CVC enrollment less than last year, but drop not drastic

Amy Clark
Staff Writer

What makes a high school graduate turn his eye toward Clinch Valley College as a place to continue his education? Perhaps it is the campus itself, the location, or the cost of tuition. For these and many other reasons, a great number of students are coming to CVC each year.

A freshman at CVC this year, Bo Tatum is from Pennington Gap, Virginia. Tatum, who has not decided on a major but is considering the medical field, found CVC to be conveniently located near his home. He originally planned to come to CVC for two years to get his general requirements out of the way, and then transfer to a school farther from home when he felt adequately prepared. But now, he feels he may stay at CVC longer.

"I like it a lot better here than I thought I would," he stated. "I expected the classes to be much harder." Tatum also found that he felt considerably more "on his own" than he had expected to, because he is closer to home. He credits CVC's science department as the reason for his deciding to stay for four years, and feels the college would adequately prepare him for medical school.

Tatum says the only things about CVC he would change would be meal times and the "installation of a football team, as well as better facilities for working out."

Another freshman, Aaron F. Schnore, is not so close to home. In fact, he had lived in many states before he decided to come to CVC. Schnore was born in Wisconsin, grew up in Virginia, graduated from high school in Texas, and then lived in Japan for one year.

So how did he end up at CVC? Schnore, an English major, said that he has always planned on going to school in Virginia.

"This is my favorite state," said Schnore. "I've always wanted to come to a school in Virginia." He originally wanted to attend the University of Virginia, but for various reasons he opted for CVC instead due to its affiliation with the university and its size.

"I was accustomed to a smaller school so I wanted a smaller atmosphere. I've lived in big cities all my life and I wanted to get away from that," remarked Schnore.

Schnore plans to transfer, but not because of the school itself.

"I think it's an under-appreciated school. The campus is incredible compared to bigger schools," he commented. He also added that he would like to see more of an emphasis on music at CVC.

The opinions of these two freshmen reflect the general opinion of many freshmen at CVC.

According to George Culbertson, the college is continuing to see increased numbers of transfer students. He also stated that this year's freshmen will be stronger academically due to changes in admissions standards.

Freshman enrollment this year remains fairly consistent with last year's, showing only a slight decrease. According to Lana Low, this decrease is due to tighter standards the admissions committee is setting for those who apply to CVC, as well as the economy. For the 1989-90 school year, the "head count" for full-time freshmen was pegged at 257 as opposed to last year's count of 280. The total number of students at CVC this year reaches 1,160, with 961 full-time students and 199 part-time students. Last year, it was 1,202, with 970 of those students attending full-time and 233 part-time.

CVC has activities to satisfy many interests

Beth Finne
Assistant Editor

So, what is there to do on campus besides join a fraternity? Actually, there is plenty to do.

There are organizations for people who like the outdoors, for people who like to sing or play an instrument, for people into community service, for environmentally sensitive people, and there are departmental organizations for those already into their major.

If you like to hike, camp, ski, and rock climb, then the Outbounders is for you. Last year they participated in the Homecoming Organizational Games, and they frequently schedule trips for their outdoor 'hobby'. Dean of Students Michael O'Donnell coordinates many of their activities.

For those students interested in singing and playing instruments, check into CVC's College-Community Choir, or the music ensemble. To find out more about them, you can contact CVC's music professor Mike Donathan.

The college theatre is active also. Several times a year, the Highland Players, as they are called, present major productions open to the college and the community. Tickets are often available free through the SGA office. Perhaps you should go try out for a part instead. Try your hand at acting, you could turn out to be the next great Broadway actor.

Go to the next Environmental Concerns Organization to help start a recycling pick-up station on campus, or discuss the tropical rain forests. And if you are interested in helping senior citizens, contributing to Special Olympics, or meeting students from other colleges in the state, then attend the next Circle K International meeting.

For changes in meals go to the BSU or Wesley Foundation diners where students cook the meals and entertainment and good

So many cars, so little parking spaces is the problem

Nona Shepherd
Copy Editor

I took a left and drove up the road to the top of the hill. I proceeded to comb the parking lot only to my disappointment. So, I turned onto the gravel road, drove past the tennis courts, and created a parking space at "the end of the world." I must say the hike to the Zehmer Building was rather invigorating.

