College restricts usage of shortcut near Culbertson

By Kate Baldwin
Layout Editor
keba@uvawise.edu

Members of the campus community who use the gravel road near Culbertson to avoid traffic at the main entrance now have to find another shortcut.

An e-mail from Jim Swing, vice chancellor for finance and government relations, warned students, faculty and staff: "The current image of the anarchist movement is one that shat­

...tated by the teachings of Indian leader Mohandas K Gandhi, is currently employed by the Wesley Foundation located across from the College.

"The significance of the MLK March is to honor and remember Martin Luther King Jr. and what he has done to shape America," Jones said. "I believe it's important for students, faculty, and the Wise community because we have to remember where we come from in order to build for the future," Tipton said.

Town of Wise celebrates Martin Luther King Day

By Mike Mebrahtu
Staff Writer
mme@uvawise.edu

"We are lucky to have Mr. Preston present a realistic MLK speech because it gave me an understanding of what it was like to be in the presence of Martin Luther King Jr.," said Monti Bechel, MCA president.

In the church the participants treated to a variety of "good food." The buffet consisted of fruit platters, corn on the cob, mashed potatoes, corn bread and more.

"I believe it's important for students, faculty, and the Wise community because we have to remember where we come from in order to build for the future," Tipton said.

Student creates interactive map online for new visitors

By Jared Kays-Short

srkov@uvawise.edu

Students who come to campus for the first time and are not familiar with the area may be at the road entrance is no clearer that really states "Dead Chief of Police Steve McDivitt," he said. "There is no usage of well-known shortcut divine parckm fnMn God is available simply by asking.

"It's a good tool if you are lost or need help," said Mr. Adkins, a janitorial service who lives in Abingdon, the option for you. Re-according to the company's website, the interactive map is easy to use and is ideal for those who are new to the area or visiting for the first time. The map provides information on various locations, including parking, dining, and academic buildings, and allows users to view actual images of the buildings. Aerial view of the campus that allows users to scroll to various locations, get detailed information, and see the layout of the campus is also available. This new service will also replace the signs in the area that direct students to various locations.

"This is a project we are just doing extra-curricularly," he said. "You can see from the map that.edu we have only had one day of real classes on Ttiesday and that some classes are canceled. We began printing every week and introduced a full staff of editors.

"You can see from the map that.edu we have only had one day of real classes on Ttiesday and that some classes are canceled. We began printing every week and introduced a full staff of editors.

"I firmly believe their reporting is excellent. We also began accepting advertisements from local businesses last semester and will be continuing this through the spring semester. The advertisers placed in the same categories as other students and community partners, the category of looks and losses.

We also began accepting advertisements from local businesses last semester and will be continuing this through the spring semester. The advertisers placed in the same categories as other students and community partners, the category of looks and losses.

We also began accepting advertisements from local businesses last semester and will be continuing this through the spring semester. The advertisers placed in the same categories as other students and community partners, the category of looks and losses.

We also began accepting advertisements from local businesses last semester and will be continuing this through the spring semester. The advertisers placed in the same categories as other students and community partners, the category of looks and losses.

We also began accepting advertisements from local businesses last semester and will be continuing this through the spring semester. The advertisers placed in the same categories as other students and community partners, the category of looks and losses.

We also began accepting advertisements from local businesses last semester and will be continuing this through the spring semester. The advertisers placed in the same categories as other students and community partners, the category of looks and losses.

We also began accepting advertisements from local businesses last semester and will be continuing this through the spring semester. The advertisers placed in the same categories as other students and community partners, the category of looks and losses.

We also began accepting advertisements from local businesses last semester and will be continuing this through the spring semester. The advertisers placed in the same categories as other students and community partners, the category of looks and losses.

We also began accepting advertisements from local businesses last semester and will be continuing this through the spring semester. The advertisers placed in the same categories as other students and community partners, the category of looks and losses.
By Nancy Stokel-Suunders

It's the beginning of the new semester and many students are waiting to dive into their curriculums. After feverishly turning in exams on time and then realizing that they had in fact procrastinated, they stop in their tracks and ask, "Why study, when there's so much wine?" The term onwards to a month of exams has just ended, and now it's time to relax and enjoy the last few weeks of summer. While the weather outside is still warm and sunny, why not take advantage of the opportunities to explore the many restaurants and cafes in the area? From the classic coffee shops to the trendy juice bars, there's something for everyone. Whether you're looking for a quick bite to eat or a leisurely lunch, there's no shortage of options to choose from. So why not take a break from studying and treat yourself to a nice meal? It's the perfect way to celebrate the end of the semester.
Cavs season nears end, prepare for conference tournament

By Reid Solomon
Sports Editor
rso@uvawise.edu

With just a few weeks remaining in the season, the Cavs basketball teams hope to end the year on a high note.

