John Williams
College Press Service

(CPS) - On Nov. 4 the world will still spin, the sun will rise in the east and that 8 a.m. class will be held whether you like it or not.

But the United States will have elected a president the day before, and Nov. 4 will herald a new direction for the nation: Either Republican control of the White House will continue or after 12 years, a Democrat will move into 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. in January.

No matter the outcome, the 1992 presidential election proved to be a watershed for college and university students as President George Bush and his Democratic rival, Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, actively sought the youth vote.

According to Vice Chancellor Lawrence Ellsworth, CVC needed space for an office created by the General Assembly called Southwest Virginia Public Education Consortium. The offices will be located on the courthouse side of the Wise Inn.

Ellsworth said there was a breakdown of communication between his office and Director of Housing Mary Eubanks' office; therefore, students were placed in the rooms reserved for those offices.

Seven rooms were needed for offices. While two were already available, that left five rooms that needed to be cleared. Maintenance agreed to move students into other accommodations.

One student that was not affected by the mix-up has volunteered to move into Crockett Hall. This vacancy provided more room for the relocation. The remaining students have been relocated at Wise Inn.

Ellsworth said the students' cooperation was terrific. He also stated that the college will pay any telephone transfers if needed.

Ellsworth said that he takes full responsibility for the mix-up and that he apologizes for any inconvenience.

See MARIJUANA p. 4

Students rally for the legalization of marijuana

(CPS) — In an age of "Just Say No," some college students want to "Just Say Yes" to loosening up laws against marijuana and its possession.

Indeed, evidence of supporters' enthusiasm was present as thousands of students attended Marijuana Week rallies Sept. 21-26 at or near colleges such as Penn State, the University of Florida, University of Wisconsin and Iowa State University.

"Students are thinking about their future and seeing that there are no jobs," said Evan McKenzie, who teaches political science at Albright College in Reading, Pa. "Their parents are hurting. They're concerned about jobs. They have debts to go to school. They know what's going on."

If Bush wins...

"After the election, Bush will be more forthcoming about details on the economy. We face very serious economic problems at the national level," said Don Freeman, who teaches political science at the University of Evansville in Indiana.

"Bush would also face the problem of how to go from the garrison state to a peaceful world. I'm sure he doesn't want to put the military out on the street and cut defense spending."

Dave Mason, a political scientist with the Heritage Foundation, a conserva-

See DIRECTION, p. 4

Memorable election year for all voters.

--- Page 2

Halloween stirs up activities at CVC.

--- Page 4

Newport News defeats CVC in football action.

--- Page 6

Mollere's Tartuffe in November.

--- Page 8
EDITORIAL, from p. 2

Pittsburgh's New York City sewage sludge to be spread over 2,000 acres in Wise County. The sludge, which is environmentally accepted by the area and is spread over 2,000 acres as well.

The sludge is spread over 2,000 acres in Wise County. The sludge is spread over 2,000 acres as well.

Student objects to editorial

To The Highland Cavalier Editor:

The sludge spread over 2,000 acres in Wise County has been criticized by environmentalists and the people of Wise County. The sludge is spread over 2,000 acres as well.

Superintendents and local "to-do" to visit Wise County

The sludge spread over 2,000 acres in Wise County has been criticized by environmentalists and the people of Wise County. The sludge is spread over 2,000 acres as well.

Another noteworthy opponent

Dr. Stanton Tackett, Professor Emeritus in Analytical and Environmental Chemisty at University of Pennsylvania, lectured at CVC on October 7 on the crisis of lead contamination in the environment—a crisis exacerbated by indiscriminate sludge management. That lecture was well attended by students, Wise County officials and others who were reminded that the discovery of radioactive materials in 1986 ppm lead to the hotly contested issue—an issue that has been spread over 2,000 acres as well.

The sludge spread over 2,000 acres in Wise County has been criticized by environmentalists and the people of Wise County. The sludge is spread over 2,000 acres as well.

The sludge spread over 2,000 acres in Wise County has been criticized by environmentalists and the people of Wise County. The sludge is spread over 2,000 acres as well.

The sludge spread over 2,000 acres in Wise County has been criticized by environmentalists and the people of Wise County. The sludge is spread over 2,000 acres as well.

