698 for the 21-day package; and two-person $855 for the 29-day package.

The price includes two-person tents and mattresses, confirmed reservations at the campgrounds, motorcoach transportation between camps, barbecue grills, eating utensils and recreation equipment. Single tents cost an extra $2.50 per night.

Travelers may fly on any airline to Amsterdam. Tradewind Travellers Club, however, offers a number of low-cost seats on charter flights from 12 U.S. cities that can be used in conjunction with the packages.

For more information, brochures or bookings, contact your travel agent or Tradewind Travellers Club, Suite 1602, 40 East 49th Street, New York, NY 110017, telephone (212) 832-9072, (800) 223-0567.

Chapel service held weekly

Weekly Chapel Services are being held on Wednesdays at 3 p.m. in the Chapel of All Faiths. The brief services are to provide a time of worship for students and faculty and staff together. The services are interdenominational. The Norton-Wise Ministerial Association sponsors this project. The Reverend Donald Bowles, Pastor of All Saints and St. Mark's Episcopal Churches is project co-ordinator.

Worship together this Wednesday in Chapel. The churches of Southwest Virginia welcome and invite all CVC students, faculty and staff to join in a community of faith.

Circle K thanks blood donors

The members of CIRCLE K wish to thank those students that gave their time and blood for the blood drives Tuesday and Thursday.

Address change requested

The Clinch Valley College Alumni Office requests that CVC graduates remember to keep the College informed of any change in their address.

Incorrect addresses cost the College money and impede efforts of the CVC Alumni Association to stay in touch with former CVC students, according to Alumni Director Steve Mullins.

"In addition," Mullins said, "the College is also interested in receiving news from alumni for the "Class Notes" section of its alumni newsletter — CVC Update."

CVC alumni who have recently moved or anticipate moving to a new address should notify the Alumni Office by calling (703)328-0128, or write Alumni Office, Clinch Valley College, College Avenue, Wise, Virginia 24293.

Tennis meeting scheduled

The Men's Tennis Team will have an important organizational meeting at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, February 9, 1988, in Room 201, Science Building. All players interested in spring tennis should attend. If you are unable to attend this meeting, please contact Van Daniel in Room 208, Science Building or phone 328-0225 as soon as possible.

New officers are honored

The brothers of Epsilon-Epsilon chapter would like to extend their new officers. They are: Bob Sloan, archon; Dain Bolling, vice-archon; Mark Sturgill, treasurer; Woody Quillen, Warden, John Wheeler, historian; and Jeff Zarbo, chaplain. Good luck guys.

We would also like to remind everyone that RUSH week is not far away. Feel free to stop by the Kapp house for a visit or to have a brother answer any question you have on the fraternity.

Student input encouraged

The College Lecture Committee will begin planning the 1988-89 Lecture Series early in the Spring. CVC students are encouraged to suggest speakers for this lecture series. If you would like to suggest a speaker for the 1988-89 Series, please fill out the form below and return it to Garrett W. Sheldon, Chair of the College Lecture Committee by March 1, 1988.

Restoration to be discussed

A seminar on surface-mined land restoration will be given by Lois Boggs on Friday, February 12, 1988, at 1:30 p.m. in Sc 100. Various methods of reclamation will be discussed. Everyone is invited to attend.

Valentine's sale to be conducted

The members of Phi Upsilon Omega wish all faculty, staff, and students a successful Spring semester. Welcome back!

Valentine's Day is just a week away. To commemorate this "lover's holiday," the Phi Ups will be conducting a flower and bake sale. Carnations of red, pink, and white will be on sale Friday, February 12 for two dollars a piece. A bake sale of heart-shaped goodies will also be held on Friday.

Lady Cavs defeat Bluefield to earn home court advantage

Bob Sloan
HC Staff Writer

Before the Lady Cavaliers took on Bluefield Thursday night, Coach Debbie Kaminske was asked if she understood the importance of the contest. She shook her head, laughed, and said yes, she understood.

So did her girls. The Lady Cavaliers dominated the Lady Rams at both ends of the court to hand Bluefield a 78-55 loss and assure CVC of home court advantage in the district tournament on February 26.

