DAVIS ELECTED SGA PRESIDENT Vasold Elected Vice President, Hackney Elected Secretary

Staff Writer

Out with the old and in with the new describe the results of this year's SGA elections. Jennifer Davis was elected president, Jarrod Vasold was chosen to be vice president and Tabitha Hackney is the new secretary.

Davis, who has been involved with the SGA in the past, decided to run for the office after her friends encouraged her. She said she debated the issue for a while before making her final decision.

"Some changes need to be made," she said.

When asked what qualities she feels she could bring to the office, she said, "I'm very open to everyone's opinion and respect everyone's opinion." According to Davis, this mentality has not always been upheld by the SGA. She sees her first duty as bringing the members of the organization together as a team.

Vice president-elect Vasold said he and Davis have been discussing the possibility of a retreat that will induce camaraderie within the association.

Vasold is no stranger to student politics. He was recently elected president of his fraternity and was the elections commissioner last semester. He wants to see more commuter representation from the SGA. Being a commuter himself, he said, "I want to bring in different view points to the SGA."

He said that the most important SGA amendment passed was the sixth amendment, which allows for a senator to be elected in the fall semester. Vasold says this amendment will encourage transfer student involvement.

When asked what other qualities he felt he could bring to the office, he said that being on his own since he was 16 has made him fiercely independent and self-motivated. "I don't want to see people taken for granted," Vasold said.

Secretary-elect Tabitha Hackney agrees with Vasold and wants to see more student involvement on campus. Hackney is president of the newly formed Wise chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW). Hackney said she chose to run because "I wanted my input in the SGA."

Davis, Vasold and Hackney said they are looking forward to next year's challenges. In addition, they would like to thank their friends, the voters and the faculty and staff for all the help and support they received during the election.

Also, this year's election had more candidates and more voters than in past years. Other winners include Treasurer Justin Forrester; Senators at Large Rashean Protridge and James Pena; Senior Senators Vicki Giunta, Brandon Matney and Richard Minter; Senior Honor Court