The sludge spread over 2,000 acres in Wise County has been criticized by environmentalists and the people of Wise County. The sludge is spread over 2,000 acres as well.
MARIJUANA, from p. 1

The administration would not interfere with the program. McKean and others want to see the State policy liberalized for students caught with marijuana. "The government shouldn't have that much control over our minds and bodies," he said. "Right now, you can't buy marijuana at your local grocery store. People, glue, gluestick, and cocaine, and they can't buy it!"

He wants the school's policy on marijuana in the students' hands. He said the current policy is unfair. Currently, minors caught drinking are given a one-week suspension. A "first offense" is held in 1981, and undergraduates students voted in support of making the policies equal in position actions.

"Marijuana is treated more harshly at Penn State, and alcohol is treated as a matter of public health," he said. "What we want to do is change the laws in the state."

The administration would not interfere with the programs. If Clinton wins...
Coming Soon:
World Championship
Wrestling
November 13 at Fred B. Greaker Gymnasium

NBA Preview:
Knicks and Bulls head Eastern Conference

central division

1. Chicago Bulls: After back to back championships, the Bulls are poised for a three-peat. Michael Jordan (30.0ppg) is the league’s newest player to receive the Maurice Podoloff (23.7ppg) award for Defensive Player of the Year, but the team strength may come from their second unit. Scottie Pippen (18.0ppg) and Dennis Rodman (13.0ppg) are in their peak years and will be a force to be reckoned with.

2. Atlanta Hawks: The Hawks are eagerly awaiting the return of Dominique Wilkins, who suffered a season-ending injury in the playoffs. If healthy, Wilkins will once again be one of the league’s best scorers. Kevin Willis (18.0ppg, 10.0rpg) is a force in rebounding.

3. Cleveland Cavaliers: When the season started, many believed this was the team to beat in the Eastern Conference. However, the Cavaliers are currently suffering from inconsistency through the season.

4. Detroit Pistons: Although the Pistons have one of the strongest teams in basketball, the team is on the verge of making the playoffs. The Pistons are a solid playoff team, but will they be enough to keep them out of the first round exit, that is if they don't suffer another season-ending injury.

5. New York Islanders - The Islanders are on the verge of making the playoffs. They have a strong Offense that also has a solid Defense. Their goal-tending should also be strong, as John Vanbiesbrouck (2.40 GAA) and Mike Liut (2.50 GAA) are solid in goal.

6. Philadelphia Flyers: The Flyers are looking for a return to the top of the Atlantic Division. Their defense is adequate, but not spectacular. Their scoring is very balanced with five players averaging over 15 points per game. The Flyers are a solid playoff team.

7. Buffalo Sabres: The Sabres are one of the strongest teams in the NHL. Their defense is solid, with Pat Lafontaine (16.4ppg) and Grant Long (15.9ppg) leading the way. Their scoring is also strong, with Dominique Wilkins (17.4ppg) and Kevin McHale (16.6ppg) providing the bulk of the offense. They are a solid playoff team.

8. Montreal Canadiens: The Canadiens are considered one of the top teams in the NHL. They have a solid Offense, with Guy Lafleur (36.4ppg) and Bob Gainey (26.8ppg) leading the way. Their Defense is also strong, with Guy Lafleur (4.8ppg) and Bob Gainey (4.5ppg) providing the bulk of the defense. They are a solid playoff team.

9. New Jersey Devils - The Devils are one of the top teams in the NHL. They have a solid Offense, with John Vanbiesbrouck (2.40 GAA) and Mike Liut (2.50 GAA) leading the way. Their Defense is also strong, with Guy Lafleur (4.8ppg) and Bob Gainey (4.5ppg) providing the bulk of the defense. They are a solid playoff team.

10. New York Rangers: The Rangers are one of the top teams in the NHL. They have a solid Offense, with John Vanbiesbrouck (2.40 GAA) and Mike Liut (2.50 GAA) leading the way. Their Defense is also strong, with Guy Lafleur (4.8ppg) and Bob Gainey (4.5ppg) providing the bulk of the defense. They are a solid playoff team.

11. Toronto Maple Leafs: The Maple Leafs are one of the top teams in the NHL. They have a solid Offense, with John Vanbiesbrouck (2.40 GAA) and Mike Liut (2.50 GAA) leading the way. Their Defense is also strong, with Guy Lafleur (4.8ppg) and Bob Gainey (4.5ppg) providing the bulk of the defense. They are a solid playoff team.