This is my third semester here at CVC and the parking problems seem only to have gotten worse. Never before this semester have I had to park at the end of the gravel road beside the upper tennis courts. As a matter of fact, I had never received a parking violation notice until I parked on that road due to a lack of legal spaces. Anyone who has actually seen the condition of that lot in the midmorning hours knows that legal spaces are a rare and fortunate find, as even illegal spaces are. I feel that the notice was unjustly given as there was not any other place to park. The so-called commuter parking lot near the gym really seems to be for overflow from the gym and for those playing tennis. I have thought about a possible solution to this problem. This idea would result in the construction of a new parking lot. Perhaps the upper tennis courts could be relocated to the lower part of the campus in order to make more room for parking at the top of the hill. Maybe the lot could be built across from the lower tennis courts or even beside them. In the latter case, students could walk up the steps leading up the side of the hill. At least there would be actual "between-the-lines" parking spaces.

Of course, I suppose this idea has been thought of many times before, but the situation really needs to be dealt with. There should be enough spaces to accommodate those students who have purchased decals. I purchased a parking decal; I would like to be able to find a legal parking space in the commuter lot on the upper level.

Sincerely,
Nona Shepherd

Students appalled at ridiculous increase in CVC tuition

Dear Editor,

As returning seniors this Fall, we've witnessed several changes over the years from that of Chancellor Moonaw being replaced by Chancellor Knight, to the 1986 tuition being raised from $703 to the current rate of $935.

As underclassmen, we considered it to be out of our control (the tuition increases) and we kept silent. But as Seniors, we feel compelled to speak because we've been here for going on four years, and we feel the need to enlighten many of the students of an ongoing controversy at CVC.

Now we come to the point of our letter—we are appalled and extremely angry at the ridiculous increase from a Spring 1989 tuition of $787 to the $935 tuition of this Fall. A $148 increase! Now, that may be a minuscule amount to the bureaucratic imbeciles who run this establishment, but contrary to their beliefs, many of the students and the parents who finance a CVC education are not capable of handling this increase. Although there was an article in an issue of the Highland Cavalier last semester attempting to explain the impending increase in tuition, the justification were vague and ambiguous.

One example of where our money was to be utilized was for the purchase of better communication systems for our campus police. Isn't this just a fancy way of saying "walkie talkies"?

Besides the reconstruction of the "killer steps", we have seen no indication that the student's money has been put to good use. There is no tangible evidence!

As if this wasn't enough, when we discovered on registration day that the cost of a parking decal had been increased from the usual $2 to an unbelievable amount of $10, we were enraged! What justifies paying $10 for a little piece of adhesive plastic? This is absurd! We've spoken to other students and none of them could recall being notified of this increase.

On the first day of classes, students were threatened with a $50 fine if they did not purchase this sticker within the week.

In addition, students will be fined $5 if they part in an area designated for teachers only. Are faculty members subjected to this same penalty? On numerous occasions we have witnessed professors parking illegally (i.e. besides curbs and in student parking spaces). They are allowed to leave ticketless!

Where is the justice? WHERE IS OUR MONEY GOING?

We are demanding that an in-depth explanation be provided accounting for the numerous atrocities that plague this school (especially the increase in financial burden).

When Chancellor Knight was first introduced to us, he portrayed himself as a man who was concerned with the needs of the school and the student body. He claimed

Mac Frampton offers listening entertainment for all

The new Fine Arts Series established this fall by CVC presents the Mac Frampton Show at the CVC

Theatre, Sept. 28, during convocation period. Pianist Mac Frampton was greatly influenced by rock music. In an effort to relate more directly to contemporary audiences, he began to search beyond the confines of the strictly classical repertoire. Including popular-based music in his concerts proved so successful that he began devoting more time to the development of his talents for arranging, orchestrating and composing.

Frampton has appeared with orchestras of Atlanta, Boston, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Milwaukee, New Orleans, Oakland, Oklahoma City, and St. Louis.

