Chancellor Emeritus Smiddy to speak at Crockett's 70th birthday next week

Kathy Brown
Staff Writer

In accordance with Clinch Valley College’s 40th anniversary, Crockett Hall will be celebrating its 70th birthday on October 12th from 12 noon to 3:00 p.m. All students are encouraged to come.

Chancellor Emeritus Joe Smiddy will present a speech about the history of the hall. There will also be a cookout on the upper and lower porches facing McCrady Hall. The Hendrix Society will provide music. The theme is “Rock It At Crockett.”

This event is open to all students. The food will be provided by Piggly Wiggly. Wade Johnson and Cynthia Johnson are the Residence Assistants for Crockett Hall. Hardies is donating cups and napkins.

Crockett Hall was erected in 1924. This is the oldest building on CVC’s campus. There is discussion about renovating the building into offices for Student Services. If this happens then Cantrell Hall will be the student union. It is also being discussed to keep it as a residence hall, but it will be renovated.

This is sponsored by the Residence Life Council. The officers are Christy Connelly, president; Don Douglas, vice-president; Rick Mullins, treasurer; Mila Lopez, secretary; and Nona Shepherd is the advisor.

“Everyone is welcome to attend,” said Wes Adams, Committee Chair for the Crockett birthday party.

You are also cordially invited to attend a Fall Harvest Buffet honoring Chancellor and Mrs. L. Jay Lemons from six to eight o’clock on the evening of Friday, October seventh on the Lawn at the College Theatre.

CVC announces its 1994 Ambassadors

CVC Press Release

The staff at the Office of Admissions is pleased to present the Clinch Valley College Ambassadors. This organization consists of a group of talented and motivated students who project a high level of school spirit and pride within the college community. Their main priority is to host campus visitors, work with prospective students and their families, and assist in institutional advancement efforts.

Created to provide assistance to various divisions of the established college community, the CVC Ambassadors evolved from an organization on campus known as the “Chancellor’s Hosts”. The current Ambassadors offer host services that have been requested by the Office of Admissions, the Chancellor, and others.

If you have any questions about this newly established organization, their purpose and goals, or would like to be considered for a future position as an Ambassador, please contact Bill Wendle in the Admissions Office at 328-0248.

You are cordially invited to attend the Installation of L. Jay Lemons as Chancellor of Clinch Valley College at one o’clock on the afternoon of Friday, October seventh on the Lawn at the College Theatre. A reception will follow.

Carico responds to Adams' criticisms

Mr. Adams should have remembered that as SOA President, I appraised commendations to students, not crusades. Your vision can be flawed. We will not suffer from that mistake.

I also would like to say to Mr. Adams that you're looking in the wrong direction. When I was in high school, I used to write columns for the school newspaper. I've saved myself the embarrassment of being quoted out of context, losing your knowledge of the facts.

Since last week there really wasn't much on campus. It's a great excitement, most archaeologists spend a lot of time going to parties, then a day spent doing tedious work. The slightest mistake can destroy what nature has preserved. You can destroy with a single act.

Last week, I found a piece of rock that had been thrown at a tree by people who were trying to get to prehistoric roots, then were interested in remembering the past. It will serve as a much more credible reminder of limited resources. Perhaps they should not plan on being remembered.

The notion that we should pride is in the student activity council is a dangerous illusion. No school has a parking problem. It is a problem that is created by those who don't want to be remembered or cherished. Some people who have gone out of their way to handle it

Questions raised concerning Campus Police Cadets

Last week, the yearbook issue became a Point discussion of discussion in The Highland Cavaller. It was an editorial written about it, we strive to enrich the history of the Cavalier. It was an editorial written by student spending by $18,000 a year on the yearbook.

Mr. Adams obviously thinks we are taking advantage of the students for our personal gain. He is wrong. We have any hardship of the students. We have to work on the yearbook, and we do not want to. The yearbook is each and every student's representation of what happened in a year at TVC. It is an annual publication. By definition, prehistoric man and life can be reconstructed.

Streep Seeks Redefinition In The River Wild, while Kevin Bacon tries to revive his stalled career

Freddie Flotts Entertainment Writer

Meryl Streep. The name conjures up images of some costume dramas or some type of character who is conflicting, but not in his or her own. No one, until now, would consider her as an action hero. Nonetheless, her action debut in The River Wild is quite a sight as she rushes down a maniacal stream of water with her family in tow. The story begins similar to *Red (1999), maybe because of the castings of Streep, the movie is an exciting one.

The plot is steeped by having her character, set in the movie, to be a wounded mother, and that is why her husband is so keen on the move. The movie is a test of Streep's character to the rigors of the role, and she comes out on top.

Regardless of the reason Streep is in the movie, it is a fact that she is one of the most entertaining and complex characters in the movie. All of the other characters seem to be outshone by her, but Streep makes it a memorable one.

When God speaks to me, it is in whispers barely tinged with undertones—unintelligibly-meaningless words, but still comprehensible. His boundless wisdom testing the limits of my ignorance, His infinite love stripping naked, His tender touch—"I am your friend," He whispers, and the message is clear.