12. Vancouver Canucks: The Canucks are one of the top teams in the NHL. They have a solid Offense, with John Vanbiesbrouck (2.40 GAA) and Mike Liut (2.50 GAA) leading the way. Their Defense is also strong, with Guy Lafleur (4.8ppg) and Bob Gainey (4.5ppg) providing the bulk of the defense. They are a solid playoff team.

13. Washington Capitals: The Capitals are one of the top teams in the NHL. They have a solid Offense, with John Vanbiesbrouck (2.40 GAA) and Mike Liut (2.50 GAA) leading the way. Their Defense is also strong, with Guy Lafleur (4.8ppg) and Bob Gainey (4.5ppg) providing the bulk of the defense. They are a solid playoff team.
Clinch Valley Theatre presents Moliere's Tartuffe in November

Moliere's comedy Tartuffe will be presented Nov. 11-16 at CVC Theatre under the direction of David McTier, who joined the faculty this fall.

Curtain is at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday and the final performance on Nov. 15 will be a matinee that begins at 2:30.

Roles in Tartuffe are played by CVC students, all stage veterans. Gary Collins, who has acted extensively at Temple Junior College and Temple (TX) Civic Theatre, appears as Orgon, and the role of Tartuffe is played by Andrew Obeidy, seen on the CVC stage last year in Godspell, Fool for Love and Lover Star.

Kerry Messer, who plays Maureen, has acted in Guys and Dolls, Bye-Bye Birdie, The Music Man, South Pacific, Little Mary Sunshine, Taming of the Shrew and The Mousetrap. Other characters are Madame Peronelle, played by Lori Little, who has appeared in The Matchmaker, East of the Sun, West of the Moon and A Christmas Carol; and Cleante, played by Drew Gulino who has had roles in The Sandbox, You're A Good Man Charlie Brown, The Fug Prince and Godspell.

The production also includes Theresa Tuttle as Mariane, whose stage credits are Two Small Prices To Go, Our Town, and The Mouse That Roared; and Debi Dodson, cast as Elmire, has acted in Arsenic and Old Lace and many others.

Production assistants are Jeremy Overbay, assistant director, who has acted in The Matchmaker; Elizabeth Booth, stage manager, who has played in Fool For Love and The American Dream; and Tammy Lane, assistant stage manager, who has performed in West Side Story and The Music Man.

Tartuffe is the story of Orgon, who does not distinguish between what is true and what is false. When he encounters vice disguised as virtue, he takes it for true virtue and thus provokes disorder and unhappiness among those beneath him. The disaster is all the more serious because the vice is embodied in Tartuffe, a powerful man whose devouring appetites grow under the protection of Orgon, who sees Tartuffe as a truly devout citizen.

Drew Obeidy and Kerry Messer enjoy rehearsing for Tartuffe, being presented Nov. 11-16.

Position vacancy: Computer Programmer. Salary range is $23,044 to $35,184. A state application may be filed at the Personnel Office. Closing date to apply is Nov. 10.

Campus Police Officer Steve McCoy will conduct a firearm safety demonstration, from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m., Friday, Nov. 6, in the Chapel of all Faiths.

A Virginia Museum Artmobile exhibition exploring graphic design will be open to the public at John I. Burton High School in Norton, Nov. 11 from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m.

Richmond Ballet will perform at J. J. Kelly High School on Nov. 16 at 7:30 p.m. as part of Pro-Art Association's W. Campbell Edmonds Memorial Concert Series.

Tylenol Brand Scholarship Fund will award ten $10,000 and 50 $1,000 scholarships to students based on leadership demonstrated in academics, school activities, and/or community activities. Scholarships must be postmarked no later than Nov. 15. To be eligible students must have been accepted to or enrolled in an accredited two or four-year college, university, or vocational school for fall 1993. Students can pick up an application at participating retailers. Recipients will be selected by Citizen's Scholarship Foundation of America and will be notified by mail.

The Student Business Organization Phi Beta Lambda will be holding an organizational meeting on Wed. Nov. 4 at 1:00 in Smiddy Hall Room 100c.

Anyone interested in participating is invited to attend

Bits'n Pieces