He has teamed with Bill Crosby, Roberta Flack, Victor Borge, Louis Nye and Metropolitan Opera star Roberta Peters. He also collaborated with the legendary Ray Charles in the re-recording of GEORGIA ON MY MIND for a special Georgia tourism campaign.

Frampton will do a second show, on the same evening in Pro-Art Association's W. Campbell Edmonds Memorial Concert Series. The program, at 7:30 p.m. in Powell Valley High School auditorium, Big Stone Gap, is co-sponsored by Clinch Valley College and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Miller. Admission is free to all CVC students by showing their I.D. For all others, tickets for the public performance are $8 for adults, $6 for senior citizens and $4 for students.

A reception will be held at the Southwest Virginia Museum in Big Stone Gap, following the evening Mac Frampton Show at Powell Valley High School.

then he would be in constant touch with the students and their needs. Do you see him socializing with students in the lounge? Do you see him eating in the cafeteria? does anyone ever see Jimmy K. milling about campus? THE FACT IS... YOU JUST DON'T SEE HIM?

We are constantly reminded of our academic ties to UVA and how we are their sister school—that we should be proud of CVC because it is just as capable of providing a quality education as UVA. Yet, how can we students experience this "pride" if our chancellor chooses to hide behind ambiguous reasons for tuition increases, and quite frankly, hides from the student body that he originally professed such concern for in the beginning????

Fraternity member adds there is no Kapp house

Dear Editor,

As a member of Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity, I would like to thank the Highland Cavalier for the wonderful article of September 18 concerning the Greek organizations here at Clinch Valley. As we are now heavily involved in the rushing process, the publicity your article provided will be of great assistance to all the Greeks on campus. The article furnished some wonderful information and some helpful personal advice. I feel it necessary, however, to amend some additional information to the article for those unfortunate students who have been wandering around the campus in search of the Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity House.

You see, there is no Kapp House any longer. The Brothers of Pi Kappa Phi opted, semesters ago, to vacate the house which was slated for demolition. If you are one of those unfortunate wanderers who would like to find out more about our fraternity, there are many of us roaming around campus. We are very proud of our fraternity and would be more than happy to talk with you about Pi Kappa Phi. But please, stop walking around in hopeless confusion.

Again, I do appreciate the article, however I am very concerned that the reporter, editor, and proofreader of this newspaper could have overlooked such an inaccurate statement. As easily, they must have overlooked the empty lot across the street.

Sincerely yours,
M.L. Osborne, Chaplain
Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity

SPIRITUALLY SPEAKING

In some situations, there is nothing we can do

Jim Colie
Baptist Campus Minister

The young man lay on the ground in the heap of bodies of what had been a valiant troop of freedom fighters. Caught in an ambush, all of his companions were dead. He was wounded. Too weak to move, he remained as still as possible. It was as if he, too, were dead. Certain of their total success, the ambushers moved on. The young man would be found by his own troops in the morning. The cause that led to rebellion would be lost. The young man would be saved. . . to continue to seek freedom for his own soul and mind and for his people.

When trouble comes, oh how much do we want to do something. In some situations there is nothing that we can do. The Prophet Isaiah spoke to a people who were accustomed to prevailing by power, their own or through an alliance. This people had forgotten the source of real strength. "This is what the Sovereign Lord, the Holy One of Israel, says: 'In repentance and rest is your salvation, in quietness and trust is your strength, but you would have none of it.'" (Isaiah 30:15 The New International Version)

One of my favorite students would mutter something in French when finding himself at an impasse. Asked for a translation, Brad replied, "Quit rowing, we're getting too close to the shore." In Psalm 46:10 the same thought is expressed: My favorite translation goes like this, "Quit striving and know I am God."

A young pastor and teacher prayed a prayer that has become a help to so many in times of difficulty. "God, Grant me serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to do the things I can, and the wisdom to know the difference."

conversation are always available.

The point of all this is to look around and if a notice is up about a club meeting, go to it if you are interested. You are at college now and people aren't going to come to you. Maybe they should, but more often than not, you will be left up to your own devices.

Talk to your SGA representative, look in the back of the Source calendar (organizations are listed), or ask an upper classman that you know and trust, if they don't know, they can usually tell you of someone who does. There are things to do in this little place, sometimes it just takes awhile to find them.

