UVa Board of Visitors hold meetings at CVC and approve many changes

When Virginians voted yes on the Bond Referendum in November, they voted yes to $472,000,000 for Virginia’s college’s and universities to be spent for renovations and building projects. One of Clinch Valley’s proudest projects is the addition to the John Cook Wyllie Library which had its groundbreaking ceremony Sat., April 2 at 12:00 p.m.

In attendance for the ceremony were UVa President John T. Casteen, UVa Rector Hovey S. Dabney, members of the CVC’s faculty and administration, students, and members of the Board of Visitors of Virginia.

Virginia is expecting, according to the Rector of the University of Virginia, “as many as 65,000 new students” in the coming years. Mr. Hovey S. Dabney, Rector, spoke of Mr. Thomas Jefferson whose commemorative 250th birthday is April 13.

“I would believe that Mr. Jefferson would be proud of the addition to the John Cook Wyllie Library,” Dabney said to the crowd gathered inside the library.

Currently the John Cook Wyllie Library houses 136,000 volumes but not necessarily sufficient space for such. President Casteen spoke of those in attendance about John Cook Wyllie and his anonymous collaborator who donated much money to CVC’s library.

Local attorney William J. Sturgill told a brief history of the library and its significance. Casteen speaks of John Cook Wyllie at the groundbreaking ceremony.

CVC tuition to increase by 12.8% in fall

Christopher A. Cline
Editor-in-Chief

The University of Virginia Board of Visitors voted Sat., April 3 to increase Clinch Valley College tuition by 12.8 percent for the 1993-1994 school year despite a state authorization to increase tuition by as much as 26 percent.

The total tuition and fees for in-state students living on campus is $6,354 and $10,260 for out-of-state students. With the increased tuition and fees, room and board have risen 6 percent and 6 percent respectively, which only affects on-campus students. One change in the policy is that residents without kitchen facilities must purchase a 19-meal plan from the college. Students living in on-campus housing with kitchen facilities must purchase a 13-meal plan but have the option to purchase a 19-meal plan.

According to a recent article that ran in the Bristol Herald Courier, CVC Interim Chancellor Jay Lemons said...

Writer encourages us to get out and vote

The flowers are in bloom. The sap is rising. The birds are singing. The skies are sunny. It can only mean one thing: Spring has finally come to CVC, and it is time for student elections.

Last fall, Americans voted in record numbers to get the government they so richly deserved. Let us this Wednesday and Thursday put that spirit to work to have a clean government and the Honor Court perform important duties for the student body. They are among the students' strongest voices from the college, and they perform real jobs with real results.

So let us treat these elections with the same dignity and respect we would for local, state, and national elections. All full-time students, join me this April 14th and 16th in electing our representatives, junior, and senior class representatives to the SGA and Honor Court and our SGA officers.

Mike L. Jones is a junior here at CVC from Warrenton, VA. He is history major, a Pi Lambda Phi past Vice President and founding father of the CVC chapter. He has been the SGA freshmen representative, more representative and current Vice President. He is also a member of CVC's College Republicans.

Jones' campaign "plug" is Experience, Leadership, and Dedication. He is experienced by serving in three SGA positions: he is a leader by his presence in Pi Lambda Phi Fraternity, SGA, and College Republicans; and he is dedicated to meet the needs of the student body at CVC.

Jones has a four step goal plan if voted into office:

Step #1: Jones wants to put administration and student government on one - no more divides between the SGA, Dean of Students, and Chancellor.

Step #2: Jones will work to lobby Richmond (State Legislativa) for a representative. He will make sure students directly involved with the SGA through the task force, committees, and interclub contests.

Step #3: Jones will provide diverse and broad entertainment and intellectual learning.

Step #4: Jones will make all students directly involved with the SGA through the task force, committees, and interclub contests.

Jones says that he possesses three qualities that make him a winner, according to Jones, himself: leadership, the ability to compromise, and the ability to communicate. "I feel that as an SGA President, I can utilize my past leadership skills to work hard for student concerns, no matter what the ideas come from. My experience gives me an added advantage that will aid me greatly in serving as the student leader," he said.

"I believe this election passes a great threat, but also a great opportunity to have an SGA that does its job and does it well. By electing me, time will not be wasted trying to play catch up, but used effectively to strengthen 'the good of the CVC students.'"

New fraternity begins to make its first impression on campus

M. Jones: he's good enough, smart enough

SGA Presidential candidate Mike L. Jones hopes he can convince the student body that he is the right man for the job because he's good enough, he's smart enough, and doggone it, he's a leader.

Roop wants students to know where their money is going

Lori Liddle
Assistant Editor

SGA Presidential Candidate Tim Roop is a 1989 honors graduate of John Battle High School in Bristol, England. After graduating from high school, he attended Virginia Tech for one year and Virginia Highlands Community College for one year.

Roop was not happy at Tech. "The only people you knew were your next door neighbors. I don't feel you can really get an education at a school that way."

Being dissatisfied, Roop transferred to Virginia Highlands to give himself time to choose a college that would fulfill his needs. CVC is the college he picked, after visiting 18 to 20 college campuses during that year.

Roop is living in the Townhouse right now, but he will move to McCrory next year since he is an RA. He asked to be put in McCrory because he feels that his three experiences as a new student will help him identify with the freshmen really well.

Roop's third goal is to "let the students know what happens in the SGA and see all the people that are working hard to bring school events here at the college." He also added that his third goal is to "help the students get the money they need to have fun on campus. I feel that they are a great threat, but also a great opportunity to have an SGA that does its job and does it well. By electing me, time will not be wasted trying to play catch up, but used effectively to strengthen 'the good of the CVC students.'"