The Cavs dropped to 6-12 overall and 4-5 in the AAC following Tuesday's 80-60 loss to UAB.

The heartbreaking loss included a big night from some of the Cavs' brightest stars. Junior Jessica Sexton scored 18 points and grabbed six rebounds, while freshman Adrien Hood and junior Eric Swords scored 13 and 11 points, respectively.

The Cavs played four tough games over the winter break, with the bright spot being a 56-54 victory over Morehead College on Jan. 12.

Coming into this week, the Cavs are averaging over 96 points per game. This is largely due to senior guard Jared Solis and Hood. Solis is currently averaging 14.3 points per game, while Hood averages 10.6 points per game.

While the men are only three games behind first place Wash., the women's teams are square at the bottom of the conference.

After Tuesday's loss to 20th-ranked UAB, the Lady Cavs dropped to 4-6 in the AAC, just 7-1 in the conference.

Femilusa Adeleke, Freshman team led the team with 17 points and had six rebounds against UAB, while freshman Megan Rutherford grabbed 12 boards and nailed six points.

It does not look like the Lady Cavs can repeat their AAC championship title this season, but that will not stop them from performing at a competitive level.

Coach Rachel Clay-Kochan said she knew coming into the season the team would not be a threat.

"I expected that we would have a bit of a role of a season," she said. "We have had injuries with key players. We are a young team this year."

Despite their disappointing record, several Lady Cavs have stepped up this season.

"Coming into this season I knew junior point guard Kim Norford is a close second average points per game, with 13.2, while freshman forward Megan Rutherford has been close behind, averaging 10.6 points per game."

With 11 games remaining on the schedule, the Lady Cavs can only play spoiler to potential playoff teams.

"Consistency is the biggest key for success for us," Clay-Kochan said. "We need consistency in our wins, in our effort and in our resolve to improve."

Both the men and women's teams have lost their last two games.

"Both the men and women's teams have lost their last two games," Dale said. "We are a young team this year."

With guidance from two-time Super Bowl MVP Bart Starr, Dale and the Packers defeated the Kansas City Chiefs, 35-10. The Packers made a return trip to the Super Bowl Sunday, but it's hard to imagine that it won't be a blowout. Not that the people in the stands are the difference maker. Let's keep it up.

7. Spend Valentine's Day with the Ladies. The Lady Cavs will battle against UAB this season on Feb. 14 and Tulane College. Watching 2007 NCAA Region XII champions are better than watching a rental from Wal-Mart and a dinner movie she will throw out by the 20.

8. Be the Top Fan for Top Spartans. The Cavs teams don't have a lot of fans. But it could be the key to winning. Let's give fans plenty of time to practice their John McEnroe imitations and root for their favorite player. Man in Daniel Robinson, but that's a little bit easier.

9. Make it to The Third Base. Sure, going all the way would be nice, but having a runner in scoring position gives the guy at the plate more assurance. The Cavs base team often opens the season at Tusculum College on Feb. 8. Request to face the fourth possibility in the plate, the Cavs hope to break last year's school record of 32 wins.

10. High, free-speed. It's been months since the bleachers at Christ Smith Field have been filled, but junior quarterback Randy Hippeard can't stay out of the news. Last month Hippeard was selected to the All-State First Team for the second straight year. I hope this doesn't lead to anyone buming the poor guy.

Hometown Superbowl hero talks about upcoming game

By Cody Dalton
Asst. Sports Editor
cod@uvawise.edu

While two teams will fight for the chance to be Super Bowl Champions on Feb. 3, UVa-Wise has its own piece of NFL history.

Carroll Dale, the ex-vice chancellor for athletic development, is a former NFL wide receiver. Dale played in the first two AFL-NFL Championships, which later became the Super Bowl, in 1966 and 1967.

Dale began playing in the NFL after attending Virginia Tech in 1960. He was drafted by the Rams in the 1960 NFL Draft.

"The free year I had at Los Angeles was five losing seasons," Dale said. "I was lucky and got traded to the Packers in 1965."

The move from Los Angeles to Green Bay proved to be an advantage for Dale. As one immediate success with his new team.