Werner H. Mertz has received a one-year appointment at Clinch Valley College as Assistant Professor of Art. He earned a B.A. in University Studies from Southern Illinois University and a Master of Fine Arts in painting and drawing from Radford University. His master's thesis, "Paper as a Tool for Watercolor Painting," has been accepted for publication. Additional coursework was in higher education at Southern Illinois University, and at Harvard University.

Most recently Mertz was a photographer for the Virginia-Maryland Regional School of Veterinary Medicine, doing clinical and promotional photography and preparation of slide lectures. He illustrates and photographs for books, magazines and catalogs, and does commission portraits and landscapes in oil, watercolor, and pen/ink.

At Southern Illinois University, Mertz taught fashion illustration, gymnastics, adult watercolor, photo journalism, lab management and optical applications for photography. Later he was a guest lecturer for the Department of Art faculty and part-time instructor of art at Radford University.

Special assignments took him to Tel Aviv, Athens and Rome as official photographer of the 1968 U. S. Wheelchair Olympic Team, and to Pennsylvania State University for the 1966 NCAA Gymnastic Championship.

Mertz has had one-man shows at Radford University and Southern Illinois University, and at galleries in Evansville, IN, Springfield and Carbondale, IL, Blacksburg, VA, and St. Louis, MO. Juried group shows displayed his work at Radford University, Austin Peay State University, the League of Roanoke Artists, the Virginia Watercolor Society and the Lynchburg Fine Arts Show. Mertz is an executive board member of the New River Valley Arts Council and member of the College Art Association, Virginia Watercolor Society and the League of Roanoke Artists.

Glean C. Gamst has been appointed to the Clinch Valley College faculty as Assistant Professor of Psychology.

He earned an associate degree at American River College, Sacramento, a B.A. degree from California State University, and M.A. and Ph.D. degrees at the University of Arkansas.

As a graduate associate at the University of Arkansas, he taught general psychology and principles of learning. He then taught for three years in the Department of Behavioral Sciences at Millikan University and was a consultant for Northwest Arkansas Legal Services.

Since 1981 Gamst has been a research analyst for the San Jose Mercury News, conducting surveys, field experiments, political polls and time series analyses. He also taught a survey research course for journalism students in the Department of Journalism at San Jose State University.

He has written or co-authored publications for the Journalism Quarterly, Newspaper Research Journal, Discourse Processes, and the Bulletin of the Psychoeconomic Society. Gamst has submitted a co-authored manuscript for publication, entitled "Job Satisfaction in High Technology and Traditional Industry: Is There a Difference?"

His research interests are in the human learning and memory domain. In progress are projects on occupational attitudes and perceptions among the Silicon Valley workforce, memory for conversation, and the development of social/behavioral science methodologies for practical applications within industry.

His course assignments include introductory psychology and the history of psychology.

LSue Greer joins the faculty of Clinch Valley College this fall as Assistant Professor of Sociology.

She has a baccalaureate degree in sociology from Oberlin College, and M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in sociology from the University of Kentucky.

For seven years she has taught social sciences and sociology at the University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown.

Greer held research positions at the University of Kentucky for the Department of Rural Sociology, the Dean of Arts and Sciences, the Evaluation Research Unit, and the Center for Technology, Training and Development of the Southern Alleghenies at the University of Pittsburgh.

Topics of her published research reports include forest farming, the economic impact of CETA participation, policy issues in Kentucky, quality of life in Kentucky counties, the U. S. Forest Service and commodification of outdoor recreation, and federal land acquisition.

Research in the Southern Appalachians is reflected in her dissertation, "Rationalization, Power and the Forest Service: A Case Study of Conflict over the Mount Rogers National Recreation Area, Virginia" and in a masters thesis, "Trouble and Troutdale: A Case Study of Change in an Appalachian Community."

Penn State ends Cavs' hope of perfect season

Chris Kilgore
HC Sports Editor

The Clinch Valley Cavaliers gave Penn State a run for their money before being dealt a 21-10 loss Friday night. Clinch Valley plays on Fridays due to the large number of important social events that must be attended by the players on Saturday.