Miller wants student input, good or bad

Lori Little

Buddy Miller is a candidate for the position of Student Body President.

Miller graduated with honors from Floyd County High School in 1991. However, he is originally from Parkersburg, WV. Miller is a sophomore Business Administration major. He has been attending Clinch Valley College for four semesters and has lived in several different locations during his time here. Park Model (which was used as a real-teen living space) is currently occupied by Current Hall.

Miller enjoys sports, including fishing, camping and bowling.

Christopher A. Cline

Christopher A. Cline is a candidate for the SGA Vice President position.

Cline is originally from Wise, VA. However, he grew up in Blount County, KY. He also graduated from Clinch Valley College, where he was a Business Administration major. He has been attending Clinch Valley College for 10 years before moving back to Wise. While in Texas, Cline attended Temple Junior College for three semesters and the University of Texas at Austin.

"I enjoy sports, especially baseball, and have been a member of the All-Star team at CVCC," says Cline. "I've worked with the community and the students in a variety of different ways, including working on clubs and organizations." Cline has also been involved in the community.

Cline has no previous leadership experience in the university. He has been involved in the community and the student body. Cline graduated from Temple College and entered Temple University last fall semester. He is currently a member of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity.

Cline was born and raised in Wise, VA. He graduated from Wise Central High School in 1997. He has been attending Clinch Valley College for two years and is currently a sophomore.

Carico views VP as partnership

Derron Hanes

Vice President candidate Joe Lynn Carlson, although running unopposed, feels the student body will benefit very much from his actions once in office.

Carlson is a rising junior at 20.

"I believe that the student body and the university should work together very closely," says Carlson. "I am a very active Vice President. "Vice President," says Carlson. "I am a member of the student body and I work closely with the administration to ensure that the student body is well represented."

Carlson is an active member of the student body and has been involved in a variety of different activities. He has served as a member of the Student Government Association and has been involved in the administration of the student union.

Carlson views the job as a partnership between the student body and the university.

Wallace wins Food City 500, Kulwicki remembered

Taylor Burgess

Entertainment Writer

Rusty Wallace made clear he was the happiest victory in last Sunday's Food City 500 not to overshadow the death of his friend and fellow driver Alan Kulwicki. Kulwicki was killed along with three other members of the Haas-Carraro team in a plane that crashed and burst into flames just six miles from the finish line. Kulwicki was 38.

Kulwicki's family gathered at the start finish line to pay tribute to the late champion.

The race proved to be an exciting one with a record 17 caution flags that cost 150,039 laps with Brett Bodine sitting on the outside of row one with a speed of 120.012 mph. When the green flag fell Bodine pulled away leading the first four laps only to be overpowered by Wallace who wanted to do the rest of the race leading history. Having quick pit stops and the first pit on the front straightaway kept Wallace in the lead pack and out of trouble all day.

Atlanta chops to the top in '93

Spring is in the air, when a young man's fancy turns to pine tar and on-deck circles.

Ten, Major League Baseball is back for another action-packed season of runs, hits and errors. After the last summer has been hit and the last pitch thrown, Manager Bobby Cox and his Atlanta Braves will be crowned 1993's World Series Champions. Here are a few reasons why you should think so far.

First of all, the Braves have won the National League East Division for the past two seasons and the only reason they did not win the World Series these years is because of their own mistakes and not because of the pitcher.

This year will definitely be different because in the off-season, Atlanta released southpaw Charlie Leibrandt and signed free agent Greg Maddox, last year's Cy Young Award Winner for his work in the National League. In 1990, Maddox played for the Chicago Cubs. Adding Maddox to 1991's Cy Young Award Winner Tom Glavine are a few reasons why you should think the Braves are positively loaded with starting pitching. Even Pete Smith, the only car owner/driver to pose a threat to Wallace, caused extensive front end damage to his car because of damage to his car.

The offense of the Offense is somewhat overshadowed by the pitching, even though the hitting will be as hot as it usually is, if not hotter. At first base, Jeff Brantley went surgery this spring on his right knee and is not ready to return to the lineup. Sparkling in last spring's batting average. Bedard, attempting a comeback after missing all of last season because of injury, gets off to a rough start this spring; however, he still has a chance to make the Braves a solid lineup. Sanders' contract calls for him to turn in center, Atlanta has the power and defensive savvy, the Braves and Dave Justice in right, White Sox centerfielder addition. This will be his first year as a starter.

That “CB4,” a film about three music stars by posing as “gangsta rappers,” only to be chased by the crook they’re impersonating. Unfortunately, the original idea gets misconstrued somehow on the Hollywood freeway, making viewers wish they had a map to the movie.

The comedy release by Universal pictures stars “Saturday Night Live” Chris Rock and Phil Hartman, Allen Payne, Decker D., Chris Elliott, Charlie Murphy (Eddie’s big brother) and Khandi Alexander. Best line of the movie. “Oh boy! it’s my first drive-by!”

Rock delivers the most laughs in a musical satire since “Spinal Tap.” However, the movie has received good reception from fans because the women characters are generally depicted in a derogatory manner as “hos” and “hoes.”

Rock, Elliott and Murphy give top performances and would benefit better from comedy roles in the future. See this movie and then watch “Saturday Night Live” and tell them to quit typecasting black comedians like Rock.

RATING: five stars (excellent), four stars (good), three stars (average), two stars (poor).