"To come from a losing team and be part of a winning team was exhilarating," Dale said. "I was very fortunate to be a part of a winning team at that time. To play for Vince Lombardi was a thrill as I was from the Packers until 1967. With the Minnesota Vikings in 1972 before retiring from the game.

The New York Giants will play against the undefeated New England Patriots in Super Bowl XLII on Feb. 3. Dale offered his prediction for the game.

"I think the Giants are a team that has a chance, but my opinion is that the Bills have some players, and they will play well on Sunday, and I see the Bills playing a close game against the Patriots." Dale said. "It should be a really good game, but my pick would be New England."

View From the Cheap Seats

New Year's Resolutions

When UVa-Wise last month for a lovely winter vacation, I had planned to spend my free time watching my first "View From the Cheap Seats" for the spring semester.

My resolution was to watch sporting events, and things go according to plan.

We can thank Santa Claus and his generous gift of "Cheap Seats" for taking up my free time. Now that I have returned it a bit of time and much more, I felt that it was appropriate to adopt the most celebrated tradition carried by the world, and set my New Year's resolutions in this case stop procrastinating.

However, rather than bore you with my personal goals and plans to better myself, I saw it (that I see in my responsibility to set the New Year's resolutions for this team. It takes a devoted person to fulfill their resolution, but it requires true dedication to fulfill ours. I think that I am if you fall to temptation... I know you tried.

1. Keep the House Streek Alive! The Cavs basketball team is an amazing 5-0 at home. Not taking anything away from the guys on the court but let's hope the people in the stands are the difference maker. Let's keep it up.

2. Be the Top Fan for Top Spartans. The Cavs teams don't have a lot of fans. But it could be the key to winning. Let's give fans plenty of time to practice their John McEnroe imitations and root for their favorite player. Man in Daniel Robinson, but that's a little bit easier.

3. Make it to The Third Base. Sure, going all the way would be nice, but having a runner in scoring position gives the guy at the plate more assurance. The Cavs base team often opens the season at Tusculum College on Feb. 8. Request to face the fourth possibility in the plate, the Cavs hope to break last year's school record of 32 wins.

4. High, free-speed. It's been months since the bleachers at Christ Smith Field have been filled, but junior quarterback Randy Hippeard can't stay out of the news. Last month Hippeard was selected to the All-State First Team for the second straight year. I hope this doesn't lead to anyone buming the poor guy.

5. Root for Rasbad. Senior running back Rashad Morgan was named AFC South All-American last month. Be sure to congratulate him for his performance, thank him for everything he did for the program, and wish him luck in the future. He might be NFL bound.

4. Watch the Ladies Heart Breaks. Although the Lady Cavs basketball team (aka the Lady Cavs) have been shattered, they can play spoiler for other teams looking to make the postseason. With upcoming games against UAB, Milligan, and Covenant, the Lady Cavs can end their opponents season's sooner than expected.

7. Attend the Super Bowl. It's hard to believe that I would actually consider renting a movie on Super Bowl Monday. But I'm not a bit of a lisa. Sure, it's hard to imagine that it won't be a blowout. But at the same time, they have a chance of winning.

8. Keep the Elf on the Shelf. Don't keep the Elf on the Shelf. The Cavs tennis team can't hit the court until early March, so that should give fans plenty of time to practice their John McEnroe imitations and root for their favorite player. Mine is Daniel Robinson, but that's a little bit easier.

9. Make it to The Third Base. Sure, going all the way would be nice, but having a runner in scoring position gives the guy at the plate more assurance. The Cavs base team often opens the season at Tusculum College on Feb. 8. Request to face the fourth possibility in the plate, the Cavs hope to break last year's school record of 32 wins.

10. Keep the House Streek Alive! The Cavs basketball team is an amazing 5-0 at home. Not taking anything away from the guys on the court but let's hope the people in the stands are the difference maker. Let's keep it up.

Love Your Sports! I think my friends and parents are the only one who read this article. A little feedback from an unleashed source would be nice.

1. Root for the Home Team! Wear a Cavs shirt. How about an even if you're just as an interest or two. If you see an athletic walking by you tell them "Good game the other night!" Or create your own way of showing your school spirit! Go Cavv! Game of the Week

The Cavs basketball team takes on Covenant tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Greear Gym.

The Cavs will look to extend revenge on the AAC rival after Dec. 7-32 loss. Senior Guard Jovy has just 23 points of any chance for more.