CVC drove the ball to the Penn 4 yard line on the opening possession before fumbling to Penn. Penn only kept the ball for four plays until being forced to punt.

CVC got on the score board first with 2:13 left before the half on a 25-yard pass from Sam "Cannon Arm" Dupper to "Sure Catch" McWay. The point after by Dave Diproy was good.

"I thought they played real well. We did some things right and played pretty good. But we also had some bad breaks and that's what killed us," said Coach Vixman of CVC.

Penn State scored on an interception early in the third quarter. CVC faltered in the third quarter with only 22 yards rushing. Penn then scored with :12 left in the third.

"Yeah, I thought CVC really gave us a good fight," said Bob Howard, Penn State's waterboy.

CVC advanced to the Penn 22 yard line before kicking a field goal to pull within 4 points of Penn State. Penn State kept control of the ball until CVC recovered a fumble on their own 43. CVC drove to the Penn 27 yard line before being intercepted with :13 left to play. Penn State returned the interception for a touchdown to make to score 21-10.

Public and students invited to join choir

Residents of Southwest Virginia and Eastern Kentucky are invited to join the College-Community Choir which rehearses in the Baptist Student Union on the Clinch Valley College campus in Wise.

The Choir, organized to present quality choral music to the public, is beginning its eleventh season under the direction of D. Michael Donathan, Associate Professor of Music and

Chair of the Department of Visual and Performing Arts at Clinch Valley College.

A program of Christmas music on Sunday, December 10, will be the first concert of the season. Donathan has selected compositions by Britten, Rutter and J.S. Bach.

Auditions are not required for membership in the choir, and new members are welcome. Rehearsals are at 7 p.m. each Tuesday.

Kathy Stewart of St. Paul, adjunct music instructor at Clinch Valley College, is accompanist. The Associate Conductor is Donald Henry, also an adjunct instructor in music at CVC.

Educational records rights listed

The Registrar's Office at Clinch Valley College would like to inform students of their rights concerning educational records. Due to the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, and the Buckley Amendments, effective January 6, 1976, students have the right

1. To be provided with a list of the types of educational records, as defined in the Act, which are maintained by the College and which are directly related to students;

2. To inspect and review the content of those records;

3. To obtain copies of those records upon payment of expenses;

4. To receive a response from the College to reasonable requests for explanations of those records; and

5. To receive confidential treatment by the College of education records; neither such records, nor personally identifiable information contained therein, will be released without student permission to anyone other than those parties specifically authorized by the Act.

For more specific information on who has the right to see your educational records and where these records are kept, a student may obtain a complete copy of these regulations from any faculty secretary, the Dean of Students Office, or any student services office such as the Financial Aid Office or the Registrar's Office.

Intercollegiate football for Clinch Valley discussed in faculty meeting

Chancellor Jimmy Knight informed the faculty in their meeting Thursday, Sept 14 of the possibility of starting an intercollegiate football program at CVC.

Knight has formed a committee to look into the feasibility of creating a football program in the future. A committee including area residents has been composed to discuss the matter.

In addition, Knight mentioned that two vehicles had been purchased for the use of the college. A 28-passenger bus will be used by the athletic teams on long-distance trips and a 15-passenger van will be available for faculty to use to take students on field trips.

Privacy of Information Notice

This is to inform students that Clinch Valley College intends to comply fully with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974. Clinch Valley College has adopted a local policy that explains in detail the procedures for compliance with the provisions of the Act. Copies of the policy can be obtained from the Registrar's Office.

In accordance with the Act, Clinch Valley College hereby designates the following as directory information:

Name, Home and School Address, Home and School Telephone Number, Date and Place of Birth, Age, Major Field of Study, Participation in Officially Recognized

Activities and Sports, Dates of Attendance, Degrees, Honors, Scholarships and Awards Received, Most Recent Previous Educational Agency or Institution Attended, Name of Student's Parents or Guardian, Weight and Height if Member of Athletic Teams.

Directory information may be disclosed by the institution at its discretion if the student does not request that the information be withheld. Requests to withhold disclosure of any or all of the directory information must be received in the Registrar's Office no later than two calendar weeks after the first class meeting.