"They were more mentally well-prepared for the game," said Kaminske. "I was real pleased with that."

CVC dominated the first half of play and went to the locker room with a 38-19 lead. Center Mendee Davis paved the way for the Lady Cavs with 13 first half points. Dana Mathes chipped in 10 before the half.

In the second half, the Lady Rams found CVC just as determined. With top scorers Julie Hull and Linda Coulthard unable to score, Bluefield could not chip into the CVC lead. The Lady-Cavs, meanwhile, continued to get the ball inside to Davis for the easy bucket. Guards Cindy Bise and Jackie Davis bolstered CVC's scoring with good perimeter shooting.

Bluefield could only narrow the lead to 15 points as the Lady Cavs walked away with a 23 point victory. Davis finished with 24 points and 11 rebounds to lead the Cav cause. Mathes finished with 17 points on the night.

"Our primary goal was to stop Coulthard and Hull," said Kaminske. They had only 27 points between them tonight. In our first game they had 40. I think the players who covered them did a nice job."

Kaminske also praised the play of Davis and her guards. "Mendee is a good player, but if you look at her scoring, you'll see that the others are doing a good job getting the ball inside."

Davis, a 5-10 freshman from Norfolk, has scored 20 or more points in the Lady Cavs last six games.

The win bolstered CVC's record for the season to 5-12. Bluefield falls to 4-16. The two teams will meet again in the district tournament.

Lady Cavaliers basketball going strong in home stretch

Rusty Mullins
HC Sports Editor

When this season started there were many who thought that the Lady Highland Cavaliers' basketball program would remain the same. It is true that two years ago, the second half of the season was cancelled because of lack of interest and that last year's squad was fortunate to make the three month haul. Naturally, this year would be the same. Wrong.

The freshman class that entered this season for the Lady Cavs was highly touted, but the fact remains that they are freshmen. Nevertheless, as a squad, the Lady Cavs don't look like an average junior varsity team. When one considers that freshmen compete against other freshmen in high school, it's hard to realize ten freshmen and a junior winning four games against juniors and seniors. It is almost unthinkable for a JV team to defeat a varsity squad, unless you're watching Lonesome Pine District basketball. Four wins with several other close losses isn't bad for a young team.

Coach Debbie Kaminske, however, isn't satisfied with the close-but-no-cigar reward. "We haven't been able to take that one big step to the other side of the mountain," commented Kaminske. "We are in games but we're not yet a unit. We improve in one aspect and go down in another."

Kaminske named two things as being the most improved overall in the team. Both are simple basics of basketball — getting the ball inside to the post and the relentless effort on both the offensive and defensive boards. As of late, guards Cindy Bise, Jackie Davis, and Pam D. Saylor have done a good job of getting the ball inside to center Mendee Davis and power forward Dana Mathes for better shots. Mathes and Davis, the teams leading rebounders, have also vastly improved in the rebounding department. With time and work, the Lady Cavs of 1988-89 should have a true grasp on the college game and be able to compete with any comparable squad. However, the 1987-88 squad has set the standard for the year to come.

Lady Cavs: NLCAA Playoff bound

Bob Sloan
HC Staff Writer

With seven games remaining on their regular season schedule, the Lady Cavaliers have found themselves in a position where no other CVC women's basketball team has been for a long time — being one game away from a national tournament!

The Lady Cavs will host the district championship on February 26 against Bluefield College. If they win, CVC's ladies basketball squad will travel to Davenport, Iowa to compete in the 8-team national Little College Athletic Association Tournament.

Following the decision of Warren Wilson College and Weber College to withdraw from the district tournament, district officials decided to hold a one-game championship between the two remaining teams, CVC and Bluefield. CVC won homecourt for the championship match-up with their 78-55 victory over Bluefield Thursday night.

The Lady Cavaliers won the first meeting between the two teams, 63-62.

"This is just a start," said Coach Debbie Kaminske. "We've got all our girls competing back next year. If we can make it to a national tournament, it will help set a foundation for other CVC athletic programs. They can look at us and say 'Hey, if they can do it, so can we.'"

The NLCAA National Tournament is scheduled to take place March 3-5.
